From this digression let us now return to Handel at his regular and prosperous work as a maker of oratorios. For the Lent of 1750 he prepared "Theodora"—his own favourite piece, yet one which the public, to the composer's great chagrin, treated with coolness. "Theodora" was finished on July 11, 1749, and produced at Covent Garden, "with a new Concerto on the organ," March 16 following. It had four hearings during the season, but this number may be accredited to Handel's obstinacy rather than to any desire on the part of the public. The fond old master would not acknowledge the failure of his darling by withdrawing it, and there is great reason to believe that he "papered" the house well to get an audience. Burney tells us, at any rate, that "'Theodora' was so unfortunately abandoned that he (Handel) was glad if any professor who did not perform would accept of tickets or orders for admission." The doctor goes on to relate an anecdote à propos: "Two gentlemen of that description (the professors aforesaid) now living, having applied to Handel, after the disgrace of 'Theodora,' for an order to hear 'The Messiah,' he cried out: 'Oh, your servant, mine Herren! you are damnable dainty! You would not go to 'Theodora,' there was room enough to dance there when that was perform.'" Other anecdotes are connected with this unfortunate work, among them one having reference to the second night of "Theodora," for which, also, Burney is responsible: "A gentleman who was on intimate terms with Mr. Handel, imagining it to be a losing night, was willing to avoid speaking to him that evening, but he, observing him at some distance, went up to him and said: 'Will you be here next Friday night? I will play it to you.'" On another occasion he was not so tractable, for, hearing that a person of note had undertaken to engage all the boxes, he exclaimed: "He is a fool; the Jews will not come to it as to 'Judas Maccabæus,' and the ladies will not come because it is virtuous." Yet another story brings Horace Walpole upon the scene. Walpole met Lord Chesterfield coming out of the theatre at an early hour, and cried, "What, my lord, are you dismissed? Is there no oratorio this evening?" "Yes," was the reply; "they are still performing, but I thought it best to retire lest I should disturb the King in his privacy." The point of this lies in the fact that George II., true to the traditions of his house, supported Handel in fair weather and foul weather, and went to the theatre every oratorio night, whether anybody else attended or not. "Theodora" was no doubt hardly used, but it is of no use to rail at the public of 1750. In a very practical sense they are past reproach.

The season closed on April 11, and now the course of events takes us back to the Foundling Hospital and Governor Handel's relations therewith. In April the General Advertiser came out with an announcement that George Frederic Handel, Esq., had presented a "very fine organ" to the charity; moreover, that on May Day he would open the said organ and conduct a performance of his "Messiah." The town was set in a flutter by this important news; a rush took place for tickets, and a crush for seats when the momentous day arrived. All this, and its consequences, we learn from the General Advertiser of May 4: "A computation was made of what number of persons the chapel of this hospital would conveniently hold, and no greater number of tickets were delivered to hear the performance there on the 1st inst. But so many persons of distinction arriving unprovided with tickets, and pressing to pay for tickets, caused a greater number to be admitted than was expected, and some that had tickets, not finding room, went away. To prevent any disappointment to such persons, and for the further promotion of this charity, this is to give notice that George Frederic Handel, Esq., has generously offered that the Sacred Oratorio called 'Messiah' shall be performed again under his direction, in the Chapel of this Hospital, on Tuesday, the 15th inst., at twelve of the clock at noon, and the tickets delivered out, and not brought on the 1st inst., will then be received." Performances of "The Messiah" for the benefit of the Foundling were afterwards given, year by year, till the Master passed away.

Handel's presentation organ, of which Mr. Rockstro gives the original specification, is still used at the Foundling. The writer just-named says of it: "This interesting and beautiful instrument has been several times enlarged, and even rebuilt, but it still retains its old sweet, mellow tone, with the additional advantage of the delicate mechanism of the present day. It plays too a very important part in the Sunday services of the Chapel, which are performed in a quiet, old-fashioned way."

(To be continued.)

HOODS AND FALSEHOODS.

THE desire to be distinguished in music is a worthy ambition. The attainment of distinction in the regular way—that is to say, by passing the examinations of the Universities which have the power to confer it—is out of the reach of many of the ambitious. The qualifications required, in most cases, are not possessed by all. For the purpose of ministering to this very laudable ambition, and providing a means whereby the world may know to some extent the result, certain examining bodies have stepped forward and have occupied the breach made by the higher powers. The outside world has a traditional respect for those who are empowered by authority to affix certain letters to their names. The knowledge of this fact inspires a feeling in the minds of those among musicians who think that their position would be improved by passing an examination entitling them to employ some alphabetical assortment by way of extra title. There are several literary societies, with or without charters, whose respective members enjoy the privilege of so distinguishing themselves. The letters placed after their names have a literal, but not necessarily a literary, significance. They are obtained without examinations, but by the payment of money only. Of course these distinctions are, in a double sense, very imposing. The unthinking attach much mysterious importance to their use, as they do in every case, legitimate or otherwise, where such devices are employed. Unscrupulous adventurers have taken advantage of this popular superstitious belief in the virtue of such titles as the letters imply. They have made unholy bargains with foreign Universities and have traded in degrees, which have been conferred in absentia simply on payment of the fees. The holders of these bogus degrees, acting on the like dishonest principle founded upon the abstract truth, "that the greater includes the less," have filled in what they consider the intermediate stages, and have conferred upon themselves titles which belong only to British Universities, and the right to which they could maintain by no shadow of proof.

With greater integrity of purpose certain bodies of musical men recognised the desire on the part of their fellow-workers to obtain distinction in their profession. They devised a scheme which, while it aimed at a less exalted goal than that insisted upon by the Universities, was exactly suited to the needs of the times. The diploma of the College of Organists is a valuable document as representing a fair share of knowledge on the part of the winner. It is pro ratâ as honourable a certificate of professional qualification as the testamur of the Universities. Other bodies, occupying lower ground, attracted at first those aspirants of less exalted desires, and succeeded in obtaining a large following. The success of the Company entitled Trinity College, Limited, called others into the field, and nearly every day some new association of musical persons, willing to examine for hire, presses its services upon the public attention.

That there is apparently room for all seems to be proved by their flourishing condition. How far their actions will be affected when the new examining body—formed by the Union of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music acting in conjunction under the presidency of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales—is in operation, remains to be seen. Their popularity may not be lessened, because their directors may see fit to modify their requirements if necessary, and so to gather to themselves those whom the amalgamated body might not touch. If examinations are necessary, it seems perfectly reasonable that provision should be made for those who find it difficult to attain the exalted standard which will doubtless be set up by the higher bodies. The worker should not be denied the means of obtaining a due assessment of the value of his labour. Therefore, the lesser examining societies may still pursue a profitable business. There is no reasonable objection to them so long as they confine themselves to legitimate purposes. They will continue to be successful until the world grows smaller. The principle of centralisation as applied to schools renders it impossible that all teachers should be able to study individualities of character in the pupils as perfectly as might be desired. The teachers may be able to arrange the work of those under their care in a fair order of merit, in most of the subjects taught, with the exception of music. In that subject it has been found expedient to call in the opinions of outside examining bodies. Certificates of various scales of value are granted, and are duly estimated by the recipients, their instructors, and their friends. So long as the functions of these examining bodies are restricted to the issue of diplomas of this kind, they are rightly exercised, and no just cause of complaint ought to arise.

When in the pride of their success they usurp the rights of more important bodies, it is time for those higher powers to place a check upon such actions. More than one of the self-constituted examining Companies go beyond their proper bounds in permitting the holders of certain of their diplomas to wear silk hoods and other badges of distinction. This is a direct interference with the prerogative of the British Universities, and should be discontinued by those who now permit their use, if they desire to act with that honesty of purpose with which they are credited. The hood, properly speaking, is the distinction of a graduate of the University. The holder of a certificate from an unchartered body is not a graduate. The right to wear a hood proper to a degree belongs to members of those Universities who have satisfied the examiners in the Schools. A member of the University may be a member of a College, the Dean of his College usually presents the candidate to the Vice-Chancellor, who admits to the degree in the name of the University. A single College has no power to confer a degree. The only British Universities which confer degrees in music, either after examination or honoris causâ, are Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, Cork, Durham, and Trinity College, Toronto. The hoods of these degrees may be worn at all times in all public places when and where it is proper. The fifty-eighth Canon states, that ministers, during the time they are performing the Service, should wear a surplice, and "such ministers as are graduates shall wear upon their surplices at such time, such hoods as by the orders of the University are agreeable to their degrees, which no minister shall wear (being no graduate) upon pain of suspension." The term "minister" has been allowed to include not only the clergy, but those, who as organists or lay-clerks, take part in the Service. Further, the Canon referred to above explicitly says, that "it is lawful for ministers who are not graduates to wear upon their surplices, instead of hoods, some decent tippet of black, so it be not silk." This also is a matter which has been overlooked by those who designed the hoods for certificate holders.

It should be stated that the only College not a University possessing the right to examine candidates and confer degrees in music is the Royal College of Music, a right still held, though it is never exercised.

The title of College signifies a collection of members, and by metonymy, the place where they assemble. To the outside world the word has an academical signification in the sense that it is an association of learned men. This interpretation will not apply to all those institutions which bear the name.

It may be urged by some that the members of the so-called Colleges are in perfect order in framing laws and regulations for their own government, and in permitting their members to wear gowns and hoods of their own devising, such being only a form of sartorial certificate. This may be so. They do not exhibit very sound judgment or altogether upright intentions when such garments are paraded beyond the confines of their own establishments. The humble imitators of the Freemasons, such as the Odd Fellows, Foresters, Shepherds, and Antediluvian Buffaloes, all wear distinguishing regalia within their Lodges and Courts; but when, as occasionally happens, they flaunt their finery in the public streets, their action only brings their institutions, laudable in a general way because of their purposes of benevolence and thrift, into supreme contempt.

Those societies or colleges who are doing really good work in directions which cannot be reached by the Universities, should see the necessity of abandoning a position, which to a great extent compromises the integrity of their actions. They are placing themselves on a level with those questionable institutions who invent academical distinctions without any other than self-constituted authority; who confer so-called degrees in back parlours, and sell hoods, which are in the highest moral sense falsehoods. Many of them are so constructed as to be taken at first sight for the legitimate badges belonging to regularly constituted Universities.

If the Universities were not apathetic on the subject, the practice would never have been allowed. The interference with their undoubted rights would have been stopped at the outset. As it is, the discontinuance of the custom must be made by the unauthorised bodies who still carry it on—that is to say, if they desire to show to the public, on whom they rely for support, that they are not indifferent to the common-sense view of the question. They will increase the value of their certificates if they remove the sham glamour which surrounds them, and they will not impair the uprightness of their designs, or make their awards less honourable, if they cease to accompany them with hoods that are only real because they exist.

THE Republic having been always symbolised by a female figure, it was obviously appropriate as well as chivalrous on the part of the Municipal Council of Paris to entrust to a lady the composition of the ode "Le triomphe de la République," which, with all magnificence of scenic pomp, was performed at the Palais de l'Industrie, on Wednesday, the 11th ult. Madame Augusta Holmès, the composer in question, though born of Irish parents, is in some respects more patriotic than her artistic colleagues, for, being a member of the advanced school of Franck, as Mr. Adolphe Jullien tells us, she only writes music to French words. Her independent character may be gauged from the fact that she always writes her own librettos, and is not afraid of studying the scores of Wagner. She has been an assiduous and not unsuccessful competitor for the prizes offered by the City of Paris, and her predilection for the grandiose style afforded a guarantee that she would be equal to the needs of the situation and the resources placed at her disposal. Berlioz records in his memoirs that some illustrious personage once asked him whether it was true that he never wrote for an executive personnel of less than 500. That would be a mere trifle to Madame Holmès, at whose service the modest number of 1,200 performers were placed. Just as the Overture, conducted by M. Colonne, was drawing to a close, a panic of fire was raised. An electric chandelier—electrolier, we believe, is the correct term—burst out into flames. There was a momentary stampede, but the lustre was speedily lowered and the fire put out, and the Overture repeated, so that the composer had no cause to be discontented with the interruption. The Overture is described in the Temps as being composed of trumpet calls answering one another, and sundry motives taken up in turn by the various divisions of the orchestra, and finally culminating in a triumphal march. The rise of the curtain revealed a vast amphitheatre, with an antique altar in the midst, surmounted with an enormous tricolour flag, and surrounded with four braziers. The Ode consists of a chain of choruses. Harvest-men and labourers in the vineyard praise the earth and the sun. Soldiers and sailors express their belief that it is sweet and comely to die for their country. Intelligent artisans are then discovered erecting a Temple of Justice, and these are followed by artists with Genius at their head; sages, personally conducted by Reason; children, who have been told by the birds in the forests that it is their duty to live and die for France; and young persons, who, after the ways of young persons, sing of love. Each of these groups is accompanied by Attributes and allegorical personages, and after having given vent to their feelings they range themselves on the amphitheatre round the altar. "On a sudden the sky grows dark; from the depths of the orchestra emerges a sad and mournful strain, rapidly turning into a funeral march. A figure veiled in black rises from the earth; her arms are loaded with chains. At this point all the choruses in succession call on the goddess who is to deliver them. Their utterances grow more hurried, the evocation becomes more urgent. The veiled woman drags herself to the altar. Finally, the tricolour is rent, and reveals the Republic standing calmly and majestically on a pedestal. At her sight all chains fall off, and a universal choir celebrates the deliverance and regeneration of their fatherland at the hands of the Republic." As to the merit of the composition, opinions differ. Mr de Blowitz pronounces it well conceived and well written. But this great man does not know the difference between a Concerto and a Sonata, which slightly detracts from his claim to be heard as a musical critic. From a very brief but commendatory notice in the Débats we gather that the performance was adequate, and that the double chorus in praise of love in waltz rhythm was encored, and that several other numbers were very warmly received. The notice in the Temps is more critical. The writer speaks of the somewhat grey and monotonous dithyrambic background of the poem, the abuse of the anvil motive in the chorus of workmen, and the general want of originality of the themes. Madame Holmès seems to have been lucky in her contralto soloist, Madame Romi, who proved a "superb incarnation of the Republic" and declaimed her recitatives in spirited fashion. The composer was accorded a very warm reception at the close, when she was led on to the platform by the manager, and, more Gallico, embraced by him in the presence of the 20,000 spectators.

THE recent decision of Durham University to conduct examinations for degrees in music is one which will commend itself to all who think that the great Academical institutions should in some measure meet the wants of the age. The proposed Standard is to be as high in musical value as that of Oxford and Cambridge, and of equal character with the plan adopted by the University of Trinity College, Toronto. This last-named body has become popular with musicians because its literary tests are enough to prove that the candidates for degrees have sufficient acquaintance with the English language to be able to write correctly if not classically. Oxford and Cambridge, which have virtually excluded from their musical honours all but those who are qualified to take the initial steps for an ordinary degree in Arts, may be induced in time to modify their present requirements. There are numbers of musicians who have neither time nor opportunity for the study of subjects wholly unconnected with their art. They naturally hold the belief that the examination in arts involves an amount of time in preparation which a professional man spares but grudgingly. A musician is, of course, a better man if by his education he is qualified to hold his own in society. But he is not necessarily a better performer or composer because he can tell the ratios of sounds, or can construe Latin verbs, or understands the meaning of Greek particles. The Arts test being to him useless, is therefore needless. His objections certainly are not wanting in point as concerns those examining bodies who make no provision for teaching the subjects for the knowledge of which they are ready to grant diplomas. There is hope that at Oxford, under the cosmopolitan rule of the new Professor, something may be effected in time to remedy this state of things, and if it is not possible to restore the former position of the qualifications demanded of candidates for musical degrees, it would certainly be a wise step to provide for the instruction of those who intend to present themselves in due course for examination. Meantime it is necessary to clear the way, as far as possible, for those whose training has been chiefly confined to music, and the action of the authorities of Durham University will be cordially approved by musicians, whether they be possible candidates for degrees or not, even though teaching provision is not mentioned. It is not within the scope of the present purpose to enquire whether their action arises from a voluntary recognition of a desire outside the University to utilise the powers possessed by this, the youngest of the Universities in England, for the encouragement of music, or whether it arises from external pressure. It is enough to know that the diplomas granted will be valuable, and that the movement may tend to equalise the requirements in all Universities. The Scottish Universities may also be induced to reconsider their determination to offer no encouragement to musical aspirants, and to gather under the shelter of their learned groves the professors of an art which is slowly, but surely, taking a high position in the north. Hitherto musicians in Scotland have been content to win their diplomas from southern bodies. It is time that efforts were made for independence. The Scottish people have proved conclusively, not only by their love for, but also by their skill in the art, that they can be trusted with this form of Home Rule without being likely to allow it to drift into unprofitableness. They have sufficient pride in their own prestige to lead to the belief that they will jealously guard the integrity of their art, and that such diplomas as could be granted by their Universities would be as honourable as any emanating from more southern bodies. The certificates given by the numerous lesser societies unconnected with the Universities may serve the purpose of gratifying moderate demands, but the unwarrantable ambition which many of them display, in assuming powers they are not justified in exercising, should be crushed to dust. If those who alone possess the true power of issuing certificates continue to pursue the course they have now entered upon, they will quickly both morally and actually prove the worthlessness of those bodies who have taken advantage of the indifference hitherto displayed in the matter by the Universities.

It has never been, and it never will be, the province of such a journal as THE MUSICAL TIMES to pronounce an opinion on political matters. But when politicians, no matter what their party, think fit to intrude on the sphere of that art which concerns us and our readers, and to recommend a definite line of action to those who make a living by it, it behoves us to examine carefully the tendency of their suggested policy. Home Rule may or may not be a good thing, but Home Rule, so far as music is concerned, can only result in stagnation and sterility. Mr. Wm. O'Brien, M.P., has been before the public in many capacities, but as an authority on matters musical he has hitherto held his peace. Now, however, he has committed himself, in connection with the Concerts of Irish music, given by Mr. Ludwig in Dublin, to a very definite and unhesitating advocacy of Musical Particularism. After eulogising Mr. Ludwig's interpretation of various Irish melodies, Mr. O'Brien continues: "I only wish we could keep him (Mr. Ludwig) in Dublin always, to lead on to the attack on prejudice and provincialism. However, with the aid of the leaders of the people, who have roused themselves up—and it was time—he has given us a start. Let us now, at least, keep our face towards the foe. Let each of us see what he can do in his own sphere for native music; manfully let us advance into the arena and plant our flag. And let our demand be that Irish music shall be heard and loved and honoured on Irish soil before the music of Italy or of Germany—aye, or of Orpheus himself withal, if he be not a son of our own tight little Island.” The foregoing recommendation to apply the principles of boycotting to the domain of music—affording as it does an admirable commentary upon the articles of Mr. F. J. Crowest—has recently been extensively circulated on a handbill in Dublin, and was effectively discussed in an admirable letter to the Spectator of the 14th ult., under the heading of “The outlook for Art in Ireland under Home Rule.” We cordially endorse the views expressed in the following paragraph—“It would be difficult to realise the monotony of Concerts in Dublin under this new régime. Vocalists would confine themselves to Moore’s melodies, while instrumentalists would have a still more limited répertoire to select from. Were Schumann still living, Mr. O’Brien might find it hard to persuade him that a course of study entirely confined to such works as ‘Garry Owen’ and ‘Patrick’s Day in the Morning,’ or even ‘Killaloe’ and ‘Ballyhooley,’ could supply the place of Bach’s ‘Wohltemperirte Clavier’ as the ‘daily bread’ of the young musician.” This is sound and unanswerable criticism. We will listen to Mr. O’Brien on other subjects—indeed, we cannot help it; but where art comes in, the old adage of the cobbler and his last seems to be strikingly applicable.

In a letter now before us on the subject of organists’ salaries, the writer says, “I was in a church last Sunday where the Vicar received £1,000 a year, and the Organist £15.” Now, without inviting opinions on the relative proportions of these two incomes, it can scarcely be a question, we think, whether the pittance allotted to the organist ought to be offered to one who, apart from the necessity of his possessing high artistic qualifications, is expected to occupy a social status in accordance with his tenure of an office so important in the service of the church. In calling attention to this subject in the columns of THE MUSICAL TIMES, we have frequently quoted advertisements in which it is announced that the salary proffered can be added to by selling music, teaching dancing, and, in one instance, even, by combining with the duties of an organist those of the village blacksmith; but as we cannot imagine that any congregation would willingly degrade one who most undoubtedly should be entitled to their respect, it is obvious that public opinion ought to be brought to bear so forcibly upon the matter that no appeal for an organist should be made until sufficient funds have been secured to repay a competent artist for the time and outlay expended upon fitting him for so responsible a position. Cases in illustration of our observations press upon us daily; but one which has elicited these remarks we cannot refrain from mentioning, especially as we can fully verify the truth of our statements. A very talented organist, upon a salary of twenty guineas annually, has rigidly performed his duties for thirty years, eking out his income by a small allowance from his mother, who has recently died and left him entirely at the mercy of those whom he has so long and faithfully served. He may, of course, endeavour to retain his office—he may try to get a pupil or two—but, considering that he is over seventy years of age and in failing health, the outlook is, it must be acknowledged, sufficiently depressing to act as a caution to those who accept such terms, and a reproach to those who offer them.

DOGBERRY’S assertion that reading and writing “come by nature” invariably raises a smile; but there are nevertheless many who are of opinion that speaking is by no means a matter of cultivation. Nobody considers, of course, that the mere faculty of conveying our meaning is not given to all human beings; but those who doubt that speaking with clearness and elegance is an art should listen intently to the ordinary conversation of labouring men, and we are certain they will agree with us that, to a refined ear, a great portion of what they hear is perfectly unintelligible. A celebrated singing-master once remarked that before he taught his pupils to sing, he was compelled to teach them to speak; and now that the physiology of the voice is occupying so large a portion of the attention of medical men, it is good that we should profit by the sound advice they give us. A recent number of the Contemporary Review contains a paper upon “Speech and Song,” by Sir Morell Mackenzie, and in this he says: “As part of the general vocal training which I think desirable, I should be disposed to say that all children and young people should learn to sing as far as their natural capacity will allow”; and in the continuation of his article the writer thus strengthens our conviction that this exercise in the natural production of notes will do much towards promoting the natural production of words. “Singing,” he says, “tends to promote purity of language, the rules which govern the utterance of every note also affecting the articulate element combined with it, and keeping the words cast in fixed forms—a stereotype of sound, if I may venture the metaphor.” It has often been remarked that we may know a vocalist by the perfect manner in which the speaking voice is conveyed to the ear. Sir Morell Mackenzie has given us the reason of this in words which should be taken to heart by all who have the care of the young.

A CONTROVERSY is going on in Manchester concerning the propriety of licensing, or withholding a license for the sale of alcoholic liquors in the newly-built “Palace of Varieties” in that city. The Roman Catholic Bishop of Salford opposes, and the Dean of Manchester, in some degree, supports the proposition. The merits of the question as it stands commend themselves most forcibly to those locally concerned. A broader question presents itself to the outside world. Why should not Municipalities undertake the direction of places of amusement for the people where the workman could take his family without harm? The task of preparation of the public mind in matters of Science and Art is provided for in the schools supported by the Government, and local aid from the rates is not beyond their scope. If means were taken to establish healthy entertainments at a moderate cost, the poorest might then be kept from the fascinations of the usual music halls, where the attractions offered by an almost irresponsible management have a tendency, in any way, to depress rather than to elevate public morals.

THE lamented death of Dr. Langdon Colborne, of Hereford, has left a vacancy in an important musical position. It is hoped by all that the Dean and Chapter will make a careful choice of a successor to him. The office should be held by one who is not only competent to carry on the work required for the daily services, but who by education and attainments can command respect, and who has proved his competency to conduct an orchestra; for, although the opportunity for the exercise of the latter special qualification may present itself only once in three years—on the occasion of the meeting of the Three Choirs—yet it is one when the strongest light from the outside world of art is thrown upon the musical resources of the place. The authorities should, therefore, avoid having their wisdom called into question, if they desire to take into consideration the public demands as well as their own private needs.

THE following advertisement appeared in one of the daily papers lately: "Will any rich Person take a Gentleman and Board him? Of good family; age, twenty-seven; good musician; thoroughly conversant with all office work; no objection to turn a Jew; lost his money through dishonest trustee; excellent writer." It is not quite clear whether proselytism is intended by the advertiser, or whether he merely expresses his willingness to cause a person of Jewish persuasion to reverse his position. If the "good musician" would persist in exercising his talents to the annoyance of the inhabitants of some public thoroughfare, and refuse to depart when requested, or otherwise bring himself within reach of the law, Her Majesty's Government would no doubt undertake to "board" him free of charge, and without requiring him to change his religion.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

THE Globe accepted Gloucester Festival "copy" from a most extraordinary person, who called himself a "roving correspondent," and who certainly did rove—very far away from good taste, sometimes from facts. His report began—after a passing reference to "the world of Caligula and Nero"—with something about "flowers in profane buttonholes" at the "Last Judgment." The necessary "smart" key-note thus struck, the Globe's contributor launched into a pæan over Mrs. Ellicott's hospitality, which he described with as much zest as though he had spent the week at the Palace. Then he went off to the Deanery, met Dr. Spence, and learned how, in that very house, Henry VIII. and Anne Boleyn kept their honeymoon. The reporter's answer would do credit to Jack Bunsby: "'Tis all one, since the poor lady had her head taken off, and, moreover, thereby hangs a question of morals into which 'tis now too late to enquire." But it was not too late for another eulogy of his entertainers.

THE Globe writer was late in getting away from the luncheons and reaching music, but made up for tardiness by the "screaming farce" of paragraphs in which he said that Mr. Brereton, offered a choice between Elijah and the Devil, chose the Devil, being "to the manner born"; quoted the French of his own common parlance; said that Dr. Mackenzie's "Judith" (!) made a mark; talked about the "Sickle Song" in "Judith" (!) as likely to be on the barrel-organs—the nearest approach to immortality, "next to being on a ham-and-beef pot"; and passed over Mr. Williams's "Last Night at Bethany"—the chief novelty of the Festival—without a word. Where in the world did our evening contemporary pick up its flippant and inaccurate twaddler?

MR. G. H. WILSON, writing to the Boston Evening Traveller, thus discusses Miss Eames, the latest American "star" in Paris: "I was fortunate enough to hear Miss Eames, of Boston, in 'Roméo et Juliette' at the Grand Opéra. After overcoming the shock of paying a speculator four dollars for a two dollar ticket, and recovering from the amazement produced by the elegance of the house itself, I settled down with my thinking cap on, to await the appearance of the much-praised Boston girl in the part, and upon the spot, where her admirers say she holds all critical Paris in stained-glass attitudes. . . . Her scale is yet uneven and her singing characterless. . . . In short, Miss Eames's Juliette is not the moving assumption the agents, criers, and such have insisted for months it is. If I am wrong, then Heaven help Parisian taste; if I am right, why somebody has broken square off one of the commandments and is keeping it up—at a salary." Poor Miss Eames! It is a pity her countrymen have a travelling propensity.

ANOTHER American critic, Mr. F. A. Schwab, has been amongst us, and now retails disparagements to suit the taste of his countrymen. Apropos of Madame Sterling, he ungallantly remarks: "A hearse-horse is a noble and useful animal, but its presence on a race track, for example, would not be exhilarating." Mr. Lloyd is "stout and revealing a tendency to sing with effort." Madame Néruda and Mr. (sic) Hallé's performance of the "Kreutzer" was "not in any way remarkable." Dr. Parry's new Symphony is "melodious, conventional, and somewhat superficial." There is "really nothing in Dr. Richter's conducting," &c., &c., &c., the inference being that for the best things in music one must go somewhere out of England—say to the United States.

WILMINGTON SQUARE, Clerkenwell, has lately been the scene of a fierce musical war. It appears that a police band had obtained permission to play in the enclosure during the summer evenings; but, as several of the inhabitants protested against it, a lady guardian of the parish had secured the services of a German band. To this, however, an even more powerful opposition was offered, and it was therefore decided that no band should play. We can scarcely wonder at the cold shudder which ran through Wilmington Square at the suggestion of a German band, yet we cannot but think that had the irate lady guardian, instead of resorting to this desperate remedy, canvassed the residents separately on the question, not only might an experimental evening with the police band have been crowned with success, but the example set at Clerkenwell would probably have been followed in many other of the quiet squares in the metropolis.

MISS MAY HUDDLESTONE, of Liverpool, has invented a Kindergarten system of teaching the staff notation, the notion of which, she says, was suggested by an attempt to convey a knowledge of the rudiments of music to some children by the aid of "ten pea-sticks and an apple." We are told that the little pupils build the lines and spaces for themselves with ten small rods fitted in a grooved frame, while balls, sub-divided into various sizes, represent the value of the notes. Whether it is easier to fit "ten small rods into a grooved frame," and to fix the value of the notes in the mind by using balls, than to learn the names of the notes by their position on and between the staff lines, and their value by the "time-table," can of course only be proved by experiment; but then the new method is called "play," and the orthodox system is called "work," and "Kindergarten" teachers tell us that this makes all the difference.

MASSENET is clear, and right too, on the subject of nationality in music. Speaking recently to an interlocutor about certain American musical students in Europe, he said: "You must make them study at home. Nationality is necessary in music. Every composer must, after he has acquired the rules, become himself. I had a Swedish pupil last year just like that. He wanted more and more of me. Finally I said: 'You have it all; I can do no more. Go to your own country; become inspired by it and compose.' He is beginning to do so now. Look at two different men. Grieg went home and developed nationality in his music; Gade became a reflection of Mendelssohn and Hiller." Something very much like this has appeared in our pages from time to time. When will English students write English music and not go to Germany to qualify themselves as pale reflectors of Teutonic art?

A WRITER in Freund's Music and Drama, referring to Sir John Stainer's speech at a meeting of the College of Organists, goes on to say: "Dr. Bridge proposed a vote of thanks, and other musical talkers burned incense at Stainer's shrine. They all took great delight in calling him 'Sir John.' His new title justified it, yet it did seem a trifle snobbish. But then 'it's English, you know.'" What would our republican brethren have? The "musical talkers" could not call Sir John Stainer "Mister," because he is no longer plain "Mister"; neither could they speak of him as "Stainer," which would have been disrespectful; while "John" would strike most people as unduly familiar. "Sir John" appears the most seemly, and if it be "quite English, you know," to do a seemly deed, well and good.

ACCORDING to the statement of a well-known furniture dealer, although mahogany was for years the only wood used for sideboards, tables, book-cases, &c., pianofortes made of rosewood, black walnut, cherry, oak, and indeed every kind of light wood that will take a polish, gradually crept into fashionable houses, not because these woods are handsomer, but because the density of mahogany stifles the sound. No greater proof of the growing power of music can be adduced, and composers for the drawing-room, in return for this concession to their art, should remember that what may be termed "mahogany pieces" are not in accordance with the time, and have now every likelihood of being carted off with the old furniture.

THE King of the Sédangs, whoever he may be, has decreed his own divorce from the whilom sharer of his throne, and called upon his subjects to recognise as their Queen a certain Marie Rose, Countess of Ibering. When the eyes of Colonel Henry Mapleson lighted upon this news in a French paper, they saw also a splendid opportunity for the exercise of a well cultivated talent. Might not some careless readers confound Marie Rose, Countess of Ibering, with Marie Roze, prima donna? and was the husband of the latter to submit to an inevitable and painful misconstruction? Perish the thought! So Colonel Henry Mapleson desires it to be known that he has not been deprived of his amiable and accomplished wife by the high-handed Majesty of the Sédangs.

THERE is no need to waste many words upon the fuss recently made regarding evening dress in church. On the general question, it is doubtful whether anybody in his or her senses ever proposed to put on the "swallow-tail," or the décolleté gown for evening service, while as regards the special case at Gloucester Cathedral, of which so much has been said, the invitation to wear morning attire at the evening performance is of long standing, the particular wish of the authorities being to give the oratorios under the usual conditions of a "service" and not as an entertainment. In this we consider that the authorities took a sensible course, and one calculated to benefit the Festival by guarding against ever-watchful raisers of objections.

"If we are to destroy everything," writes Mr. Andrew Lang, "pereat ars musica first." We should prefer to see precedence given to the habit of using unnecessary Latin words; but that is neither here nor there. It behoves us much more seriously to consider that Mr. Andrew Lang condemns music as the enemy of conversation, study, and sleep. In respect of conversation, music generally acts as a stimulant; in respect of sleep, there are forms of it which do the work of a soporific—"music such as charmeth sleep"—and if "sweet sounds" disturb Mr. Lang's studies it is because he is sensitive to their seductive force. Mr. Andrew Lang should blame his own constitution, and deaden its sensitiveness by a course of practice on a hand-organ.

THAT the desire for the possession of a pianoforte on the "Hire system" is gradually obtaining "below stairs" was proved by a recent case in which a servant, nineteen years of age, upon wages of £13 a year, who could neither read nor write, paid twelve shillings and sixpence a month for the hire of a pianoforte. Her hope of ultimately claiming the instrument as her own, however, was crushed by the fact of the vendor taking it away because two instalments of the money were in arrear. As at the Police Court the master of the girl applied for the recovery of the money already paid, it is obvious that a musical servant is not necessarily inattentive to her household duties.

SOME time ago we called attention to the wording of a circular issued, in English, by a Russian Committee appointed to further a Rubinstein testimonial. Since we wrote the Committee have issued a leaflet to the following effect:—"Through an unpardonable negligence, admitted in the printing office, some of the english copies of the Committee's circular, dated May 1st, 1889, have been issued with most puzzling typographical erratas. By the present notice the Committee begs to express his sincerest regrets for such an annoying inadvertency having taken place. A right copy of the circular is joined hereby." This is "English as she is wrote" in the capital of Russia.

SOME American papers are crying out against the immigration of English organists as prejudicial to native talent. It appears, nevertheless, that we send over an indifferent lot. One journal observes: "There are, it is true, some good foreign church organists here, but they are vastly out-numbered by the riff-raff of conceited snobs, who can get nothing to do in their own country, and flock hither with monstrously absurd notions of their own importance." Our friend does not explain how it comes to pass that the English article, being of so low an order, injures the native product, which, of course, is much superior.

GOUNOD blazes up sometimes, and we find him at white heat in the following paragraph:—"Ah, Heaven preserve us from interesting music; there is only one kind of music—beautiful music. If it is not beautiful it is not music. Heaven deliver us, too, from those pedants of theorists, those pretentious mediocrities who have picked up the rags of incompetence in order to make a flag for themselves, and who raise such a fuss over their hollow, empty productions, absolutely void of fire, brilliance, sincerity, or generosity, heartless, soulless, formless, painted skeletons, without flesh or blood."

THE Globe has been speaking about cornets, and is responsible for the following: "No instrument in the modern orchestra sways the general heart more powerfully than the cornet. The violin may do much, but not so much as the 'sounding brass,' by the side of which the most admirably-handled 'strings' are comparatively ineffectual." In a certain trial, some years ago, an eminent performer upon the cornet swore that his instrument was very popular "down Whitechapel way." The Globe's contributor may have gathered his experience in that quarter.

ALTHOUGH a brilliant musical and social success, the Gloucester Festival scarcely met expectation on its financial side, the secretary having to announce a deficiency (approximate) of £170. This will necessitate a call on the stewards of a guinea each. The sum is small, but as each steward pays £5 to the charity as a qualification for office, it will increase the reluctance of county gentlemen and others to make themselves liable three years hence. In the interim serious consideration must be given to the matter of obviating any such call in the future.

THERE are two ways of putting the Festival on a better financial footing, besides the obvious one of doing more and more to make it attractive. One is a close overhauling of the manner in which money goes out for expenses. It will, no doubt, be found that considerable reductions can be made without loss of efficiency. The other way is to assimilate the Gloucester conditions of stewardship to those in force at Worcester and Hereford, where each steward contributes, not £5 to the charity absolutely, but that amount to a fund for meeting deficiencies on the working account, the balance, after paying expenses, being returned to the donor or retained for the charity, as he may desire. The difference of plan is, it must be confessed, rather hard on the Gloucester stewards, who naturally object to the unlimited liability imposed in addition to the qualifying subscription. Why not take the reasonable course of putting the stewards' subscriptions and the receipts for tickets into a common fund, paying expenses out of it, and handing the balance over to the charity trustees?

COUNT VON HOCHBERG, Intendant of the Berlin Theatres, takes a paternal interest in the ladies under his authority. Seeing that many of them live in apartments at a rental out of all proportion to their salary, he has decreed that, in future, as is the stipend so shall be the lodging. Obeying the order, one artist of modest rank vacated a dwelling in which there were fourteen rooms. Virtue being universally practised in Germany, Le Ménestrel is pretending to wonder what all the fuss is about.

THE Grand Old Man has spoken on the relative standing of composers, and placed Beethoven first. He thinks that ladies of "comfortable presence"—stout ladies, in point of fact—make the best singers. In his opinion, ninety per cent. of an Italian opera audience care more for the singers than the song, and he opines that the fresh pure voice of a boy in a church choir is more pleasing than the tones of a female. In all these utterances, many people will think, the Oracle of Hawarden is not far wrong.

DR. J. F. BRIDGE will shortly complete the oratorio he has, for some time, had in hand. It would be premature to give the name and details of the work, the libretto of which has been compiled from the Scriptures by Mr. Joseph Bennett; but we may say that the oratorio deals with a stirring and dramatic incident in Old Testament history, and that Dr. Bridge has written music of much descriptive and expressive power. There is some talk of producing the novelty at Worcester next year.

A MR. WIGGINS has been collecting, for the American Art Journal, numerous specimens of the extraordinary jargon employed by English translators of Wagner's libretti. The result is curious reading, and, after experience of it, we quite agree with the transatlantic critic when he says:—"To the simple-minded it does not seem essential for the apprehension of the 'music of the future' that the opera-goer should be compelled to wade through such verbal bogs."

FELICITATIONS to Mr. J. A. Matthews, of Cheltenham, upon the programme he has drawn up for the approaching season of the Festival Society. In the list of works we find Lee Williams's "Last Night at Bethany," "The Golden Legend," Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal," Miss Ellicott's "Elysium," Mozart's Litany in B flat, Mendelssohn's "Hear my prayer," and other choice works. The first Concert, at which the "Dream of Jubal" will be given, takes place on November 12.

ACCORDING to Mr. Francis Williams, who writes upon Handel in Freund's Music and Drama, "Thou shalt dash them" is an air "often omitted" in performances of "The Messiah." He says: "The faithful Handelian can never be sure that this air is to be sung when he takes his place in the audience." Mr. Williams presumably speaks for America, but we cannot recall a single English performance in which "Thou shalt dash them" was passed over. Have any of our readers knowledge of such a case?

WE know but little concerning the very pretty quarrel raging between the choir and the deacons of Finsbury Chapel, but, on general grounds, think it highly probable that the deacons began it. Your typical Nonconformist deacon is generally a narrow-minded person to whom real perception of an artistic question cannot be attributed. He is never so happy as when "showing off" on the little stage of his chapel.

THE "Young Lady (19), Sen. R.A.M.," who advertises that she seeks an engagement as Pianoforte Teacher "on the New System," is ill advised, we think, in saying that she has passed an examination at the Royal Academy of Music; for as assuredly the "New System" has never been heard of in that Institution the certificate she has gained there will be useless.

In the British Section of the Paris Exhibition an effective substitute for an orchestra is shown "representing," it is said, "from twelve to sixty musicians, according to size." We agree with a correspondent that the sentence is somewhat ambiguous; but there can be little doubt that it has no reference to the proportions of the performers, but to the space which they occupy.

"H. K." was holiday making when the following appeared in the Sunday Times: "The rehearsal of Miss Augusta Holmes's 'Symphonic Ode' on the subject of the French Revolution will be produced during the present month." The production of a rehearsal is curious, but more remarkable is the fact that the Ode had been performed when the paragraph appeared.

THE fact of an Italian composer having abandoned the musical profession and become a baker, mentioned in our last number, recalls the observation of a celebrated English musical critic, who, when a conceited artist told him that it was by the merest chance that he was not brought up as a pastrycook, replied that "it was undoubtedly a great loss to the pastry."

AN advertisement announces that "a young lady wishes to teach music and singing in a school or otherwise, or any other light engagement." We always imagined that the teaching of "singing" included that of "music"; and certainly few professors of this accomplishment, in a "school" or "otherwise," would term it a "light engagement."

THE Highbury Philharmonic Society will give four Concerts, at which Sullivan's "Golden Legend," Parry's "Ode to St. Cecilia's Day," Cowen's Scandinavian Symphony, Mackenzie's "The Dream of Jubal," Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," and Dvorák's "The Spectre's Bride" will be produced. Mr. Betjemann will again conduct.

THE Globe complains of monotony in our concert-rooms, and says "What one wants is novelty, or quasi-novelty." One may want these things, but concert-givers can tell a very different story as to the many. Let our contemporary have the courage (in hard cash) of his opinions, and he would be able to tell the story also.

SPOHR's "Fall of Babylon," Dvorák's "Stabat Mater," Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night," Stanford's "Revenge," Bridge's "Callirhoë," and Prout's "Red Cross Knight" are announced for performance by the Hackney Choral Association during the approaching season. A good selection of things old and new, native and foreign.

ACCORDING to report, Madame Minnie Hauk has sold her house near Bâle and bought that sometime occupied by Wagner near Lucerne. Is the latter tenancy considered an advantage by the impersonator of Elsa? and, if so, will she be of the same opinion a year hence, when there will have been time to experience the attentions of tourists?

GERMAN military bandmasters, or some of them, have been in the habit of styling themselves, in concert bills and elsewhere, music director, kapellmeister, and so on. An order has come from the War Office ordering them to stop that, and we may rest assured that it will be stopped.

GRÉTRY is known to have written an opera called "Zelmar ou l'Asile," but his biographers declare the work no longer in existence. The present being an age of resurrection in such matters, "Zelmar" has just turned up in Liège, where it was found among the papers of Grétry's grand-niece.

WHY in the many attractions offered at boarding-houses do we find "Pianoforte" and "Late dinner" usually coupled together? A cynical observer suggests that as frequently the first leads to weariness, and the second to somnolence, intending visitors may see that the bane and antidote are both before them.

WE have lately been told, with reference to a gentleman who has composed an opera, that musical competency is proved by the fact of his having taken the Mus. Bac. degree at Oxford. Such simple confidence is as touching as, among a hard and unbelieving generation, it is rare.

A BYE-LAW at Weimar, it is said, has been passed that nobody shall play at a pianoforte with the windows open. Considering that "German bands" also are not tolerated in Germany, what a delightful residence must Weimar be for persons with sensitive ears!

As the excellent—if somewhat incongruous—programmes of music provided nightly at Her Majesty's and Covent Garden Theatres attract such crowds that the people have scarcely room to move, has not the time arrived when these entertainments should cease to be called "Promenade Concerts"?

MESSRS. HARRISON announce four Concerts in the Birmingham Town Hall during the approaching winter. Each programme will, apparently, be of a miscellaneous character, reliance being chiefly placed upon the eminence of the performers, among whom is Madame Patti.

THE Church of All Hallows', Lombard Street, instituted a surpliced choir on Sunday last. Some of the singers were unsurpliced, but they were women, and occupied the front seats in the nave. That is the reasonable and proper arrangement—at any rate for the present.

It is not often that police cases are reported in musical language; but the stern bricklayer who was recently brought up for beating his son with a short poker is said in a morning contemporary to have belaboured him "in staccato rhythm."

REPORT has brought the news to England that Edvard Grieg is engaged upon an opera, one of the incidents of which is the bombardment of Alexandria by the English fleet. Happily, report sometimes lies, and we are at liberty to disbelieve.

CHARLES GOUNOD was one of a recent company at the top of the Eiffel tower, where he sang and played for some time. Let us hope that the place and occasion inspired him to the composition of "something new and strange."

IF a best orchestral suite be worth fifty guineas, what is the value of a best waltz? The directors of Her Majesty's Theatre, having worked this out, answer "ten guineas." We should like to submit the same sum to the London publishers.

CONGRATULATIONS to Madame Schumann on having completed her seventieth year. In her case, to "honour, love, obedience, troops of friends" have been added "long continuance," and, by the Emperor, the "great Art Gold Medal."

MR. EDWARD J. SPARK, the well-known entrepreneur of Worcester, announces his fiftieth, or Jubilee, Concert for the 21st inst., when the Marie Roze touring troupe will appear. At the second Concert (December 2) Madame Valleria will be the "star."

MR. SARASATE will play Dr. Mackenzie's new "Pibroch" not only at the Leeds Festival, but in the course of his forthcoming tours here and abroad, introducing it to London amateurs at one of his own London Concerts in the present autumn.

THERE has been a good deal of talk lately about possible and probable operatic developments. It is hardly worth noticing, for, as such things go, sufficient unto the day is the lyric drama thereof.

WE learn by cable that the performance of "The Golden Legend" at the Worcester (Mass.) Festival was a great success, and the work will be repeated there next year.

WAGNERISM pays at Bayreuth. The recent performances brought a profit of £12,500. There is joy at Wahnfried, and rejoicing among the scattered faithful in all corners of the earth.

THERE is nothing unexpected in the statement that Mr. Santley will probably remain among the Australians till next year. His doing so was, from the first, "on the cards."

BERLIOZ'S "Faust" is an attraction in Yorkshire, most of the seats for the Leeds Festival performance being already taken.

THE Chicago Indicator, of August 24 last, informs the world that Dr. Stainer "is to be" knighted. The Indicator runs a little behind time.

THE Mayor of Madrid believes in early hours. He has ordered the theatres to close before midnight on pain of suspension.

LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

THE seventh triennial Festival of Leeds opens on Wednesday, the 9th inst., and continues till the 12th, being held, as usual, in the Victoria Hall. It will be conducted on the old lines, and by many of the old "hands," including Mr. Alderman Spark, for so many years the indefatigable honorary secretary. Familiar names appear in the list of the general and executive committees, and in the long array of well-wishers, by whom not far from £30,000 is guaranteed in the extremely improbable case of a deficit. To all seeming the Festival has as strong a hold upon the town and neighbourhood as ever it had, being in this respect, not less than in many others, the very serious and formidable rival of Birmingham.

The musical equipment of the forthcoming venture concerns us most here. It is no less complete than on former occasions. At the head stands Sir Arthur Sullivan—a power alike in his name and his abilities. The vocal soloists are Mesdames Albani, Valleria, Fillunger, and Macintyre, Hilda Wilson, and Damian; Messrs. Lloyd, McKay, Piercy, Watkin Mills, Barrington Foote, and Brereton—names which seem to demand that of Madame Patey, for the sake of completeness, and provoke a query as to the claims of the German, Miss Fillunger, above those of native artists to whom the reader's mind will easily recur. The solo instrumentalist will be Mr. Sarasate; Mr. Carrodus leads the orchestra, and Mr. A. Benton succeeds Dr. Spark at the organ. The orchestra numbers eighty-two "strings," thirty-four wind instruments, two harps, and a full complement of percussion; the grand total being 121. With this great force is associated the usual choral strength, and we may take it for granted that the ensemble at the approaching Concerts will prove at least as fine and satisfying as that of any previous occasion.

Turning to the programme, we at once, and again, miss the old landmarks—"Elijah" and "The Messiah"—without which, such is the force of custom, no Festival seems complete. In all such matters, persons at a distance must trust the committee, who are on the spot, and familiar with local opinion. If in any case the public prefer less popular works to these masterpieces, there is every reason why they should be gratified, just as there is every reason to respect their decision when they insist upon that which is known to them. Although "Elijah" and "The Messiah" be absent from the list of chosen compositions, established works are well represented. The Festival begins, for example, with Berlioz's "Faust," and continues with an act of "Tannhäuser," Bach's "God's time is the best," Schubert's Mass in E flat, Handel's "Acis and Galatea," Spohr's "Consecration of Sound," Beethoven's Choral Symphony, Brahms's "Requiem," Sullivan's "Golden Legend," and some well known miscellaneous pieces. Nearly all schools are well and fairly represented here, while it would be impossible to pick out a single piece as unworthy of the place it holds.

In addition to the foregoing, the programme comprises five absolute novelties, all of them, we are glad to say, the product of native talent. The composers whom, this time, Leeds delights to honour are Professor Stanford, Dr. Parry, Mr. Corder, Dr. Creser, and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. Professor Stanford contributes a setting of Tennyson's "Voyage of Maeldune"; Dr. Parry has written music to Pope's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day"; Mr. Corder's work is a dramatic Cantata on the subject of a Scandinavian legend, and bears for title, "The Sword of Argantyr"; Dr. Creser, who is a Leeds professor, sends music to a libretto, "The Sacrifice of Freia," written by the late Dr. Hueffer; and Dr. Mackenzie infuses a Scottish element into the Festival by means of a "Pibroch" for violin solo and orchestra. It is not, for obvious reasons, our purpose to discuss these new things before hearing them, especially as, in more than one instance, there is reason to believe that very much depends upon the orchestration. Suffice it that the compositions both of Mr. Corder and Dr. Creser promise, in pianoforte score, to raise the interest of curiosity. Both have some decidedly striking features, and as to each our earnest desire is that it may stand the test of performance and come out triumphant from the fire of criticism. The works of Professor Stanford and Dr. Parry have nothing ambiguous about them. In the "Voyage of Maeldune" we find the composer again working the rich vein he struck in the "Revenge." Vigorous, masculine, impressive, and picturesque, the new work is even better than its predecessor, good as that was. Dr. Parry, too, presents us in Pope's Ode music characteristic of his style and method—music worthy of the composer of "Blest pair of Sirens," which is saying a good deal. On his part, Dr. Mackenzie has written a most original, brilliant, and striking piece, which Sarasate will take with him through the world. We know nothing analogous to it, and we venture to prophesy that it will be one of the Festival successes. The works named above, with selections from Sullivan's "Macbeth" music, will worthily and well represent the native art of which we, at last, have reason to be proud.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE 166th meeting of the Three Choirs of Worcester, Hereford, and Gloucester, held in the last-named city on the 3rd ult. and three following days, had some special features which deserve, and will doubtless receive, due consideration from those whom they most concern. Beyond all doubt it has left for debate a suggestion that these Cathedral Festivals should be brought still more into harmony with the prevailing religious feeling that forms their specialty. At the only evening oratorio held in the beautiful building which is Gloucester's pride, we saw a crowd of 3,500 reverent and deeply impressed auditors, whereas the aggregate attendance at the two Concerts in the Shire Hall did not exceed 1,200. Besides, the secular element on these occasions jars somewhat on ears attuned to the grave and solemn note of the Cathedral. Reform, however, should be entered upon cautiously, and the Stewards of 1892 will do well first to abolish one Shire Hall performance, giving two evenings in the Cathedral, and thus doubly appealing to the popular sentiment which has so strongly displayed itself. In a little while, mayhap, circumstances will suggest a complete elimination of the secular element, thus making the Festival unique among its kind as a manifestation of art in religion.

The lesson of another experience was that the time has come for adjusting charges to the means of the multitude who are evidently willing to support the Festival. At nearly every performance there was a falling off of attendance in the more expensive seats, with a large increase elsewhere. The fact could not have astonished anybody who observes the signs of the times and sees that enterprises of every sort will in future be maintained much less by the classes, and much more by the masses. Without doubt the Gloucester Festival must, in time to come, rest, not upon the county gentry and their friends, but upon the broad shoulders of the general population. Happily there is space enough in the Cathedral to compensate for the inevitable lowering of prices. The ambulatories, once left to emptiness, are, it is true, already in occupation; but the choir remains for future use, as on the Wednesday evening of the late Festival, while, should occasion demand, the ample area of the triforium would afford superb accommodation to hundreds. To my mind, two things are plain: first, the Gloucester Festival must be made more completely a function of sacred music, in compliance with a very obvious desire; next, it must be, in the sense above pointed out, shaped on more democratic lines. This done, it will flourish exceedingly.

On all hands it is conceded that the musical performances were a great success, thanks to the interest of the programme, the efficiency of the executants, the presence of eminent composers to preside over their own works, and the excellent generalship of Mr. C. Lee Williams, the Conductor, under whose care the entire elaborate machinery worked without a hitch. With regard to the programme, enough was said in these columns last month, and, as to the executants, it will suffice to record an opinion that a more capital orchestra or a finer chorus has never been presented at these meetings. The chorus, especially, was far and away superior to the best of previous occasions. With regard to the soloists, Madame Albani, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Miss Mary Morgan, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Brereton met every expectation; but Mr. Nicholl was almost hors de combat, consequent upon illness, and Mr. Barrington Foote scarcely satisfied the desires of his friends. On the whole, however, there was little about which to complain in the entire personnel of the Festival, while as to Mr. Williams, not less as Conductor than as musical director, he increased his reputation in no mean degree, showing himself in every respect just the man for a post which, under the circumstances of the case, is difficult to fill.

Taking, first, the Cathedral performances, I may, after what has just been said, dismiss the familiar works in briefest manner. "Elijah," on Tuesday morning; Rossini's "Stabat Mater," on Wednesday morning; the first two parts of the "Creation" on Wednesday evening; Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" and Spohr's "Last Judgment" on Thursday morning; and "The Messiah" on Friday—these were all given according to announcement, and all rendered in a style more or less satisfactory, not only to the average local amateur, but to cultured visitors. From them, as from that which no longer repays discussion, I turn to less familiar things heard in Gloucester for the first time.

Dr. Parry's "Judith" led the way (Wednesday morning), the composer conducting, and the soloists being Mesdames

Williams and Wilson, Messrs. Lloyd and Brereton. This work has been so recently noticed, repeatedly and at length, that nothing remains to say of it. Certain parts necessarily appeared to some a little out of place in a Cathedral, but surely that which is "appointed to be read in churches" may also be sung there without profanation. Be this as it may, the stirring story was duly unfolded to Dr. Parry's sometimes noble, always interesting strains. Once more the scene between the Queen and her children touched every heart; once more, too, the Moloch music, with its vivid suggestiveness, made a lively impression, while the scene on the walls of Jerusalem—unquestionably the most inspired part of the work—caused the audience to feel the power of true dramatic art. The solo honours were carried off by Mr. Lloyd in "God breaketh the battle," but his colleagues were not far behind. As the chorus and orchestra were excellent, Dr. Parry had the satisfaction of presenting the Oratorio to his Gloucestershire friends and neighbours in a manner which did it justice.

On Wednesday evening Mr. C. Lee Williams made his début as a Festival composer before the largest audience of the week, and with his "Last Night at Bethany" secured a positive, not to say an impressive success. Many particulars regarding this Church cantata were given in THE MUSICAL TIMES of last month, especially as regards the libretto. These need not now be repeated, but I recur to the few general remarks then made anent the music as having been completely borne out in performance. Neither in the airs nor the choruses of "Bethany" has Mr. Williams attempted what are sometimes called high flights. He has written nothing for the purpose of showing off his musicianship, or to set the tongues of quidnuncs wagging, or to puzzle, or startle, or do anything save give devotional expression to the sentiment of the words. To give that expression was his true line, and he took it with the instinct of a genuine artist, uninfluenced by any consideration of self advertisement. The result is that we have in "Bethany" a real work of art, modest, restrained, as a work of art should be, but true and therefore powerful. There is this to be said, moreover; the composer not only bound himself down to a simple musical exposition of the text, but undertook to work in agreement with the canons of taste prevailing in regard to church music. The resounding interior of Gloucester Cathedral, therefore, echoed nothing incongruous or strange during the performance of his piece. Place and music were in harmony, while with both the quiet, pathetic story of "Bethany" and its devotional reflections perfectly agreed. Out of this general fitness proceeded a deep impression, which became more marked as the performance went on, and culminated in the recital of the Saviour's sufferings, with which Mr. Williams has, in so moving a manner, associated an ancient church tone. During the "pauses" of this section, after the solemn drum rolls had died away, the profound silence of the immense audience showed how deeply hearts were touched. It is upon the general truth and strength of "Bethany" that I prefer now to touch. The time for details will come without much delay, meanwhile it is a duty to proclaim the advent of a religious composer who, having found an opportunity, so speaks as that none can refuse to hear. Already the Cantata is announced for performance in several places. It will go through the land. The execution of the work at Gloucester was excellent; the choruses being beautifully sung, and the soloists, Mesdames Albani and Wilson, Messrs. Lloyd and Brereton, delivering their music in the very spirit with which the composer wrote.

The "Prodigal Son," on Thursday morning, closed the list of sacred works unfamiliar to Gloucester. Its performance was conducted by Sir Arthur Sullivan in person, and a large congregation gathered to make acquaintance with an Oratorio which not even the composer's eminence had been able to save from undeserved neglect. The choice of the Gloucester Stewards has given the "Prodigal Son" a fresh start, and we may now expect to see it on the active list of Choral Societies which can appreciate music of sustained charm and unfailing distinction. Many of the numbers made a lively impression, among them the revel chorus "Let us eat and drink," the pathetic solo "How many hired servants," the most melodious opening chorus, and the two concluding pieces. But, for that matter, the whole work, though written years ago, is worthy Sir Arthur Sullivan's present name, and its performance will be an agreeable memory of the late Festival. Madame Albani, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Barrington Foote were the soloists, chief distinction falling once more to the tenor, whose rendering of the Prodigal's soliloquy will not soon be forgotten.

Turning to the secular Concerts—with a passing glance at the "Golden Legend," performed on Thursday evening before an unpleasantly crowded audience, the composer conducting—I dwell chiefly upon the execution, on Tuesday evening, of Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal," which also had the advantage of its author's presence and direction. Composer and composition were alike entirely new to Gloucester, while the special form of the work was, with such an audience, a doubtful element in the problem of success. But Dr. Mackenzie's music soon made its mark as, indeed, it could not help doing, while the elocution of Mr. Charles Fry, who now knows, and is able to express, all there is in the poem, gave effect to Mr. Bennett's share of the piece. Again the lovely and moving accompaniment to the recitation evoked unqualified admiration, as did, in a greater or less degree, all the set pieces. The "Sickle Song" (Mr. Lloyd) was demanded a second time, but refused; next after it in favour being the splendid Funeral March, with the "Gloria," the love duet, and the Invocation. Considering the nature of the music and the short time available for rehearsal, the "Dream of Jubal" had a good performance, and most thoroughly recommended itself to the amateurs of a part of the country into which it had not before penetrated. Those amateurs will have another opportunity of acquainting themselves with it during the approaching Cheltenham season. That Dr. Mackenzie was warmly applauded at the close of his work need hardly be said.

Miss Ellicott's "Elysium" followed, and, though rather heavily scored in parts, justified the opinions expressed about it in our last. It is well and smoothly written, has some very graceful musical thoughts, and generally soars very far above the ordinary amateur standard. The fair composer bowed her thanks from the platform in response to hearty applause. A Violin Concerto by Sitt was played at this Concert by Mr. Bernhard Carrodus. The piece itself calls for no special remark, but the young performer won laurels. He may never be a Joachim or a Sarasate, but will probably develop into an artist of considerable attainment and usefulness.

An overflowing congregation attended the final choral service on Friday night, when the "Lobgesang" and Beethoven's "Hallelujah" were performed. By that time the executives had tired, and it was not surprising to find the standard of the week dropping a little. There remains to state that the Charity benefits by the Festival to the extent of nearly £1,600. Future Festivals will benefit, also, by the brilliant artistic and social success of 1889.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

THE Royal Choral Society will enter upon its nineteenth season at the Royal Albert Hall, on the 30th inst. The series of 1889-90 will comprise ten Concerts, at which the following works will be performed:—October 30, "Faust," Berlioz; November 13, "St. Cecilia," Parry, and "Voyage of Maeldune," Stanford; December 4, "Lucifer," Benoit; January 1, "Messiah," Handel; January 22, "Elijah," Mendelssohn; February 19, "Redemption," Gounod; March 5, "The Cotter's Saturday Night" and "The Dream of Jubal," Mackenzie; March 26, "Israel in Egypt," Handel; April 4, "Messiah," Handel; April 23, "The Golden Legend," Sullivan. These dates are subject to modification by the Committee as circumstances occur. The right to change a work if it be found necessary is also subject to the same ruling power. The list of works named shows that the amalgamation of interests caused by the union of Novello's Oratorio Concerts with the Royal Choral Society is likely to be greatly to the advantage of art, and the benefit of the subscribers and other lovers of music. The list of soloists includes the names of Madame Albani, Miss Anna Williams, Madame Dotti, Miss Monteith, Madame Valleria, Madame Patey, and Madame Belle Cole; Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr.

Henry Piercy, Mr. Iver McKay, Mr. Henschel, Mr. Breton, Mr. Henry Pope, Mr. Watkin Mills, and Mr. Blauwaert. The band and chorus, numbering 1,000 executants, will be on the efficient scale for which the Society has been noted. The Organist is Mr. W. Hodge, and Mr. Joseph Barnby will maintain the post of Conductor. It is understood that there are to be no Concerts on Saturday afternoons this season. The excellence of the scheme proposed will doubtless greatly increase the attractiveness of the performances.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIO CONCERTS.

AFTER working through four seasons, these Concerts have ceased to exist. Yet, after all, that is scarcely the way to put it. We shall know them no more as a separate entity, so much is indubitable; but they will still live, in their spirit and in the influence of their director, as part and parcel of the kindred enterprise at the Albert Hall. The bare facts are these: Mr. Alfred Littleton, head of the firm of Novello, Ewer and Co., has joined the Committee of the Royal Choral Society; discontinuing the Concerts hitherto given in St. James's Hall by his firm, and transferring his interest to the older body, which will produce a certain number of new works that would otherwise have been brought out by the Novello Choir. This is not extinction; it is a marriage, and a marriage may be prolific.

We do not deny that it is matter for regret when a useful musical enterprise ceases to act in its individual capacity and weakens the healthy force of competition. There are not so many oratorio societies in London that we can afford to lose the independent action even of one. But the case of Novello's Concerts gives special reason for concern at the absorption of their personality. While other enterprises have been content to give well-known works—a labour we should be the last to undervalue—with now and then a novelty, this one has existed in order that the public might have experience of contemporary writers, especially of native musicians. In proof, we need only give a list of the compositions performed during the four seasons over which Novello's Oratorio Concerts extended:—

I. SEASON 1885-1886.—"Rose of Sharon," "Mors et Vita," "Redemption," "La Belle Dame," "A Patriotic Hymn," "The Spectre's Bride," "Stabat Mater" (Dvorák), miscellaneous works, and "St. Elizabeth."

II. SEASON 1886-1887.—"St. Ludmila," "Third Messe Solennelle" (Gounod), "The Golden Legend," "The Revenge," "The Story of Sayid," "Calvary," "Sleeping Beauty," "Choral Symphony," and "Mors et Vita."

III. SEASON 1887-1888.—"Jubilee Ode," "The Spectre's Bride," "Ruth" (Cowen), "The Rose of Sharon," "Redemption," "The Ancient Mariner," Mendelssohn's "114th Psalm," "Irish Symphony," "Concert-Overture" (King), and "The Golden Legend."

IV. SEASON 1888-1889.—"Judith," "Messiah," "Elijah," "The Heavens Declare," "The Dream of Jubal," "The Light of Asia," and "Saul."

We do not hesitate to describe the foregoing list as a striking testimony to enterprise, and, indeed, to self-sacrifice also, for everybody acquainted in the slightest degree with the conditions of Concert-giving in London knows that novelties do not pay. Comparatively few, however, have anything like a just idea of the loss they entail. Facts may be stated now which, at an earlier date, prudence withheld, and it should go on record that there have been occasions of novelty-giving when the receipts barely covered the cost of the orchestra alone, while some have been known at which the fee of the principal singer exhausted the whole of the takings. It reasonably follows that, however much we may admire the spirit and liberality shown by Concert-givers under such circumstances, we cannot expect them to go on for ever in a course which must ultimately prove exhausting. Amateurs will, therefore, temper regret for the loss of an enterprising institution with the thought that the public have no longer an opportunity of allowing their caterers to provide music at an accumulating expense, with no hope of even a prospective return.

As already indicated, the stoppage of the Novello Concerts does not imply an extinction of their spirit. By the terms of the arrangement effected, the Royal Choral Society will produce a certain number of new works—those, in point of fact, which would have been given in St. James's Hall had the Concerts continued. With regard to this main point, therefore, music will suffer no harm, and there are other considerations which tend to abate the regret every lover of the art must feel at the dissolution of one of its most potent agencies. On the other hand, nothing can lessen sorrow for the break-up of the fine choir trained with so much care by Dr. Mackenzie, or diminish the admiration felt by all lovers of music for the splendid performances given by the Choir during the period of its existence—results which were undoubtedly brought about by the enthusiastic interest which the members took in their voluntary duties. The writer of these lines has no authority for putting forward a suggestion which may, however, receive consideration. Cannot the Novello Choir be retained for the service of glees, madrigals, and other forms of unaccompanied vocal music? Compositions of this order are as good—or as bad—as lost to us under present arrangements. We hear none of them from year's end to year's end, and a new generation is growing up in ignorance of a class of works which, more than any other, prove that the soul of music is in our English race. Should the merging of Novello's Oratorio Concerts into those of the Royal Choral Society result in an annual series of Madrigal Concerts much will have been done towards reconciling amateurs to the new order of things.

J. B.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

THE thirty-fourth annual series of the Saturday Concerts will commence on the 19th inst., with Mr. August Manns as Conductor as heretofore. The directors in their preliminary announcement say that the programmes will be constructed on the same principle that has governed these world-renowned Concerts from the outset—that is to say, the presentation of orchestral and vocal compositions of various epochs and styles, a careful selection being made both from the classical masterpieces and from the most remarkable novelties of the day. The permanent orchestral band of the Company will, as usual, be reinforced on Saturdays by about forty-five of the most eminent London instrumentalists, and continued efforts will be made to associate with this unsurpassed orchestra a well-balanced and carefully-trained chorus, capable of doing full justice to the choral works to be introduced in the course of the series. Among the latter may be named Mendelssohn's Oratorio "St. Paul"; a new Cantata, "St. John's Eve," the libretto by Joseph Bennett, the music by F. H. Cowen, to be given for the first time at the final Concert before Christmas; Ballad, "Landkjending" (Op. 31), Edvard Grieg, for chorus of tenors and basses, baritone solo, and orchestra (first time in England); and the Cantata "Bonnie Kilmeny," Hamish MacCunn. Among the instrumental works to be performed for the first time are the following:—Symphony in B flat (Op. 60), Dr. Bernard Scholz; Symphony in A, Frederic Lamond; Concert-Overture, "Robert Bruce," F. J. Simpson; Rhapsody in A and D, E. Lalo; Symphonic Poem, "Festklänge," Liszt. Other works of novel interest will doubtless also be given as occasion serves, but there is sufficient evidence to show that the directors have not been unmindful of the claims of native musicians in the making up of their programmes for the season. There are to be nine Concerts in the first portion of the series, at which the following performers will appear:—Vocalists—Miss Ella Russell, Miss Macintyre, Miss Fillunger, Miss Elvira Gambogi, Mrs. Henschel, Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, and Miss Marian Mackenzie; Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. George Henschel, Mr. Brereton, Mr. Plunket Greene, Mr. Robert Grice, Mr. Henry Bailey, and Mr. Emil Blauwaert. Solo instrumentalists:—Piano-forte—Miss Fanny Davies, Madame Roger-Miclos, Miss Marian Osborn, and Mr. Albeniz; Violin—Miss Nettie Carpenter and Mr. Hans Wessely; the Crystal Palace Choir; organist, Mr. Alfred J. Eyre. Mr. August Manns will conduct the whole of the Concerts with the exception of that at which Mr. Cowen's work will be produced, when the composer will direct the performance. The Concerts are to be resumed after Christmas, on February 8, 1890.

ANTONIO CAGNONI'S OPERA "FRANCESCA DA RIMINI."

THIS opera, the latest of Commendatore Cagnoni's lyrico-dramatic works, has recently enjoyed a series of special performances at the "Politeama" of Genoa, and its conspicuous musical as well as its dramatic merits entitle it to more than a passing notice, the more so as its composer has already, by his former operas, achieved considerable success. Of the sixteen operas which preceded his "Francesca da Rimini," and which, in their turn, have been performed at the principal theatres in Italy, the best-known are "Amori e Trappole," "Il Testamento di Figaro," "La Tombola," "Duca di Tapigliano," and notably "Don Bucefalo," all of which belong to the category of serio-comic opera, and are distinguished by graceful melody, vivacity, and originality of treatment. Indeed, it may be said that of serio-comic opera modelled upon Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Rossini's "Gazza Ladra," and similar works, Signor Cagnoni is, among living Italian composers, the leading, if not the only, representative. In "Francesca da Rimini" he appears for the first time as a composer of dramatic or grand opera properly speaking, and his success in this new capacity is of high promise for the future.

The subject of "Francesca da Rimini" has been treated by several composers, amongst others by Marcarini, but more especially by Goetz, the gifted composer of "The Taming of the Shrew" so recently performed in London by the pupils of the Royal College of Music, under Professor V. Stanford's direction. Goetz's lamented and early death prevented the completion of his "Francesca," a work remarkable for its high tone, its beauty, and its purity of thought and style; but the task of finishing this beautiful opera in the spirit and according to the intentions of the composer—a task of true love and friendship—was undertaken and worthily accomplished by the late Ernst Frank, Goetz's devoted friend, who was at the time Conductor of the opera at Mannheim, where the writer was fortunate enough to witness its first performance in 1875.

It need hardly be said that, as far as the dramatic treatment is concerned, Signor Cagnoni's opera is constructed much on the same lines as is that of Goetz's; indeed, the limits of the subject are prescribed by the sad and celebrated story immortalised by Dante in the "Inferno" part of his "Divina Comedia," and treated after him by Silvio Pellico, Byron, and other poets. At the time when Dante penned the famous lines—

Francesca, i tuoi martiri
A lagrimar mi fanno tristo e pio,

he was under so many obligations to the illustrious house of Polenta (the then rulers of Ravenna), to which Francesca (afterwards called "da Rimini") belonged, that, moved partly by sympathy for the fate of the lovers, partly by gratitude towards his benefactors, he sought, if not to justify, at least to attenuate the guilt of the unfortunate couple. And in this, to judge from the words he puts in Francesca's mouth, he went even so far as to plead that the lovers, in their otherwise innocent attachment, were corrupted by reading together a novel entitled "Il Lancillotto," which narrated the love adventures of Lancelot, an errant knight, with Queen Ginevra—a novel greatly in vogue about the end of the thirteenth and the beginning of the fourteenth centuries, but which was, in 1313, prohibited by Pope Innocent III. on account of its immoral tendencies. The true and authentic version of the tragedy, which took place at Rimini in the year 1288, is undoubtedly that given by Boccaccio, and may be summed up as follows:—

The two reigning houses of Polenta (Ravenna) and of Malatesta (Rimini) having arranged, as a pledge of restored peace and friendship, a marriage between Gianciotto (a corruption of "Giovanni" and "Zoppo," the lame) Malatesta and Francesca, the beautiful daughter of Guido of Polenta, the question arose how to induce Francesca to agree to this marriage, seeing that she would certainly repel the advances of so ugly, deformed, and altogether repulsive a man as Gianciotto Malatesta, were he to present himself. To overcome the difficulty, a stratagem was resorted to, and Paolo Malatesta, Gianciotto's younger brother, a handsome and noble youth, was deputed to woo

Francesca, under the pretence of being Gianciotto. Whether or no Paolo was a party to the fraud, certain it is that he fell desperately in love with Francesca, and she with him, and that their secret love continued even after Francesca's eyes had been opened to the fraud practised upon her. A hireling of Gianciotto's, Alberigo by name, having observed this intimacy during his master's absence from home, informed the latter, and, on his sudden return, conducted him to the door of Francesca's chamber, into which she and her lover had locked themselves. Hearing her husband call from outside, Francesca gave herself up as lost; but Paolo, remembering a trap door which, by a secret staircase, led from Francesca's room to another chamber below, ran towards it, telling Francesca at the same time to open the door and admit her husband. Gianciotto entered, and his eye at once fell upon his ill-fated brother, who was vainly endeavouring to free himself from a spike in the trap door, in which the folds of his tunic had caught. Gianciotto immediately fell with his dagger upon his brother, but the fatal blow struck Francesca, who had thrown herself between them. Gianciotto, maddened with rage and jealousy, thereupon drew the dagger out of his wife's body, and with another blow killed his brother Paolo, leaving them both dead on the ground. "And on the following morning," laconically concludes Boccaccio, "the two lovers were buried together in the same grave, amidst many tears and lamentations."

Such are the leading features of the pathetic story which, in Signor Cagnoni's opera, is spread over four acts. Besides the principal characters—viz., Gianciotto or Lanciotto (baritone), Paolo (tenor), and Francesca (soprano)—Signor Cagnoni introduces Alberigo (baritone), who, in the capacity of Gianciotto's hireling, is a species of Iago; and Silvio (mezzo-soprano), a page. In the musical treatment of his subject, Signor Cagnoni shows himself a skilful writer of dramatic music who, while faithfully adhering to the Italian precept "melody before everything," omits no opportunity of bringing to the front his power of effective orchestration. Such as, for instance, the overture, which, in a slow movement, treats with admirable effect the love-phrase of the last act "Paolo, Paolo." Again, in the first act, Francesca's prayer "Vergine madre che tanto soffristi," Paolo's air "Come obbliai quell' angelica forma," Silvio's ballad "Ell' era pargoletta tutta sorriso," the wedding march, and the concerted Finale are examples of Signor Cagnoni's best style of vocal and instrumental writing. In the second act may be noticed another exceedingly graceful ballad of Silvio, as well as a highly dramatic and diabolical air of Alberigo, "C'era una volta, in tempo assai lontano," and the effective Finale. The last two acts are undoubtedly the best of the opera, and give proof of careful and elaborate workmanship, such as Gianciotto's air "Nel di delle mie nozze," the beautiful trio between Gianciotto, Paolo, and Francesca, "Sposo, un presagio orribile," and an air of Paolo, "Se alla natal mia Rimini" in the third act; while the fourth and last act begins with an extremely pathetic prayer of Francesca, with organ accompaniment, and ends with a love duet, "Paolo, Paolo, per ch  sei qui tornato," which, recalling the leading phrase of the overture, is perhaps the finest number in the whole score.

It is, of course, extremely difficult, if not impossible, to compare two styles so totally different as that of Goetz and Cagnoni. The subject of the opera is in itself so sad that, like "Romeo and Juliet," it requires very considerable dramatic and descriptive power to give it musical life by bringing the contrast between such characters as Gianciotto and Paolo well to the front, and to sustain the interest in the dramatic action. In this respect Signor Cagnoni's opera would gain considerably if, instead of extending over four acts, it were condensed into three. As an eminently polyphonic writer, the palm is undoubtedly due to Goetz who, moreover, had at his command an almost inexhaustible store of melody, as instanced not only by his "Taming of the Shrew," but also by his other purely instrumental works. From a strictly musical point of view, Goetz's "Francesca da Rimini," as completed by Frank, is a more valuable, because a more highly scientific, work than Signor Cagnoni's opera. But, on the other hand, Signor Cagnoni's "Francesca" is, in many parts, exceedingly effective, and, abounding as it does in graceful melody, and being as a whole more easily intelligible and transparent, it redounds to the honour of Italian art, and fully deserves the eminent success it has achieved not only recently in Genoa, but previously at Bologna, Turin, and Milan.

OBITUARY.

WE regret to hear of the death of Mr. JOHN WILLIAM ATKINSON, which took place at Leeds on the evening of August 25. Mr. Atkinson had, from 1851 to 1883, been intimately connected with the Leeds Musical Festival. In 1852, when the Madrigal and Motet Society was proposed, Mr. Atkinson entered heartily into the scheme, and this ultimately famous vocal association had an important bearing on the general musical culture of West Yorkshire. This was greatly due to his untiring efforts as secretary. When the Leeds Festivals were resuscitated in 1874, and in 1877, 1880, and 1883 Mr. Atkinson took an active part in promoting them, and he established a course of action and system in their management which have ever since resulted beneficially for the medical charities.

DR. LANGDON COLBORNE, Organist of Hereford Cathedral, died at his residence in the Close at Hereford, on the 16th ult. He was at the Gloucester Festival officially, and returned to his duties in his customary health. During the few days before his death he had been slightly unwell, but nothing serious was apprehended until Sunday night, the 15th, when he became worse, and died on the morning of Monday. He was much liked in Hereford, and will be greatly mourned by all who knew him. He was born at Hackney, near London, in 1835, and studied the organ under the late George Cooper. He was appointed Organist at St. Michael's, Tenbury, in 1860, in succession to John Stainer. He subsequently held the post of Organist at Beverley Minster, 1874, to the Parish Churches, Wigan (1875), and Dorking (1877); and Organist and Master of the boys at Hereford on the death of George Townshend Smith in the last-named year. He took the degree of Bachelor in Music at Cambridge in 1864, and was created Doctor of Music by the Archbishop of Canterbury in 1883. He composed several Services and Anthems for the use of the Church, a short Oratorio, "Samuel," which was performed at the last Hereford Festival, several songs, part-songs, &c.

At Harting, a small village in West Sussex, where he had lived in retirement for the past twenty years, on the 12th ult., died HENRY ANGELO MICHAEL COOKE, known as Grattan Cooke. He was at one time accounted the first oboe player in Europe. He was the son of Thomas Simpson Cooke, one of the most melodious of English glee writers, and the author, among a number of other pieces, of the famous duet, "The Army and Navy." Cooke was one of the first students of the Royal Academy of Music, which he entered in 1823. His contemporaries were W. H. Holmes, A. Greatorex, T. M. Mudie, H. G. Blagrove, W. H. Phipps, A. Devaux, C. Seymour, E. J. Nielson, C. S. Packer, and Kellow Pye, the last-named being the only survivor of the list. Cooke remained in the Academy until 1828, and became subsequently one of the Professors. He was the principal oboe in the chief concert and festival orchestras for many years. He was a favourite of Mendelssohn, having played at the Birmingham Festival conducted by the great composer; and in 1849, after declining an invitation to accompany Mendelssohn to Germany, he became band-master of the 2nd Life Guards, which post he retained for seven years. He married, in 1837, the "beautiful Miss Kiall-marck" (mentioned in the autobiography of Fanny Kemble), who survives him. He composed several operettas and songs, and in 1850 issued a pamphlet, entitled "Statement of Facts and Correspondence between the Directors of the Philharmonic Society and Mr. Grattan Cooke," which at the time created a good deal of discussion.

The death is announced of Herr GUSTAV LANGE, at Wernigerode, on August 28. He was known throughout Germany, and also to a certain extent in England, as a prolific composer of light pianoforte pieces. He was born at Schwerstedt in 1830, and it is said that the number of his compositions exceeded five hundred. A series of eighteen pieces, entitled "Les Aquarelles," were among those which attained enormous success. Herr Lange also transcribed several of Schubert's Lieder and a quantity of operatic music, and he was likewise the composer of some more important works, including a Quintet for wind instruments.

The well-known German Conductor, Herr ERNST FRANK, died on August 17, at Vienna, aged forty-three. For some time past he had been incapacitated by a mental disorder from the performance of his duties as Court Capellmeister at Hanover, a post he filled for several years, during which he brought out there many new and important operas, among them, in 1882, Stanford's "Veiled Prophet of Khorassan." Before his appointment to Hanover he held similar posts at Mannheim and Frankfurt. At the former he was instrumental in bringing out, in 1874, Goetz's "Taming of the Shrew." Besides helping Goetz with every sort of encouragement during his lifetime, he finished the opera of "Francesca da Rimini" from the composer's sketches. His own original works, which include an opera, "Hero," met with no great favour, but as an operatic conductor he was most successful.

MR. FREDERICK DAVID DELEVANTE, an accomplished musician, formerly of Ealing, and latterly of Acton, died at the last-named place on August 27. Mr. Delevante while at Ealing was the designer and founder of the Lyric Hall (the foundation-stone of which he laid with Masonic honours), which was opened on Boxing Day, 1881. He was the Musical Director at "Madame Tussaud's" for some thirty-five years. For nine years, up to 1879, he held the position of Organist at the Church of Notre Dame, Leicester Square, and previously to that he was, for eleven years, Organist at the Church of St. Saviour, Brompton, at the time his late brother, the Rev. E. R. Delevante, was curate there.

MR. J. W. YOUNG, late one of the assistant-masters at the Wakefield Grammar School, and formerly choirmaster at the Parish Church, expired on Sunday, the 8th ult., at the Wakefield Asylum. The deceased, who was fifty-four years of age, was well known and highly esteemed in musical circles in various parts of the West Riding, and he was very successful as a teacher of music and a Conductor. Some time ago he accidentally fell down some steps at his residence in Wakefield, and subsequently becoming demented, was removed to the Asylum, where he ultimately died.

The death is announced of MR. JOHN HARRISON, of Liverpool, author of the well-known song "The smith's a gallant fireman." Endowed with considerable poetic genius, he began to write verse long before he had attained to manhood, and he contributed to periodicals many ballads and songs.

MR. THOMAS MONCK MASON, who recently died at the advanced age of eighty-six, was formerly known as an enthusiastic music lover, and was at one time lessee of the King's Theatre—now Her Majesty's.

DR. LOUIS MAAS, the well-known teacher, composer, and pianist, died at Boston, Mass., on the 18th ult., of peritonitis. He was the son of a music teacher, and was born at Wiesbaden, June 21, 1852. When only two years old he was brought by his family to London to be educated. At the age of fifteen he was placed under Reinecke and Papperitz at the Leipzig Conservatoire, and for three years he also studied under Liszt. He was appointed Professor at the Leipzig Conservatoire in 1875, and attracted so many American pupils that, in 1880, he removed to Boston, where he gained great renown as a teacher and pianist. He wrote several overtures and concertos and three symphonies, one of which, an "American" Symphony, is descriptive of life in the Western prairies.

The death of HENRY BROUGHAM FARNIE took place in Paris on the 22nd ult. He was the author of a great number of verses for songs, and an industrious adapter of works of the opera-bouffe type. It is understood that he had also composed the music for a few ballads at the outset of his career; but his fame rests upon the many libretti he translated and arranged for the English stage, few of which were of very high literary merit. They were furnished chiefly to suit ephemeral public taste, and for the most part ceased to exist with the excitement they created. He was at one time editor of the Orchestra, and through his connection with that paper he was first engaged in the work which became his specialty. Among his more important works, he wrote the libretto of "The Sleeping Queen" for Balfe, and had also prepared the book of a serious opera for him, but it was never set to music. He was an excellent stage manager, and placed many operas upon the stage. The last in which he was engaged was "Paul Jones."

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE season upon which we are now entering promises to be a busy one. Musical announcements are increasing on every side, and though many of these are of a class which do not call for reference here, the number of good Concerts foreshadowed is quite up to the average. First and foremost comes the always attractive prospectus of Messrs. Harrison, who pride themselves upon their success in combining popular and classical attractions, and so bringing together different sections of the musical public. Their scheme comprises a series of four Concerts which are fixed for the evenings of Mondays, October 14, November 15, February 3, and March 3, but beyond the fact that one of these entertainments will be mainly of a classical and orchestral character, with Sir Charles Hallé's band and Lady Hallé as solo violinist, nothing can be said yet as to the character or subject-matter of the Concerts. The engagement list, however, is a very strong one, and it would be strange, indeed, if Messrs. Harrison did not succeed in satisfying their patrons with such artists as Madame Adelina Patti, Madame Nordica, Madame Alwina Valeria, Miss Macintyre, Miss Antoinette Trebelli, Mrs. Mary Davies, Miss Mary Titens, Madame Patey, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Madame Hope Glenn, Madame Belle Cole, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Orlando Harley, Mr. Henry Guy, Mr. Frederic King, and Mr. Foli, vocalists; Sir Charles Hallé, Mr. Luigi Arditi (son of the well-known conductor), Miss Janotha, and Mr. F. Lamond, pianists; Madame Néruda (Lady Hallé), Miss Nettie Carpenter, Miss Marianne Eissler, Mr. Tivadar Nachéz, and Mr. Johannes Wolff, violinists; Mr. Hollmann and Mr. Van Biene, violoncellists; and the celebrated Hallé Band, with Messrs. Ganz, Roche, Alois, and Ducci as pianoforte accompanists.

The Festival Choral Society's thirtieth season will open on the evening of Thursday, the 24th inst., with a performance of Handel's "Samson." At the second Concert, on Thursday, December 12, Dr. Villiers Stanford's cantata "The Revenge," Mendelssohn's "First Walpurgis Night," and Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" will be performed. A miscellaneous Concert, including a selection of part-songs and madrigals, will be given on February 13, and Mr. Hamish MacCunn's cantata "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" will be performed for the first time in Birmingham, with the first and second parts of Haydn's "Creation," on March 27. In this case also there is a strong list of principal vocalists, including Madame Louise Dotti, Miss Macintyre, Miss Fanny Moody, Madame Clara Samuelli, Miss Damian, Miss Lily Moody, Miss Dews, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Iver McKay, Mr. Charles Banks, Mr. John Child, Mr. Watkin Mills, Mr. W. H. Brereton, Mr. Charles Manners, and Mr. Andrew Black. The band and chorus, under Mr. Stockley's direction, will number 450 performers.

Of Mr. Stockley's forthcoming Concerts, which open on November 7, all that is known at present is that they will serve to introduce to the Birmingham public the eminent Norwegian pianist Madame Backer-Grøndahl, who created such a sensation in London last season, and that the works of her friend and compatriot Edvard Grieg will find a conspicuous place in her repertory. The Grieg Pianoforte Concerto with orchestra will probably be included in her selection, and Mr. Carrodus will be the solo violinist. At one of the Concerts Mr. Frederic Cliffe is expected to conduct his new Symphony in C minor. Miss Fanny Moody, Madame Nordica, Miss Damian, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Orlando Harley, Mr. Manners, and Mr. Foli are the vocalists.

The Midland Musical Society, which caters for the humbler class of music lovers, under the direction of Mr. H. M. Stevenson, opened the season on the 28th ult. with a performance of "Judas Maccabæus." The next Artisans' Concert will be on November 16, when Handel's "Samson" will be given. "Israel in Egypt" is announced for the third Concert, on February 15, and the season will close on Good Friday, April 4, with a performance of "The Redemption," by Gounod. The band and chorus number 500 performers, and the Society has secured a good list of vocal principals.

The Popular Saturday Concerts, at the Town Hall, have begun, under favourable auspices, and promise to prove as successful this year as last. The first of the series, given by the Birmingham Choral and Orchestral Association, which has undertaken to provide four Concerts, was devoted to Mendelssohn's "Elijah." The principal vocalists were Miss Lizzie Preston, Madame Oscar Pollack, Mr. Hamlyn Crimp, and Mr. Percy Taunton, with whom were associated a band and chorus of 300 performers. The artistic results were fairly satisfactory all round and the attendance was large.

Among recent personal changes in the profession here should be noticed the departure of Mr. T. Troman and Mr. Albert Priestley, the former to enter upon the appointment of Organist to the new English Church at Boulogne, the latter to pursue a course of study at Frankfort Conservatorium under the veteran professor of the violoncello, Mr. Cossmann. Mr. Albert Priestley is a pupil of Mr. Howell, and ranks among our best local violoncellists. Mr. F. Samson Tipson, of Wellingborough, has accepted the post of Organist at the Old Meeting Church, Bristol Street.

The Sunday Evening Concerts at Aston Lower Grounds continue to draw large crowds, in spite of the lateness of the season. The programmes are mostly of a miscellaneous order, operatic music preponderating, but the band is a fairly good one and the performances appear to be highly appreciated. At the Electrical and Industrial Exhibition, at Bingley Hall, the daily miscellaneous Concerts are also well attended, and the performances, in particular those of Mr. Gilmer's military band, are warmly applauded.

A new Harvest Cantata, by Mr. Albert E. Daniell, was produced at the Church of the Saviour, on Sunday, the 15th ult. The comic Opera "Nanon," by Richard Genée, was produced here, for the first time in this country, on the 16th ult. It had a great run both in Berlin and in the United States, but Birmingham opera-goers are not greatly impressed by the work, which they find dull and commonplace alike in plot and music.

MUSIC IN BLACKBURN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ALL details in connection with the amalgamation of the St. Cecilia and Vocal Societies have been settled and rehearsals have commenced for the ensuing season. Benedict's "St. Peter" is the work selected for performance at the first Concert and it will be given about Christmas. Both Societies commenced independent operations in 1875. The St. Cecilia was established mainly through the exertions of an enthusiastic amateur, Mr. Alexander Carus. The rehearsals were held at the residences of the members. As the roll of members increased it was decided to give public performances. Mr. Bentley, of Manchester, was appointed Conductor, and under his bâton the first Concert was given on April 27, 1876. On Mr. Bentley's retirement, in 1878, Dr. Henry Hiles was appointed Conductor. Dr. Hiles relinquished the Conductorship in 1881, and in that year Mr. J. H. Rooks was appointed his successor. Last Season was the most successful the Society has ever had, and the performance of the "Faust" of Berlioz will long be remembered as one of the great events in the musical life of Blackburn. The Vocal Society has not in any way been behind the St. Cecilia. Mr. W. H. Jones was the first Conductor. On the death of Mr. Jones, in 1879, Mr. W. H. Robinson, of Blackburn, was appointed Conductor. There are not many country towns which can show more satisfactory results attained in music than in Blackburn, and it is a pleasure to note that the works of English living musicians have not been neglected. The combined Chorus now numbers about 240 voices. Mr. Rooks has been elected Conductor, and the St. Cecilia and Vocal Union should have a prosperous career.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

If Concerts have not been numerous in Bristol during the past month, there has been manifested, in other directions, greater musical activity than has been apparent at this period for years past. Not only are established Societies actively engaged preparing for Concerts to be given from time to time, but new Associations have been established and appear to be based on foundations likely to be lasting.

Two, or three at the most, musical gatherings have taken place. The Bristol and Clifton public band, composed of first-class instrumentalists, ceased its season of daily Promenade Concerts on the last day of August, and the committee of management found that the subscriptions and donations had not covered the expenses by about £150, a large portion of which deficit was carried forward from last season. An appeal has been made for pecuniary help to wipe off this debt. Yielding to the request of many persons interested in the band and who have been delighted with its playing, Mr. Watts, the Conductor, and the members have continued to give Promenade Concerts on their own responsibility. On the 2nd ult. the members of the band gave a Concert in Colston Hall for their benefit. Popular pieces were played and songs were contributed by Madame Probert-Goodwin, Miss Venie Flower, Mr. Morgan, and Mr. Lomas.

The series of Concerts carried on at the Young Men's Christian Association opened with the month. The gatherings are interesting, and the choir, bands, and professional and amateur vocalists and instrumentalists who take part in the Concerts help to spread a love of music among the people.

The members of the Bristol Musical Association—the body that gives the Saturday Popular Concerts—are actively engaged in preparing works for the coming season, which opened on the 28th ult. with a miscellaneous Concert.

Passing to the prospects of the musical year, it may be said that they are exceedingly bright. The Musical Festival Society will give two Concerts on the first days of November. At the Concert on the Friday Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" is to be given, together with songs by the principal vocalists, and a chorus to be directed by Mr. Rootham, the chorus-master; and Sir Charles Hallé's band will play various orchestral works. On the Saturday Gounod's "Mors et Vita" is to be performed in English.

At the Bristol Musical Association's Concerts, to be given at regular intervals, new and familiar works are to be performed, including Miss Ellicott's "Elysium," Mozart's No. 1 and the "Requiem" Masses, and Handel's "Messiah." Among the artists who will appear are Miss Marie Titiens, Madame Belle Cole, Miss Gomez, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. Herbert Thorndyke, and Miss Kate Chaplin, violinist.

Mrs. Viner-Pomeroy will continue her classical chamber Concerts, which have given delight to Cliftonians for many years. Mr. Ludwig will be the first violinist as before, and the other instrumentalists will be of equally high repute.

Mr. Theo. Carrington, formerly leader of the Crystal Palace orchestra, who has settled in Bristol, will shortly announce a series of classical Concerts to be given on Saturday afternoons. Works and vocalists unfamiliar to Bristolians are to be introduced from time to time at these gatherings.

Miss Mary Lock, a pupil of Mr. Walter Macfarren, commences her fifth season of popular Chamber Concerts on the 22nd inst., when Raff's Sonata in A will be rendered for the first time in Bristol.

The Madrigal Society's Concert early in the year promises to be of exceptional interest. Madrigals have been sent for approval by various writers. The compositions include "Music, when sweet voices," by Dr. A. King, set for six parts; "Sweet is my love," written by Miss Lilian Blair-Oliphant; a striking composition from the pen of Miss Rosalind Ellicott, entitled "Bring the bright garlands"; a part-song by Dr. Edwards, of Barnstaple; "Cynthia," by Dr. W. A. Barrett; and madrigals by Mr. James Greenwood

ANTHEM FOR ADVENT, AND THE FEAST OF THE ANNUNCIATION.

S. Luke i. 30—33.

Composed by KING HALL.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.); and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

VOICE. Andante SOPRANO SOLO. cres. e rall.

And the an - gel said un - to her,

ORGAN. Andante. Sw. p cres. e rall

Allegro. mf mf p

Fear not, Ma - ry : for Allegro. 132. Sw. p senza Ped.

cres. p mf

thou hast found fa - vour with God. And, be - hold, . . . be - cres. p p

dim. cres.

- hold, thou shalt con - ceive . . . in thy womb, . . . and bring mf dim. cres.

cres.

forth a Son, and bring forth a Son, . . .

cres

Gt. mf

Ped.

rall.

and shalt call His name Je - sus.

rall.

Sw. mf

senza Ped.

Allegro maestoso.
FULL. SOPRANO.

He shall be great, . . He shall be

ALTO.

He shall be great, . . He shall be

TENOR.

He shall be great, . . He shall be

BASS.

He shall be great, . . He shall be

Allegro maestoso, d = 120.

Gt. f

Ped.

senza Ped.

great, and shall be call - ed the Son of the High - est :

great, and shall be call - ed the Son of the High - est :

great, and shall be call - ed the Son of the High - est :

great, and shall be call - ed the Son of the High - est :

Ped.

He shall be great, . . He shall be great, and shall be call - ed the

He shall be great, . . He shall be great, and shall be call - ed the

He shall be great, . . He shall be great, and shall be call - ed the

He shall be great, . . He shall be great, and shall be call - ed the

Son of the High - est :

Son of the High - est :

Son of the High - est : p and the Lord God shall give un-to Him the

Son of the High - est :

Sw. p

senza Ped.
(3)

p cres.
and the Lord God shall give un-to Him the throne of His Fa-ther dim.

throne of His Fa-ther Da-vid:

dim. cres.

mf
Da-vid: And He shall

mf
And He shall

mf
And He shall

p cres.
And He shall reign o-ver the house of Ja-cob for ev-er,

p cres.
Ped.

cres.
reign o-ver the house of Ja-cob for ev-er; and of His

cres.
reign o-ver the house of Ja-cob for ev-er; and of His

cres.
reign o-ver the house of Ja-cob for ev-er; and of His mf cres.

o-ver the house of Ja-cob for ev-er; and of His cres.

f king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no end, and of His king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no end, and of His king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no end, and of His king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no end, and of His

Gr. f

king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be . . . no . . . end. He shall be king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no . . . end. He shall be king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no . . . end. He shall be king - dom, of His king - dom there shall be no end. He shall be great, . . . He shall be great: and the Lord God shall give un-to Him the great, . . . He shall be great: and the Lord God shall give un-to Him the great, . . . He shall be great: and the Lord God shall give un-to Him the great, . . . He shall be great: and the Lord God shall give un-to Him the throne of His Fa - ther, His Fa - ther Da - vid :

throne of His Fa - ther, His Fa - ther Da - vid :

throne of His Fa - ther, His Fa - ther Da - vid :

throne of His Fa - ther, His Fa - ther Da - vid :

and of His kingdom there shall be no end. Hal-le-lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah.

and of His kingdom there shall be no end. Hal-le-lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah.

and of His kingdom there shall be no end. Hal-le-lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah.

and of His kingdom there shall be no end. Hal-le-lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah.

lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah. A - - - men, . . . A - - men.

lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah. A - - - men, . . . A - - men.

lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah. A - - - men, . . . A - - men.

lu-jah, Hal-le-lu-jah. A - - - men, . . . A - - men.

* The large notes are intended to be sung here ; but if found too high, the small ones may be sung in their place.

and Mr. Fear Dyer, local professional musicians. Some of these, together with Palestrina's "O say what," will be included in the programme for the next Ladies' night. I may add that the Madrigal Society, through Mr. D. W. Rootham, has purchased from a musical antiquary at Banbury a complete manuscript set of all the madrigals, fa, la, la's, and canzonets of Thomas Morley, 1597. Among them are several which were not in the books of the Society.

The Orpheus Glee Society has under consideration works to be presented at the next Concert. In all probability compositions by Dr. W. A. Barrett, Sir John Stainer, and Mr. Parratt will be included in the programme. These and others will be sung at the London Concert in the spring.

The members of the Society of Bristol Gleemen are hard at work with pieces to be given at their December Concert. The chief new composition will be one written specially for the Society by Dr. Pearce of Cambridge—a scena in five movements; subject, "Enceladus," words by Longfellow, which the composer may conduct.

Mr. John Barrett's Choir, an excellent body of vocalists, will begin rehearsals on the 5th inst. for the Concert in the spring, when Haydn's "Seasons" will be performed in their entirety for the first time in Bristol.

There appears to be extraordinary vitality in the Society of Instrumentalists, which is the largest body of the kind in the kingdom, numbering, as it does, nearly 200 members. They re-assemble on the 2nd inst., and among the works to be taken in hand will be Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus," Beethoven's "Scotch" Symphony, and others by Mendelssohn, Haydn, Mozart and Rossini. Owing to the great success that attended the last Concert of the Society, it will probably give two Concerts during the present season.

The Bristol Choral Society, a new body, will meet on the 1st inst. There are about 350 singing members and a large number of honorary members. Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" and "Hymn of Praise," Brahms's "Requiem," and Schumann's "Requiem" are to be studied and publicly performed in the spring, in conjunction with the Society of Instrumentalists. Mr. George Riseley is Conductor of both Societies.

At St. Mary Redcliffe Church Williams's "Bethany," Spohr's "Last Judgment," Gaul's "Holy City," Stainer's "Crucifixion," and selections from "St. Paul" and "The Messiah" are to be performed at a series of special services, the dates of which are not yet arranged.

There are numerous smaller choral and instrumental Societies in Bristol that are actively engaged in preparation for forthcoming Concerts. With all this activity, there is a contrast of neglect in the continued apathy shown by musical people in Bristol regarding the Monday Popular Concerts. The matter is frequently referred to in the local press, but no steps have been yet taken to revive the Concerts. That this excellent institution—the only one in the city that regularly gave Orchestral Concerts, and one that did great service in cultivating a taste for the higher forms of art—should be allowed to lapse, is the greatest blot on the art scutcheon of a city standing among the most musical in the provinces, and certainly in possession of musical institutions which are unique in the world. The Madrigal and Orpheus Glee Societies to wit, have gained the highest praise from musicians of universal repute. There is reason to believe that the Monday Popular Concerts will ultimately be restarted and be based on a permanent footing, but while that period is delayed, so long will the cause of art suffer in the somewhat slow-going, yet tenacious, city of the West.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At the public meeting of guarantors and others interested in the Glasgow Choral Union, the prospectus of the forthcoming series of Concerts was submitted and cordially approved of. In last month's MUSICAL TIMES a forecast of the choral works was given, and to this must now be added Mr. F. Corder's new Cantata "The Sword of Argantyr," so soon to be heard at the Leeds Musical Festival. The orchestral programmes will not be ready for some little time yet. During the season there will be thirteen Classical Concerts—four choral, seven orchestral, and two of chamber music. There will also be, as formerly, a series of Popular Concerts, nine in number, and, as means permit, the benefits of the scheme will be extended to the South side and to other districts of the city. The principal vocalists already engaged include Mesdames Ella Russell, Emily Spada, Marian McKenzie, Marie Fillunger, Belle Cole, and Marguerite Macintyre; Messrs. Ludwig, Iver McKay, Andrew Black, Brereton, and Harper Kearton; and the solo instrumentalists comprise Lady Hallé, Dr. Joachim, Messrs. Piatti, Sarasate, Stavenhagen, Fred. Lamond, and Miss Fanny Davies. Mr. Thomas Berry will again officiate as organist, the orchestra, numbering about seventy-five well known performers, will be led by Mr. Maurice Sons, who has already secured the high favour of Glasgow audiences, and the Conductors are Mr. August Manns and Mr. Joseph Bradley. Touching the general character of the scheme, it is undoubtedly strong in the choral department. In point of fact, it is many years since an equally attractive prospectus has been issued by the Council of the Union. Beethoven's Mass in D will be a novelty in Glasgow, and as the work has not hitherto been heard in Scotland amateurs beyond the banks of the Clyde are making note of the event—more particularly as it is understood that Mr. Bradley's chorists are already pretty well up in their exacting parts. Altogether, the Chairman of the meeting, Mr. James Campbell, of Tullichewan, struck a sympathetic chord when he expressed the hope that the revival in trade would also lead to a renewed strong interest in the Choral Union. "It looked," he said, "as if the Council had some good hope of a good season, because they had ventured upon giving two more Concerts than they gave last year." Up to date the Guarantee Fund amounts, it may be mentioned, to £2,365, a sum which has been easily obtained.

The votary of the "Ballad" Concert has no reason to complain of the provision made for his tastes during the coming season. Messrs. Paterson, Sons and Co. have, for example, arranged for a return visit of Madame Adelina Patti, and the firm also announce the appearance of Madame Valleria and party, Mr. Sims Reeves's "Farewell" Concert, &c. The "people" are again to be well cared for at the City Hall on the Saturday evenings, Mr. Airlie having secured Mesdames Nordica, Clara Samuelli, Hope Glenn, Mr. Foli, and other excellent artists, for his thirty-sixth season, which opened auspiciously on the 21st ult. The directors of the Monday Popular Concerts inaugurated their second season on the 30th ult. It will be divided into two portions, so as not to interfere with the Glasgow Choral Union scheme, and the engagements already effected include Mesdames Anna Williams, Georgina Burns, and Belle Cole; Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Iver McKay, Andrew Black, Foli, and Crotty. Messrs. Muir Wood and Co. have engaged Mrs. Mary Davies and party, as also Sir Charles and Lady Hallé, who will give Recitals both in Glasgow and in Paisley. In the last-named busy centre the rehearsals of the local Choral Union have begun, and considerable interest has been shown in the works selected for performance. These have already been referred to in our columns, and include Mr. Hamish MacCunn's "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," a work which has become popular with musical folks in the West of Scotland. Anyhow, it has been taken up by the Greenock Choral Union (which will also produce "Elijah" during the season), and in all probability it will be placed in rehearsal by the Kilmarnock Philharmonic Society.

The works intended for the Prize Competition under the auspices of the Glasgow Society of Musicians include, we understand, a couple of sacred cantatas and an overture on a Scotch theme. More cannot, of course, be said in the meantime on this subject, but it may be mentioned that Dr. A. C. Mackenzie and Dr. W. A. Barrett have kindly consented to act as judges in the competition. This has given the liveliest satisfaction.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ALTHOUGH scarcely a shot has yet been fired, the campaign of 1889-90 may be said to have fairly begun in this locality, and the arms which were laid aside when the genial sunshine of spring burst warm and bright over the heads of a host of choral champions, already begin once more to glint and glisten on every hand. And the "double double beat of the thundering drum," and the tuning up of the less noisy members of the court on the daïs of which sits enthroned the parchment prince, all tell of "engagements" at hand.

Claiming first attention, we have the usual twelve Concerts of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, which is one of the senior musical organisations of the three kingdoms, and which now enters its fifty-first season. Some people enquire why we have no regular Festival in this city, forgetting that at each Philharmonic Concert there is something akin to an average "Festival" array in the way of an orchestra and chorus of nearly three hundred, while the list of principals engaged contains the names of the most noted among the ranks of leading vocalists and instrumentalists. The choral rehearsals began some weeks ago under Mr. H. A. Branscombe, the chief works taken in hand being MacCunn's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," to be conducted by the composer; Barnett's "Ancient Mariner," of which the revival in adequate form will prove interesting; Berlioz's "Faust," first given in Liverpool a few years ago at the Hallé Concerts; Handel's "Israel," which will be an absolute novelty to the younger generation of Liverpudlians; and Mendelssohn's "Elijah," the latter being selected for the close of the season. The chorus of the Society has been recently strengthened, and it may be expected to give a good account of itself, and the orchestra remains as in many previous sessions, the members being all of the Hallé band, and Sir Charles himself retaining the conductorship. The first Concert will be on the 8th inst., with Madame Nordica and Sarasate as stars, and Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite and Rubinstein's "Feramors" Ballet music as novelties, the choristers having Schumann's "Gipsy Life" to sing. The second Concert follows on the 22nd, with the Scotch composer's Cantata named above, and a North Country Quartet consisting of Mesdames Macintyre, McKenzie; Messrs. McKay, and Andrew Black. For the noting of further programmes there will be ample time later on.

Of next importance may be chronicled the scheme of the Birkenhead Subscription Concerts, which are, as usual, four in number, and which will be, also as usual, devoted to chamber and ballad music. Quartets led by Mr. Heckmann and Mr. Willy Hess are engaged, as are also Messrs. Schonberger, Stavenhagen, Johannes Wolff, Phillip Newbury, Bantock Pierpoint, Langdon Broadbent; Mesdames Nordica, Mary Davies, and others.

The experiment of giving a series of Subscription Concerts at Bootle last season proved so successful that a further session has been arranged. At each of these gatherings an orchestra will be conducted by Mr. A. E. Workman. Fuller details are not yet, however, to hand, further than to the effect that popular soloists, vocal and instrumental, will be engaged.

A new departure is proposed by Mr. W. Burnet and Mr. A. E. Bartle, and a circular has been issued inviting subscriptions to a series of twelve popular Orchestral Concerts. The hall of the Liverpool College has been proposed as the field of this campaign. It is built in theatre form, and will accommodate three thousand.

The Liverpool Sunday Society has for its fourth season struck out a fresh path, and an orchestra of professional players, between thirty and forty in number, has been engaged to perform at eight of the gatherings held weekly at the Rotunda Lecture Hall. Mr. W. I. Argent is to conduct.

The St. Cecilia Society, under Mr. J. W. Appleyard, at Birkenhead, has held its annual meeting, and invites an accession of membership. The rehearsals were held only fortnightly last season, and it is proposed during the coming six months to bring the members together more frequently.

The local Opera Society, of which Mr. J. O. Shepherd is the Conductor, has in hand Benedict's "Lily of Killarney." Recently some capital performances were given by the members of this unique organisation at the Shakespeare Theatre, and others may be shortly looked for.

The Gloucester novelty, "Bethany," is to have its first hearing here at the Church of St. Francis Xavier. Mr.

Ross, the Choirmaster, has the matter in hand, and will a month or so hence doubtless do justice to Mr. Lee Williams's happily written cantata. An orchestra will be engaged for the occasion, and the resident choir is equal to all requirements.

The sensation immediately ahead is the visit of Adelina Patti in November. For this the booking is already great, although the lowest charge is five shillings. The Concert will be given on the 9th proximo at the Philharmonic Hall.

While so much has been said in reference to the work of the leading factors in the campaign just commencing, there is a host of other organisations entering the field, these lesser lights being dotted like so many pawns over the musical chessboard. Each of these however fills a place of importance in its own district or centre, the latter being not infrequently allied with a church or chapel. To enumerate all such would exceed the limits of space; but in the present forecast of the season may be named, without derogating from the merits of other organisations, the Oratorios to be given in Advent and Lent under Mr. F. H. Burstall at the Pro-Cathedral; the special musical services under Mr. W. D. Hall, at the Church of the Blind; those at St. George's, Everton; St. Bridget's, Wavertree, and St. Mark's, New Ferry; as well as the regular series of Organ Recitals given at the two St. Margaret's, by Messrs. Branscombe and Faulkes respectively; at St. Agnes', by Mr. Stammers; at Raffle's Chapel, by Mr. Grimshaw; and at Christ Church, Cloughton, by Mr. Driffield. In this direction, however, the first place is necessarily taken by Mr. W. T. Best, whose performances at St. George's Hall are regularly attended by from twelve to fifteen hundred auditors every week.

Of the larger independent societies, the Liverpool and Birkenhead Cambrians, respectively conducted by Mr. D. O. Parry and Mr. Arvon Parry, seem to have the most important work in hand, and probably both will make preparations for the prizes offered to choral competitors at next year's Eisteddfod.

The New Ferry Amateur Musical Society is rejoicing over its silver wedding with its founder and conductor, Mr. W. R. Pemberton, the twenty-fifth anniversary of its first meeting falling on the 30th ult. The West Kirby Choral and Liverpool Musical Association, both conducted by Mr. J. F. Swift, are again in harness, and an attempt is reported as being made to gather together the members of a recently disbanded organisation under the bâton of Mr. Hudson of Southport.

The mention of the latter place is a reminder that the last-named gentleman and Mr. Clarke are both to the front with their respective societies at the watering place by the sealess shore. On the other hand, the musical people of Runcorn and Widnes, two towns noted chiefly for the unsavoury odours of their chemical works, propose to go in for something of a sweeter order, and are collecting their forces under Mr. Morrison and Mr. Humphreys, while other suburbs are looking up work for the winter months.

Instrumental Liverpool is to be again chiefly represented, at least in its amateur phase, by the People's Orchestral Society, a band complete in every department and conducted by a clever amateur, Mr. A. E. Rodewald. The Orpheus Orchestra, under Mr. Forsyth; the Wirral Orchestra, containing a large percentage of ladies, under Mr. Schiever, both have their programmes mapped out; as has also the venerable Societa Armonica, which still keeps courageously together, despite the competition of more youthful institutions, under Mr. C. Cafferata. There are other lesser lights in the non-professional firmament, and the band employed at the Bootle Concerts above-named is to a great extent amateur in its constitution.

The Liverpool Institute of Music, connected with the Young Men's Christian Association, has adopted a far more extended scheme of instruction than hitherto, and announces a regular board of professors, headed by Dr. Fisher.

Operatic music will be as usual to the fore in January, when the Carl Rosa Company will take possession of the Court Theatre for a lengthy period. Otherwise we are pretty well provided for in this direction, and are to have a never-ending procession consisting of "Pepita" and "Paul Jones," "Dorothy" and "Doris," "La Girouette" and the "Old Guard," and all sorts of other personages of the lighter school, passing through our midst.

If the future thus looks big with events, the recent past has been not very noteworthy, and a brief summary will suffice in this respect. The members of the Liverpool Sunday School Union held their twentieth annual festival on the 19th ult., and the juveniles under Mr. Sydney Hardcastle sang very nicely and gave evidence of careful training. The first organ ever erected in a Welsh Calvinistic chapel here was opened on the 23rd ult., by Mr. W. H. Jude. The instrument has been built by Mr. F. Lloyd. The Liverpool Cathedral choir went to Southport on the 11th ult., and rendered the music at the Harvest Thanksgiving Service at Christchurch. On the 24th ult., at a similar celebration, Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion" was given at St. Mark's, New Ferry. The brass parts of the score were added to the organ accompaniment.

A Concert was given at Hope Hall, on the 16th ult., for the benefit of a promising young violinist, Master Kruger, who has recently been suddenly made an orphan.

The Musical Club held its first meeting after the recess on the 21st ult., when the members were invited to listen to a paper by Mr. W. D. Hall and some violin music by Messrs Lawson, father and son.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

DURING the last few months our musical life—so far, at least, as any public evidence of its vitality has been given—has been sustained and invigorated by being transplanted from our Winter Concert-rooms into the charming gardens and cooler saloons of the Botanical Society, where, amid pastoral and horticultural delights and enlivened by brilliant sunshine, it has flowered and borne excellent fruit. The directors of the gardens acted wisely in endeavouring to perpetuate the attractions which, perhaps more than aught else, daily lured thousands to Old Trafford during the Exhibition summer: and the result of their enterprise fully and happily proves the sufficiency of the local resources upon which they almost entirely depended, and encourages the careful and liberal fostering and developing of the ability which our young singers and players have abundantly displayed. There need, henceforth, be no doubt as to the musical capabilities of the district, nor hesitation on the part of those who desire rather to cultivate a home-growth of artistic talent than to prolong our dependence upon foreign assistance.

But now the tokens of our Winter Garden life are budding, and evidences abound of an approaching season of striking fertility. Mr. Schonberger will, on the 8th, give a Recital at the Concert Hall, which will be very soon followed by the resumption of those afternoon gatherings there, at which during several seasons Sir Charles Hallé has delighted and instructed our young pianists, and which now include the chief parts of the programme of the Gentlemen's Concerts. On the very last night of the month Sir Charles will open his own campaign, and so bring into full swing our artistic enjoyment. During the twenty Subscription performances we shall, doubtless, have many orchestral novelties; for never have we any complaint to make either of the manner in which classical works are presented or of reluctance on the part of the veteran Conductor to exhibit the excellence of his band in the most exciting and alluring works of the modern orchestral school. The choral works announced are Handel's "Theodora" for November 7, with "Elijah" and "The Messiah" on this side Christmas; to be followed by "Faust," "The Golden Legend," and "Israel in Egypt." As no other complete interpretations of Oratorios are possible here, perhaps some of the better known works might with advantage be allowed a little repose. But we may expect that the new Chorus Director, Mr. R. H. Wilson, will advocate a more spirited policy, and soon be prepared to launch out boldly.

Mr. de Jong announces twelve Concerts, for one of which, on the 26th inst., he has secured Madame Patti and other popular vocalists. May his courage be duly rewarded and his heavy outlay repaid! For the other Concerts a long list of eminences is engaged, and it is clear that while bringing before his patrons the highest vocal talent he will not suffer his orchestra to deteriorate. During the season a full recital of Gounod's "Faust" is to be performed.

In addition to all this, Mr. T. A. Barrett will provide a series of Saturday evening performances at the enormous St. James's Hall, and promises a host of local talent, intermingled with some of the stars of the London Promenade Concerts, enframed by the best military bands procurable and some choral music.

The various choral Societies are vigorously preparing for their friends' delight. At the Athenæum (Dr. Hiles) Cowen's "Song of Thanksgiving," a Cantata by Weber, and other important works are in rehearsal.

The Vocal Society is as energetic as ever; and, under Dr. H. Watson's direction, will essay Gounod's "Gallia," Mozart's "Davidde Penitente," Bach's "Sing ye to the Lord," &c. The Stretford Society also is wisely placed under the guidance of Dr. Watson, who may be trusted to carry out the good work commenced by the late Mr. Hecht, only with greater sympathy for English music. Nor will Dr. Watson's efforts end there; for there is every hope that his Oratorio "Diana or Christ" (suggested by the picture which excited such great admiration here) will soon be ready for performance with full orchestral accompaniment. And there is all the more prospect of success because the composer has approached his task with considerable experience in dramatic writing and production.

And when to all this we add that Mr. Cross is sure to be quite ready with his Saturday Evening Concerts—Why all on Saturdays?—it becomes evident that during the coming winter Manchester will, at least, be as musical as heretofore.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD,

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PRESENT indications in the local musical world point to an exceptionally busy season, and, as was the case last season, a plethora of Amateur Concerts. The educational influence of amateur vocal and instrumental societies cannot be over-estimated, but when they are so numerous that there is a danger of the performers outnumbering their audiences unsatisfactory results are inevitable.

The subject of a local musical Festival has again been broached, and the scheme is admitted to be practicable. By the amalgamation of a few of the leading societies of the district a first-class chorus and orchestra could be obtained, and a small guarantee fund would ensure the promoters against loss. Sheffield is the centre of a prosperous and populous musical district, and there is no doubt that performances on a Festival scale would be well supported.

The prospectuses of the principal amateur societies promise plenty of work, but there is a deplorable lack of novelties. The oldest and most influential body, the Amateur Musical Society, announces Haydn's "Seasons"; the Choral Union intends giving a concert performance of Wallace's opera "Lurline"; the Amateur Harmonic Society announces Cellier's "Gray's Elegy" (new to Sheffield) and Handel's "Joshua," and other Societies will give "Elijah" and "Messiah."

The Amateur Instrumental Society announces an excellent list of works for performance, amongst them being Dr. Parry's and Mr. F. Cliffe's new Symphonies, Mendelssohn's "Reformation," Cowen's "Scandinavian," and Haydn's No. 14, Symphonies, and Liszt's No. 2 Rhapsodie.

The Tonic Sol-fa Association will produce during the season Mr. H. Coward's new Cantata "Bethany," in addition to which Parry's "Ode to St. Cecilia," Schubert's "Song of Miriam," and Mendelssohn's "As the hart pants," are also promised.

MUSIC IN THE WEST OF ENGLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In all the chief cities and towns of the West of England, and the numerous districts around them, there are signs of musical activity. The holidays being over, Choral and Instrumental Societies are re-assembling and making preparations for forthcoming performances. The musical season has already opened in some places, where Concerts have been given or Festivals held during the past month.

The report for the past year and the prospectus for the coming season of the Cheltenham Festival Society (Choral and Orchestral) is deeply interesting. The retrospective survey shows that remarkable progress has been made by the Society, while the future appears to be bright and hopeful. On the 10th ult. the members of the Society re-assembled for practice, which will be continued weekly under the direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews, and the following works are to be studied: Mackenzie's "Jubal"; Sullivan's "The Golden Legend"; the new work, "Elysium," written by Miss Ellicott; "The Last Night at Bethany," by C. Lee Williams; Mozart's Litany in B flat, Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," Sullivan's "Di Ballo" Overture, an Orchestral Suite by Sir Herbert Oakeley, and a Gavotte in canon for strings, entitled "Cheltonia," composed expressly for the Society by H. F. Taylor. The first Subscription Concert is fixed for November 12.

Gloucester has scarcely got over her great musical Festival, and, therefore, some little time must be extended to her to recover from the exacting labours entailed by it. The winter series of Recitals in Gloucester Cathedral will begin in November and end in March. "Bethany" is to be performed in the Cathedral in March, and "Elysium" will be given by the Choral Society at one of its Concerts.

Bath has had no lack of music during the month. Promenade Concerts have been given by the Royal Italian band at the Sydney Gardens and at the Assembly Rooms, where, in addition to songs, a choir of ladies sang vocal vales. The Pump Room Concerts, which are a little more classical in character, have been continued. The Philharmonic Society, of which Sir Arthur Sullivan is president, and the Bath Choral Union may be expected to give their usual Concerts.

The members of the North Wilts Musical Society have re-assembled for practice. They have in hand Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

The Weston-super-Mare Philharmonic Society, which numbers upwards of one hundred members, has met with such unprecedented success during the past season that it is contemplated to enlarge the scope of future Concerts. At the last public performance the committee were able to supplement the strings with some of the principal wind instruments, and should the present encouraging prospects warrant it, the band, with which the choir is to be supported at forthcoming Concerts, will be further augmented. The Society is shortly to meet to prepare for the season's work. The Orchestral Society also hopes to give its usual Concerts. The Annual Benefit Concert of the Weston-super-Mare Town band took place at the Victoria Hall, on the 16th ult., when, in addition to the pieces played by the band, vocal contributions were given by Miss M. Girdlestone, Mrs. H. C. Drinkwater, Miss Madge Kellie, Mr. C. Baylie, and Mr. J. W. Aldridge. Instrumental solos were played by Miss Davidson (of Bath), violin; Mr. D. Needham, flute; the Rev. H. P. Denison, pianoforte; and Messrs. Ringsdorf and Flatch, cornets. Mr. C. T. Grinfield was the accompanist. On the 19th Madame Marie Roze and company of artists gave a Concert consisting of ballads and operatic selections.

Clevedon has been favoured with a very good season of Promenade Concerts by a small but fairly efficient band, which gave a special Concert on the 11th ult., at the Hawthorns (the grounds of which were illuminated with coloured lanterns and fairy lamps). The Choral Society has ceased to exist. It got a little into debt, and the members were frightened. Attempts should be made to revive the Society.

At Bridgwater, on the 9th ult., Mr. J. Norris, a native of the town, and a scholarship pupil at the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind, Upper Norwood, gave an Organ Recital in Fore Street Congregational Church. On the 11th ult. he gave two Pianoforte Recitals in the Council Chamber to appreciative audiences. Mr. Lavington's festival choir practices commenced on the 19th ult., at the Assembly Rooms; and the Orchestral Society re-assembled at the same place on the following evening. Bridgwater Amateur Choral Society held its first meeting on the 23rd ult. The Association is the outcome of singing classes which met for practice last winter and gave an Invitation Concert in the spring. About forty members have already been enrolled. Mendelssohn's "As pants the hart" is to be studied.

The Taunton Philharmonic Society, which has done good service hitherto, seems to have fallen away somewhat, but it is hoped it will continue its work and gain extended support. The Taunton Madrigal Society has recently been revived. Last season it performed some vocal pieces at a Concert given by the Taunton Orchestral Society, but there is an idea of organising an independent Concert this season.

The Sarum Choral Society, Salisbury, of which the Cathedral Organist is the Conductor, has decided to give a miscellaneous Concert before Christmas, for which preparations are being made. A Concert, consisting of English ballads and selections from favourite operas, was given at the Assembly Rooms, Salisbury, on the 14th ult. The vocalists were Madame Marie Roze, Miss Carlotta Desvignes, Mr. Durward Lely, and Mr. Andrew Black. Mr. Achille Simonetti was the violinist and Mr. Bisaccia the pianist. On the 1st ult. Dr. C. W. Pearce, of St. Clement's, Eastcheap, London, gave an Organ Recital at St. Mary's Church, in aid of the Choir Fund of the parish. The accomplished player is well known in Salisbury, having been a chorister of St. Martin's from 1868 to 1870 and Organist of the church from 1871 to 1873. A new organ of two manuals was opened in Alderbury Church on the 11th ult., on which occasion a Choral Service was held, and Mr. Carpenter afterwards gave an Organ Recital.

St. Mary's Church Choral Society, Torquay, a flourishing body numbering about 120 members, commences its next session at the Town Hall, on the 7th inst. Sterndale Bennett's "May Queen" is to be put into rehearsal.

Plymouth has already been liberally served with instrumental and vocal music. Promenade Concerts have been given by the bands of the Sherwood Foresters, Royal Marines, and H.M.S. Adelaide; and the Saturday Concerts and Thursday afternoon Organ Recitals have been carried on at the Guildhall by Mr. John Hele. The features of these entertainments are their high-class character, and the exceedingly nominal charges for admission—features that should be copied in some other places in the West, where good music is often too expensive, and consequently beyond the reach of the poorer classes. The Plymouth Choral and Orchestral Societies have resumed practice, the work put in rehearsal for the Albani Concert in November being Dr. Bridge's "Callirhoë." The first Subscription Concert of the Plymouth Vocal Association is announced to take place on the 23rd inst.

The 9th inst. is fixed as the date of the musical Festival at Plymouth in aid of the Choir Benevolent Fund. A grand Choral Service is to be held in St. Andrew's Church in the afternoon, and a Concert in the evening. The choir will on the occasion include some of the leading singers from St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, and the Chapels Royal.

Choral Societies in Tavistock and Redruth have also begun work.

The Rev. S. Baring-Gould, M.A., has been delivering a series of Concert-Lectures in the chief cities and towns of Devon and Cornwall on the Songs and Ballads of those two counties, which for about two years he has been engaged in collecting. The Lectures were illustrated.

On the 6th ult. a Concert of classical chamber music was given in the Town Hall, Launceston. The executants were Mr. J. W. Wingate and Mr. M. Rice (violins), Mr. J. Pardew (viola), and Mr. J. Pomeroy (violinello), who played works by Beethoven, Rheinberger, Schumann, and Haydn; Mr. Pomeroy adding a solo. Miss A. McFarlane sang songs by Gounod, Macfarren, and Goring Thomas.

The annual summer Festival of the Northern choirs of the Deanery of Carnmarth, held at Gwennap Church, Cornwall, was very successful. The musical part of the service, including the anthem "The Lord is loving unto every man" (Garrett), was well rendered, and the Conductor of the united choirs and the various trainers are to be congratulated on the success achieved.

THE season of the Finsbury Choral Association will commence on November 28, with the Anthem "The Lord is King," under the direction of the composer, Mr. Barnby, and Sullivan's "Golden Legend." At the second Concert, on February 20, "Israel in Egypt" is to be the work presented. On April 17 Mackenzie's Cantata "The Bride," conducted by the composer, with Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night," will be given, and at the final Concert, on April 4, "The Messiah" is to be performed. The Finsbury Choral Association is now incorporated with the Metropolitan College of Music, College House, Holloway.

SERVICES to commemorate the ingathering of the harvest were held on Sunday, the 15th ult., at the church of St. James-the-Less, Victoria Park. The special feature of the service was an Organ Recital by Mr. Walter W. Robinson, when he played pieces by Handel, Walter Spinney, Mendelssohn, G. Braga, A. H. Brown, and J. Baptiste Calkin. On the following Monday evening another service was held. The Anthem was "O give thanks," by Farebrother. An Organ Recital was given by Miss Mead, pupil of Mr. Robinson.

THE fourth series of Chamber Concerts given by Messrs. Hann, father and sons, will commence on November 6, at the Brixton Hall. The others will follow on November 27 and December 18. The works to be performed during the season include Schubert's Quintet; Quartets by Haydn, Mendelssohn, and Mozart; Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor; and Quintets by Brahms and Cobb. The excellence of the former Concerts is a guarantee of the attractive character of the forthcoming series.

THE Wandsworth Philharmonic Society, under the conductorship of Mr. H. W. Weston, commenced its second season on Thursday, the 19th ult. The first Concert will be given early in November—Mozart's Mass, No. 12, and selections from Handel's "Samson" being performed. Mr. W. F. Taylor has been appointed Organist and accompanist to the Society, which is now permanently established on a good basis.

THE St. John's Choral Society, Lewisham, has just issued its prospectus for the fifth season, 1889-90. Three Concerts will be given, at which works selected from the following will be performed:—"St. Paul," Mendelssohn; "Golden Legend," Sullivan; "Eli," Costa; "Hymn of Praise," Mendelssohn; "Lauda Sion," Mendelssohn; "May Queen," Bennett; "The Seasons," Haydn. Mr. J. Kipps is the accompanist, and Mr. F. A. Bridge the Conductor.

THE inaugural meeting of the South London Choral Association and Institute Orchestral Band, Camberwell New Road, was fixed for the 30th ult. The Society purposes to give "Elijah," "The Golden Legend," "Messiah," "Stabat Mater," "Joan of Arc," Schubert's Symphony in B minor, and the music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the course of the season. The Conductor is Mr. L. C. Venables, and the leader is Mr. T. E. Gatehouse.

THE Ouseley memorial scheme is being taken up very warmly by musicians and churchmen, more than £2,000 having already been subscribed. Many of the clergy had a special offertory on St. Michael's Day, which this year fell on Sunday. An Organ Recital was given by Mr. G. R. Sinclair, at Truro Cathedral, for the same object.

MISS KATHERINE SEATON gave a Musical and Dramatic Recital on the 7th ult., at the Marlborough Rooms, Regent Street, when she was assisted by the following performers: Madame Liebe Baylis, Miss Ida Agabeg, Miss Burman, Miss Baylis, Mr. W. B. Boddington (solo flute), and Mr. Newton Baylis.

THE Council of the Royal Irish Academy of Music have appointed Mr. Theodore Werner to the Senior Professorship of the Violin.

REVIEWS.

Schumann's Pianoforte Works. Vol. I. Edited by Agnes Zimmermann. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MISS AGNES ZIMMERMANN, in her edition of Beethoven's and Mozart's Sonatas published some time back, challenged criticism by the bold step she took in altering certain of the passages which were evidently incomplete according to the succession indicated elsewhere in themselves. Beethoven, like Mozart, doubtless intended to carry out the ideas to a proper sequence, but the limited compass of the pianofortes of the time restricted the intentions of both. The excellence of the thought which prompted Miss Zimmermann to extend the expressions to a logical end was duly recognised by all who had the power of judging of its value, and her editions now stand as of the highest value as classics. With Schumann there was less work to do in continuing proposed passages, but there was still something to be done to bring his pianoforte works into the wider field of cosmopolitan musical literature. With most of the thoughtful young Germans of his time, in literature, art, and science, as well as in music, the desire to be national prompted him to the performance of many things which were of a character more or less obstructive, and certainly stood in the way of their being accepted outside the circle of their origin. If the labours of these enthusiasts were of such a nature that they earned recognition despite the eccentricity of their surroundings, then those eccentricities, not being essentials, might be removed without injury to, but rather to the advantage of, the works they encumbered. The chief of these in Schumann was the employment of directions for performance in the German tongue as against Italian hitherto used with better effect. However, he did not succeed in gaining a wide following, and the favour with which his music is now welcomed renders it necessary in a new edition to substitute desirable for undesirable elements. "The task of translating the German terms and directions," says Miss Zimmermann, "was one of great difficulty, the literal equivalent of a word being, in many cases, quite inadequate to convey the feeling and spirit of the original. The translation now offered aims throughout at an intelligent rendering of the meaning, rather than at the exact reproduction of the text. In every instance where the words are Schumann's own (as in the case of the Preface to Op. 3, the titles of the various pieces, the indications of tempo, &c.) the original is retained with the translation; when, however, the information is gained from another source (as in the case of the Appendix to Op. 5, the Preface to Op. 6, &c.) it has been deemed sufficient to give it in English alone." Besides giving careful attention to the directions for performance, Miss Zimmermann has carefully revised the old and added new fingering. "The only pieces which Schumann seems himself to have fingered in detail are Op. 3 and 7, and these are, of course, left exactly as they appeared in his original edition. In the other works he has occasionally given a little fingering, which however calls for no special attention, except in some few instances, when the unusual difficulty of the method indicated by him makes it desirable to give the option of an easier one." Further, in reference to the question of fingering, Miss Zimmermann offers the following remarks, which will be read with interest: "A source of great inconvenience to students and players is the want of uniformity in the signs used to express fingering. In England the thumb is represented by +, whereas on the Continent and in America it is marked 1; thus the figures 1, 2, 3, 4 have a different meaning in an English edition from that which they have in a foreign one, a discrepancy which cannot but cause embarrassment, especially in reading new music. The advantage of having only one set of figures in general use is obvious, and as it cannot be expected that the mode recognised by a majority of countries will be altered to agree with that which is used in England alone, it seems inevitable that what is called 'foreign fingering' should ultimately prevail."* The use of the + for the thumb only dates from the beginning of the present century in England, when it was taught by Dussek. The sequence of figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 was always in use in this country before, so that the change is not so much an innovation as a restoration. For these reasons this edition stands foremost. In this, the first volume, the whole of the pianoforte pieces up to and including Op. 12 are brought together in a splendid folio volume of some 267 pages, handsome and distinctly legible in appearance, and having, besides the explanatory preface from which quotation has already been made, a concise biography of the composer. In the care of the editing, the dignity of the printing, and the general appearance, the edition is the best which has yet appeared, and it stands as one of the most valuable and worthy monuments now existing to perpetuate the memory of the composer.

* These remarks appeared in the preface to the edition of "Schumann's Album for the Young," published in 1883.

Lost Dimplechin and Shakespeare's Merrie Meeting. Two Juvenile Cantatas. Written and Arranged by R. Ganthony, with music by Thomas Murby.

[Thomas Murby.]

THE art of providing healthful and pleasing educational exercises in music, whether vocal or instrumental, is more thoroughly studied in the present day than it was some twenty years back. The experience gained by the tentative efforts of times past is exhibited in every earnest effort in the direction of the education of children. In the two Cantatas for juvenile voices by Mr. Thomas Murby—namely, “Lost Dimplechin” and “Shakespeare's Merrie Meeting”—now under notice, the plan of each is carefully calculated to leave good impressions upon the minds of the little actors. The first contains parts for a chorus and some ten characters, and there are sixteen charming little pieces, such as children can easily pick up and sing with heartiness, with a “real” overture to begin with. In the second, the words of the songs are drawn chiefly from the immortal bard's own writings, and the action includes nearly all the Pyramus and Thisbe scene from “A Midsummer Night's Dream.” The characters in the Cantata are Shakespeare himself, Hamlet, Ophelia, Katharine, Petruchio, Macbeth, Lady Macbeth, King Henry V., Katherine of France, Pyramus, Thisbe, Wall, Moonshine, Lion, the Witches, &c. The music consists of an Overture, three Choruses, “Hail, Shakespeare, hail,” “Invocation to Shakespeare,” and “See, where sadly”; a song with chorus, “Tell me where is fancy bred”; a Chorus for Witches, “Mingle, mingle”; two more Choruses, “Come high, come low,” and “Hark, hark, the watch-dog's bark”; a graceful Minuet, and two more Choruses, “Over hill, over dale,” and “Our revels now are ended.” It is obvious, therefore, that some knowledge of the works of our national poet must be obtained by the young “eyasses” who take part in the Cantata. Both works are excellent in their way, and the pretty music with which they are provided is just the sort of thing to attract and to procure much delight.

Ezekiel. A Dramatic Oratorio. Composed by R. Machill Garth. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE compiler of the libretto of this dramatic Oratorio, the Rev. C. R. Linton, has divided the work into three parts. The first contains three sections, called severally “The Vision,” “The Commission,” and the “Roll of Woe”; the second has also three, entitled “The Prophecy of Captivity,” “The Sign of Desolation,” and “The Remnant and the Restoration”; the third has two only, “The Resurrection” and “The Kingdom of Christ.” Considering that the subject does not necessarily fall into dramatic phases, the ingenuity of this arrangement will commend itself to the minds of those who might be at a loss to understand how the subject could be made to justify the title given to it. The whole of the words have been selected from the Old Testament, with one exception at the conclusion, where a short passage from St. John has been added. The composer has written no overture, and has set out his work for solos, duets, trios, quartets, and choruses of the simplest style of writing. He has occasionally employed passages of imitation in his choruses, and has sufficiently indicated his knowledge of the devices of fugue and counterpoint here and there in the course of the work. There are numbers of solos for all voices, some of which disclose melodic desire, if not complete realisation. These will give work to a number of performers when the oratorio is done in the church or the concert-room. There are forty-two numbers in the Oratorio, the Finale having some eight-part writing, so that, performed in its entirety, it would occupy some time. It is quite possible that it would please if given in instalments—that is to say, if its “dramatic” character would not be likely to suffer by such a treatment.

Sonata, No. 2. E dur. Für pianoforte und Violine. Von Algernon Ashton (Op. 38). [Berlin: N. Simrock.]

It is said that none but the most enthusiastic musicians in the present day devote their talents to such complicated and learned labours as are necessary to the production of Sonatas and the higher forms of musical art. The vast number of songs and lighter pieces which are daily poured from the press often only disclose the temerity of the writers and the crudity of their thoughts. There are, of course, many well-designed and musicianlike productions in the form of songs and so forth intended for public acceptance, but good honest and well thought out works, set down with knowledge, are not so frequent as they ought to be considering the boasted state of music in this country. The answer is that they are not produced because they are not profitable. The artist who works for the advancement of his art, therefore, not only demands, but should command, attention for his labours. In this spirit hearty commendation should be offered to Mr. Ashton for his admirably written Sonata in E major, the outcome of evident enthusiasm for art. It is an effort of high aim, and admirably planned, even though in the first movement the composer has thought proper to modify the forms employed by the older writers. Still, in its way, that movement is shapely, and while like all the movements it demands considerable skill on the part of both executants, the effect that can be produced is to a large extent a reward for study. The first movement is in the nominal key E major; the Larghetto, a beautiful movement in modern style, is in D flat major. The Finale returns to the original key, and although the whole is well written, this last portion is more spontaneous in character, and contains work which will please both players and hearers. Soloists desiring to add to their list of effective concert-pieces will do well to make an early acquaintance with Mr. Ashton's Sonata.

Compositions by Anatole Liadoff. (Pianoforte Albums, Nos. 41, 42, 43.) [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE composer of these pieces—a contemporary Russian musician—exhibits a distinct preference for that mode of national expression of which the initial examples were seen in the works of Chopin. He finds in the rhythms, common perhaps among the Russian people, that power and variety which is altogether lacking in the well-used forms of more Southern European people. There is, in the several pieces in the three books, a sort of Asiatic character implied in the changes of key and unexpected modulations, especially in those called “Biroulki,” of which there are fourteen. The arbitrary demands of the accepted notation compel the composer to express his melodies in a manner which doubtless more or less imperfectly represents his ideas and actual intentions. It is quite possible that if these airs were performed upon instruments which permit of occasional lesser divisions of the octave than those which can only be found in tones and semitones, the true national effect would be obtained. Regarding them, however, as they stand, the hearer cannot fail to be impressed by their vigorous originality. The musicianship of the composer is patent in all. In the Preludes, the Mazurkas, the Intermezzi, the Valses, the Arabesques, and other pieces of familiar form may be found many beautiful ideas cleverly expressed. In addition to their melodic charms, the singularity of the rhythm of many of the pieces makes them most valuable as studies, and as such they will be found of the greatest utility. That the composer can also work ably with other than local forms and characteristic qualities, is shown by an ably written fugue, wherein the theme is treated in a fashion which betokens careful training and considerable tact in dealing with classical models. Musicians will not only be glad to make acquaintance with these specimens of Anatole Liadoff's genius, but will look with interest for others which may follow.

Miniature Suite for Small Hands. By John Kinross. Op. 18. [Curwen and Sons.]

THE Composer of this admirable Suite has taken as a pattern the form of the suite common during the first half of the eighteenth century. The several movements consist of an Allemande, a Gavotte with a Musette, two Bourrées, a Sarabande, a Minuet, and a Gigue. Further than the adoption of the titles there is no other indebtedness. The melodies are original and gracefully written, and the harmonies, nearly all in two parts, are most cleverly set out. The simplicity of the several movements is only equalled by their attractive character. They would make excellent teaching pieces, as much for the interest they would excite in the young player as for the inducement they offer to the study of other works of like nature.

The Congregational Psalmist. Second Section: Chants, Sanctuses, &c. Edited by Henry Allon, D.D.

[Hodder and Stoughton.]

THIS is a collection of old and new chants, sanctuses, &c., by the best composers, ancient and modern, adapted for use in Congregational Churches. The names of many composers of the Anglican Church will be found among those who have contributed to the pages, so that a fairly representative selection is made. Some of the Suffrages with Tallis's harmonies show that the modern practice of giving importance to the treble part and so losing sight of the true "people's part" which appears in the tenor, has received the sanction, if not the approval, of the compiler. A new arrangement of the grand chant of Pelham Humfrey, in which the old melody is placed in the tenor part, implies a certain disregard for the traditional use of that chant. The admission of a number of pieces written for the service of the Church of England into the book is a testimony of their value as aids to religious worship apart from sectarianism.

A Noted Directory of Plain Song. By the Rev. J. Wilberforce Doran and Spenser Nottingham.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE Editors say in their preface that "The Choir Directory" and "Little Directory of Plain Song" have both passed through several editions, and have been "for a considerable number of years in uninterrupted use in many churches. The present work is issued in response to representations from various quarters that a noted Psalter, that should follow the pointing of the works above referred to, would usefully occupy ground where there is an unwillingness to look from a merely pointed page to a separate table of tones for the chant required." Those who favour the use of Plain Song in the Church Service will find this book, compiled by two experts long associated in literary partnership, a valuable guide. There are directions for use in the preface, explanations of the pointing, and so forth, and in the body of the work harmonised arrangements of the Chants, "side by side with a Special Symphony on the Mode to which the Tone belongs," which may serve as Preludes and Postludes to the Chant. All of which qualities tend to make the work serviceable for the purpose for which it has been compiled.

Te Deum laudamus. Festival Setting. By Montague Smith. [Glasgow: Paterson, Sons and Co.]

THE composer of this setting of the Ambrosian hymn is Organist at St. Silas's and the University at Glasgow, and is therefore a musician whose utterances command respect. It cannot be said, however, that he has displayed a large amount of ambition in the present instance, his festival Te Deum being anything but elaborate in structure, though it is longer than the majority of versions intended for ordinary church use. This is simply owing to repetitions of sentences, and it is against the general acceptance of the work that the composer is careless in matters where the sense or the doctrinal significance of the words demands attention. Even in such a simple matter as the accentuation of the word "Sabaoth" he falls into error. The best portion of the work is the peroration, which is effectively worked up and tends to prove that Mr. Montague Smith has ability, which only needs study and experience for its successful manifestation.

Acht Clavierstücke. Von Frederic Lamond (Op. 1).

[Hamburg: Aug. Cranz.]

It is not often that the first published works of a young musician exhibit so much promise as these eight pieces for the pianoforte. They are, it is true, somewhat Chopinesque in general character, but there is sufficient individuality to show that although the great Polish master has influenced the thoughts of the young composer, he is not so wholly taken captive as to be deluded into the repetition of the peculiarities of his model under the impression that he is uttering his own thoughts. The pieces, though commendable, are by no means perfect, but they show good training and knowledge of the keyboard and technical effects. For these reasons they may be found useful as teaching pieces. For the underlying knowledge which may be traced in them they deserve encouragement.

Concert-Overture for the Organ. By Alfred Hollins.

[Weekes and Co.]

AS organ music this work cannot be regarded with unmixed favour, though its abstract merit is by no means inconsiderable. The ideas are good, and if they are subjected to too much repetition there is nothing in the structure of the Overture to which a stick'er for form could take exception. But, as a rule, the composer writes too thickly for his instrument, and the general feeling is not so much organ-like as orchestral. The pedal has merely to supply the fundamental notes, and is never treated as an independent portion of the instrument. These defects allowed for, there is much in the Overture to demand commendation, and Mr. Hollins may certainly be encouraged to persevere in this branch of his art.

Concert-Ouverture in E moll, und Concert-Ouverture zu König Lear, für grosses Orchester componirt. Von Madame Marie Moody. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE name of the composer of these two Overtures would appear to be English, and if so it is rather remarkable that she should have given titles for works in the German tongue. This is not a matter of much importance, nor does it affect the merits of the music. In the construction of each Overture the composer has shown a distinct partiality for classical forms, and her ideas are well presented and gracefully coloured by orchestral device. The utilisation of well-marked themes rather than the introduction of superabundant ideas has been the principle upon which Madame Moody has worked, and for this she deserves all praise. Fancy and poetical ideas have been happily employed, and although here and there a trace of conventionality may be discovered there is enough ability disclosed in the works, especially in the E minor Overture, to command attention to future productions of the same mind and hand.

Take, O take those lips away. Music by Sidonia.

[Melbourne: Allen and Co.]

SHAKESPEARE's words have inspired the composer to produce a very sympathetic setting. The melody, simple and flowing, easily helps the vocalist to make all possible effect in singing. It is well suited for a tenor voice and is capable of much expression. The accompaniment is appropriate and the whole song is a gratifying testimony of the possession of musical feeling existing among the composers of the other side of the world.

The Morning and Evening Service in B flat. By King Hall. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE aim of the composer of this Service appears to have been to provide a setting well within the means of parish church choirs. No solo voices are absolutely necessary and the general style is broad and diatonic. At the same time, the treble part has a larger proportion of melodic interest than is usual in services written in what may be called the solid style of English Church Music. There are several fine points in the score, but the mention of two or three must suffice. Perhaps the most striking is the descent of a diminished seventh at the words "sharpness of death," but the most original episode in the entire service is the series of chromatic harmonies in the accompaniment to the last verse of the Benedictus. In the matters of accent and the division of the sentences Mr. King Hall is generally very correct, and it is a pity that for the sake of an effective musical sequence he places a stress on the preposition "of" in the verses commencing "The glorious company," &c. This, however, is the only questionable detail in a musician-like, church-like, and very pleasing service.

FOREIGN NOTES.

JOHANNES BRAHMS's new patriotic choral work "Deutsche Fest und Gedenk-Sprüche" (Op. 109) met with a splendid first performance at the Hamburg Musical Festival last month, under Dr. von Bülow's direction, and was, of course, enthusiastically received. The work, which is as yet unpublished, is written for double eight-part chorus à capella. The composer, who has lately had the freedom of the city of Hamburg conferred upon him, was present at the performance.

An official contradiction has been given to the report that Frau Cosima Wagner had received a tantième of 52,000 francs out of the receipts of this year's Bayreuth Festspiele. Neither Wagner himself nor his family have, it is added, ever derived any pecuniary benefit from these representations, while some of the leading artists engaged therein have likewise given their services gratuitously.

The Bayreuth orchestra this year included seven performers on the viola alta, the enlarged tenor of the pattern perfected by Professor Ritter, of Würzburg, and highly approved of by Wagner himself during his lifetime.

A series of model performances of Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" (similar to those instituted some two years since of "Don Giovanni") under direction of Dr. Hans Richter, is to be given in July next, at Salzburg, the native town of the immortal master.

A new Oratorio entitled "Simon Petrus," by Herr Meinardus, well-known in Germany as a composer of choral works, is to be performed for the first time this month by the Schnöpfsche Gesangsverein, of Berlin.

We extract the following from the Athenæum: "Amongst the treasures recently acquired by the Committee of the Beethoven-Haus, at Bonn, according to the Frankfurter Journal, is a splendid and unique copy of the master's 'Der Glosseiche Augenblick.' This Cantata, hitherto little known in musical circles, was composed at the period of the Vienna Congress, and dedicated by Beethoven to the monarchs of Prussia, Austria, and Russia, as 'den erhabenen Monarchen der heiligen Alliance, den huldreichen Schützern und Beförderern der Künste und Wissenschaften.' Three magnificent copies of the Cantata were prepared for the three sovereigns. The copy now in the possession of the Beethoven-Haus is the one which was presented to King Friedrich Wilhelm of Prussia."

The draft (autograph) of a highly interesting, and hitherto unknown, letter by Richard Wagner has just been acquired by the indefatigable Herr Oesterlein, the founder of the "Wagner Museum" at Vienna. The letter, written in 1833, is addressed to Herr Hauser, a baritone singer at the Leipzig Stadt-Theater, and sufficiently influential to have caused the non-acceptance at that establishment of Wagner's early opera "Die Feen," greatly to the disappointment of its composer, then only twenty years of age. Some interesting biographical details, together with an elaborate plea for his work, form the chief contents of the letter in question, which is published in the Neue Berliner Musik Zeitung of the 19th ult.

Carl Goldmark, the well-known composer, has just completed two new Concert-Overtures, entitled respectively "Prometheus" and "Im Frühling," which will be shortly performed, for the first time, at the Dresden Symphony Concerts.

The Berlin Friedrich Wilhelmstadt Theater re-opened its doors for the winter season on the 7th ult., with a new operetta by Hermann Zumpe, entitled "Karin," which was well received.

The recent revival at the Kroll'sche Theater, Berlin, of Rossini's "Otello" was not a success, the work being considered out of date, and only to be rendered attractive by an exceptionally fine interpretation, which, however, was not accorded to it on the occasion in question.

It is announced in German papers that Dr. Franz Kullak, of Berlin, is about to close his Neue Akademie der Tonkunst, one of the leading institutions of its kind in the capital, and founded by the late Dr. Theodor Kullak, his father.

The first novelty of the coming season at the Vienna Hofoper is to be an Italian opera, "Il Vassallo di Sziget," by Smareglia. This is to be followed by Berlioz's "Beatrice et Benedict" and Liszt's "Legend of St. Elizabeth."

Weber's "Oberon" was performed, for the first time in the Bohemian language, on the 6th ult., at the National Theatre of Prague. The noble work, having been most carefully mounted, met with an enthusiastic reception.

Antonin Dvorák is said to have nearly completed the score of his new grand opera, entitled "Dimitri," which will most likely be first produced at the National Theatre of Prague.

The pianoforte works of M. Becker, at St. Petersburg, the largest establishment of its kind in Russia, have been completely destroyed by fire.

Herr van Dyck, the Parsifal of the Bayreuth Festspiele, is studying the part of Loge for the forthcoming performance of "Rheingold" at the Imperial Opera of Vienna.

Mr. Goring Thomas's opera "Nadeshda" is to be produced at the Stadt-Theater of Breslau during the present season.

It is rumoured that M. Carvalho, the well-known impresario, will, with the aid of some Parisian capitalists, shortly inaugurate a new operatic undertaking in the French capital.

On August 31 Mr. W. H. Thorley, Organist of St. Philip's Church, Blackburn, gave a Recital in the Trocadero, Paris, on the fine organ built by Cavaillé Coll. The following was the programme:—Fourth Sonata in B flat (Mendelssohn), Rhapsody on Breton Melodies (Camille Saint-Saëns), Marche Funèbre et Chant Seraphique (Guilmant), Prelude and Fugue in D (J. S. Bach), Evening Hymn (H. Smart), Two Sketches, written for the pedal pianoforte (Schumann), and March (Silas). Le Ménestrel praises the performance.

M. Emanuel Chabrier, the French composer, has nearly completed his new opera "Briséis," which is to be first brought out at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, of Brussels.

A new opera, "Flavia," by M. Souvinet, has been very successfully brought out at the Theatre Donna Maria, of Lisbon.

A parody upon Verdi's "Otello," entitled "The Moor of Alcantara," is being successfully performed at Lisbon, the musical author being one Signor Stichini.

A new musical journal, Santa Cecilia, has been established at Bologna, including, amongst other attractive features, the publication, from time to time, of compositions from the pens of its subscribers.

A new opera, "King Lear," by the Maestro Antonio Cagnoni, the successful composer of several operatic works, is to be brought out during the Carnival season at Genoa.

Verdi is again credited with being engaged upon a new opera, entitled "Beatrice," the libretto by Signor Visconti.

Baron Alberto Franchetti, the well-known amateur composer and millionaire, will, according to Italian papers, undertake the directorship of the Costanzi Theatre, of Rome.

In commemoration of the forthcoming fiftieth anniversary of Verdi's début as an operatic composer, a musical institution bearing the veteran Maestro's name is to be founded at Genoa and a commemorative gold medal is to be struck. Special musical performances will also take place in various towns of Italy.

Signor Manzotti, the composer of the popular ballet "Excelsior," has completed the music of a similar work, entitled "The Four Seasons," which, like most other productions from this composer's pen, will be first produced at La Scala, Milan.

A young vocalist, bearing the distinguished name of Christine Nielson, has recently given some very successful Concerts at Copenhagen.

The Royal Opera at Copenhagen recommenced its performances, on the 1st ult., with Bizet's "Carmen," M. Svendsen, the well-known Norwegian composer, conducting the orchestra.

Herr Angelo Neumann will, it is stated in German papers, give a series of performances of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" in Spain and Portugal during the winter.

Anton Rubinstein, whose first appearance in public as pianist fifty years ago is to be celebrated next month at St. Petersburg, will, it is stated, himself once more preside at the pianoforte on this occasion. After that, the famous artist intends taking his final leave from the public, in his capacity of a virtuoso, at a grand Concert to be given at Moscow, the town whence he first started upon his brilliant artistic career. The jubilee celebrations at St. Petersburg will include the first performance, at the Imperial Opera, of Rubinstein's latest operatic work, entitled "Gorusha."

Professor Spitta, of Berlin, the author of the standard biography of Bach, is just now engaged upon a similar work, dealing with the life of Heinrich Marschner.

The death is announced, on the 1st ult., of Dr. Emil Kraus, the excellent baritone of the Hamburg Opera, and well known also in this country, aged forty-nine.

Dr. Hermann Langer, for many years musical director at the University of Leipzig, and a much esteemed composer of male quartets, died on the 8th ult., at Dresden, aged seventy.

Charles Emile Wagner, an able pianist, and a pupil of Liszt, died recently at the Hague. The deceased artist, who is said to have borne a striking resemblance to his namesake, the Bayreuth master, was more especially distinguished as a Schubert interpreter; he has also published several compositions for his instrument.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MUSICAL TERMS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I read with great pleasure your admirable remarks upon the subject of musical terms, and how they should be expressed. I most thoroughly agree with you that "the universal retention of Italian words should be insisted on," but, if such a consummation cannot be attained, then let us at least stick to our old Italian words, or—what would perhaps be better still—use plain English. As you say, the Germans (and French also) are showing their independence by using their own language, and giving up the usual Italian. Then why cannot we show our independence also, and go our way. Instead of this—being true Britons who never will be slaves—we calmly accept the German and French phrases also and add them to those we already use; thereby doing our best to form a cosmopolitan instead of a universal vocabulary. That such is the case, I may mention that at a recent examination in which a question was asked on musical terms, not one of the words given was Italian—all German. This is a state of things that most decidedly ought to be stopped, as I am sure that our Italian list of terms contains all that are really requisite.

Believe me, Sir, faithfully yours,
H. C. G.

Cambrian Villa, Brockley Road, S.E.,
September 5, 1889.

PIANOFORTE FINGERING: A PLEA FOR GREATER UNIFORMITY.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In regard to the fingering of scales, I believe that most teachers agree with the system of Pauer as given in his Pianoforte Primer (Novello, Ewer and Co.). It certainly appeals greatly to one's common sense. If teachers generally would agree to use Primers such as the one I have mentioned, and insist upon their pupils discarding the numerous and, as a rule, worthless "Tutors" and "Instruction Books," with their collections of "Popular Airs," &c., which seem to have such a firm hold upon the people, a decided though very small step would be made towards the uniformity which your correspondent, Mr. Brooks, and thousands of others, are longing for.

I remain, Sir, yours truly,
A. HOPKINS ALLEN.

Kintbury, Newbury, September 3, 1889.

ANGLO-CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I have read with much interest the excellent articles on Anglo-Canadian Copyright in your issues of August and September, and am pleased to find that authors and publishers are fully aware of the disastrous effects such an Act as the new Canadian Copyright Act, if passed, will have on their interests. It is an Act which may be truthfully styled "An Act to deprive European authors and publishers of what few rights previous Canadian legislation on the subject has left them." Before discussing it, I wish to point out a fact which has escaped the author of your articles. It is true that in 1850 Canada passed an Act giving British authors and publishers the power to levy 12½ per cent. ad valorem on all importations into Canada of "piratical reprints" of their works; but had Canada shown any disposition to collect this 12½ per cent., it was possible for American publishers to flood the Canadian market with their reprints before the Custom House authorities could receive any instructions to levy any royalty for the author or publisher; but as Canada never seems to have had any honest intentions in the matter at all, British copyright owners can console themselves with the reflection that it was not the fault of those who framed the Act of 1850 that they were robbed; but the fault rested with the Government, whose business it was to see that it was properly enforced. To return to the new Act, I can conscientiously say, being acquainted with its birth and development, that it is not desired by either the Canadian music trade or the book trade, and is supported only by a few Canadian publishers who, unable to find sufficient matter for reprinting produced by America, are driven to the European market to supply them with more material, they will then use their power under the Act to compel European authors and publishers to part with their property at a Canadian valuation, or accept the alternative. If this Act passes, we shall have popular English songs published by patent medicine and other manufacturers, and sent throughout the land with the sole object of advertising their wares; being published for gratuitous circulation, neither the author nor publisher will receive any compensation, and, moreover, the former will have the annoyance of seeing a mutilated edition of his work circulated with the sole object of calling attention to some quack medicine or similar article. Have the men who framed this Act considered its effect upon such a great industry as the book and music trade, with which so many authors are connected? or is such an industry to suffer incalculable harm that a few piratical Canadian publishers may thrive?—I am, yours faithfully,

A CANADIAN MUSIC DEALER.

Toronto, September 11, 1889.

"THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—My authority for assigning this melody to Carolan is an unsigned article on the latter in THE MUSICAL TIMES for December, 1885. It is not mentioned in Bunting's "Ancient Music of Ireland" (Dublin, 1840), which comprises, however, only fifteen of Carolan's compositions. Whether it is contained in either of the author's two earlier compilations of Irish music I cannot say; doubtless, many of your readers possess copies of these works (London, 1796, and London, 1809), and might thus be enabled to give conclusive evidence as to the authorship of this melody. In any case, it would be most interesting to know what is really its original form, for I think comparatively few people are aware of the extraordinary liberties in which Moore indulged when "arranging" the "Irish Melodies."

THE WRITER OF THE ARTICLE REFERRED TO.

Sligo, September 10, 1889.

[Subsequent enquiry has modified the opinions expressed four years ago. An authentic list of Carolan's compositions has yet to be made. The tune in question is not in either of Bunting's First Collections, nor in "A Favorite Collection of the so much admired Irish tunes, the original and genuine compositions of Carolan, the celebrated Irish bard, set for the Piano Forte, Violin, and German Flute," published by Broderip and Wilkinson, 13, Haymarket, at the end of the last or the beginning of the present century. This contains sixty-nine melodies. Petrie in his "Ancient Music of Ireland," 1851, alludes to Milliken as the author of the "Groves of Blarney," the melody to which Moore set, without altering it, the words of "The last rose of summer." The air was a modification of "Castle Hyde." It is not in the collections of Fitzsymons, Horncastle, or O'Callaghan.—Ed. M. T.]

AT WHAT AGE MAY GIRLS BEGIN TO LEARN SINGING?

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—It is almost generally believed in this country that young ladies must not begin to learn singing before they have attained the age of seventeen or eighteen. This erroneous idea is the result of a most regrettable misconception of the physiology of the voice.

When boys approach manhood, their voices undergo a total change, becoming an octave lower. During the time of transmutation it is better not to sing. But this is not the case with girls.

All young girls, whether they have good voices or not, should join the elementary singing classes; for moderate practice in singing is highly beneficial to health; it improves the lungs, strengthens the respiratory organs, and is the best preservative against consumption.

In Continental Conservatoires not only the student of singing, but all pupils who learn an instrument or harmony are obliged to attend the solfeggi classes, which form the basis of musical education. Only those who have had the advantage of studying solfeggio when young are ever able to read music fluently and in time. Most principals of young ladies' schools know full well all that can be said in favour of early musical training; but parents often object to their daughters joining the solfeggi classes, failing to appreciate the utility of this mode of instruction.

Yours truly,

B. LÜTGEN.

MUSICAL DEGREES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Permit me to inquire why the Royal College of Music refrains from exercising its power of conferring the Degrees of Bachelor and Doctor of Music? Surely the clause in its charter which gives this power was not intended to remain a dead letter.

The cause of musical education would not be advanced by the conferment of these degrees as honorary distinctions only, but a judicious scheme of examinations, formulated without undue delay, is a duty which the College owes to its founders and to the musical public. As the Royal College was intended to be a great national institution, its degrees should be attainable by all British subjects of either sex, whether educated within its walls or not. The examiners should be men who have themselves been examined and admitted to degrees, preference being given to such as have proved themselves artists as well as scholars.

I am, Sir, yours truly,

E. BURRITT LANE.

33, Bouverie Road, N., September 17, 1889.

"MANLINESS IN MUSIC."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I took up your August number a few days ago quite accidentally, but my attention was immediately arrested by the article headed "Manliness in Music," and I should like to say that I have seldom met with an article more true or more able. Lord Byron expressed his detestation of the man who was all author, and subsequently, speaking of himself and his work in Greece, he said: "A man should do something more for society than write verses." Such remarks might equally apply to music and musicians. The true poet and the true musician are almost identical. But it is a lamentable fact that to be a poet the man must suffer, as it has been said; so must it be with the musician. If a man possesses real genius, literary or musical, he will experience a sense of almost constant compulsion; the force of his genius will drive him in the same groove; the passion within him must be expressed, and, until expressed, it is, in fact, a torture to himself, yet the very expression of it wears him out. Nothing wears a man more than excess of feeling. Might not this be the explanation of the sedentary life of men gifted with genius? But this need not imply effeminacy; effeminacy and affectation in men are contemptible. My own experience has taught me that immediately after that excess of feeling which has of its own force taken shape in the poem or tone-picture, the gun, the bicycle, the football or cricket ball, the rod and line, or the gloves are the best possible antidotes to the poisons of sedentary occupation and passions that alternately feed and waste the energies of life.

Kingsbury, Warwickshire.

LENNOX AMOTT.

PATENT INTELLIGENCE.

DURING the past few weeks the following Inventions connected with music have been registered at the Patent Office, the list being specially compiled for THE MUSICAL TIMES by Messrs. Rayner and Cassell, Patent Agents, 37, Chancery Lane, from whom all further information concerning Patents may be had gratuitously:—

13,146. Feed mechanism for the music sheets of Mechanical Musical Instruments. Ernst Malke, August 20, 1889.
13,499. Improvements in Wind Instruments of the Clarinet, Flageolet, Flute, and other analogous types. Charles Conn, August 27, 1889.

13,660. Improvements in or applicable to Organs, Harmoniums, and similar Musical Instruments. J. Petter Nyström, August 29, 1889.

13,682. Improvements in collapsible Music Stands. E. A. N. Pochin, August 30, 1889.

13,808. Improvements in mechanism for regulating the keys and various parts of Organs or other Musical Instruments. James John Walker, September 2, 1889.

13,938. Preserving and protecting the back of Sheets of Music, Pamphlets, or other Loose Papers. H. G. Armstrong, September 4, 1889.

14,234. Improvements in Music Leaf Turners. Richard Bell and Another, September 10, 1889.

14,306. A process of making Barrels for Musical Instruments. L. A. Barber, September 10, 1889.

14,345. Improvements in the Electro-Pneumatic Action of Organs. R. G. Goatcher, September 11, 1889.

14,392. Improvements in Music Stands. C. Madden, September 12, 1889.

14,465. A novel Musical Instrument. J. Hickisson, September 13, 1889.

14,518. An improved Organ Pedal. Frederick William Barker, September 14, 1889.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.*

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

A COUNTRY ORGANIST.—The word should be pronounced with the "i" long. John Kemble, the actor, declared that even in ordinary use it should be so pronounced, and once checked a friend who gave the vowel short by repeating the following, with all the vowels short: "I should like to 'bind' you to 'find' security never more to pronounce the word as 'wind.' To my 'mind' you are 'behind,' and have not yet pierced the 'rind' which covers the sense of words of that 'kind.'"

A. C. O.—Write to the Rev. Dr. Kendall, the Registrar, St. Andrew's Road, Southsea.

BARITONE.—To a Publisher or to an Editor in search of such things.

H. C. G.—The Churchwardens have power to give or withhold permission to a stranger to use the Organ of the Church, even though the regular Organist may be willing.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Christ Church Harvest Festival was held on Thursday, the 19th ult., the preacher in the evening being the Right Rev. Bishop Cramer Roberts. On the following Sunday afternoon, the 22nd ult., Haydn's Creation was performed, the principals being Miss Marjorie Eaton, Mr. Robson, and Mr. Green. Mr. J. Smith, the Choirmaster, conducted, and Mr. A. Ed. Knott, the Organist, presided at the organ.

BURNLEY.—The Harvest Thanksgiving Services at St. Andrew's Church, held on the 15th ult., consisted of Tours's Morning and Evening Services in F, and Gaul's cantata Ruth in the afternoon. The solos in the latter were entrusted to Miss Horner, Miss Robins, Mrs. Horner, and Mr. J. W. Clough. The band was selected from Mr. Albert Pollard's orchestra, and Mr. E. Dunkerley ably presided at the organ. The choruses were rendered by an augmented choir. The Conductor was Mr. J. R. Whitaker, Organist at the Church.

CONDOVER, SHIREWSBURY.—A very successful Ballad Concert was given on Thursday, the 5th ult. The performers engaged were Miss Annie Millman, Miss Lucie Johnstone, Mr. Frank Millman, Miss Emily Dixon (harp), and Miss Daisy Jenkins (pianoforte). Miss Lucie Johnstone's singing won the enthusiasm of the large and intelligent audience, while Miss Daisy Jenkins's rendering of Nicodé's Tarantelle was an emphatic success. Miss Emily Dixon's harp solos were well received by the audience. Mr. Geoffrey Dixon acted efficiently as the accompanist.

FILEY.—On Monday afternoon, the 9th ult., an Organ Recital was given in the Parish Church by Mr. G. F. Huntley, Organist of St. George's Church, Campden Hill, and formerly assistant to Sir George Elvey, at the Chapel Royal, Windsor. The programme, admirably given, included pieces by Mendelssohn, Merkel, Bach, Smart, Handel, Guilman, and Lemmens. Bach's Fantasia and Fugue in G minor was effectively given, and the air with variations by Smart formed a pleasing contrast to several of the other pieces. Miss Fox sang "O had I Jubal's lyre" (Joshua). Mr. Huntley brought out the fine qualities of the organ successfully.

HERNE BAY.—Mr. E. A. Cruttenden gave an Organ Recital in Christ Church, on Thursday evening, the 5th ult., in aid of the Organ and Choir Fund. The pieces were selected from the writings of Sullivan, Smart, Hoyte, Wagner, and Wely, and showed the skill of the performer and the capabilities of the instrument.

IRONVILLE.—On Thursday afternoon, the 12th ult., at the Harvest Festival, Mr. W. W. Windle, Organist of Belper, gave a Recital upon the Organ in the Parish Church, interspersed with solos by Messrs. Hole, Abbot, and Cotterill, and Mrs. Beach. At the evening service Mr. Windle again presided at the Organ, playing at the conclusion "The Storm," by Lemmens.

ISLE OF MAN.—The Manx Syndicate has given some Concerts with great success in the island. Mr. Josef Cantor's Company "Gems of the Opera and Oratorio," the Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, and two Sunday performances of The Messiah on the 1st and 8th ult., conducted by Mr. Vetter, with full band and chorus, were most successful. The solos in the Oratorio were entrusted to Madame Laura Smart, Madame Oscar Pollack, Mr. Holberry Hagyard, and Mr. William Bradford, the last-named delighting everyone by his fine bass voice and manly style.—Madame Pollack and Mr. Bradford also sang at an afternoon Concert on the 2nd ult.

KEMBERTON, SALOP.—On Saturday, August 31, Mr. C. H. Payne, of Shifnal, gave an Organ Recital on a new organ erected by Messrs. Norman Brothers and Beard, of Norwich. The Rev. W. T. Pym (curate in charge) conducted a short opening service, the choir singing the Anthem "The Lord is King," after which the following programme was skilfully rendered by Mr. Payne:—Introduction and fugue, Geistli; Andante in E minor, Batiste; "War March of the Priests," Mendelssohn; "Contemplation," Gaul; Andante in A minor, Batiste; Offertoire, Léfebure-Wély; "Language of the Flowers" (Lilac), Cowen; "Marche Heroïque," Schubert.

NANTWICH.—The Choral Festival for the rural deanery of Nantwich was held on the 12th ult., in the Parish Church. The following choirs were represented:—Alsager, Audlem, Coppenhall, St. Paul's, Crewe, Holmes Chapel, Nantwich, Smallwood, Warrington, Winsford, Wistaston, Worleston, Wrenbury—total number of voices, 286. The Rev. C. H. Hylton Stewart, precentor of Chester Cathedral, conducted. The processional hymn was accompanied by a select band of cornets and trombones. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to Dr. Cooke's setting, and the Anthem was Berthold Tours's "Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house."

OXFORD.—On the occasion of the inauguration of the enlarged organ in St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, on Thursday, the 19th ult., Recitals were given by Mr. C. H. Lloyd, Organist of the Cathedral, in the afternoon, and by Mr. W. L. Biggs, Organist of the Church, in the evening. The Parish Musical Society of about sixty voices sang some hymns and anthems at the second performance.

PUDSEY.—On Monday evening, the 23rd ult., a Concert was given for the benefit of Mr. W. Webster, an aged and afflicted vocalist, now in the 83rd year of his age. The principal vocalists were Miss Annie Saville, Miss Marie Rhodes, Mr. C. Blagbro, Mr. E. H. Walker (Pudsey), with a chorus of over forty male and female voices. Miss Ethel Heap (Pudsey) gave some violin solos. Mr. H. Robertshaw was the Conductor, and with Mrs. Huggan played the accompaniments. The Glee singing was a special feature in the Concert.

SUNDERLAND.—The Philharmonic Society has issued the prospectus of the thirtieth season. It is proposed to give three Concerts, the first with a miscellaneous programme. Mackenzie's Rose of Sharon, Haydn's Seasons (Summer and Autumn), and Hamish MacCunn's Lord Ullin's Daughter at the two following. A good array of excellent artists has been engaged for the solos in the several works. Miss Pearson is the pianist and Organist, and Mr. Kilburn the Conductor.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Arthur Johnson, Organist and Choirmaster to Trinity Church, Elgin.—Mr. Arthur W. Castell, Organist and Director of the Choir to All Saints', Belvedere, Kent.—Mr. T. W. Dunkerton, to St. Phillip's, Queen's Road, Battersea Park, London.—Mr. S. E. Dunkerton, to St. Paul's, Lincoln.—Mr. George T. Fleming, to Hythe Parish Church, Kent.—Mr. C. F. Neal, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church of New Romney, Kent.—Mr. Llewellyn Lloyd, Organist to St. Asaph Cathedral.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. T. Maude (Tenor), Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.—Mr. Charles Butler (Tenor), to St. Paul's, Knightsbridge.

GLASGOW MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS

(Under the patronage of the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council).

Artists of first-class standing, Vocal and Instrumental, are invited to send dates and terms to—

D. MACCOLL, Managing Director,
40, St. Enoch's Square Glasgow.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"Ode on St. Cecilia's Day," by ALEXANDER POPE. Paper cover, 2s.

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS.—"The Voyage of Maeldune." Ballad, by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. Set to music for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.

MACCUNN, HAMISH.—"The Land of the Mountain and the Flood." Concert-Overture. Full score, 10s. 6d.; string parts, 4s.; wind parts, 8s.

GARRETT, GEORGE.—Harvest Cantata. For Chorus, Semi-chorus, and Organ. Words selected and written by JOHN FRANCIS WALLER. Book of Words, 5s. per 100.

HUTCHINSON, THOMAS—(in E flat). Benedictus. (Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 48.) 3d.

NEWTON, EDWARD—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 47.) 3d.

NOOTT, EDGAR F. C.—(in E flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

WINNY, GEORGE F.—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 6d.

BROWN-BORTHWICK, ROBERT.—"Children of the Heavenly King," and other new Hymn tunes. 6d.

BLACOW, FRED. W.—"Teach me Thy way, O Lord." Short Anthem or Introit. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. 2d.

GLADSTONE, F. E.—"Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 340.) 3d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"Sing, O Heavens." Anthem for Christmas. 3d.

VICARS, GEORGE RAYLEIGH.—"Peace I leave with you." Short Anthem. For general use. 2d.

LÜTGEN, B.—"A Village Holiday" (Une fête au village). English Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM. Arranged as a Duet and Chorus. 4d.

—"Consider the Lilies." Arranged for two voices. 4d.

TORRANCE, G. W.—"Songs of Faith and Hope," being a set of Four Sacred Songs, with Pianoforte Accompaniment (adaptable for Organ) and Flute, Violin, and Violoncello ad lib. 2s. each.

- No. 1. I am the resurrection and the life.
" 2. Let not your heart be troubled.
" 3. They shall hunger no more.
" 4. Come, ye blessed of My Father.

BOYSE, ARTHUR.—Transcriptions for the Organ.

- No. 21. If with all your hearts MENDELSSOHN 9d.
" 22. Lord God of Abraham " 9d.

SPARK, WILLIAM.—The Organist's Quarterly Journal. Part LXXXIV. 5s. Scherzo in B minor; A. H. Stevens; Preludio e Fuga in G major, G. B. Polleri; Allegro moderato in D minor, R. Ernest Bryson.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT.

- No. 664. Twelve by the clock C. H. LLOYD id.
" 665. Welcome to this place H. R. BISHOP id.
" 666. Hymn to Diana ARNOLD D. CULLEY id.
" 667. Cast thy bread upon the waters W. STERNDAL BENNETT id.

" 668. Companions, come (Chorus of Fishermen) AUBER id.

MACCUNN, HAMISH.—"The lay of the last Minstrel." 1s. 6d.

MR. CHARLES FRY recites THE DREAM OF JUBAL (Mackenzie), ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, GEDIPUS (Mendelssohn), PRECIOSA (Weber), THE DESERT (David). Belmont, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Park, N.W.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH (Organist and Choirmaster, St. James's, Westmoreland Street, W.).—Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—Professors: Arnold Birch; E. H. Birch, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; Prosper Burnett; J. T. Carrodus; Bernhard Carrodus; J. Carrodus, jun.; R. Ramirez. Studies: Organ, Pianoforte, Singing, Violin, Violoncello, Harmony, Italian. Private lessons at pupils' residences; special arrangements made for schools. New Songs by ARNOLD BIRCH, published at the Studio: "Her two Lovers," 2s.; "The Little Rogue," 2s.; "His Country Cousin," 2s.; "He laughs who wins," 2s.

PRIZES for WHITSUNTIDE and ANNIVERSARY MUSIC. £3; £2; £1. Pudsey and District S.S. Union. For conditions, send stamped addressed envelope to Isaac Windsor, Hammerton Field, Pudsey, Leeds.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Musical Examinations	585
The Rival Experts on Voice-Training.. ..	586
The Great Composers—Handel	587
Hoods and Falsehoods	590
Occasional Notes	591
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	594
Leeds Musical Festival	598
Gloucester Musical Festival	598
Royal Choral Society	600
Novello's Oratorio Concerts	600
Crystal Palace	601
Antonio Cagnoni's Opera "Francesca da Rimini"	601
Obituary	602
Music in Birmingham	603
Blackburn	604
Bristol	604
Glasgow and the West of Scotland	611
Liverpool and District	611
Manchester	613
Sheffield	613
The West of England	613
General News (London)	614
Reviews	615
Foreign Notes	617
Correspondence	619
Patent Intelligence	620
Answers to Correspondents	620
General News (Country)	620
List of Music published during the last Month	621

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion in their proper places, Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE 23RD OF EACH MONTH.

Now ready.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, with various improvements and many additional Chants, of THE PSALTER, arranged for Chanting. With appropriate English Chants. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Edition I., in Post 8vo, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 2s.

Edition II., in Foolscap 4to, large type, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 4s.

Edition III., in Imperial 32mo. Words only. Cloth, 9d. With Proper Psalms, 1s. The Proper Psalms separately, 3d.

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE CANTICLES, &c. First Series.

I. Post 8vo, chants in short score. 6d.

II. Foolscap 4to, chants in short score. 1s.

III. In 32mo. Words only. 1½d.

When this new Edition is required, instead of the original Work (which is on sale in all its original forms), orders should be specific for "REVISED EDITION."

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of the ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. A Collection of Single Chants, Ancient and Modern, appropriated to the Daily Psalms, Canticles, and Hymns in the Book of Common Prayer. The Chants correspond with those of the "Psalter," and are similarly numbered. Edited by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 8vo, in paper cover, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d. Foolscap 4to, large type, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MISS ANNIE CHAPPELL (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 18, Arlington Park Gardens South, Gunnersbury, W.

MISS MARIANNE FENNA (Soprano),

84, Mansfield Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MISS MARIE GANE (Soprano)

(Of the Crystal Palace, London, Bath, Cheltenham, & Bristol Concerts), 386, Brixton Road, and Montpelier, Bristol.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Sq., N.E.

MISS JEANNETTE POLAK (Soprano).

(Pupil of Mdme. Louisa Pyne and the late J. B. Welch, Esq.)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, Private Lessons, &c. 22, Dartmouth Park Road, N.W.

MISS GEORGINA TEAR (Soprano).

Concerts, Dinners, &c., 21, Foxley Road, S.W. "Possesses a sweet soprano voice."

MISS FRANCES WATKINSON (Soprano),
33, Lett Road, Stratford, E.; or, Klein & Co., 3, Holborn Viaduct, E.C.

MISS CARRIE CURNOW (Contralto),
65, Shardeloes Road, New Cross, S.E.; or, Klein and Co., 3, Holborn Viaduct, E.C.

MDLLE. JOSÉ D'ARCONVILLE (Contralto),
Parsonage Road, Withington, Manchester.

MISS EMILIE HARRIS (Contralto),
42, Golden Hillock Road, Birmingham.

MISS EMILY HIMING (Contralto).
Address, 41, The Gardens, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MADAME NELMES (Contralto)
(Of the Bristol Musical Festival Society Concerts),
134, Dorset Road, Clapham Road, S.W.; or, Derby Villa, Clifton Wood, Bristol.

MADAME EDITH OLIVER (Contralto)
(Pupil of W. H. Cummings, Esq.)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c., 39, Albert Road, Stroud Green, N.

MR. MALDWIN HUMPHREYS (Tenor) (Bronze and Silver Medalist,
Certificate of Merit,
Winner of the Evill Prize, Jos. Maas Scholarship, and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist).
163, Gloucester Road, Regent's Park, London, N.W.

MR. WALTER J. HOBSON (Baritone).
For Concerts, Organ Recitals, Matinées, At Homes, &c., address, 149, Walton Road, Liverpool.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone).
Address, The Poplars, Dartford.
"ELIJAH."—Mr. Tufnail, in the rôle of 'Elijah,' reached a passionate intensity and displayed a wealth of resource which created a marked impression."—Press notice.

MR. J. BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. WALTER WELLS (Bass)
(Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair).
For Oratorios, &c., address, Warminster House, 15, Tytteston Road, Upper Holloway, N.

MASTER ANDREW BEVAN (Violinist)
(Of the Newcastle, Durham, and Darlington Concerts). Address, 28, Blandford Street, Sunderland.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 47, Croxted Road, West Dulwich, S.E.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. CLIFFORD ROYLE (Tenor), Honours Certificate, R.A.M. Open to Oratorio and other engagements. Address, College Road, Rotherham.

MR. WILLIAM FOXON (Tenor). On Tour in America. All communications to be addressed to 34, Norfolk Terrace, Bayswater, W.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., may be addressed to his residence, 23, Endlesham Road, Balham, London, S.W.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM (Tenor), Vicar Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, is booking Engagements for Oratorios and Concerts in London and the Provinces for the coming season. Engagements booked: "Elijah," Mile End; Ballads, City; Festival, Exeter; Festival, Plymouth; Ballads, City; Ballads, Kensington; Ballads, Brixton; Festival, Harrow; &c. For vacant dates, address, Grovedale, Parsons Green, S.W.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM can also provide SOLO VOICES, personally trained, and guaranteed efficient, for Harvest Festivals, Concerts, Banquets, &c. Address as above.

MR. T. WILFORD PRICE (Bass, St. Alban's, Holborn) for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Répertoire includes "Elijah," "Messiah," "Creation," "St. Paul," "Judas Maccabæus," "Last Judgment," "Stabat Mater," "Crucifixion," "Woman of Samaria," "Daughter of Jairus," "Holy City," "Christ and His Soldiers," "The Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," "Erl-king's Daughter," "Golden City," &c. Engaged Sep. 24; Oct. 5, 11, 16, 23; Nov. 8, 13, 19, 27; Dec. 3, 18. Address, for engagements, 75, Kent House Road, Sydenham.

MR. S. J. BISHOP (Bass, Southwell Cathedral) is now booking ENGAGEMENTS for the ensuing season. Address, the Cathedral, Southwell.

MISS ETHEL and MR. HAROLD BAUER can entertain proposals for Afternoons and Evenings of CHAMBER MUSIC in all parts of the Kingdom, during the ensuing Winter Season. For terms and particulars, apply at 166, Adelaide Road, N.W.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that communications respecting ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, &c., be addressed to her at 158, Portsdown Road, W.

MR. ARTHUR J. GREENISH, Mus. Bac., Cantab., requests that all communications may be addressed to him as follows, 35, Chalcot Crescent, Primrose Hill, N.W.

MR. FREDERIC W. GRIFFITHS, A.R.A.M. (Solo Flautist; Pupil of the late M. Oluf Svendsen and of M. Taffanel, Solo Flute, Grand Opéra and Conservatoire, Paris), is prepared to accept engagements and to give lessons. 163, Gloucester Road, N.W.

THE BROOKLYN GLEE QUARTET (Alto, Tenors, and Bass) may be engaged for Concerts, Dinners, &c. For terms, apply to Mr. H. Tuddenham, 304, Regent Street, W.

BOYS, with good Voices, WANTED, for the Church of St. Ethelburga, Bishopsgate. Liberal Salary to competent Candidates. Alto (voluntary) also required. Apply, by letter, to Organist.

TWO ALTOS WANTED, for St. James's, Norland, W. Two Sunday services and a week-day practice (August excepted). £12 per annum. E. H. Birch, 19, Cambridge Gardens, Notting Hill, W.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Barnabas, Kensington. Communicant. Salary, £20. Attendance twice on Sundays, one weekly practice; also Christmas Day, New Year's Eve, Good Friday, Dedication Festival, Harvest Festival, and an occasional extra practice. Apply to Mr. F. G. Ogbourne, Organist and Director of the Choir, 7, Matheson Road, West Kensington, W.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—There are a few VACANCIES for Amateur TENORS and BASSES. Apply, by letter, to the Precursor; or, personally, on Friday Evenings, at 8 o'clock, during October, at the Church.

TENOR WANTED, at Streatham Hill Congregational Church. £20 per annum. Apply, M. H. Hoare, Esq., Chantrey Villas, Norwood Road, S.E.

ORGANIST WANTED, for the Wesleyan Church, Barry Road, East Dulwich. Must be a thoroughly efficient Player. Salary, £40. Applications and testimonials to be sent to Mr. H. Rogers, Ardleigh, Mundania Road, Honor Oak.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Kelvinside Free Church, Glasgow. Must be an accomplished organist and able to train a choir. Salary, £80. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent on or before October 15, to Mr. Alex. F. Morrison, Writer, 75, St. George's Place, Glasgow, from whom further information may be obtained.

ORGANIST open to RE-ENGAGEMENT. Large experience. Highest testimonials. Address, Grad., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, of over twenty years' experience, seeks an ENGAGEMENT in a place where there is a good scope for the development of good music and tuition. Excellent testimonials. Anglican service. Address, W. H., Broadway Chambers, Westminster.

CHOIRMASTERSHIP WANTED, by Choirmaster of one of the leading West-end Churches. Would undertake to train Choir Boys. A. G. C., 214, Fernhead Road, W.

A STUDENT at the Royal College of Music would DEPUTISE at week-day or other services in return for practice on good Organ. In or near W. district. Address, C. B. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A YOUNG GENTLEMAN (aged 22), of Cathedral experience, is desirous of obtaining Post as ASSISTANT, PUPIL, or ORGANIST. Country town preferred. Address, Giovanni, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. J. E. ADKINS, F.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster Esher Parish Church (late of Ely Cathedral and of the Royal College of Music, London), has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT ARTICLED PUPIL. Comfortable home. Exceptional advantages. Moderate premium. Address, Etheldreda Villas, Wolsey Road, Esher, Surrey. Instructions in Harmony, &c., by post.

TO PARENTS and GUARDIANS.—An experienced ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, Mus. Bac., Cantab., can receive into his house a PUPIL, who would be thoroughly trained for an Organist's Profession. Present Pupils highly successful in obtaining Diplomas and Appointments. Easy terms. Apply, Mus. Bac., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VIOLINISTS.—A Musical Director, in a nicely situated town near London, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Special advantages. Reply to Professional, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—Vocalist or Organ Student. MR. ERNEST LAKE, Organist and Musical Director, All Saints' Church, Notting Hill, will shortly have a VACANCY at a moderate premium. Home comforts and thorough professional training. Certain exceptional advantages (present and contingent) are offered. Full particulars given and required. 57, Burlington Road, Bayswater, W.

MUSIC CLASSES, conducted by MR. JOHN HENKEN, meet at the Birkbeck Literary and Scientific Institution, Bream's Buildings, Chancery Lane, as follows:—Elementary on Mondays, Advanced on Tuesdays, Choral Society on Thursdays, Theory on Fridays, Harmony and Counterpoint on Thursdays. Introductory Lecture on September 30, at 8.30, admission free. Classes are also held for Violin, Violoncello, Pianoforte, Harmonium, Harp, Italian, Elocution, &c. Fees very moderate. Prospectus gratis on application to Secretary.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Mr. Sergison's course offers advantages not attainable at any London Academy for training as a Church Musician. Premium, board, and lodging, by arrangement. Address, 62 Warwick Square, S.W.

WIMBLEDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC and TRAINING SCHOOL for MUSIC TEACHERS, Surrey. President: Lord Hotham; Vice-Presidents: Dr. E. J. Hopkins, Dr. W. H. Longhurst, and Dr. E. M. Lott; Principal: Mr. W. Sumner, Mus. Bac. Special staff of Professors for postal tuition, including one Doctor and two Bachelors of Music of each of the Universities of Cambridge, Oxford, and Toronto. Preparation in Arts. Address, Secretary, College of Music, Spencer Hill, Wimbledon.

MR. H. W. WESTON, Mus. Bac., F.C.O. (University Silver Medalist, Toronto, 1889), gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Candidates specially prepared for the Toronto and Coll. of Org. Exams. Terms moderate. Address, 20, Dempster Road, Wandsworth, S.W.

TUNER (Good) seeks permanent SITUATION. Five years' experience. Factory and outdoor. F. B. Roberts-bridge, near Hawkhurst.

TUNER desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Address, G., 395, Fulham Road, S.W.

A GOOD PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER (Married) requires permanent SITUATION. Understands Harmoniums and American Organs. Good references, nearly six years in present situation. Address, R. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FINE TUNER, with thorough practical knowledge of Repairs, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in London. Aged 25. Unexceptional references. Good Quadrille Pianist. Address, A. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER (Good) wants RE-ENGAGEMENT. Aged 25. Exceptional references. Thorough Repairer and good Pianist. F. G., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SITUATION as IMPROVER. Can Tune very well, and has knowledge of Repairs. Can also try over a Piano. Aged 18½ years. Small salary. Address, R. W. S., care of T. Rogers, 168, Sunneyhill Road, Streatham, S.W.

WANTED, by a Lady, SITUATION in MUSIC WAREHOUSE (9 years' experience). Could manage a small branch business. For further particulars, address, M. H., 9, Amyand Terrace, Twickenham.

WANTED, by a Young Lady (not been out before), SITUATION in a SHEET MUSIC SHOP. Can play Piano, and is a good reader. Would give time. Address, G. A., care of J. S. Tidman, Esq., 30, Paradise Road, Clapham, S.W.

PARTNER WANTED, with small capital, in a good TEACHING CONNECTION (Violin, Piano, and Singing), capable of great extension (N.). Address, with some particulars, Music, care of 532, Hornsey Road, N.

WANTED, a Gentleman or Firm with Capital, to join the Advertiser (who has a large Tuning Connection) in OPENING a MUSIC WAREHOUSE in a rising seaside neighbourhood, with a good opening. P. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNERSHIP.—A Gentleman, who has been connected with a Music Publishing firm for many years, seeks a PARTNER with £5,000 capital. Only principals need apply. Address, Z. Y. X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WELL-ESTABLISHED MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE. Splendid opening for Violinist or Teacher of Music. Part cash could remain, or owner would stay in as partner. Address, Musical, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER seeks an ENGAGEMENT in good PIANOFORTE WAREHOUSE. Would open Branch. Thoroughly experienced. M. R., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER or SALESMAN.—SITUATION RE URED as above, by a First-class Man. Well up in Catalogues, &c. Excellent Tuner, &c. Apply, Alpha, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TRAVELLER.—An energetic Young Man, aged 30, desires an APPOINTMENT as TRAVELLER for a first-class firm of Music Publishers, Pianoforte Manufacturers, or Small Goods importers. 16 years in the Music trade. First-class references and security. Teetotaler. Either salary or commission and expenses. T. R., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ADVERTISER (40) seeks SITUATION in a LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHER'S. 25 years' experience. Highest references and testimonials. G. L., 26, Amersham Vale, New Cross, S.E.

TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGEWAY and CO., Music Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, London, W., undertake the RE-VISING, PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' Works included in Catalogue and introduced without extra charge.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application. Parcels of music sent on "sale or return" on receipt of two London references or a deposit of £2.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, AND PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPYING of every kind done neatly and quickly, also transposing. Address, X. Y. Z., Rothesaye, St. Albans.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK AND SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

120 Pianofortes, Harps, Organs, and other Instruments, Bronzes, Marbles, China, Paintings, and other Works of Art and Vertu. Eleven days' Sale.

DEBENHAM, STORR and SONS will Sell by Auction, at their Mart, King Street, Covent Garden, London, about 6,000 Lots of WORKS of ART, on Monday, October 7, and following days, at 12. The sales are arranged as follows:—

On Monday, 7, Saturday, 12, and Wednesday, 16, Thursday, 17, and Friday, October 18.—Bronzes, china, musical and other instruments, opera-glasses, microscopes, telescopes, paintings, water-colour drawings, marbles, books, &c.

On Tuesday, October 8.—The Assemblage of many thousand volumes of Books, in every description of literature.

On Wednesday, October 9.—The concluding portion of the sale of Books, and 300 lots of miscellanies.

On Thursday, October 10, and Monday, October 14.—100 Pianofortes by Broadwood and Sons, Collard and Collard, Erard, Kirkman, Holder-nesse, and others; harmoniums, organs, harps, wind and string instruments, bronzes, marble statuary and busts, microscopes, paintings, &c.

On Friday, 11, and Tuesday, October 15.—The collection of Paintings by and after artists of the various English and Continental Schools, water-colour drawings of merit, etchings and engravings.

Catalogues post-free.

ORGANISTS! RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT FOR PIANOFORTES FOR THE HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

WRITE AT ONCE FOR NEW ILLUSTRATED
PRICE LIST,

Giving full particulars of this most unique mode of applying Organ Pedals to Pianos, and after careful perusal you will be convinced that every word lavished in its favour by

Sir JOHN STAINER,
Dr. JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE,
Dr. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST,
Dr. EDWARD J. HOPKINS,
Dr. GEORGE C. MARTIN,
Dr. CHARLES STEGGALL,
E. H. TURPIN, Esq.,

Mus. Bac.'s, R.A.M.'s, and hundreds of other customers (including the nobility), is fully merited.

My Pedals and Attachment are superior to others for the following reasons:—

They are more easily applied to any Piano, &c., by any one.

Every gradation of tone can be obtained from pp to ff, but not louder, so Piano is not injured by heavy pedalling.

The touch is simply perfection—according to the testimonials from the above-mentioned.

The action is thoroughly mechanical, and will thus bear favourable comparison with other advertised "notions." It is guaranteed, with ordinary care, to last for many years.

They are the best London make, and every Set being French polished (to order) to match Piano, will not offend the most educated eye or cultured taste—in short, they will harmonise with the fittings and appointments of the most elegant drawing-room, and, when not in use, can be removed instantly, and replaced (when required) as quickly.

Kindly call and try them, or depute a London friend to do so.

The most liberal and easy terms of payment arranged to suit the most straitened means.

The Profession and Trade invited to apply for List.

HENRY J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

PEDAL PIANOS FOR SALE OR HIRE.
PEDAL PIANO PRACTICE, SIXPENCE PER HOUR.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

PIPE ORGAN, 2 manuals, 12 stops, full compass bourdons, by ROBSON. Elegantly decorated front. £90. G. Cackett, Laurel Cottage, Albert Road, Walthamstow.

ORGAN for SALE, by GERN. Nearly new. Two manuals. Compass CC to G. 15 stops. Spotted metal. Separate pedal organ on the tubular pneumatic principle. Further particulars from Mr. E. Barnes, 220, Camden Road, N.W.

ORGAN, 2 Manuals, 7 Stops on Great, 5 on Swell Pedal Bourdon, and 2 Couplers, to be SOLD cheap. Several others for Sale. G. Field, Organ Builder, 58, Erskine Street, Hulme Manchester. (Agent for W. Hill and Son, London.)

ON SALE, fine two-manual ORGAN. 9 Stops on Great, 10 Stops on Swell, 3 Stops on Pedals, and 3 Couplers. Full Compass throughout. Packed in Cases. £100. Apply, Peter Conacher and Co., Huddersfield.

CC ORGAN for SALE, on Easy Terms.—Three manuals and pedals, 31 stops, 3 reeds, 2 pedal stops. Quite an orchestral instrument. Capable of great variety; splendid quality of tone. Suitable for church, chapel, gentleman's hall, or public. For particulars, apply, R. Young, Organ Builder, 135, York Road, Camden Road, London, N.

PEDALIER (PLEYEL-WOLFF) for SALE. Upright. £10. W. Packham, Chichester.

F.C.O.—The "COLLEGE" PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS are the only Instruments at which an Organist can find himself "at home." Built to any specification. One, two, and three manuals. High-class testimonials. Prices, &c., of the Makers, ED. SNELL and Co., 32, Ledbury Road, Bayswater, W.

FLUTE WANTED.—CARTE (1867) Patent Flute. Cocoa-wood and silver keys. Flautist, 83, Patshull Road, N.W.

FOR SALE, an old-established Provincial MUSIC BUSINESS in one of the most thriving Towns. Apply, C. C. Messrs. Novello, Ever and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GREAT SUCCESS OF THE NEW CANTATA.

Third Edition.

BONNIE KILMENY CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

Words adapted from Hogg's "Queen's Wake," by JAMES MACCUNN

MUSIC BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

Vocal Score	2s. net.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1s. "
Harmonium obligato	3s. "

Full Score and Orchestral parts may be had on hire.

Conductors of Choral Societies should see this highly interesting and beautiful work.

"It is not often that we have derived so much genuine pleasure from the perusal of a new work as was the case with that at present before us."—Newcastle Journal.

"It is not often that an audience is roused to the pitch of enthusiasm that greeted the production of Mr. Hamish MacCunn's 'Bonnie Kilmeny,' given last night with the full orchestral setting which was requisite for the full development of its full beauty. If Mr. MacCunn had written nothing else this work would stamp its author as a master whose name will be classed with those musicians whose creations have formed epochs in the past."—Edinburgh Evening News, January 22.

PATERSON and SONS, Musicians to the Queen, 27, George Street, Edinburgh.

"A LOVER'S SONG." Words and music by JOHN A. BAILEY. This beautiful song sent post-free for 14 stamps. Address, Ash-next-Sandwich.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s.; in stiff paper, 3s. net.

A COMPLETE COURSE OF WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS FOR STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. LEFFLER ARNIM, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two-thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: "... I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: "... I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: "... Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Of Messrs. CRAMER, Regent Street, W.; or, post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Hinde Street, W.

MR. W. B. HEALEY'S SPECIAL LIST.

TELEGRAPHIC ADDRESS, "HEALEY'S AGENCY, LONDON."

MR. HEALEY begs to announce that in order to avoid mistakes and delay direct application should be made to him, as all the following Artists are under contract, and their engagements must be made through him:—

SOPRANOS.
Madame LILLIAN NORDICA
Mlle. MARIE TITIENS
Miss PATTI WINTER
Madame BARTER
Mrs. DYKE

AND Miss ALICE STEEL
(The new Scotch soprano)
And 90 for selection.

CONTRALTOS.
Madame ENRIQUEZ
Miss MEREDYTH ELLIOTT

AND Madame BELLE COLE
And 93 for selection.

TENORS.
Signor RUNCIO
Mr. PHILIP NEWBURY
AND
Mr. WILLIAM NICHOLL
And 38 for selection.

BARITONE.
Mr. HERBERT THORNDIKE
And 52 for selection.

BASS.
Mr. HENRY POPE
And 30 for selection.

VIOLINS.
Miss KATE CHAPLIN
AND Herr WALDEMAR MEYER.

PIANOFORTE.
Miss PAULINE ELLICE
AND Signor TITO MATTEI.

THE CHAPLIN TRIO.
Miss KATE CHAPLIN (Violin)
Miss MABEL CHAPLIN (Violoncello)
Miss NELLIE CHAPLIN (Pianoforte)
And 100 Instrumental Soloists to select from.

Address, 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W., the oldest Musical Agent in London. First established in Golden Square, 1856.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY

Established as a medium of communication between Concert Givers and Artists, and to facilitate business between them, in London, the Provinces, and America.

CONDUCTED BY

MR. H. TUDDENHAM, Principal of the English College of Music.
Established 1879.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

MR. TUDDENHAM is prepared to provide Artists for Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, Mixed Concerts, Ballads, Part-Songs, Glees, Morning and Evening Concerts, Garden Parties, At Homes, Dinners, Tours arranged, &c. Mr. Tuddenham being personally acquainted with most of the leading VOCALISTS and ORCHESTRAL PLAYERS, will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all projectors of Concerts favouring him with their requirements.

MR. TUDDENHAM'S select CONCERT PARTY, consisting of six Artists—including Ballads, Songs, Duets, Quartets, Recitations, Violin or Flute Solos—may be engaged to perform the entire programme, either in London or the Provinces. Terms on application.

MR. TUDDENHAM'S SOLO CHOIR BOYS may be engaged for Church Festivals, Choral Weddings, Banquets, Concerts, &c. Good Chorus Singers for assisting Choirs. Clergymen and Organists are invited to write for requirements; perfect satisfaction guaranteed. Letters, telegrams, &c., to Mr. H. Tuddenham.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies SOLO BOYS (personally trained and thoroughly reliable) for all kinds of Church work, Concerts, &c. Advent Season: "Last Judgment," "Holy City," "Messiah," "Stabat Mater," &c. Excellent testimonials from Clergy and Organists. Address as above, or 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

HARMONY LESSONS (2nd Edition). By C. A. TREW. Adapted for Self-Instruction and Tuition by Correspondence. "All that is required as a preparation for the study of larger works."—Musical World. Price 1s. SCHOTT, 159, Regent Street, and AUTHOR, 57, Addison Mansions, West Kensington.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S
"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

Staff Notation Edition. Sixteenth and Seventeenth Thousand.

RUTH

A PASTORAL CANTATA

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM,
ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s. The Chorus (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. The gratuitous loan of Band Parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S (WM.) FESTAL and GENERAL ANTHEMS.

- No. 1. THE LORD REIGNETH. Easter, Whitsuntide, or General.
- " 2. THUS SAITH THE LORD, THE KING OF ISRAEL. Easter, Trinity, or General.
- " 3. PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY. Harvest, Easter, or Whitsuntide.
- " 4. I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD, MY KING. Festival or General.
- " 5. IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. Christmas.
- " 6. I WILL GIVE THANKS. Easter, Ascension, or General.
- " 7. ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE, O LORD. Harvest or General.

Price 2d. each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

ANTHEM.—O HOW AMIABLE ARE THY DWELLINGS. Suitable for opening services or general use. Also, Anthem, TEACH ME THY WAY. Short Morning Motet. For Cathedral or Parish use. By W. H. WILSON. Price 3d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price Fourpence.

THE OFFICE FOR HOLY COMMUNION.

Set to simple Music in the key of G. By HENRY J. PEEL. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; also H. J. P. WESTGATE, Mansfield, Notts.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By

S. BATH. Price Threepence.
"A composition of much stately grace."—Scotsman.
"Will form an acquisition."—Graphic.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat,

by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. By

ALFRED J. DYE. Price 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced Price, Threepence.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRIZES for WHITSUNTIDE HYMN TUNES (£3, £2, and £1). Manchester Sunday School Union. For conditions, send stamp to Mr. Alex. Porter, 146 Corporation Street, Manchester.

SACRED MUSIC

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE RAYLEIGH VICARS, M.A.

BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL.

Anthem. 3d.

LORD, FOR THY TENDER
MERCIES' SAKE.

Anthem. 1½d.

"Two exceedingly effective Anthems, suitable for general use. Mr. Vicars writes well; and choirmasters wanting music full of expression will do well to see these compositions."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

BEHOLD, I SHEW YOU A MYSTERY.

Anthem. 3d.

"The composer of this anthem is evidently a musician who thinks for himself. There are some curious and clever effects—notably, . . ."
&c.—Musical Times.

BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL.

Anthem. 3d.

"The closing bars are charming."—Musical Times.

PEACE I LEAVE WITH YOU.

Short Anthem for General use. 2d.

THE SONG OF THE SILENT
LAND.

Price 3d.

"May be made most effective."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

ANTHEM.

THE LORD HATH PREPARED

FOR FOUR VOICES, WITH ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENT,

COMPOSED BY

E. BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SAVE ME, O GOD. Motet. Composed by M. W. BALFE (1846). Set to English words and arranged for the Organ by W. A. BARRETT. Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SAY, WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE NIGHT?
Hymn, set to music by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK. Price Threepence net, or Two Shillings and Sixpence per doz.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also, by the same Composer, NEW EDITION, revised by himself, of SEVEN HYMNS, in various Metres, set to music.

Price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also, by the same Composer,

BLESSED ARE THE DEAD. A short, full, and easy Anthem, with introductory Organ Symphony, suitable for All Saints' Day and Funeral Services. Price 3d. To be had also arranged, by W. MEYER LUTZ, for Voices, Organ, two Cornets, two Trombones, and Muffled Drums. Also, shortly, for full Orchestra.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also, by the same Composer, SECOND EDITION of TWELVE SINGLE CHANTS, together with Double Chant (for Psalms xlii. and xxxviii.), a Setting of Benedictus, omnia Opera, and Responsive Amens to the "Dresden" Amen. Price 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.
By ARTHUR R. WHITLEY. Price 3d. "Smoothly written."—Musical Times. "We recommend this service for the use of country choirs."—Church Bells.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

By E. BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

Advent Anthem, "O Lord, Thou art my God."	Four Voices	..	3d.
Christmas Anthem, "In the beginning."	Four Voices	..	3d.
Anthem, "I was glad."	Four Voices	..	3d.
Anthem, "The Lord hath prepared."	Four Voices	..	3d.
"Amen" Card	1d.
Communion Service in E.	Octavo	..	9d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	3d.
Cantate and Deus miseratur in E	3d.
Ave Maria. Solo Soprano. Folio	net ts. 6d.

SECULAR VOCAL.

Part-Song, "Over hill, over dale."	Four Voices. Octavo	..	3d.
"Autumn Song"	"	"	3d.
"Beware"	"	"	1d.
Song, "The Streamlet."	Folio	..	net ts. 6d.
"The Last Prayer."	"	"	1s. 6d.
Two Pianoforte Pieces, Romance and Mazurka.	Folio	..	net 2s.
Six Original Organ Compositions. Complete	3s.

Or, in single numbers.

Largo in E flat	1s.
Twelve short and easy pieces for the Organ	2s.

Lists of all Compositions by the same to be had of the Publishers,
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

1. The Carollers.
2. The stars are shining bright and clear.
3. Carol, sweetly carol.
4. Christmas Bells.
5. A Child this day is born.
6. Hark! what mean those holy voices.
7. The Angels' Carol.
8. While Shepherds watched.
9. Angels from the realms of glory.
10. A Christmas Chime.

SET TO MUSIC BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS. D., CANTAB.

Price, in paper wrapper, complete, 1s.; or in single numbers, 1d. each.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By GEORGE LEES.

Price 4d. "Bright and vigorous, but at the same time distinguished by Church-like dignity throughout."—Musical Times.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BERLIOZ'S TE DEUM. Op. 22. Performed at the Crystal Palace, April 18, 1885. Vocal Score, 2s. net.
STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER and Co., 84, New Bond Street, London, W.

"EASY, MELODIOUS, AND EFFECTIVE."

NEW AND POPULAR CHRISTMAS
ANTHEMS. By CALEB SIMPER, Organist of St. Mary's, Worcester.

The Heavens are telling (Carol-Anthem)	New 3d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
Blessed be the Lord God. 6th Edition	4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	3d.
Behold, I bring. 2nd Edition	3d.
There were shepherds. 8th Edition	3d.
Glory to God in the Highest. 9th Edition	3d.
And He shall reign. 7th Thousand	3d.
Sing, O Heavens. 9th Thousand	3d.
We have seen His star. 14th Edition	4d.
Let us now go even unto. 3rd Thousand	3d.
New, Easy Holy Communion Service in E flat. 2nd Thousand	4d.

"Devotional and Tuneful." Complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.

Te Deum in A flat. Festal Chant form. 2nd Thousand .. 2d

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By EDWYN A. CLARE.

SING, O HEAVENS. Just published	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 4th Thousand	3d.
PRaise THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 4th Thousand	3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 2nd Thousand	4d.

"Melodious, flowing, and spirited."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.

SAMUEL

CANTATA FOR CHOIR AND CONGREGATION

BY

LANGDON COLBORNE.

This Work takes one hour in performance, and contains several well-known Hymns to be sung by the Congregation.

Price, cloth, 4s.; paper, 3s.; Choruses 1s.; Words, 1d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JAMES SMETON, M.A.,

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN MORE SMETON.

(Op. 15.)

PRICE 2S. 6d. BAND PARTS ON HIRE.

SCOTSMAN.

"This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition 'Ariadne.' It shows a charming gift of melody and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to Choral Societies as well worthy of study."

SCOTTISH LEADER.

"The work opens with a charming prelude in sacred style, which sets the mind admirably in tune for the drama which is to follow. In the first scene the Romance sung by the King is a little gem, and would make a beautiful song even apart from its surroundings. In the third scene, the wedding of Arthur and Guinevere gives rise to a whole suite of characteristic novelties. No. 15, which introduces a hymn sung by maidens, is perhaps the finest thing in the whole Cantata; and an effective epilogue brings the work to a striking close. 'King Arthur' will certainly add to the reputation of its gifted composer, and will be welcomed by all lovers of music."

DUNDEE ADVERTISER.

"We began by congratulating Mr. Smeton on the excellence of the libretto, and we conclude with our equally hearty congratulations to him on the excellent use he has made of it. We cordially recommend 'King Arthur' to the notice of choral societies desiring a work which would make their practising a pleasure and their performances a public benefit."

DUNDEE COURIER.

"The whole of 'King Arthur' shows a great power of construction, a wide range of melody, and while there is not a dull or unattractive number in the book, there are several items which stand out pre-eminently as beautiful beyond anything the composer has hitherto achieved, and which are already being sung widely both by professionals and amateurs."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Dundee: METHVEN, SIMPSON and Co.

THE

CAPTIVES OF BABYLON

AN ORATORIO, COMPOSED BY

GEO. SHINN, MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

(SUITABLE FOR CONCERT ROOM OR CHURCH.)

Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

During the short time the Work has been published it has been taken up at the following places: St. Margaret's, Westminster (Canon Farrar's); Christ Church, Lambeth (Rev. Newman Hall's); St. Luke's, Bermondsey; East Dulwich; Peckham; Camberwell (two performances); Islington; Walworth (three performances); Brixton; Streatham (two performances); Southwark; Liverpool; Brighton; Leeds; Edinburgh; Glasgow; Bristol; Sheffield; Chelmsford; Chesterfield; Hastings; Luton; Whitby; Bilston; Gainsborough; Workop; Bromley; Hincley; Coleford; Bradley; Hatton; Maldon; Portsmouth; Manchester; Burry Point; Ashton; Leicester; Tring; Chesham; Highgate; Consett; Norwood; Kensington; Wandsworth; and many other places.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the author of several Cantatas and other compositions, all of which are written in a style at once musicianly and popular. 'The Captives of Babylon' may be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas. The work contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the writer of many popular pieces for choral societies; but this is certainly the best thing he has produced."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

"In our judgment no better work of the kind has yet been published. It is brimful of pretty melodies, and the harmonic effects show the skill of a painstaking and talented musician."—Free Methodist.

"It is cleverly written, and in an attractive style. The music is of a varied and pleasing character, so that it is likely to become very popular."—The Portsmouth Evening Mail.

"Mr. Shinn is well known, and deservedly so for his musical talent. Continuity of design and freshness of conception are apparent throughout the work. It contains many effective solos and choruses, and the music is not difficult. There is no doubt that the Oratorio will become very popular."—South London Press.

"Mr. Shinn has produced a work which is one of the most acceptable of the minor Oratorios."—Bristol Mercury.

HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net, by GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NEW DRAMATIC ORATORIO

EZEKIEL

COMPOSED BY

R. MACHILL GARTH

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS.

SPECIAL TERMS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BAND PARTS MAY BE HAD OF THE PUBLISHERS.

BY THE SAME COMPOSER

Festival Setting of Evening Service

IN E FLAT.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

ALSO, IN THE PRESS

DRAMATIC SETTING OF THE

Charge of the Light Brigade

FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.
2. The Nightingale.
3. The Dove.

4. The Skylark.
5. The Owl.
6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming, the voice-parts being so disposed that they may be easily learnt, and the accompaniments are as characteristic as they are pretty. Each separate piece is so good that we cannot make references to special favourites. Young ladies who take pleasure in part-singing will find variety in the collection, and both in the home circle and in the school class Mr. Gaul's new work is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	6
scarlet cloth	2	0
Or, in Six Numbers	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ISSUE, NOW READY.

Novello, Ewer & Co.'s Catalogues.

No. 1. ORGAN MUSIC.

,, 1A. HARMONIUM MUSIC.

,, 3. MUSIC WITH VOCAL AND ORCHESTRAL PARTS.

,, 4. PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

,, 4A. INSTRUCTION BOOKS, THEORETICAL WORKS, AND LITERATURE OF MUSIC.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by ALFRED R. GAUL.

- O PRAISE GOD IN HIS HOLINESS. Festival Anthem .. 6d.
 BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. Anthem
 for the Season of Christmas 6d.
 NO SHADOWS YONDER ("Holy City") 2d.
 FOR THEE O DEAR, DEAR COUNTRY ("Holy City") .. 2d.
 THINE IS THE KINGDOM ("Holy City") 3d.
 BLESSED ARE THE DEPARTED AND WHY SHOULD'ST
 THOU FEAR THE BEAUTIFUL ANGEL DEATH,
 from the Passion Music, and specially adapted for use at Funeral Services 6d.
 AVE MARIA. Choral Song ("Joan of Arc") 3d.
 WEDDING CHORAL MARCH ("Ruth"). Specially adapted for use at Weddings 4d.
 London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUNG AT A FESTIVAL OF CHOIRS IN PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.
A SHORT FESTAL EVENING SERVICE
 in A. By I. HERBERT STAMMERS. Sixpence.

"Commences quietly enough, but there is some bold writing in the later verses, commencing with 'He hath shewed strength.' The musicianship is unimpeachable throughout."—Musical Times.

"By no means too difficult for average choirs. . . . The words are well expressed and the voice parts smoothly written. Its broad vocal melody, enforced by varying accompaniment, are all productive of excellent effect and well suited for festival occasions."—Leeds Mercury.

"Deserves praise for its dignified character."—Yorkshire Post.
 "A very acceptable addition to Church music of the substantial order."—Liverpool Mercury.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, 8vo, price 3s. 6d.

DORAN and NOTTINGHAM'S NOTED DIRECTORY OF PLAIN SONG. Part I. The Psalter. Every Psalm noted in full, and headed by Intermodal Harmony to Tone and Organ Symphony.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PROCESSIONAL FOR SAINTS' DAYS.
FOR ALL THE SAINTS WHO FROM THEIR LABOURS REST.

Words by the Lord Bishop of WAKEFIELD.

Set to music by FRED. B. TOWNEND, Organist and Choirmaster, Brentwood, Essex. Price 1d. Reduction to Choirs.

Apply to the COMPOSER, as above.

CORNISH CAROLS.

Now being Published, THIRTY-TWO OLD CORNISH CAROLS never before published.

COMPOSED BY

J. STEVENS, J. COAD, T. BROAD, W. EADE,
 A. WOLFF, and others.

Arranged and adapted for Mixed Voices by R. H. HEATH, Organist, Redruth, Cornwall, to whom all Orders must be sent. Church and Chapel Choirs liberally dealt with.

A MORNING and EVENING SERVICE in A flat
 (with BENEDICTUS), by BASIL HARWOOD, M.A., Mus. Bac., Organist of Ely Cathedral. Price 6d. each.
 London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW SACRED SONG, by MARIA CLIFF.

COME UNTO ME (Contralto, optional Treble notes). Published by ROBERT COCKS; to be had of HOPKINSON'S, Commercial Street, Leeds; WADDINGTON'S, Scarborough.

THREEFOLD AMEN.—For use at the conclusion of Divine Service. Composed by EDWARD F. FRENCH. "Very good music, and ecclesiastical in character."—Church Times. Six copies for seven stamps.—Address Mr. French, West End, Kirby Moorside, near York.

Now Ready, in Three Volumes, price 18s. net each.

NEW ORGAN WORK.

HYMN-TUNE VOLUNTARIES

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST,

Mus. Doc., Cantab., Fell. Coll. Org., Professor of the Organ at the Guildhall School of Music, &c.

Subscription copies obtainable direct from the Composer, 88, Tyrwhitt Road, St. John's, London, S.E., at 9s. for either volume, or 24s. 6d. for the set of three, Post-free.

For full particulars refer to former advertisements in The Musical Times for April, May, and June, 1889, pages 250, 251, 314, 315, 378, and 379, or send a stamp for circular and specimen sheet.

In order to enable intending subscribers to see the nature of the work, six of the numbers have been issued separately, at 1s. 6d. net each—viz., Nos. 9, 12, 20, 26, 37, and 47. The third list of subscribers will be issued shortly.

"THE REALM OF TONE."

A PLATE (2½ ft. × 17 ft.) containing 235 Photo-Lithographic PORTRAITS of celebrated Musical Composers, Performers, and Theorists of all nations, from A.D. 1525 to the present time. Sent post-free (on Roller), price 3s. 6d. Address, F. Bishop, Agent and Importer, 39, July Street, Manchester.

REVIEW

OF THE

NEW YORK MUSICAL SEASON

CONTAINING

PROGRAMMES OF NOTEWORTHY OCCURRENCES, WITH NUMEROUS CRITICISMS,

BY

H. E. KREHBIEL.

VOLUME I., 1885—1886. | VOLUME III., 1887—1888.
 „ II., 1886—1887. | „ IV., 1888—1889.

NEW YORK & LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRESS NOTICES.

"MR. KREHBIEL is a musical critic of very high rank, not only among American writers on music, but as compared with writers of European celebrity. The introduction prepares us for a pleasure of no ordinary kind; it is written, not in American, but in English of almost unimpeachable purity, and with a degree of literary style for which we were scarcely prepared. If all English critics would get this book and attempt to imitate the writer's fearless honesty, impartiality, and, more than all, his power of forming an opinion, English musical criticism would be a different thing from what it is at present."—Musical World.

"Vom Verfasser dieser Rundschau, Herrn Krehbiel, weiss ich nicht zu sagen, ob er ein Deutscher oder ein eingeborener Amerikaner ist; sein Name war mir bisher unbekannt, sein Buch kam mir aus zweiter Hand zu. Aber seine Besprechungen habe ich mit grossem Vergnügen gelesen; sie lassen überall den musikalisch gründlich gebildeten und einsichtsvollen Beurtheiler erkennen; man begegnet fast auf jeder Seite richtigster durchdachter Auffassung und glücklichen Einfällen. Er steht ganz auf dem Boden der neuen Anschauungen, behält jedoch immer die allgemeinen Kunstgesetze im Auge. Seine Besprechungen bezeugen gleichzeitig seine gründlichen Kenntnisse wie sein Verdienste um den Sieg deutscher Musik in New York."—Dr. Ehrlich in the Tageblatt, Berlin.

"It is a pleasure to welcome Mr. H. E. Krehbiel's third annual REVIEW OF THE NEW YORK MUSICAL SEASON, published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., of New York and London. This publication is by far the best annual record of musical activity which appears anywhere, not excepting even Paris, and the future historian of the development of American music will be fortunate in having such a chronicle to guide him. Mr. Krehbiel's criticisms are always thoughtful and often profound; he is uncommonly free from prejudice, extremely accurate, and never errs in lavishing praise at any price."—The Manchester Guardian.

"The interest and excellence of the work are immeasurably increased by the comments of the author, which are introduced wherever there is a musical event of sufficient importance to evoke them. To all who love great music and hope for the general spread of musical culture, Mr. Krehbiel's name is a tower of strength, for all know him as a strong, self-contained, unpartisan advocate of the highest and truest in the tone art. . . . It is a genuine pleasure to read a book of criticism which so fully demonstrates the author's right to be a critic. Mr. Krehbiel is quick to recognise merit wherever he finds it, and he exhibits a commendable lack of sympathy with anything approaching sectionalism or nationalism in art. Music is to him music, and he stands ready to praise or condemn it with equal dispassionateness, whether it be German, Italian, or French, solely on its merits. This ought to be true of every critic of music, but unfortunately for the progress of the art it is true of but one or two others beside Mr. Krehbiel in this country. . . . THE REVIEW reveals the author, not as the salaried critic of a daily newspaper, but as a thinker, calm and well supported by study, a commentator temperate in mood and just of appreciation, an unselfish and unbiassed advocate of all that is best in one of the noblest of arts."—The New York Times.

"It would not be opportune on this occasion, even if it were possible, to deal with Mr. Krehbiel's criticisms. Dissenting from them as we do in certain matters, they are unquestionably the product of remarkable independence and insight. His criticism of Madame Patti's Carmen is positively refreshing, and his remarks (pp. 201—204) on Beethoven's belief in the metronome, in connection with Herr Seidl's interpretation of the symphonies, show that a conservative antagonism to mere lawlessness is quite compatible with an intense faith in the advanced school of composers and interpreters."—The Saturday Review.

Any one of these volumes will be sent to any address, post-free, on receipt of 8s. or 6s. 6d., together with a subscription to the fifth volume, to be issued next year.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.,

21, East Seventeenth Street, New York, and 1, Berners Street, London.

NOVELLO'S SHORT ANTHEMS.

A SERIES OF SHORT AND EASY ANTHEMS

ADAPTED TO THE

Seasons of the Church, and Suitable for Introits

EDITED BY

THE REV. W. RUSSELL, M.A., MUS. BAC.,

Succentor of St. Paul's Cathedral,

AND

SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., MUS. DOC.

THIS Series is an attempt to meet the want of short and easy Anthems adapted to the Church's Seasons and suitable especially for Introits.

It would have been more satisfactory, from an ecclesiastical point of view, if the words selected could have been restricted to those of the Introits in use in the English Church in ancient times. But this was found to be impossible. For, while in many instances they did not lend themselves to the form of music required, in others—being derived, as they mainly are, from the Psalms—they had been already set to music once, or twice, or even oftener, by earlier writers. And, quite apart from the question of the suitability of that music for the present purpose, composers, as a rule, much prefer to proceed by untrodden paths.

Hence an endeavour has been made to select passages from Holy Scripture which had not been previously employed for such a purpose, and which would still satisfy the end in view. And in doing this it has been attempted—after the example of the Introits and Antiphons of old—to try and enter into the spirit of each season, and to breathe out its sentiments by inference frequently rather than by direct allusion.

Possibly, in trying to carry out this idea, the words selected have in some instances necessitated a musical setting longer than was at first intended; but it would neither have been possible nor desirable that the whole of the compositions thus put together should have been framed upon one uniform pattern. Several of them too—as will be perceived—have been already published in other forms.

But it is hoped that the series will, as a whole, so help to meet the want felt that its further extension may be rendered necessary. With this idea in view, it has been thought undesirable that the Anthems should at present be arranged strictly according to the Church's seasons, although, as the series is increased, this and other improvements may be effected.

The following Numbers, Price 1½d. each, are now ready :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 10. BELOVED, NOW ARE WE THE SONS
OF GOD E. H. Thorne. | 3. PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY J. Baptiste Calkin. |
| 9. BLESSED IS HE B. Luard Selby. | 14. REJOICE GREATLY.. Rev. H. H. Woodward. |
| 1. GOD, WHO IS RICH IN MERCY G. M. Garrett. | 5. TEACH ME THY WAY, O LORD W. H. Gladstone. |
| 11. GRANT, WE BESEECH THEE .. J. Booth. | 4. THE GREAT DAY OF THE LORD IS NEAR.. .. George C. Martin. |
| 8. I WILL MAGNIFY THEE.. B. Luard Selby. | 12. THE PILLARS OF THE EARTH ARE
THE LORD'S Berthold Tours. |
| 13. O LORD, MY TRUST IS IN THY
MERCY King Hall. | 2. WHEN MY SOUL FAINTED WITHIN
ME J. Frederick Bridge. |
| 15. O LORD, REBUKE ME NOT .. H. Lahee. | 6. WHO ARE WE, O LORD .. C. Harford Lloyd. |
| 7. OUR SOUL ON GOD WITH PATIENCE
WAITS G. M. Garrett. | |

To be continued.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

'Tis Morn 3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.).. 2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) .. 3d.	Welcome, young Spring! .. 2d.
The River 3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.).. 2d.
Over the mountain side .. 3d.	The Dream of Home .. 2d.
Soul of living music .. 3d.	Summer and Winter .. 2d.
The Jäger Chorus 3d.	Departed Joys 2d.
The Stormy Petrel 3d.	There's beauty in the deep .. 1d.
The Coral Grove 3d.	Soldier, rest! 1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu .. 3d.	Woods in Winter 1d.
The Oyster Dredgers .. 2d.	Autumn 1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (34th thousand) 3d.
Three Children sliding. (6th thousand) 3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste 4d.
The Snow-white Doe 4d.
Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD) 3d.
The Carrion Crow 3d.

PART-SONGS.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse 4d.	The Ocean 3d.
Off to Sea 4d.	*The Ironfounders (24th thou.) 3d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Complete Edition. Fourth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(Composer of the "Holy City," "Ruth," &c.)

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. No. 4, 'April,' and No. 5, 'May,' are our special favourites, the one being delightfully playful, the other tenderly melodious. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices. The pianoforte accompaniments are well written, and such as an ordinary pianist may successfully undertake."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Parts I. and II.	each	1	0
Complete, paper cover		1	6
Ditto, paper boards		2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth		3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers	each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas	26th thousand	..	2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	7th	"	3d.
A Happy New Year	5th	"	3d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	53rd	"	2d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, and Forest Echoes	9th	each	3d.
Fairy Revels	12th	"	3d.
England's Glory	7th	"	3d.
Sunny Rays and The Streamlet	4th	each	3d.
Songs of Praise the Angels sang	7th	"	3d.
Who is Sylvia? and Where are you roaming?	2nd	each	3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave	2nd	"	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced price, 3d.; Sol-fa, 1d.
TO TAKE THE AIR A BONNY LASS WAS WALKING. A Madrigal for S.A.T.B. Composed by W. WOLSTENHOLME, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; Manchester: WATSON and Co. Post-free from the COMPOSER, 36, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by ALBERT HAM, F.C.O.

Part-Song—"The sun has gone down" (S.A.T.B.)	2d.
"—"Little Jack Horner"	4d.
(Sung with great success in London and provinces.)
Two-part Songs (S.C.)—"The Robin"	2d.
"—"The Skylark"	2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED GILBERT'S SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOLS and CHOIR-BOYS is equally adapted for Ladies' and other Schools. Price 6d. Appendix of Practical Exercises. 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SINGING BOOK Series of Two-Part Songs, For Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Suitable for Classes. 8vo, 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR COMPOSITIONS by GABRIEL DAVIS.

SONGS.

WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? (New Patriotic Song.) s. d.
The Words written by F. E. Weatherly 2 0
(Sung by Mr. THURLEY BEALE.)

KING CARNIVAL. The Words written by F. E. Weatherly 2 0
BY THE RIVER. The Words written by Herbert Gardner .. 2 0
ELSIE (The Flower Girl's Song) 2
(Sung by Miss ADA TOLKIEN.)

THE ZINGARA 2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON.)

THE COMING YEAR. The Words written by Dean Alford 2 0
THE OLD MEADOW GATE. The Words written by R. Richardson, Esq. 2 0

NELLIE OF THE LEA. The words written by R. Richardson, Esq. 2 0

THE LITTLE LASS O' BRAY. The Words written by Edward Oxenford 2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON and Miss JEANIE ROSSE.)

PIANOFORTE, &c.

ALBANY. Grande Marche Triomphale (Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold). 2nd Edition 2 0
Transcription for the Organ, by Dr. W. J. Westbrook .. 2 0
MY LADY BARBARA'S GAVOTTE 2 0

PART-SONGS, S.A.T.B.

THE THREE STARS. 2nd Edition	0	2
THE KNIGHT'S RETURN. 8th Edition	0	2
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. 19th Edition	0	2
THE DISTANT SEA. 6th Edition	0	2
TO THE WOODS. 13th Edition	0	2
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC. 8th Edition	0	2
THE HOUR OF REST. 5th Edition	0	2
DAME WIGGINS OF LEE. (Humorous.) 10th Edition	0	2
DAME TROT. (Humorous.) 7th Edition	0	2
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? 4th Edition. (Patriotic Part-Song. For T.T.B.B.)	0	3

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS by A. J. CALDI-COTT.

Poor Little Tom-ee (just published)	6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (just published)	6d.
Humpty Dumpty	6d.
Little Jack Horner (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	6d.
Jack and Jill	4d.
The House that Jack built (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	6d.
Sobbing Quartet	3d.
The Haymakers. Part-song	4d.
Out on the Waters. Part-song	4d.
Yule. Part-song	4d.
The Boy and the Bee	6d.

London: METZLER and Co., 42, Great Marlborough Street, W.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

TOM, TOM, THE PIPER'S SON. By ALFRED ALLEN, composer of "Dickory, Dickory, Dock." Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE CHILDREN

FOUR-PART SONG

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Threepence.

The poem "The Children" is singularly beautiful and touching.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EDMUND ROGERS'S SUCCESSFUL HUMOROUS CANTATAS.

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK
BLUE BEARD
JOHN GILPIN
BEAUTY AND THE BEAST.

Price 3s. each net. Chorus Parts only, 1s. 6d. net.

"One of the most popular composers, in his own particular line, of the day."—The Yorkshire Musician.

"Mr. Rogers has evidently a special talent for the composition of Humorous Cantatas."—Musical Times.

"Skillful construction, refined humour, and a spontaneous flow of graceful melody characterise Mr. Rogers's Cantatas."—Queen.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

ON THE RIVER

TWO-PART SONG

English adaptation by F. CORDER.

MUSIC BY

S. NEUKOMM.

Price Fourpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIX HYMNS

AS USED AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, BRIGHTON.

- No. 1. Come, Thou Holy Paraclete (1st Setting).
2. Come, Holy Ghost.
3. Come, Thou Holy Paraclete (2nd Setting).
4. Jesus, gentlest Saviour.
5. O let Him whose sorrow.
6. Jesu, grant me this I pray.

MUSIC BY

CHARLES C. ROBEY.

Price One Shilling; separately, each Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A VILLAGE HOLIDAY

(UNE FÊTE AU VILLAGE)

English Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM.

MUSIC ARRANGED AS DUET AND CHORUS BY

B. LÜTZEN.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CONSIDER THE LILIES

The Words selected from the Holy Scriptures; the Music composed by ROBERT TOPLIFF.

ARRANGED FOR TWO VOICES BY

B. LÜTZEN.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NIGHTINGALE

TWO-PART SONG

Words by W. HALL.

MUSIC BY

C. T. WEST.

Price Fourpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SHIPWRECK

(BIRMINGHAM PRIZE GLEE)

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Fourpence.

The gratuitous loan of Orchestral Parts, as also the same arranged as Pianoforte Duet, may be had on application to the Composer.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FIVE MINUTES' EXERCISES

IN TWO PARTS

FOR THE USE OF SINGING-CLASSES IN SCHOOLS

COMPILED AND ARRANGED BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

HARMONY:

ITS THEORY AND PRACTICE

BY

EBENEZER PROUT,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music, &c.

BOUND, NET 5s.

AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate Street, E.C.; and only West End address, 1, Foubert's Place, W., London.

To be published by Subscription.

SCORE READING EXERCISES

Designed for Students preparing for F.C.O. Names should be sent to the COMPOSER at an early date. Address, Dr. E. W. Taylor, Stafford.

"H. GERMER'S ELEMENTARY AND PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL is a model work of its kind."—Signale."Among the best works of this kind, Germer's highly interesting Pianoforte School must be mentioned."—C. Eschmann's Guide through Pianoforte Playing.

The author of the above desires to point out that this work has not been written to order, but simply with a view to produce a good and rational instruction, affording to the young pupil higher and better musical development.

May be had in three Parts, 2s. 6d. each net; or, complete, paper cover, 6s. net; or, boards, 7s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CATECHISM ON THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC and PIANOFORTE PLAYING. By E. ELLICE JEWELL. Fourth and Revised Edition. Price 1s. Also,ELEMENTARY EXERCISES, to be used in conjunction with the above-named work. No manuscript music-book or paper will be required, as space is left with ruled staves for the pupil to write all the exercises in this book. Price 2s.PIANOFORTE STUDENT'S DAILY STUDY, comprising Scales, Chords, Arpeggi, and Finger Exercises. Arranged by ELLICE E. JEWELL. Price 6s.

LAMBORN COCK, 26, Old Broad Street, London.

Dedicated, by permission, to the College of Organists.

2ND THOUSAND.—ON TUNING THE ORGAN: Illustrated. Faults with remedies. Post-free, 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. HEMSTOCK, Organist, Diss. "Every page shows that Mr. Hemstock is master of his subject."—Musical Standard."Contains much useful information."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

THEORY OF MUSIC

By LOUISA GIBSON.

FIRST BOOK (25th Thousand). Price 1s.—Elements of Music.SECOND BOOK (4th Edition). Price 1s. Newly revised, assisted by E. PROUT, Esq.—Triads, Suspensions, &c.THIRD BOOK (2nd Edition). Price 1s. Newly revised, assisted by E. PROUT, Esq.—Dissonant Harmony, Counterpoint, &c."Real marvels of conciseness and practical utility."—E. Aguilar.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE VESPER BELL

SERIES OF ORGAN PIECES

By WALTER SPINNEY,

Organist of the Parish Church, Royal Leamington Spa.

- | No. | | s. d. |
|-----|--|---------|
| 1. | VESPER BELLS (5th printing) | net 1 6 |
| 2. | HARVEST HOME (4th printing). Descriptive piece .. | " 1 6 |
| 3. | SONGS IN THE NIGHT (5th printing) | " 1 0 |
| 4. | STATE MARCH in C (2nd printing) | " 2 0 |
| 5. | ALLEGRO from 4th CONCERTO, by Dr. T. S. DUPUIS (2nd printing) | " 1 6 |
| 6. | DAYBREAK (Andante varied). Composed expressly for the eminent Belgian Organist, M. AUGUSTE WIEGAND | " 1 6 |
| 7. | BERCEUSE in D (ready in a few days) | " 1 6 |

These pieces have been, and are, played in public by the following distinguished gentlemen:—

Dr. G. C. Martin (St. Paul's Cathedral), A. J. Eyre, Esq. (Crystal Palace), Dr. J. V. Roberts (Mag. Coll., Oxford), Dr. H. Keeton (Peterborough Cathedral), Dr. J. W. Hinton, M.A., Rev. T. H. Spinney, M.A., F.C.O., Dr. C. Warwick Jordan, Dr. Frank Bates (Norwich Cathedral), Dr. Horton Allison, Wm. Adkins, Esq., Edmund Rogers, Esq. (St. Michael's, Paddington), Dr. E. M. Lott, Dr. C. E. Allum (Public Hall, Stirling), T. Mortimer Dudman, Esq. (Royal Westminster Aquarium), Dr. J. C. Marks (Cork Cathedral), Ed. Bartlett, Esq., F.C.O., Yates Mander, Esq., F.C.O., A. R. Gaul, Esq., Mus. B., E. Minshall, Esq. (City Temple), C. W. Lavington, Esq., Dr. H. A. Harding, Dr. W. T. Belcher, A. H. Brewer, Esq. (St. Michael's, Coventry), Mons. Jules Grison (Grand Organ, Cathedral, Rheims), G. H. Gregory, Esq., Mus. B. (Parish Church, Boston), J. H. Pearson, Esq., F.C.O., E. H. Smith, Esq., F.C.O., D. J. Wood, Esq., Mus. B. (Exeter Cathedral), F. Burstall, Esq., F.C.O. (Liverpool Cathedral), J. J. Finlay, Esq., J. E. R. Senior, Esq., Mus. B., A. M. Richardson, Esq., Mus. B. (Keeble Coll., Oxford), H. Riding, Esq., F.C.O., Walter W. Robinson, Esq., Mons. Auguste Wiegand (Kursaal, Ostend), Mons. Theodore Dubois (The Madeleine, Paris), J. M. Barnett, Esq., Robt. Sharpe, Esq. (Southampton), T. E. Spinney, Esq., J. W. Elliott, Esq., A. B. Plant, Esq., Mus. B., J. Asquith, Esq., Mus. B., W. H. Bellamy, Esq., Dr. J. H. Lewis, F. Kilvington Hattersley, Esq., Mus. B., A. Burns Nelson, Esq., G. E. Lyle, Esq. (Sherborne Abbey), W. P. Fairclough, Esq., Mus. B., Eugène de English, Esq., Mus. B., D. J. Middleton, Esq., Dr. F. J. Greenish, R. B. Bateman, Esq., Mus. B., C. D. Mortimer, Esq., George A. Holmes, Esq., Horace Petley, Esq., C. F. South, Esq. (Salisbury Cathedral), P. H. Diemer, Esq., Mons. Henri Dallier (St. Eustache, Paris), Mons. Emile Bernard (Paris), George Porter, Esq., F.C.O., Dr. E. W. Taylor, Dr. Roland Rogers (Bangor Cathedral), Henry Clark, Esq. (London Organ School), Dr. H. W. Wareing, Ed. Griffiths, Esq., F.C.O., D. R. Munro, Esq., Boyton Smith, Esq., Ferris Tozer, Esq., W. Mulineux, F.C.O., J. W. Marshall, Esq., F. W. Cook, Esq., Mus. B., Alfred Oake, Esq., A. J. Leigh, Esq. (Mayor of Chorley), &c.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Or, of the COMPOSER, Bemerton House, Leamington Spa.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND PROVINCIAL PRESS

ON

A. R. GAUL'S CANTATA
"JOAN OF ARC"

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

ATHENÆUM.

"An advance on the earlier work, 'The Holy City.' . . . The choruses are written with much knowledge of effect, and an 'Ave Maria' and the final chorus of the 'Spirit Voices' may be named as really charming."

LONDON FIGARO.

"Bound to be widely taken up, doubtless to attain which end the composer has employed but three soloists, and has given a more than usually large degree of importance to the choral work. . . . The 'Ave Maria' is singularly beautiful."

DAILY NEWS.

"Obviously written with a special view to the requirements of choral societies, and likely to become highly popular."

REFERER.

"Calculated to delight performers and listeners, being full of melody and taking effects."

WESTERN TIMES.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"

THE SHIELDS DAILY NEWS.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."

LEAMINGTON SPA COURIER.

"St. Paul's Choral Society brought their season to a close with a performance in the Town Hall of 'Joan of Arc.' The Cantata, both in verse and music, is essentially fascinating and contains all the elements necessary to make it one of the standard works for performance by musical societies, the choral writing and orchestration being simply charming."

TEWKESBURY REGISTER.

"The Conductor of the Philharmonic Society is to be congratulated on his selection of a Cantata possessing such attractive music as that which goes to make 'Joan of Arc' what it undoubtedly is—viz., the best work I remember having heard in Tewkesbury."

NORWICH DAILY PRESS.

"By the invitation of the Head Mistress of the High School, a large company assembled to hear a performance of 'Joan of Arc.' There is probably no living English composer who has obtained more popularity with provincial choral societies than Mr. A. R. Gaul. His sacred Cantata, 'The Holy City,' is more extensively known than any other modern English composition of a similar character, and 'Joan of Arc' has already been successfully performed in London and many of the largest provincial towns. Mr. Gaul's writing is characterised by the most perfectly neat workmanship and spontaneity, combined with a never-failing resource of melodic invention."

CRYSTAL PALACE REPORTER.

"The music throughout is of a very high order, and full of beauty and interest, so much so that it is hardly possible to single out any numbers for special praise. The various movements are widely contrasted in style, in some considerable dramatic power being manifest, but all overflow with melody, and there is a happy absence of the restlessness of tonality which disfigures so many modern works. The vocal parts, whether for soli or chorus, are written within the range of average vocalists, and are therefore grateful alike to the singers and hearers. The Cantata is a credit to English art, . . . one of the most interesting works yet given by the Anerley Society."

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON HERALD.

"In 'Joan of Arc,' particularly in the latter part, there are some exquisite passages—some charming descriptive pieces. The lovely 'Hark! thy spirit voices call,' carried one away in the spirit into veritable realms of dreamland, and the chorus, 'Fret not thyself to-day' is picturesquely beautiful, graceful, and effective."

THE WESTERN NEWS, December 6, 1888.

"Few cantatas are as rich in chaste melodies, charming choruses, and exquisite orchestration as Alfred R. Gaul's 'Joan of Arc,' performed for the first time in Plymouth by the Vocal Association in the Guildhall last evening."

THE WESTERN DAILY MERCURY, December 6, 1888.

"Proved an unqualified success, . . . the bulk of the Cantata is allotted to the chorus. In fact, the choir of this Association has seldom had such a good opportunity for giving their sterling worth a good display."

LEEDS MERCURY, November 7, 1888.

"Drew forth enthusiastic plaudits. . . . Of the Cantata, as interpreted last evening (in the Town Hall, Leeds, with a band and chorus of 250 performers), it is impossible to speak in terms of anything but praise. Solos and choruses alike are full of melody, while the orchestration is descriptive to a degree. For each of the principal vocalists there is one song that singles itself out, and each received an encore."

HERTS AND CAMBRIDGE REPORTER.

"The theme is one of the most romantic in the pages of history. In the earlier and poetic passages there is something of the charm of Sir Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen.' The last chorus is set to music which would be not unworthy of the great masters."

LIVERPOOL COURIER.

"Must enhance the high reputation of its composer."

HUDDERSFIELD EXAMINER.

"The inspiration of a highly-refined musician. . . . The Cantata even a more masterly and beautiful work than 'The Holy City.'"

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE DAILY CHRONICLE.

"No more charming Cantata than 'Joan of Arc' could have been conceived. It abounds in delicious music. There is not a tedious note in it."

BRADFORD OBSERVER.

"Gives the listener a vivid and realistic impression, its attractiveness being continuous instead of spasmodic."

BIRMINGHAM DAILY TIMES.

"It would not be surprising if it attained to even the almost phenomenal popularity of 'The Holy City'; contains a similar wealth of melody and effective part-writing."

BIRMINGHAM DAILY GAZETTE.

"Reading the score convinces us that it is our townsman's greatest production. . . . Could have been originated by none but a born melodist."

BIRMINGHAM DAILY POST.

"A distinct advance upon Mr. Gaul's previous work in cantata form. . . . A constant flow of exquisite melodies and effective choral writing."

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

"A thoroughly melodious work, and should find favour with choral societies. It is not difficult to sing, and contains sufficient variety to keep up the interest to the end."

Paper cover	price	s.	d.	Tonic Sol-fa	price	s.	d.
" boards	"	3	0	Vocal parts	each	"	1	0
Scarlet cloth	"	4	0	Words only	per 100	"	7	6
(ENT. STA. HALL.)

(ENT. STA. HALL.]

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT 1881, CONTAINING 37 TUNES, 6d.

TO MATCH EITHER EDITION.

	The complete work, containing 751 Tunes and Chants.	s. d.
No. 9.	Limp cloth	4 0
" 10.	Cloth boards	5 0
" 11.	Small edition	3 0
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa	3 0

First and Second Series can still be had separate.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS (BIBLE VERSION),
With Canticles and Anthems.Pointed for Chanting for Congregational use 1 3
(Offered in quantity at reduced price per dozen.)

The pointing is of the simplest plan, easily understood, and without multiplication of marks and accents, which tend to confuse rather than help.

Communications and inquiries as to copyrights, and also as to supplies of these works at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

SECOND EDITION. REDUCED PRICES.

Words and Music, 4to, cloth, price 4s. 6d.; 18mo, 1s. 9d.; Treble, 16mo, 1s. Words only, 9d. and 6d.; paper, 4½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And SIMPKIN and MARSHALL.

THE HOME HYMN-BOOK.

Second Edition, with Music, 3s. 6d. Words only, 6d. and upwards.

Dr. G. C. MARTIN: "It is one of the very best collections existing."
Dr. FRANK BATES: "I have gone carefully through the book, and like it exceedingly."

Dr. J. C. BRIDGE: "An excellent collection, and the number of hymns suitable for children is a strong feature."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes
as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ONE SHILLING EACH BOOK.

ORGAN ARRANGEMENTS

FROM

MENDELSSOHN'S
ELIJAH.

TEN AIRS. Arranged by GEORGE CALKIN, in two Books, each 1 0

Book I.		s. d.
If with all your hearts.	Lord God of Abraham.
O rest in the Lord.	Lift thine eyes.
Woe unto them.	Then shall the righteous.

Book II.		s. d.
For the mountains shall depart.	It is enough.
Hear ye, Israel.	O come every one.

SIX PIECES, easily arranged		s. d.
For He the Lord our God.	Thanks be to God.	1 0
For He shall give His angels.	I am He that comforteth.
Cast thy burden.	Be not afraid.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUITE DE TROIS MORCEAUX

(MARCHE RUSTIQUE, LIED, MARCHE DE FÊTE)

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

EUGÈNE GIGOUT.

Complete, 4s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 6d. Vocal parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants,
Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments.
Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 32mo, without Chants, 9d. with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with Chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d.London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And PARKER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 9d.; cloth,
1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. Edited by
E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth,
2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twentieth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57
RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE.
Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small edition is in preparation.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLI-
CANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLI-
CANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.
Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NEW EDITION, IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

ORGAN VOLUNTARIES FOR CHURCH USE

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST,

88, Tyrwhitt Road, St. John's, London, S.E.

PART I.—TWENTY-TWO CONCLUDING VOLUNTARIES IN MARCH FORM. Price 21s. net.

	Net.		Net.
	s. d.		s. d.
1. Majestic March in C ..	1 0	12. Festival March in D flat	2 0
2. March in C ..	1 0	13. Jubilant March in A flat	1 6
3. March in A minor ..	1 6	14. Solemn March in F minor	1 6
4. March in G ..	1 0	15. Pilgrims' March in E flat	1 6
5. March in G ..	1 0	16. Elegiac March in C minor	1 6
6. Grand March in E minor	2 0	17. March in B flat ..	1 0
7. Pompous March in B min.	1 6	18. Heroic March in G minor	1 0
8. March in A ..	1 0	19. Joyous March in F ..	1 6
9. March in F sharp minor	1 6	20. Triumphant March in F ..	1 0
10. Processional March in E	2 0	21. Religious March in D
11. Serious March in C sharp		minor ..	1 0
minor ..	1 0	22. March in C ..	1 0

PART II.—ELEVEN ANDANTES. Price 10s. 6d. net.

1. In E minor ..	net	1 0	7. In D ..	net	1 0
2. In F ..	1 0		8. In G ..	1 0
3. In C minor ..	1 6		9. In E minor ..	1 0
4. In E flat ..	1 0		10. In G ..	1 0
5. In D ..	1 0		11. In F ..	1 0
6. In G ..	1 0

PART III.—THIRTY-SIX SHORT AND EASY VOLUNTARIES.
Price 15s. net.Twenty-five Numbers from this Part have been issued separately at 9d. net, or 1s. net each.

Of the COMPOSER; or, of NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

REDUCED PRICE.

Fifth edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s., paper cover; 3s., cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS

SINGLE AND DOUBLE

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains nearly 400 Chants, which are appropriated to "Venite, exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series, suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WILL BE READY SHORTLY.

THE CRUSADER

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

EISTEDDFOD PRIZE LIBRETTO

(English and Welsh Words).

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

B. PARSONS.

PARTS AND FULL SCORE FOR HIRE.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

THREE SACRED SONGS

FOR VOICE AND PIANOFORTE

With an ad libitum Accompaniment for the Harmonium or Organ

COMPOSED BY

GERARD F. COBB.

(Op. 16.)

No. 1. THE ANGEL'S SONG.

" 2. NOT NOW, MY CHILD.

" 3. BLOW, GOLDEN TRUMPETS.

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

PIANOFORTE ALBUMS

EDITED BY BERTHOLD TOURS.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

No. 38.—FIFTY HUNGARIAN NATIONAL SONGS BY RUDOLF ALTSCHUL.

Accurately arranged from the Originals.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Scarce has the dawn appeared. | 26. Red ribbon round my hat. |
| 2. What shall a maiden do? | 27. Thorns prick me as I go. |
| 3. The swallow departs. | 28. There is twilight in the heaven. |
| 4. My mother besought me. | 29. Lilies grow in the meadows. |
| 5. The stars are fewer in heaven. | 30. Didst thou ever think it? |
| 6. Play now, sad melodies. | 31. The dove flew down. |
| 7. Peacefully flow the waters of Maros. | 32. Once I had a beautiful sweet-heart. |
| 8. Ruffled is the scarf. | 33. O chafer, yellow chafer. |
| 9. I love not. | 34. The meadow fields. |
| 10. O Jew, Jew! | 35. Three roses on one stem. |
| 11. It burns when it flickers. | 36. While I was yet unwed. |
| 12. The rosy apple has a thin skin. | 37. Gipsy song. |
| 13. The Danube and the Theiss are troubled. | 38. False is this maiden. |
| 14. The petals are falling. | 39. I love thee, but betray it not. |
| 15. If I were but a girl again. | 40. If thou lovest me. |
| 16. Three times the quail. | 41. O tuberos, tuberos. |
| 17. The little bud blossoms into the red rose. | 42. If thou, my heart. |
| 18. The crane flies far overhead. | 43. The Pusztá is covered white with snow. |
| 19. Marie, Marie, I kiss thine eyes. | 44. The bird is flying. |
| 20. My treasure, thy kiss is sweet. | 45. The swallow flies towards the shore. |
| 21. The betrothed maiden. | 46. My little golden bird. |
| 22. Hope. | 47. Is there a fairer life? |
| 23. It is not I alone. | 48. Great lamentation did I make. |
| 24. O forest, dark forest. | 49. There is none poorer in the world than I. |
| 25. In the village the maidens whisper. | 50. Away with care and sorrow. |

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HAROLD.—DRAMATIC CANTATA for SOLO VOICES AND ORCHESTRA. Founded on Lord Lytton's Historical Novel. The Poetry by the Rev. F. W. VERNHAM; the Music by J. F. H. READ. Performed at the Walthamstow Musical Festival for 1887. Price 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE GLOUCESTER
FESTIVAL, 1889.

THE

Last Night at Bethany

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

The Words written and compiled by

JOSEPH BENNETT

The Music composed by

C. LEE WILLIAMS

(Gloucester).

VOCAL SCORE: paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
String Parts, 8s. 6d. Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE TIMES.

None of the composer's former works prepared us for such ease and breadth as are to be found at the beginning of the opening Chorus. . . . The setting of the Hymn "The heavenly Word proceeding forth," for quartet and chorus, is excellently written, and, if we are not mistaken, will become widely popular as a separate anthem.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The effect of the deeply religious and often most moving strains upon the vast audience was obvious, and more eloquent in manifestation than the loudest applause. . . . Here was the revelation of a church composer strong in power, and of a work which, as regards its music, should take a place among the best that church art can show.

THE STANDARD.

There is very little doubt that Mr. Williams's Cantata will obtain a large amount of favour "in choirs and places where they sing." The composer has had the inestimable advantage of Mr. Joseph Bennett as a librettist. . . . The stanzas glow with religious fervour, from the first to the last; and yet are sufficiently diverse in metre to afford the composer plenty of opportunity for musical variety. "The Last Night at Bethany" may, perhaps, be regarded as the best work of its kind by an English composer.

THE MORNING POST.

It is a work which is likely to be heartily received as an addition to the limited store of church cantatas available during the penitential seasons of the Church. . . . Mr. Williams has shown how thoroughly he has entered into the spirit of the subject. His music is tender, devotional, and expressive, as required by the details of the story. It is, moreover, distinguished by a character of spontaneity which leaves the impression on the mind of the hearer that nothing has been done to force the sentiment for the purpose of displaying particular knowledge of musical resources.

THE DAILY NEWS.

Mr. Williams's music is for the most part of a devotional order, and, as the Cantata is avowedly written for use in the ordinary services of the Church, the composer has wisely been satisfied to secure his best effects without any pretentious display of mere scholarship.

THE DAILY CHRONICLE.

The whole work betrays thought, originality, and cultivation, and it is to be hoped will be followed by more productions from the same partners. Mr. Williams has already more than fulfilled the promise of his earlier music for the Church.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE GLOUCESTER
FESTIVAL, 1889.

ELYSIUM

FOR SOPRANO SOLO, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

THE POEM WRITTEN BY

MRS. HEMANS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ROSALIND FRANCES ELICOTT.

VOCAL SCORE: paper cover, 1s.
String Parts, 4s. 6d. Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE TIMES.

The conclusion, "Fade away, thou shore of Asphodel," is extremely effective, and it is little wonder that the work was received with every mark of favour.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The piece asserts Miss Ellicott's possession of a pleasing melody vein and no little skill in working out ideas, which in the present case harmonise with the character and sentiment of the allied verse.

THE STANDARD.

"Elysium" is a notable effort for a lady amateur, quite worthy of the enthusiastic reception accorded to it.

Miss Ellicott's brief Cantata "Elysium" is a worthy setting of Mrs. Hemans's poem.

THE MORNING POST.

Miss Ellicott is certainly one of the gifted of our lady musical amateurs, and she may be congratulated upon having produced a work which will not find its last hearing at this festival.

THE DAILY NEWS.

"Elysium" is a very acceptable composition. It is melodious, the choral parts are well written, and the whole is marked by fancy and refinement.

THE DAILY CHRONICLE.

The orchestration is singularly delicate, whilst vividly suggestive of the subject. Both for its own sake and for its promise of yet greater things, "Elysium" is a work upon which Miss Ellicott may be warmly congratulated.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

TWELVE PIECES

FOR ORGAN

BY

THEO. DUBOIS,

ORGANIST OF THE MADELEINE, PARIS.

PRICE EIGHT SHILLINGS.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SELECTED SONGS

BY

JOHANNES BRAHMS.

FOR HIGH OR LOW VOICE

(ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND GERMAN WORDS).

TWO VOLUMES, EACH NET 3s.

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

1. LIEBESTREU—TRUE LOVE.
2. AN EIN VEILCHEN—TO A VIOLET.
3. MEINE LIEBE IST GRÜN—LIKE A BLOSSOMING LILAC.
4. ALTE LIEBE—THE OLD LOVE.
5. AN DIE NACHTIGALL—TO A NIGHTINGALE.
6. FELDEINSAMKEIT—IN SUMMER FIELDS.

CONTENTS OF VOL. II.

1. SAPPHISCHE ODE—SAPPHIC ODE.
2. BOTSCHAFT—THE MESSAGE.
3. VERGEBLICHES STÄNDCHEN—THE VAIN SUIT.
4. DER GANG ZUM LIEBCHEN—THE WATCHFUL LOVER.
5. SOMMERABEND—SUMMER EVENING.
6. DORT IN DEN WEIDEN—THERE 'MONG THE WILLOWS.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

EIGHT LOVE SONGS

(OP. 83)

BY

ANTONIN DVOŘÁK.

(WITH ENGLISH, GERMAN, AND BOHEMIAN WORDS).

ONE VOLUME, NET 3s.

CONTENTS.

1. WIRD DOCH DIE LIEBE—NEVER WILL LOVE.
2. TODT IST'S IN MANCHER MENSCHENBRUST—DEATH REIGNS.
3. ICH SCHLEICHEUM JENES HAUS—I WANDER OFT PAST YONDER HOUSE.
4. ICH WEISS DASS MEINER LIEB—I KNOW THAT ON MY LOVE.
5. RINGS DIE NATUR—NATURE LIES PEACEFUL.
6. IM TIEFEN WALDE—IN DEEPEST FOREST.
7. IM SÜSSEN BANN—WHEN THY SWEET GLANCES.
8. DU EINZIG THEURE—THOU ONLY DEAR ONE.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

ALTROCCHI, G.—Suite by Domenico Zipoli. Adapted for Violin and Pianoforte	s. d.	4 0
BECKER, H.—Berceuse. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 3	4 0	0
— "Errinnerung"	3 6	0
— "Minuet"	3 6	0
BRUCKEN-FOCK, G. H. G.—Sonata. For Viola and Pianoforte. Op. 5	3 0	0
CHIOSTRI, L.—Pensiero Melodico. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 15	3 0	0
— Gavotte. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 16	3 6	0
— Berceuse	3 6	0
— Danza Spagnola. " For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 17	3 6	0
— Minuetto	4 0	0
— Tarantella	19	4 0
— Mazurka	20	4 0
— "	21	3 0
CONCORDIA.—A Selection of Overtures and Dances. Arranged as Trios for Violin and Flute (or Second Violin) and Pianoforte by J. F. Borschitzky:—
No. 1. Overture: "Figaro"	6 0	0
" 2. " "Fra Diavolo"	8 0	0
" 3. " "Masaniello"	8 0	0
" 4. " "Tancredi"	8 0	0
" 5. " "Dame Blanche"	8 0	0
" 6. " "Norma"	5 0	0
" 7. " "Troubadours" Waltz, by Lanner	6 0	0
" 8. " "Almacks"	7 0	0
" 9. " "Court Ball"	7 0	0
" 10. " "Deutsche Lust" Waltz, by Strauss	5 0	0
" 11. " "Styrian Ländler," by Lanner	5 0	0
" 12. " "Heimweh," by Lanner	6 0	0
" 13. " "Nabuco" March, by Verdi	3 0	0
DANCLA, CH.—Trio. Op. 109. For Violin, Violoncello, and Pianoforte. No. 3	6 0	0
FALCONI, A.—Four Pieces. Op. 17. For Pianoforte. Complete Separately:—
No. 1. Allegretto	2 0	0
" 2. Il Pastore sulla Collina	2 0	0
" 3. Gavotta	2 0	0
" 4. Giga	2 0	0
FIEDLER, M.—Four Pieces. Op. 6. For Pianoforte:—
Book I. Fantasie and Waltz	5 0	0
" II. Fantasie and Waldstück	5 0	0
GERLACH, TH.—Six Songs. For one Voice and Pianoforte. Op. 9. (German words.) High or low key	6 0	0
GOLDMARK, C.—"In Springtime." Overture. Op. 36. For Orchestra:—
Full Score	8 0	0
Orchestral Parts	16 0	0
Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	7 0	0
HENSELT, AD.—Romance from Weber's "Euryanthe." Transcribed for Pianoforte	3 0	0
HERMANN, F.—Selma Waltz for Pianoforte	4 0	0
— Réveries Russes for Pianoforte, No. 9	2 0	0
— "	10	2 0
JADASSOHN, S.—Nine "Songs (Canons). Op. 36. For two High Voices (English and German words), with Pianoforte Accompaniment	9 0	0
LONGO, A.—"Suite di Stile Antico." Op. 13. For Pianoforte. Complete	6 0	0
Separately:—
No. 1. Air with Variations	4 0	0
" 2. Sarabande	2 0	0
" 3. Capriccio	2 0	0
LORET, CLÉMENT.—Marche Funèbre. For Organ	5 0	0
— Sonate. Op. 25. For Organ	16 0	0
— Noël Variés. For Organ	12 0	0
MARX-MARKUS, CH.—Deux Morceaux. Op. 32. For four Violoncellos:—
No. 1. Nocturne Pastorale	3 0	0
" 2. Impromptu	5 0	0
MENDELSSOHN.—Overture, "St. Paul." Op. 36. Arranged for Pianoforte and Harmonium by H. Claus	3 0	0
MEYER-HELMUND, ERIK.—Fantaisie. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 14	6 0	0
NICODE, J. L.—"The Sea." Symphonic Ode. Op. 31. Vocal Score, with English and German words	8 0	0
— "This is the Sea." Chorus from ditto	3 0	0
— "Fata Morgana." Solo for Tenor, from ditto	5 0	0
ROSSINI, G.—"Cujus animam." From "Stabat Mater." Arranged for Harmonium	2 6	0
RUBINSTEIN, A.—"Rêve Angelique." For Pianoforte	4 0	0
SALOMÉ, TH.—Six Pieces for Harmonium. Complete, in one Vol.	2 0	0
SELTNER, A.—Concert Polka. For Cornet à pistons with Pianoforte	3 0	0
TINEL, E.—Sonata in G minor for Pianoforte Duet. Op. 15	16 0	0
— "Melancolie." Two Songs for Voice and Pianoforte. Op. 23	4 0	0
TSCHAIKOWSKY, P.—Concerto for Pianoforte. Op. 23. Pianoforte Part with 2nd Pianoforte ad lib.	24 0	0
— Slavonic March. Op. 31. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	8 0	0
— Waltz from Serenade. Op. 48. Arranged for Pianoforte by Th. Kirchner	4 0	0
— "Mozartiana." Suite No. 4. Op. 61. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	9 0	0
WAGNER, R.—Paraphrase on "Parsifal." For Violin and Orchestra by August Wilhelmj. Full Score	6 0	0
— Orchestral parts	7 0	0
ZERLETT, J. B.—Andante for Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 3	3 6	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

POPULAR PIANO PIECES by HORTON ALLISON.

Fingering fully printed for right and left hands throughout.

LYRICS. Moderately difficult. Sets 1 and 2	4s.
VALSE—"Star of India." on white keys only. Easy	4s.
MAZURKA in F—"Oakleigh." Rather easy	4s.
TWO AIRS COMBINED. Solo. Not difficult	3s.
SEA SONG (Piano or American Organ). Melody	2s.
MELODIOUS PIANO STUDIES, in Two Books. Book 1. Easy; Book 2, Moderately difficult	6s.

London: WELLES and CO., 24, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

PLAYED BY M. VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN.

RÊVERIE DU LAC

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

MARGARET DE PACHMANN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SCHUMANN'S PIANOFORTE WORKS

EDITED BY AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

ALBUM

FOR

THE YOUNG

FIFTY-FIVE PIANOFORTE PIECES

(Op. 68 and 118).

PRICE, PAPER COVER	s. d.	2 6
" CLOTH	4 6	0
THE THREE PARTS SEPARATELY	6	0

CONTENTS.

MUSICAL RULES FOR HOME-LIFE AND ART-LIFE,

In English and German.

PART I.—FOR LITTLE PLAYERS.

1. Melody.	11. The Merry Peasants.
2. Soldiers' March.	12. Sicilian.
3. Humming Song.	13. Bogie.
4. Chorale.	14. May, Dearest May.
5. A Little Piece.	15. A Short Study.
6. The Poor Orphan.	16. Spring Song.
7. Hunting Song.	17. First Sorrow.
8. The Wild Rider.	18. The Morning Stroll.
9. National Song.	19. The Reaper's Song.

PART II.—FOR MORE ADVANCED PLAYERS.

19. Romance.	32. Scheherazade.
20. Rustic Song.	33. Vintage Time.
21. Theme.	34. Theme.
22. Roundelay.	35. Mignon.
23. The Horseman.	36. Italian Mariner's Song.
24. Harvest Song.	37. Sailor's Song.
25. Echoes of the Theatre.	38. Winter Time I.
26. "	39. Winter Time II.
27. A Canon.	40. A Little Fugue.
28. Remembrance.	41. Northern Song.
29. The Stranger.	42. Chorale with Florid Counterpoint.
30. "	43. New Year's Eve.
31. War Song.

PART III.—FOR MORE MATURED PLAYERS.

First Sonata.

44. Allegro.	46. Doll's Cradle Song
45. Theme with Variations.	47. A Little Round.

Second Sonata.

48. Allegro.	50. Evening Song.
49. Canon.	51. Children's Party.

Third Sonata.

52. Allegro.	54. Gipsy Dance.
53. Andante.	55. A Child's Dream.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOLUME I.—NOW READY.

HANDSOMELY BOUND. CLOTH, GILT EDGES, 21s.

NEW AND CAREFULLY REVISED EDITION
OF SCHUMANN'S
ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS
FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

EDITED AND FINGERED BY AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

PREFACE.

In preparing the present edition of Schumann's works, the greatest care has been taken to ensure accuracy, not only as to the notes, but also in regard to slurs and all other marks of expression.

The task of translating the German terms and directions was one of great difficulty, the literal equivalent of a word being in many cases quite inadequate to convey the feeling and spirit of the original. The translation now offered aims throughout at an intelligent rendering of the meaning, rather than at the exact literal reproduction of the text.

In every instance where the words are Schumann's own (as in the case of the Preface to Op. 3, the titles of the various pieces, the indications of tempo, &c.), the original is retained with the translation; when, however, the information is obtained from other sources (as in the case of the Appendix to Op. 5, the Preface to Op. 6, &c.), it has been deemed sufficient to give it in English alone.

The only pieces which Schumann seems himself to have fingered in detail are Op. 3 and 7, and these are, of course, left exactly as they appeared in his original edition. In the other works he has occasionally given a little fingering, which, however, calls for no special attention, except in some few instances, when the unusual difficulty of the method indicated by him makes it desirable to give the option of an easier one. The latter is then placed in (), so that, when two sets of figures appear, the player will understand that the fingering in () is by the present editor, the other being that of Schumann himself. A few additional P's and F's will be found marked in the same manner.

A source of great inconvenience to students and players is the want of uniformity in the signs used to express fingering. In England the thumb is represented by +, whereas, on the Continent and in America it is marked 1; thus the figures 1, 2, 3, 4 have a different meaning in an English edition from that which they have in a foreign one, a discrepancy which cannot but cause embarrassment, especially in reading new music. The advantage of having only one set of figures in general use is obvious, and as it cannot be expected that the mode recognised by a majority of countries will be altered to agree with that which is used in England alone, it seems inevitable that what is called "foreign fingering" should ultimately prevail.

Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. have, therefore, decided on the important step of adopting this mode (that is, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 instead of + 1, 2, 3, 4) in their future publications, and it is accordingly introduced in this edition.

Op. 1. Variations on the name "Abegg"—

No. 1. F.	No. 3. F.
" 2. F.	Finale alla Fantasia, F.

Op. 2. Papillons—

Introduzione, D.

No. 1. D.	No. 7. A flat.
" 2. A flat.	" 8. D flat.
" 3. F sharp minor.	" 9. B flat minor.
" 4. F sharp minor.	" 10. C.
" 5. B flat.	" 11. D.
" 6. D minor.	" 12. Finale D.

Op. 3. Studies for the Pianoforte on Paganini's Caprices—

Preface.

No. 1. A minor.	No. 4. B flat.
" 2. E.	" 5. E flat.
" 3. C.	" 6. G minor.

Op. 4. Intermezzi—

No. 1. A.	No. 4. C.
" 2. E minor.	" 5. D minor.
" 3. A minor.	" 6. B minor.

Op. 5. Impromptus on a Theme by Clara Wieck—

No. 1. C.	No. 6. A minor.
" 2. C.	" 7. C.
" 3. C.	" 8. C.
" 4. C.	" 9. C.
" 5. C.	" 10. C.

Op. 5. Appendix to the Second Edition of the same—

No. 1. C.	No. 7. C.
" 4. C.	" 8. C.
" 5. C.	" 11. A flat.

Op. 6. "Die Davidsbündler"—

Preface.

No. 1. G.	No. 10. D minor.
" 2. B minor.	" 11. D.
" 3. G.	" 12. E minor.
" 4. B minor.	" 13. B minor.
" 5. D.	" 14. E flat.
" 6. D minor.	" 15. B flat.
" 7. G minor.	" 16. G.
" 8. C minor.	" 17. B.
" 9. C.	" 18. C.

Op. 7. Toccata, C—

Op. 8. Allegro, B minor—

Op. 9. "Carnival." Scènes Mignonnes sur Quatre Notes—

No. 1. Prémable, A flat.	No. 13. Estrella, F minor.
" 2. Pierrot, E flat.	" 14. Reconnaissance, A flat.
" 3. Arlequin, B flat.	" 15. Pantalon et Colombine, F minor.
" 4. Valse Noble, B flat.	" 16. Valse allemande, A flat.
" 5. Eusebius, E flat.	" 17. Paganini. Intermezzo, F minor.
" 6. Florestan, G minor.	" 18. Aveu, A flat.
" 7. Coquette, B flat.	" 19. Promenade, D flat.
" 8. Réplique. Sphinxes, B flat.	" 20. Pause, A flat.
" 9. Papillons, B flat.	" 21. Marche des "Davidsbündler" contre les Philistins, A flat.
" 10. A.S.C.H.—S.C.H.A. (Lettres dansantes), E flat.
" 11. Chiarina, C minor.
" 12. Chopin, A flat.

Op. 10. Six Concert Studies on Caprices by Paganini—

No. 1. A flat.	No. 4. C minor.
" 2. G minor.	" 5. B minor.
" 3. G minor.	" 6. E minor.

Op. 11. Grand Sonata, F sharp minor—

Op. 12. Phantasiestücke—

No. 1. At eventide, D flat.	No. 5. In the night, F minor.
" 2. Aspiration, F minor.	" 6. Fable, C.
" 3. Wherefore, D flat.	" 7. Dream mazes, F.
" 4. Whims, B flat minor.	" 8. The end of the story, F.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.		Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
J. F. BRIDGE.				C. H. LLOYD.
ROCK OF AGES (Latin and English words) (Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.)	1/0	—	—	ALCESTIS	3/0	—	—
CALLIRHOË (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0	ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
DUDLEY BUCK.				HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0	SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
F. CORDER.				THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male voices)	1/6	—	—
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/6	—	—	HAMISH MacCUNN.
F. H. COWEN.				LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER (Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.)	1/0	—	—
SLEEPING BEAUTY (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0	THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
RUTH.. .. . (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	4/0	4/6	6/0	A. C. MACKENZIE.
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING	1/0	—	—	ROSE OF SHARON (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.				THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0	THE DREAM OF JUBAL	2/6	3/0	4/0
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—	THE NEW COVENANT.. .. .	1/6	—	—
ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.				C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
ELYSIUM	1/0	—	—	BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
ROBERT FRANZ.				JUDITH; or, THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH	5/0	6/0	7/6
PRAISE YE THE LORD (PSALM 117).. .. .	1/0	—	—	ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY	2/0	—	—
G. GARRETT.				CIRO PINSUTI.
HARVEST CANTATA (Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.)	1/0	—	—	PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
F. GERNSHEIM.				E. PROUT.
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—	THE RED CROSS KNIGHT (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	4/0	4/6	6/0
HERMANN GOETZ.				DAMON AND PHINTIAS (Male Voices)	2/6	—	—
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—	C. SAINT-SAËNS.
CH. GOUNOD.				THE HEAVENS DECLARE (PSALM 19)	1/6	—	—
THE REDEMPTION (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6	SCHUMANN.
DITTO (French words)	8/4	—	—	THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
DITTO (German words).. .. .	10/0	—	—	THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE.. .. .	2/6	—	—	C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
MORS ET VITA (Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	6/0	6/6	7/6	CARMEN SÆCULARE	1/6	—	—
ADOLF JENSEN.				THE REVENGE (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—	THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE	2/6	3/0	4/0
OLIVER KING.				J. STAINER.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON (PSALM 137)	1/6	—	—	THE CRUCIFIXION (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
FRANZ LISZT.				ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	2/0	—	—	THE GOLDEN LEGEND (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	3/6	4/0	5/0
				C. M. VON WEBER.
				IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn)	1/6	—	—
				C. LEE WILLAMS.
				THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY	2/0	2/6	—

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Standard Works for Choral Societies.

NEW EDITION OF

FAUST

A Dramatic Legend, by HECTOR BERLIOZ. A New Edition of this celebrated work at a greatly reduced price. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s. net.

LUCIFER

Oratorio, by PETER BENOIT. First performed in England by the Royal Choral Society, April 3, 1889. Paper, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net.

GRAY'S ELEGY

A Cantata, by ALFRED CELLIER. Paper, 2s. 56d.; cloth, 4s.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH

Sacred Musical Drama. Words selected from Milman's Poems. The Music composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Price, in paper cover, 5s. net; cloth, 8s. net.

GOD IS LOVE

A New Edition of this popular Cantata. Words selected from the Sacred Poets. Music composed by MRS. JOSEPH ROBINSON. Price 3s. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net. Harmonium Part, 1s. 6d. net.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS.

Cantata, written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY.
Music composed by GEORGE FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net.
Harmonium Part, 1s. net.

FRIDOLIN; OR, THE MESSAGE TO THE FORGE.

Dramatic Cantata, composed by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. Paper, 4s.; cloth, 6s.

MESSE SOLENNELLE—ROSSINI.

A New Edition of this beautiful work at a reduced price. Paper, 4s.; cloth, 6s.

ISAIAH

Oratorio. Words by ALBINI (Translation by J. BENNETT).
The Music composed by MANCINELLI.
Written expressly for the Norwich Festival of 1887. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s

LALLA ROOKH

Cantata, by FREDERIC CLAY.
New Edition of this charming work (in which is contained "I'll sing thee songs of Araby"), at a reduced price. Paper, 3s. 6d. net.

Orchestral and Chorus Parts of all the above may be had on Hire of

CHAPPELL & CO.,

50, NEW BOND STREET, W., AND 15, POULTRY, E.C.

THE SWORD OF ARGANTYR.

A DRAMATIC CANTATA IN FOUR SCENES

For Soprano, Tenor, Baritone, Chorus, and Orchestra.

WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE LEEDS FESTIVAL

BY

FREDERICK CORDER.

Vocal Score, 3s. net. Paper Boards, 3s. 6d. net. Chorus Parts, 1s. each net.

The Accompaniments arranged for Pianoforte and Harmonium. Price 10s. 6d. net.

O PRAISE THE LORD OF HEAVEN

(THE 150TH PSALM).

FOR SOPRANO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

Vocal Score, 1s. net.

CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST.

A SACRED TRILOGY

FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, BARITONE, BASS, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

Vocal Score, 5s. net; Chorus Parts, 6d. each net.

CANTATAS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

ELFIN CHIMES. Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by F. F. ROGERS. Price 1s. 6d. net.

FAIRY MUSIC. Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by F. N. LÖHR. Price 1s. 6d. net.

FLOWERS. Words by E. OXENFORD. Music by J. L. HATTON. Price 1s. 6d. net.

THE BELLS OF ELSINORE. Words by E. OXENFORD. Music by EDMUND ROGERS. Price 1s. 6d.

THE FLOWER PILGRIMS. Words of CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by ALFRED REDHEAD. Price 1s. 6d. net.

THE PAGEANT. By FRANK J. SAWYER, Mus. Doc. Price 1s. 6d. net.

THE WIDOW OF NAIN. By FRANK J. SAWYER, Mus. Doc. Price 1s. 6d. net.

WATCHFULNESS (The Parable of the Ten Virgins). Words compiled by W. A. BARRETT, Mus. Bac. Music by HENRY HILES, Mus. Doc. Price 2s. net.

STUDIES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

Edited and carefully fingered by CHARLES HALLÉ.

H. BERTINI.

Twenty-five Preparatory Studies. Op. 29. Two Books .. each 4s.
Twenty-five Preparatory Studies. Op. 32 (Sequel to Op. 29).
Two Books .. each 4s.
Twenty-five Easy and Progressive Studies. Op. 100. Two Books .. each 4s.
Twenty-five Elementary Studies. Op. 137. Two Books... " 4s.

J. B. CRAMER.

Celebrated Studies. Four Books each 6s.

C. CZERNY.

101 Preparatory Exercises. Op. 261. Two Books .. each 4s.
Etude de la Vélacité. Op. 299. Two Books 6s.
Forty Daily Studies. Op. 337. Two Books 4s.
Introduction to the Etude de la Vélacité. Op. 636. Two Books each 6s.

STEPHEN HELLER.

Three New Studies. Op. 139 4s.
Twenty Preludes. Op. 150. Two Books each 4s.
Two Studies in C major and A minor. Op. 151 4s.

LOUIS KÖHLER.

Twenty Studies. Op. 50 6s.
Twenty Studies (Sequel to Op. 50). Op. 60 6s.
Twelve Studies. Op. 112. Two Books each 8s.
School of Vélacité. Op. 128. Two Books 8s.

A. LOESCHHORN.

Forty-eight Progressive Studies. Op. 65. Three Books .. each 5s.
Thirty-three Studies. Op. 66. Three Books 6s.
Eighteen Studies. Op. 67. Three Books 6s.

CARL REINECKE.

Twenty-four Studies. Op. 121. Three Books each 6s.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL. New Edition, with Foreign Fingering.

" " MUSICAL LIBRARY.

" " EDITION OF PIANOFORTE DUETS.

Catalogues and all particulars may be had from all the principal Musicsellers in the United Kingdom and the Colonies; E. SCHUBERTH & CO., Sole Agents for the United States of America, 23, Union Square, New York; I. SUCKLING & SONS, Sole Agents for the Dominion of Canada, 107, Yonge St., Toronto; and

FORSYTH BROTHERS,

272a, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London, W., and 122 & 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

THE GREATEST OF ALL PIANOFORTES.

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES

NEW YORK AND LONDON.

GOLD MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885;

GOLD MEDAL, SOCIETY OF ARTS, 1886.

STEINWAY AND SONS

Are the only Manufacturers who make all component parts of their Pianofortes, exterior and interior (including the casting of the Full Metal Frames), in their own Factories.

GRAND AND UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES

With the Patent Double Cupola Frame of Solid Steel, and cast in the Steinway Foundries; also the New Patent Capo d'Astro Bar; Patent Overstrung Scaling and Patent Harmonic Duplex Scales; Patent Soundboard Resonator; Patent Ring-Bridge; Patent Repetition Action and Patent Metallic Action Frame; Patent Indestructible Hammers; Graduating Soft Pedal Cased in Metal; Three Strings to each Note; Seven Octaves; &c.

Every one probably has heard something of the Steinway Inventions and Improvements, which have both revolutionised the construction of the Pianoforte and rendered the Steinway Instruments THE MOST PERFECT PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD.

It need, therefore, only be mentioned that public opinion throughout civilisation amply recognises their unrivalled merits, the Steinway Instruments having by far the largest annual sale of any Pianofortes in the world.

THE STEINWAY GRAND AND UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES chiefly appeal to the taste of the cultured and musical classes. It may be truly said that the Steinway Piano is the CHEAPEST, because the BEST and most DURABLE.

THE STEINWAY UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES (which, in respect to their internal Construction, are really Grand Pianofortes in an upright form, and have therefore almost nothing in common with the productions of the European makers) HAVE ALSO A FAR GREATER ANNUAL SALE THAN THE UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES OF ANY OTHER MAKER IN THE WORLD.

Attention is now directed to the NEW UPRIGHT MODEL, which is intended to meet the requirements of those who have wished for a "Steinway" at a somewhat lower price than had previously existed, and at the same time without any sacrifice of the Steinway characteristics, either in respect to the quality of the tone or the solidity of the construction.

STEINWAY HALL,
LOWER SEYMOUR STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, AND AT STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK.

No.
561

THE Price

4d.

MUSICAL TIMES

NOVEMBER 1, 1889.

"THE CHALLENGE" IRON-FRAME PIANOS

Are unrivalled for excellence of tone and touch, good workmanship, and moderate price." — Testimonials from Mr. FREDERIC H. COWEN, ANTON RUBINSTEIN, Mr. FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS, Mr. JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT, Sir JOHN STAINER, and other eminent Musicians.

HIGHEST AWARDS for UPRIGHT PIANOS

1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1885, 1886.

PRICE LISTS POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

CHALLENGE & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN

103, NEW BOND STREET, W.

CAUTION!

THE GENUINE

SCHIEDMAYER PIANOFORTES

AND

KNAUSS AND SONS' PIANOFORTES

CAN ONLY BE HAD FROM

ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN

OR HIS AGENTS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

SCHREIBER PIANOS

COMPETITION DEFIED!!

"THE NEW LIST MODEL"

STYLE B,

COMBINES EVERY MODERN IMPROVEMENT.

Comparison cheerfully invited.

KARN AMERICAN ORGANS

The Standard of Perfection

IN

TONE, WORKMANSHIP, DESIGN, AND FINISH.

Fully descriptive Catalogues Free.

SOLE EUROPEAN AGENCY:

SCHREIBER PIANO & ORGAN CO.,

Newman Mansions, 3, Newman St., Oxford St.,

LONDON, W.

REDUCTION IN PRICES.

AMERICAN PORTABLE MUSIC STANDS,

J. F. WALTERS' PATENT,

Awarded Prize Medal Inventions Exhibition.

Iron Stands, single desk from	6/6
Brass " " " "	15/-
Cases for ditto " " "	2/6
Iron Stands, double desk " "	15/-
Brass " " " "	35/-
Cases for ditto " " "	7/-
Seconces for Iron Stands
per pair	3/6
Seconces for Brass Stands
per pair	6/-
Seconces for Iron Stands
double " " per set	7/6
Seconces for Brass Stands
double " " per set	13/-
Table Stands, Iron " "	5/6
" " Brass " "	12/-
" Desks, Iron " "	3/-
" " Brass " "	9/-

TO BE OBTAINED FROM ALL MUSIC DEALERS.

ASK FOR WALTERS' PATENT

Or will be sent free from the Proprietors of the Patents—

HARROW & CO., Music Smiths and Stand Makers,
13 & 14, PORTLAND ST., WARDOUR ST., LONDON, W.

CHAPPELL'S PIANOS

From 16 to 135 Gs.

On the One, Two, or Three Years System
OF
HIRE AND PURCHASE.

Also a large assortment of New & Second-hand Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, and Bechstein, at greatly reduced prices.

ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.

Agent for Clough & Warren's Organs and Alexandre Harmoniums.

50, NEW BOND STREET, AND 15, POULTRY.

And of all the principal Musicsellers.

ORGANISTS AND ORGAN STUDENTS.

ff, f, mf, p. DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON! p, mf, f, ff.

ALL the above modifications of Tone are obtainable by AINSWORTH'S PATENT ACTIONS and ORGAN PEDALS in combination with any Pianoforte. They are the ONLY ONES whereby you may PLEASANTLY (not by mere honotonous sounds) acquire or maintain proficiency as an Organist.

AINSWORTH'S NEW PATENT MODIFYING ACTION and ORGAN PEDALS may now be inspected in combination with a Pianoforte almost everywhere. Where it is not convenient to inspect, they may be had through any Dealer or Professional Gentleman on approval. They are positively the

ONLY ONES POSSESSING REAL MERIT.

Owing to improved machinery and large demand, AINSWORTH'S prices defy competition. PRICE from £4 4s.

On receipt of trade or professional card you will receive list and liberal terms.

Second-hand List issued Monthly. Very low prices.

Address—AINSWORTH'S (Patent Piano & Organ Combination Works), Brinscall, Chorley, England.

N.B.—Works two minutes' walk from Brinscall Station. Inspection allowed to intending customers.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 561.—Vol. 30.
Registered for transmission abroad.

NOVEMBER 1, 1889.

Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor: Mr. BARNBY.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, AT 8,

ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY (PARRY)

(CONDUCTED BY THE COMPOSER),

THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE (STANFORD)

(CONDUCTED BY THE COMPOSER),

Both for the first time in London.

Artists: Miss MACINTYRE, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Mr. BRERETON. Band and Chorus, 1,000. Organist, Mr. HODGE.

Prices: 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., 3s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

Ten Concerts will be given during the Season, eight being Subscription. Prices for the Subscription Series of Eight Concerts, Stalls, 42s.; Arena, 32s.; Balcony, Reserved, 24s.; Unreserved, 20s.

Seats may be secured, and prospectuses obtained, at the Royal Albert Hall.

BATH PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

SEASON, 1889-90.

President: SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

The Committee have made the following arrangements for the season:—

October 25.—MISCELLANEOUS CONCERT, SONG OF MIRIAM (Schubert), ODE TO MUSIC (Visetti), &c.

December 11.—REBEKAH (Barnby), SYMPHONY, Op. 1 (Cliffe), THE REVENGE (Stanford).

February .—A new and original CANTATA, by Mr. Albert Visetti. Selections from the old English composers.

April 16.—THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD (Sullivan), ELYSIUM (Rosalind Frances Ellicott).

Engagements have been made, or are pending, with Madame Valleria, Madame Rose Hersee, Miss Annie Marriott, Madame Anna Williams, Mdle. Marie Titiens, Miss Emily Taylor, Miss Louise Richardson, Miss E. Webster, Miss Mary Richardson, Miss Carwardine, Miss Bruckshaw, Miss Verey, Madame Belle Cole, Miss Sarah Berry, Miss Annie Morley, Miss M. Williams, Miss Wrigley, Miss Pinney, and Miss Grace Damian.

Mr. I. McKay, Mr. P. Newbury, Mr. Evans, Mr. E. Houghton, Mr. Muntz, Mr. Charles Chiley, Mr. Herbert Thorndyke, Mr. Dan. Price, Mr. Ripley, and Mr. Albert Reakes.

Full Orchestra and Chorus of 300. Conductor, Mr. Albert Visetti.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

N.B.—The LIBRARY is OPENED on TUESDAYS, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Proposed arrangements for the Session, 1889-90.

November 12, 1889	..	Conversazione.
December 3	..	Lecture.
January 7, 1890	..	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 8	..	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 9	..	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 10	..	Distribution of Diplomas.
" 14	..	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 15	..	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 16	..	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 17	..	Diploma Distribution.
February 4	..	Lecture.
March 4	..	Lecture.
April 1	..	Lecture.
" 14	..	Annual Dinner.
May 6	..	Lecture.
June 3	..	Lecture.
July 2	..	Lecture.
" 15	..	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 16	..	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 17	..	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 18	..	Distribution of Diplomas.
" 22	..	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 23	..	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 24	..	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 25	..	Diploma Distribution.
" 31	..	Annual General Meeting.

N.B.—Members desiring to be present at the Conversazione on Tuesday, November 12, or desiring admission for friends, should apply on or before November 2.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Patrons: THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

The NEXT STUDENTS' CHAMBER CONCERT will take place at St. James's Hall, on Monday Afternoon, Nov. 4, at 3 p.m.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATIONS, 1889.

These Examinations have been fixed to take place January 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. Last day for receiving names, November 15. Syllabus, and all information, upon application.

For prospectus, &c., apply to JOHN GILL, Secretary.

HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

TWELFTH SEASON.

Conductor, Mr. G. H. BETJEMANN.

FOUR CONCERTS will be given (with full Band and Chorus) in the Athenæum, Highbury New Park, on MONDAY EVENINGS, commencing at 8 o'clock.

December 2, 1889.—Sullivan's THE GOLDEN LEGEND and C. Hubert H. Parry's ODE TO ST. CECILIA.

February 3, 1890.—Mackenzie's THE DREAM OF JUBAL and Cowen's SCANDINAVIAN SYMPHONY.

March 24, 1890.—Mendelssohn's HYMN OF PRAISE and G. H. Betjemann's BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA. Mendelssohn's "Hebrides" OVERTURE, PART-SONGS, &c.

May 12, 1890.—Dvorák's THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE and Wagner's OVERTURE, &c., from "Die Meistersinger."

Subscription for Numbered Seats, 12s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., and 5s., according to position.

The Subscription for Vocal and Instrumental Members will be One Guinea.

The Choral Rehearsals of the Society will be held in the Highbury Athenæum on Monday, and the Orchestral on Saturday evenings, at 7-15 p.m.

Ladies and Gentlemen desirous of becoming Members, either Executant or Honorary, are requested to make early application to one of the undersigned:—

WILLIAM THORNTONWAITE, Highbury Hill House, N. Hon.
HENRY SCRUTON, 48, Highbury Hill, N. Secs.

GUILD OF ORGANISTS.

Patron: THE RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF LONDON.

President: SIR HERBERT OAKELEY, Mus. Doc., LL.D.

The Offices of the Guild are now at BURLINGTON HALL, SAVILE ROW, W.

COMPETITIONS.

A prize of 5 guineas will be given for the best Organ piece, either an Andante or Postlude (in the Sonata form preferred).

A prize of 5 guineas will be given for the best full short Anthem for general use, taking about five minutes in performance, words to be selected from Authorised Version.

The selected Anthem and Organ Piece will become the property of the Guild. The Council reserve to themselves the right to withhold the prizes should neither Anthem nor Organ Piece be considered of sufficient merit.

The Competition closes January 31, 1890.

The next Examination for F. Gld. O. will take place on January 21 and 22, 1890.

MORETON HAND, Hon. Sec.

J. T. FIELD, Sub-Warden.

Will be published December 1.

ST. JOHN'S EVE

AN OLD ENGLISH IDYLL

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE POEM BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

PAPER BOARDS, 3s. CLOTH GILT, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS EFFIE CLEMENTS (Soprano).

Address, 36, Albion Street, Hyde Park, W.

MISS CONWAY (Soprano)

(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 53, Robert Street, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano).

Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS MARY DITCHBURN (Medalist, Soprano)

(First-class Society of Arts).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, &c., 21, Albany Rd., Stroud Green, N.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)

(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq.).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME FARRAR-HYDE (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Carr Hill, Mossley, near Manchester.

MISS MARIANNE FENNA (Soprano),

84, Mansfield Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MISS LEVINA FERRARI (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, and Lessons. For vacant dates, address, 7, Augustus Road, Hammersmith, W.

MISS JEANNETTA FRAZIER (Soprano).

For Ballad Concerts, Italian Operatic, Oratorios, &c., address, Beeches, Bolton Road, Small Heath, Birmingham.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)

(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby, formerly her Assistant Professor; Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME CLARA GARDINER (Soprano)

Is now booking Engagements for the ensuing season. Address, 16, Burns Street, Nottingham.

MISS JESSIE GRIFFIN (Soprano),

6, Hamilton Terrace, Hyde Vale, Blackheath, S.E.

MADAME MINNIE GWYNNE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, address, 18, St. Stephen's Avenue, Uxbridge Road, W.

MADAME LAURA HAWORTH (Soprano).

For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts, address, 22, Laurel Road, Fairfield, Liverpool.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano)

(R.A.M. Honours Certificate).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, St. Asaph; or, 238, Brixton Road, London, S.W.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Sq., N.E.

MISS M. LISTER-NEWMAN, R.A.M. (Soprano)

(Silver Medalist, 1886; Certificate of Merit, 1887).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons, address, 220, Marylebone Road, W.

MISS FANNIE MATHEWS (Soprano).

Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c. 126, Bedford Street, Liverpool.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)

(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker)

Is open to engagements for Oratorio, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. Address, Beverley House, Barnes, Surrey; or, Mr. Sexton, 447, West Strand.

MADAME MARTIN TEGG (Soprano).

Address, Weedon House, Stamford Hill, N.

MADAME HENRIETTA TOMLINSON (Soprano),

MISS MARIANNE TOMLINSON (Contralto).

Address, 3, Oakroyd Villas, Bradford.

MISS FRANCES ACTON (Contralto)

(Pupil of Sig. G. Garcia and Dr. H. Hill).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 3, Stanhope Terrace, Whitton, Hounslow.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)

(Medalist R.A.M.)

For Oratorios, Operatic or Ballad Concerts, &c., 6, Lordship Park, Stoke Newington. Press notices sent on application.

MDLLE. JOSÉ D'ARÇONVILLE (Contralto),

Parsonage Road, Withington, Manchester.

MISS DEWS (Contralto),

4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N

MISS EMILIE HARRIS (Contralto),

42, Golden Hillock Road, Birmingham.

MISS EMILY HIMING (Contralto).

Address, 41, The Gardens, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MADAME FANNIE LYMN (Contralto),

4, Mansfield Grove, Nottingham.

MISS KATE MILNER (Contralto).

For Oratorio, Operatic or Ballad Concerts, Lessons, &c., 21, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park.

MISS ISABEL MONKS, N.S.P.M. (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. (range, two octaves). Taught by Dr. Hiles. Address, Bridge Foot, Warrington.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)

(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, via Leeds.

MISS COYTE TURNER (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Address, 21, Alexandra Road, Finsbury Park, London, N.

MISS VERKRÜZEN (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 392, Stretford Road, Manchester; or, Messrs. Forsyth Bros., 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

MISS FLORENCE WALLIS (Contralto)

(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 217, Boxley Road, Maidstone.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby, and Assistant Professor in her Academy).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Rd., N.W.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. J. VERNEY BINNS

(Principal Tenor of the Halifax Parish Church).

For Concerts, &c., address, Halifax.

MR. J. T. BIRCH (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 110, Church St., Lozells, Birmingham.

MR. EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(Solo Tenor, St. Andrew's, Wells Street).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous Concerts, and Glee and Concert Parties, address, 37, Torrington Square, W.C., or to St. Andrew's.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor).

Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. CLIFFORD CONSTABLE (Tenor)

(Choirmaster Bromley Parish Church).

Concerts, &c., address, Royal Courts Chambers, Chancery Lane, W.C.

MR. GREGORY HAST

(Principal Tenor, St. Peter's, Eaton Square),

MADAME GREGORY HAST

(Pianist, First-class Certificates)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballad Concerts, &c., Grove Lodge, South Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. JOHN HART (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c., 10, Park Road, Middlesbro', Yorkshire.

MR. CHARLES KARLYLE (Tenor).

"Splendid voice, clear pronunciation."—Musical Standard."Excellent vocalist."—Era.—Echo.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, Osney Crescent, N.W.

MR. COLLIS KENTON (Robust Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 44, Ringstead Road, Catford, S.E.

MR. H. JULIUS JONES (Tenor).

For Oratorios, &c., address, Cathedral, Ely. Terms moderate.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, Summerfield, Leicester St., Southport, and care of Mr. Canton, 50, Church St., Liverpool.

MR. LUCAS STANLEY (Tenor).

MISS NELLIE STANLEY (Soprano).

All communications to 96, Belvidere Road, Walsall.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor),

St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

Address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. RICHARD R. WILSON (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Organ Recitals, Ballad Concerts, &c. For terms, address, Grange Road, West Hartlepool.

MR. HENRY BAILEY (Baritone).

Address, 15, Pasley Road, Manor Place, Walworth, S.E.

MR. HAMILTON BENNARD (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., Chilton House, Alkham Road, N.

MR. ARTHUR W. BLACKBURN (Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Granby Place, New Street, Earlshaton, Yorkshire.

MR. HILTON CARTER (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. B. Healey (Sole Agent), 10a, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W.

"Mr. Hilton Carter, who was in capital voice, sang Tosti's 'More and More' with great taste and expression."—Norwood News.
"Mr. Hilton Carter charmed his audience by his spirited rendering of some really good songs, his efforts being rewarded by vigorous encores, to which the artist generously responded."—Kentish Advertiser.

MR. J. G. HEWSON (Baritone).

Address, 2, St. Ann's Road, Stamford Hill, N.W.; or, 276, Hyde Road, Manchester.

MR. WALTER J. HOBSON (Baritone).

For Concerts, Organ Recitals, Matinées, At Homes, &c., address, 149, Walton Road, Liverpool.

MR. ROWLAND HILL (Baritone).

For Concerts and Oratorios. Address, Long Eaton, Nottingham.
"Mr. Rowland Hill has a baritone voice of remarkable excellence."
—Nottingham Express.

MR. A. S. KINNELL (Baritone).

Oratorio, Opera, Ballads, &c. For vacant dates, terms, &c., address, 110, King Street, Stretford, Manchester.

Mr. Kinnell's operatic répertoire includes, Count Arnheim, "Bohe-mian Girl"; Don José, "Maritana"; Valentine, "Faust"; Danny Mann, "Lily of Killarney" &c. Stage performances.

MANCHESTER.—"Elijah." The part of the Prophet, as everyone knows, is a most exacting one, but Mr. Kinnell proved himself capable of responding to its utmost requirements. As a proof of this, we may remark that we have seldom heard the very difficult song, 'Is not his word,' so correctly sung."—Manchester Guardian.

MR. ARTHUR M. SHORE, R.C.M. (Baritone)

(Pupil of Signori Alberto Visetti and Franco Novara).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Has vacancies for pupils for Singing and Violin. 14, Dewhurst Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. CHARLES STANLEY (Baritone).

For Concerts, Matinées and Soirées, Banquets, At Homes, &c., address, 22, Gange Road, Ealing, W.

MR. BURGON SWIFT (Baritone Vocalist).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c. For terms, apply to Morton, Bourne, Lincolnshire.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone).

Address, The Poplars, Dartford.

"'ELIJAH,'—Mr. Tufnail, in the rôle of 'Elijah,' reached a passionate intensity and displayed a wealth of resource which created a marked impression."—Press notice.

MR. LUCAS WILLIAMS (Baritone).

Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, 9, Upper Woburn Place, W.C.

MR. S. J. BISHOP (Bass).

For terms and vacant dates, address, The Cathedral, Southwell.

MR. J. BROWNING

(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. JAMES W. CLOUGH (Bass)

(Of the Manchester, Blackpool, Douglas, &c., Concerts, and Principal Bass, Parish Church, Burnley) is open for Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
Terms and Press opinions, address, New Bank House, Burnley.

MR. BYRON DEWHURST (Bass)

Is open for Oratorios, Operatic Selections, and Ballad Concerts. For terms, vacant dates, &c., address, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. ALBERT FAIRBAIRN (Bass)

(Solo Bass, St. John's Church, Upper Norwood).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 14, Coombe Road, Sydenham, S.E.
Reference to Alfred J. Eyre, Esq., Crystal Palace, S.E. (by letter).

MR. EDWARD HALEY (Bass).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, Hunsworth, Cleckheaton.

MR. THOMAS KEMPTON (Bass),

67, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

MR. W. BELL KEMPTON (Bass),

Of St. George's Chapel and H.M. Private Chapel, Windsor Castle.
Address, St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle.

MR. HOWARD LEES (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Delph, Manchester.

MR. T. E. MACKIE (Bass)

(Pupil of Hamilton White, Esq.).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Westfield, Retford.

MR. CHARLES ORTNER (Bass),

20, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN (Bass).

Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music.
For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MASTER ANDREW BEVAN (Violinist)

(Of the Newcastle, Durham, and Darlington Concerts). Address,
28, Blandford Street, Sunderland.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboist and Oboe Maker).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 235, Lydgate Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

SIGNOR NICOLA COVIELLO (Cornet Soloist)

(Promenade Concerts, Royal Italian Opera, &c.).

For Concerts, At Homes, &c., 5, Sudbourne Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. H. A. LUDLAM (Violoncello).

For Concerts (Orchestral, Choral, Chamber, and Miscellaneous),
Matinées, Soirées, and At Homes. Newport House, West Bromwich.

MR. W. SIDNEY GAUDY.

Refined Drawing-Room Musical Sketches, for Concerts, At Homes, &c.
8, Crown Villas, Kennington Oval, S.E.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano), engaged: November 16, Lincoln; 23, Nelson; 28, Shrewsbury.
("Building of the Ship"). December 2, Pudsey ("Elijah"); 10, Brigg, (12th Mass and "Rose Maiden"); 17, Ludlow (the "Creation"); 21,
Leeds ("The Messiah"); 23, Hull ("Lady of Shallot"); 25, Upperthorpe
("The Messiah"); 26, Chesterfield ("The Messiah"). Point House, Brigg,
Lincolnshire, and Messrs. Novello, Ever and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS SARA BERNSTEIN, A.R.A.M. (Soprano), has REMOVED to 28, Birchington Road, West Hampstead,
London, N.W. Certificated for singing in public and teaching.

MISS HATTIE HICKLING (Mezzo), pupil of
Wm. Shakespeare, Esq., at liberty for Concerts, Oratorios,
&c. Address, 30, Pepys Road South, New Cross, S.E.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano) is now booking
ENGAGEMENTS for the ensuing season. Address, Bridlesmith Gate, Nottingham.

MISS MAUD LESLIE (Soprano), engaged: 25th,
Camden Town; 26th, Streatham; 28th, Finchley; Nov. 1,
Willesden; 12th, Camberwell; 13th, Westminster. Address, 41,
Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich.

MISS EDITH MARRIOTT (Soprano) begs to notify her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to Oaklands, Parson's Green, S.W., where she desires letters respecting Concert Engagements or Pupils to be addressed; or, to Mr. W. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES and CONCERT
MANAGERS—Madame CATHERINE PENNA announces she is booking ENGAGEMENTS for the Winter and Spring Season, as Principal Soprano in Oratorios, Opera Recitals, and Ballad Concerts.
Address, 2, Randell Road, Sutherland Avenue, W.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 44, Alexandra Road, London, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS ELLEN MARCHANT (Contralto), Gold
Medalist; Society of Arts Medalist; City Exhibitioner, G.S.M., is prepared to accept engagements for Oratorio, Ballad or Operatic Concerts, in town or country. For terms, apply to Mr. W. B. Healey, 10a, Warwick Street; or to Miss Ellen Marchant, 22, Walham Grove, Fulham.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Tenor) requests that all communications regarding Oratorios, Opera, Concerts, or his Popular Concert Entertainments, be addressed to 67, Berners St., W.

MR. E. DUNKERTON (Member National Society Professional Musicians), engaged: August 29 ("Rose Maiden"), Skegness; September 24, Newark; 26, Nottingham; October 2, Market Rasen; 10, Louth; 17, Lincoln; 22, Clumber; November 2
(Ballads), Lincoln; October 24 (Miscellaneous), Lincoln; November
22 ("St. Paul"), Hull; 28 ("Creation"), Buxton; December 19
("Messiah"), Gainsborough; November 25 ("Elijah"), Kettering;
December 26 ("Elijah"), Rotherham. Address, Cathedral, Lincoln.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD (Tenor). Engagements:
Manchester, Liverpool, Buxton, Halifax, Cheltenham, Dublin,
&c. For vacant dates, terms, &c., address, 23, Endlesham Road,
Balham, London, S.W.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM (Tenor), Vicar
Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, is booking ENGAGEMENTS for ORATORIOS and BALLAD CONCERTS in London and the provinces. For vacant dates, address, Grovedale, Parsons Green,
S.W., or to St. Paul's Cathedral, E.C. The following already booked:
Ballads, City; Ballads, Camden Town; Ballads, City; Ballads, Brixton; also engagements for "The Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Hymn of Praise," &c., &c.

Mr. ALFRED KENNINGHAM can provide thoroughly efficient
Solo Choir boys, personally trained, for Concerts and Church Festivals. Address as above.

MR. CLIFFORD ROYLE (Tenor), Honours Certificate, R.A.M. Open to Oratorio and other engagements.
Address, College Road, Rotherham.

MR. S. THORNBOROUGH (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios or Concerts be addressed, 62, Preston New Road, Blackburn.

CHORAL SOCIETIES, ORGAN RECITALS, &c.
—Baritone Vocalist will be glad to give services for expenses. Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous. Address, Mr. John Ortner, Laleham House, Santos Road, Wandsworth, S.W.

MR. BINGLEY SHAW (Baritone) has just returned to England, after fulfilling an eighteen months' engagement on the Continent, and is booking ENGAGEMENTS for the season. Dates already booked: Nottingham, October 18 and 22; Derby, 29; Newark, November 5; Hoveingham, November 7; Nottingham, 19; Tamworth, 20; Nottingham, 23, December 7, 14, 21; Walsall, Blythe, Mansfield, Birmingham, and others pending. For terms and vacant dates, address, 96, Goldsmith Street, Nottingham.

MR. T. WILFORD PRICE (Bass, St. Alban's, Holborn), for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Répertoire includes "Elijah," "Messiah," "Creation," "St. Paul," "Judas Maccabæus," "Last Judgment," "Stabat Mater," "Crucifixion," "Woman of Samaria," "Daughter of Jairus," "Holy City," "Christ and His Soldiers," "Golden Legend," "The Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," "Erl-King's Daughter," "May Queen." Engaged: October 2, 5, 11, 16, 18, 23, 26, 29, 30. November 8, 12, 13, 18, 19, 26, 27. December 3, 11, 14, 18. January 15. February 5, 26. March 19. Address for engagements, 75, Kent House Road, Sydenham.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 49, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. JAMES B. SMITH (Principal Bass, Peterborough Cathedral) requests that all communications respecting Concerts, &c., be addressed to 4, Princes' Villas, Peterborough.

MR. and MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Bass and Mezzo-Soprano), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Two hours' Dramatic and Musical Recitals given.) Willow Lodge, Leeds.

MR. WALTER WELLS (Bass, Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair), on tour until December 10. For vacant dates, terms, &c., address, Warminster House, 15, Tytherton Road, Upper Holloway, N.

MADAME ANNIE ALBU begs to announce her CHANGE OF ADDRESS from Blackpool to 223, Maida Vale, London, W., where all communications respecting Concerts, Oratorios, &c., should be addressed.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that all communications respecting ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, &c., be addressed to her at 158, Portsdown Road, W.

MR. and MRS. PERCY PALMER (Miss Annie Marriott) desire to announce their CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 5, Victoria Grove, Fulham Road, where all communications may be addressed.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS in VOICE TRAINING and SOLO SINGING. 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

MR. G. BANKS begs that all Communications respecting Engagements be addressed, Kelvin Grove; or, The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. JOHN PROBERT requests that all communications be addressed to Woodville, New Barnet, N.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music, and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON.; MUS. D., DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Dublin, June, 1889), Oxford, and Cambridge; the only Candidate who "Passed with Honours" in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Plan or Design the R.A.M. Senior Local Exam., Manchester, 1889; L.R.A.M., N.S.P.M. (Honours, 1889), F.C.O., A.C.O., Toronto (one Doc. and 26 in 1st, 2nd, and Final Bac.). More than THREE HUNDRED and FIFTY Certificates, Degrees, &c., have been gained by DR. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won three GOLD MEDALS for excellence in Harmony and Counterpoint at Manchester. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. CAMBRIDGE HOUSE, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations by post. Instructed successfully for Local Exam., R.A.M., 1889. Personal Lessons in Theory or Pianoforte given at own or pupil's residence, or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Organ Lessons, Willersley House, Welington Road, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. WM. BLAKELEY, Mus. Bac.—Candidates successfully prepared by Post for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887; First and Second Exams., 1888 Final Exams.; all First Class, &c. 23, Gillespie Crescent, Edinburgh.

PER SCRIPTA IN ABSENTIÂ.—DR. BRADFORD'S System (registered).—Ten Lessons, £1 11s. 6d. for Instruction, by correspondence, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and all subjects for any Musical Examination. "Per Scripta in absentia" offers advantages to Students, and includes (inter alia) Dr. Bradford's workings of the Oxford Examination Papers for the past ten years. Address, 32, Bensham Manor Road, Thornton Heath, Surrey.

PER SCRIPTA IN ABSENTIÂ.—By this system Questions and Exercises are submitted to the Student. Dr. BRADFORD'S OWN WORKING OF THE SAME PAPERS being returned with the corrected work of the Student.

MR. EDWARD BROMELL (Professor, London Academy of Music) gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., personally and by correspondence. Classes' Compositions revised. 16, Meynell Road, South Hackney, E.

MR. ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, &c., by Post. 9, Avington Grove, Penge, S.E.

C. CHAMBERS, Mus. Doc., Cantab., F.C.O., teaches HARMONY, &c., by post. Address, 86, Rye Hill, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

DR. CROW, of Ripon Cathedral, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, &c., by Correspondence.

MR. JOHN GREIG, M.A., Mus. Bac., F.C.O. (qualified by examination for Mus. Doc., Oxon.), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and FUGUE by Correspondence. Successes: Final Mus. Bac., Oxon., and F.C.O. paper work. 7, Scotland Street, Edinburgh.

H. A. HARDING, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.C.O., L. Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by correspondence. Dr. Harding, Bedford.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab., Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L. Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: Mus. Doc., Toronto, 1889; Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1889, First, Second, and Final Exams. First Class, Gold Medalist, 1889; L.R.A.M., 1889; L. Mus. (including Candidate with highest number of marks 1888), and A. Mus., T.C.L., 1889; F.C.O. and A.C.O., 1889; Tonic Sol-fa College, Highest Exams., 1889; A.R.C.M.; Church Choir Guild; F.Gld.O.; Senior Local R.A.M. and T.C.L. Honours; Society of Arts, Honours. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY, A.R.A.M., &c., begs to announce to his pupils and friends his ARRIVAL IN TOWN. VOICE PRODUCTION. 43, Royal Avenue, Sloane Square, S.W.

CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS for Mus. Bac. Degree. Arts and Music. Ten lessons one guinea. "Oxonienensis," C. Martin, Esq., St. Albans.

MR. G. J. ROBERTSON, F.C.O., prepares CANDIDATES for EXAMINATIONS. A set of F.C.O. papers worked out. Buccleuch Villa, Coventry.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, receives YOUTHS to EDUCATE as ORGANISTS and CHOIRMASTERS. Mr. Sergison's Course offers special advantages that are not attainable at any London Academy for this particular branch, besides the general cultivation of the Arts. Further particulars will be supplied on personal application only. Address, 62, Warwick Square, S.W.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, Mus. Bac., Toronto, and Local R.A.M. Examinations, &c. Terms moderate. 22, Market Street, Mayfair, W.; or, Haldon, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.C.O., L. Mus., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Forty-six Degrees, Diplomas, and other Honours, including Mus. Bac., F.C.O., A.C.O., F.Gld.O., and L. Mus., have been gained by DR. TAYLOR'S Pupils during the past Three Years. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. E. THATCHER, B. Mus., Lond., and Inter-med. B.A. (1st Div.), visits or receives PUPILS for ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Prepares Candidates for Arts and Musical Examinations, either personally, or by post. Schools attended. 50, Mildmay Road, N.

M. R. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Upwards of 100 pupils have passed recent examinations.—Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, INSTRUMENTATION, CANON, and FUGUE by Correspondence, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. Latest successes—L.R.A.M. and A.C.O., January, 1889; 1st Mus. Bac., Cantab., May, 1889. Address, Dr. Wareing, 76, Bristol Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Candidates successfully prepared for Examinations. Terms very moderate. Address, Allegro, 2, Coxwell Road, Ladywood, Birmingham.

CORRESPONDENCE COLLEGE OF MUSIC, Bisley, Woking, Surrey.—The Staff undertake to PREPARE STUDENTS, while residing at their own homes, for University and other Exams. Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue Form, Instrumentation, Arts and Science. Terms and papers of the Registrar.

WIMBLEDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC and TRAINING SCHOOL for MUSIC TEACHERS, Surrey. President: Lord Hotham; Vice-Presidents: Dr. E. J. Hopkins, Dr. W. H. Longhurst, and Dr. E. M. Lott; Principal: Mr. W. Sumner, Mus. Bac. Special staff of Professors for postal tuition, including one Doctor and two Bachelors of Music of each of the Universities of Cambridge, Oxford, and Toronto. Preparation in Arts. Address, Secretary, College of Music, Spencer Hill, Wimbledon.

LEADING TREBLE BOY WANTED, for the Church of the Ascension, Balham Hill. Salary, £10. Apply at the Church, Wednesday evenings, at 6.45.

CHOIR-BOYS.—MR. CHARLES RADBURN has several well trained, reliable SOLO and CHORUS BOYS open for further engagements. Address, Auckland Hill, West Norwood, S.E.

VACANCY IN LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, at Christmas, DEPUTY ALTO. Salary, £50 a year. Trained Pupil-teacher preferred, who can teach adult night school, for extra payment. Testimonials of voice, character, health, and teaching power, to be sent to C. Gresley, Esq., Lichfield, before November 10.

ALTO WANTED, for the Church of the Ascension, Balham Hill. £12. Apply, by letter, to Adolphus Antoine, Waverley, Alderbrook Road, Balham, S.W.

WANTED, ALTO, TENOR, and BASS Voices, for St. James's Church, Paddington, W. Apply, by letter, to Choirmaster, 57, Clifton Hill, St. John's Wood, N.W.; or personally, at St. James's Lecture Hall, Gloucester Place, W., any Friday evening, at 9 o'clock.

ALTO WANTED, at a Church near Lincoln's Inn. £8. Also a voluntary TENOR. Choral Service. Surpliced Choir. Address, Choirmaster, 7, Portland Road, Tottenham.

CHESTER CATHEDRAL CHOIR.—VACANCY for TENOR. Age under 30. Stipend, £80. Candidates, who must be Churchmen possessing some knowledge of Cathedral music, are requested to apply at once to the Rev. The Precentor, Precincts, Chester.

TENOR and BASS WANTED, for a S.E. Church, in return for Organ Lessons and Practice. Address, Mus. B., 3, Langdon Road, N.

SECOND BASS WANTED, for Christ Church, Victoria Road, Kensington. Must be real Bass, not Baritone. Salary, £15. Two services on Sunday and one week-day practice. Five weeks' holiday in August and September. Apply to Choirmaster, 23, Young Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—WANTED, an APPOINTMENT in the South of England, by a professional ORGANIST (30), at present in large Parish Church in the North. Soloist, Conductor, &c. Six years in present post. Cantor, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. Mary's, West Kensington. Address, The Wardens, St. Mary's Church House, 147, Hammersmith Road, W.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Queen's Cross Free Church, Aberdeen, a qualified and experienced ORGANIST. Salary, fifty guineas. Organ just built by Messrs. Willis and Sons, London. For further particulars, apply to James Davidson, 68, Hamilton Place, Aberdeen, who will receive applications, with references, up to Saturday, November 16, 1889.

REQUIRED, at Christmas, ORGANIST, with special capacity for Training and Teaching Choir. Salary, £25, half of Benefit Concert, and privilege of Organ Pupils. Rev. J. S. Allen, Pembroke Dock.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, A.C.O., at present Organist of Parish Church, is open to APPOINTMENT. Used to fully Choral Service. Good testimonials for ability and character. Address, Diapason, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (disengaged) desires APPOINTMENT in or near London. Moderate Salary. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

TO CLERGYMEN.—ORGANIST and CHOIR-MASTER desires RE-ENGAGEMENT at Christmas. Thoroughly experienced. Anglican or Gregorian. South-west of England preferred. Testimonials from clergymen, heads of schools, University men, &c. Address, Music Master, Trinity College, Stratford-on-Avon.

ORGANIST.—APPOINTMENT desired by a Blind Gentleman accustomed to Choral Service. Anglican experienced. Highest References. F.D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGANIST (Deputy).—Gentleman, twenty-seven years' experience. Competent for any Anglican Service. Moderate fee. Address, Organist, Elm Villa, Eltham, Kent. Please cut out for reference.

A GOOD MUSIC TEACHER WANTED, in a large School. Must be able to prepare Pupils for Musical Examinations. Apply, Principal, Prospect House, St. Neots, Hunts.

ROMAN CATHOLIC MASTER WANTED, immediately, for a School, to teach PIANO, VIOLIN, SINGING, ARITHMETIC, WRITING, and ENGLISH. Salary, £75, with furnished rooms and attendance. Apply, W., Tablet Office, 19, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

AN Experienced SOLO PIANIST and ACCOMPANIST wishes to accompany small band, or as Pianist to Choral Societies and Concerts. Good Sight Reader. Song Accompanist and Soloist. Letters and references to L. K., W. Sexton's Musical Offices, 447, Strand.

WANTED, in a Good School, a SITUATION as MUSIC TEACHER by a Lady, Certificated, Dresden, London. Over eight years' experience in First-class College. Prepares for R.A.M. successfully. Address, B. M., care of Darter's Book and Stationery Depot, Cheltenham.

A LADY is open to ENGAGEMENTS as ACCOMPANIST and PIANIST. Good Sight Reader. Miss Bremner, Wood Green School of Music, Truro Road, Wood Green, N.

YOUNG GENTLEMAN desires RE-ENGAGEMENT as PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIST to Choir or Society. Used to Classical and Cathedral Music. W. B., 13, Turret Grove, Clapham, S.W.

OBOE.—OBOEIST, West of England, accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorios, &c., on moderate terms. Address, N., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, as FIRST VIOLIN in Orchestra (played Solo with great success at Crystal Palace). Address, Violinist, 516, Oxford Street, W.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. A. A. MACKINTOSH, F.C.O., &c., Organist and Choirmaster, All Saints' Parish Church, Huntingdon, will have a VACANCY for the above in January. Has had great success in preparing for College of Organists and other Exams. Large three-manual organ, daily Choral Services, and every facility for a thorough Musical Education. When able to play a simple Service a small salary would be given.

MARGATE.—The Organist of the Parish Church has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL who wishes to qualify for the Profession of a Church Organist. Terms moderate and inclusive. Dr. A. G. Mitchell, Piermont House, Eaton Road, Margate.

AUSTRALASIA.—WANTED, by a Gentleman going out early next year, AGENCY for a LONDON PUBLISHER or INSTRUMENT MANUFACTURER, or would take a position in a Colonial Warehouse. Good general practical knowledge of Sheet, Small Ware, and Instrument business; twenty years' experience in music, seven years in a music warehouse. Could open a Branch Establishment or travel. Married, two young sons. Highest references. Address, Gavel, care of Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AS MANAGER, PIANO and MUSIC SALES-MAN.—Gentleman (28) is open to ENGAGEMENT as above. 12 years' experience; has held present appointment 10 years. Excellent Character and References. In or near London preferred, or Colonies. Address, D. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a First-class PIANOFORTE TUNER, knowledge of Repairs, &c. Good business qualifications. Apply, Hutchinson's Music Warehouse, Newport, Mon.

EXPERIENCED TUNER and REPAIRER wants SITUATION in England or Ireland. Thoroughly up to Harmoniums and American Organs. First-class references. Address, Ion, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER.—WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT by a steady Young Man, from Kirkman's. Understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Good references. Address, A., 36, Marquess Road, N.

COLONIES or ABROAD.—WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER. Aged 26, single. First-class references, good address, competent Salesman, or to Manage. Tuner, care of Mr. Hawkings, 26, Lisson Grove, N.W.

OCCASIONAL TUNER.—A thoroughly competent TUNER (Pianoforte and Harmonium) desires two or three days a week, or occasional work. West-end references. Address, Occasional, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AS TUNER or to SERVE in SHOP. London or neighbourhood preferred; can do small repairs. Aged 22. Good references. Address, S., 10, Shorlotts Road, Walham Green, S.W.

WANTED, SITUATION as IMPROVER. Can Tune and Repair. Small salary at first. Address, W. H. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

REQUIRED, to APPRENTICE a YOUTH to the Piano Tuning and Repairing. Premium. Apply, E. D., 46, Portland Road, South Norwood.

TO PIANOFORTE TUNERS.—WANTED, LESSONS in Tuning. Apply by letter, stating terms, to W. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a YOUNG MAN, as MUSIC ASSISTANT, with good knowledge of Catalogues, and able to try over Pianos well. References, age, salary, and photo, to S.W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

APPRENTICE WANTED, in a high-class MUSIC and PIANOFORTE WAREHOUSE, in the suburbs of London. Exceptional opportunities for attaining a thorough knowledge of every branch of the trade. Premium required. Apply, W. P., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, by Young Lady, SITUATION, as MUSIC-SELLER'S ASSISTANT. Good Reader and Pianist. London or Suburbs. Address, Z., care of Miss Geaussen, Music Warehouse, Leominster.

PIANO BUSINESS for DISPOSAL, in Manchester; very little Stock required to be taken: Instruments out on Hire optional; good reasons for leaving. Apply, E. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, to take over by two Professors, a CONNECTION for VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, and SINGING, in London, Suburbs, or Country. Liberal terms offered. Address, A. E. F., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSIONAL MUSICIAN, in ill-health, wishes to DISPOSE of his CONNECTION, an excellent one, in large City in North of England. Conductor, important Choral Society; Organ appointment, &c. Fullest references. Address, in first instance, X. L., care of Mr. W. Simmons, 49, Newgate St., London.

PARTNER WANTED, with £400, to join Advertiser in purchasing an established PIANOFORTE and MUSIC Business. References required. Apply, M. R. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

BERNERS STREET, W.—SHOP, Two Work-shops, and part of Basement to Let; Rent, £120 per annum. Also First Floor, Two Rooms and part of Basement; £60 per annum. Apply, 39, Berners Street.

ORGAN PRACTICE and LESSONS.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 2s. one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles St., Camberwell New Rd.

ORGAN PRACTICE (in the City). One shilling per hour, upon a complete instrument. Three manuals and independent pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis, 29, Minorities. ORGAN and PIANO Lessons by Mrs. ELIZABETH STIRLING.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depot, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE, tubular pneumatic; three manuals; independent pedals; terms and specification on application. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned Instrument, in first-class condition. Great Organ, 12 stops; Swell Organ, 9 stops; Pedal Organ, 2 stops. Full particulars, Post-free. W. White, St. Peter's Hill, Grantham.

FOR SALE.—SMALL CHURCH ORGAN, by BISHOP. 2-manual, 14 sounding stops, 3 couplers, 3 composition pedals. Can be seen at St. James's Church, Muswell Hill, after any of the services.

SMALL ORGAN for SALE, Cheap. For particulars, apply, H. Atkins, Leicester Grange, Hinckley.

ORGAN (Powerful), Two-manual. Full compass. 11 stops. Full compass Pedals, and Pedal Organ; speaking front pipes richly decorated. Also a One-manual. Bargains. W. E., 9, Burdett Road, Bow Road, E.

FOR SALE.—The ORGAN, lately in The College Chapel, Chester. 2 Manuals, 2 Octaves of Pedals, 12 Stops. Apply to the Rev. the Principal. Any reasonable offer accepted.

ON SALE.—The fine ORGAN now in use in the Congregational Church, Saltaire, Yorkshire. Built regardless of expense for the late Sir Titus Salt, Bart. Full Manual and Pedal compass. Great organ, eleven stops; Swell organ, seven stops; Pedal organ, open diapason, 16-ft., and couplers. Price where it stands, without case, £200. Apply, P. Conacher and Co., Springwood, Huddersfield.

CHURCH and CHAMBER ORGANS for SALE or HIRE. Large stock list. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Manchester, S.W.

ORGANS FOR SALE OR HIRE.—

The ORGAN now standing in St. Lawrence's Church, Norwich. Built by ENGLAND. Two manuals and 14 stops. Photo on application. Price £60.

CHANCEL ORGAN. Two manuals, CC, 10 stops. CHURCH ORGAN. Nearly new. Two manuals, full compass, and 21 stops.

Several SINGLE-MANUAL ORGANS from £30. Two PRACTICE ORGANS, containing 2 manuals and full compass pedals, 4 stops.

A complete List, with full description, will be sent free on application to NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Works, Chapel Field Road, Norwich.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE; or on Easy Terms. Two-manual CC Organ, 11 stops, second-hand; ditto, 15 stops; ditto, 24 stops. Two-manual Organ, nearly new, 12 stops; ditto, 23 stops. Three-manual Organ, nearly new, 32 stops. New Organ, 13 stops. £95 to £350. Three One-manual Organs, £15 to £50. A. Monk, Organ Works, 550, Holloway Road, London. Organs built to any specification. All first-class work guaranteed. Alterations and repairs.

AMERICAN ORGAN. Two-manual and pedals, 13 sets of reeds, 21 stops, hand and foot-blowers, swell composition pedals, couplers, &c. Very handsome pipe top. Suit Hall or Chapel. List price 200 guineas. Price £60. Apply to Rev. John Harrison, 30, Jesson Street, West Bromwich.

TWO-MANUAL PEDAL ORGAN-HAR-MONIUM. 5 full sets reeds, back and front blowers, 14 stops, solid walnut case. Made especially for Organists. 28 guineas. Gratian, 2, Macdonald Road, Forest Gate.

J. B. CRAMER & CO., Organ Builders and Piano-forte Manufacturers, 40 to 46, Moorgate Street, London, have new and second-hand PIPE ORGANS for the Chamber, Church, Study, or School, at prices varying from 25 guineas to 300 guineas. A two-manual carved oak Chamber Organ, great and swell, 11 stops, 21 octaves, pedals. Good as new. For cash, 85 guineas. J. B. Cramer & Co., 46, Moorgate Street, London.

FOR SALE.—CHURCH HARMONIUM, by ALEXANDRE. 11 stops. In excellent condition. No further use, having just obtained an Organ. Price £15. Apply, Rector, Ashington, Pulborough, Sussex.

HARMONIUM for SALE.—Second-hand instru-ment by CRAMER. 12 stops, full tone, in good condition. For School or Choral Society. Price £12. Address, G. C. H., 152, Southampton Row, W. C.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

PEDAL PRACTICE.—For SALE (the property of a Gentleman), full scale ORGAN PEDALS, with Roller-Board and Action for Attachment to Pianoforte. Apply to Messrs. Beales and Co., Organ Builders, Limes Road, East Croydon.

TO MUSICAL SOCIETIES AND THE PROFESSION. SECOND-HAND STEINWAY FULL CONCERT GRANDS.—A limited number of these celebrated Instruments, which have been in Concert use, will shortly be offered on exceptional terms to the Profession. Full particulars may be obtained on application to Steinway and Sons, Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, London, W.; or of their various Provincial Agents.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE. E. A. SYDENHAM'S PATENT TOUCH REGULATOR for PIANOS. For full particulars and opinions, address, E. A. Sydenham, Scarborough.

EXCEPTIONALLY fine-toned double-action HARP, by ERARD. Full compass, in first-class condition, and artistically decorated in black and gold. Price 35 guineas. Address, E. S., 70, Ridge Road, Stroud Green, N.

VIOLIN (by PIQUE); fine example. Ditto (Lott) ditto ditto. Amateur, Penshaw Rectory, Durham.

THE "CARRODUS" VIOLINS (named by per- mission of J. T. CARRODUS, Esq., the eminent Violinist). The finest that can be made. Prospectus and list of testimonials free. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London, and all musicsellers.

VIOLINS for SALE.—A very fine and perfect "KLOTZ." Also a solo instrument, labelled "JACOB STAINER." David, 4, Stratford Road, Kensington.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD, LONDON,

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, W.C.

PATRONS:

The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Bedford.

The Venerable Archdeacon HESSEY, D.C.L.

The Rev. Canon CARTER, M.A.

Sir GEORGE ELVEY, Mus. Doc.

FREDERIC H. COWEN, Esq.

PRESIDENT:

Sir HERBERT OAKELEY, M.A., Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

FOR ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, AND CHORISTERS.

LECTURES.

Nov. 14, 5 p.m.—"Is it desirable to observe the various stops (periods) in Chanting?" STOCKS HAMMOND, B.A., F.S.A.

Dec. 9, 7 p.m.—"The best treatment of the Canticles for Congregational use." FREDERICK J. KARN, Mus. Doc.

January 9, 1890, 5 p.m.—"Our Choristers." C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac.

Annual Conference.—January 16, 1890.—Sir George Elvey, Mus. Doc., in the Chair.

A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Examinations, January 15 and 16, 1890.

For further particulars, address, The Warden, J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc. By order of the Council,

C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

ST. JOHN'S, Waterloo Road, S.E.—Mendelssohn's
ELIJAH, on the third Sunday in November, at 3 p.m. Spohr's
LAST JUDGMENT, on the third Sunday in December, at 3 p.m.
 Conductor, Mr. W. J. Reynolds, Mus.B. Organist, Mr. Henry J. B. Dart.

VACANCIES in each department of the CHOIR. REHEARSAL,
 Monday, at 8 p.m.

Apply, H. D., 53, St. John's Park, N.

THE LYRIC QUINTET.

Mrs. CHRISTIAN WILLIAMS, Soprano.

Miss VIOLET SIMPSON, Contralto.

Mr. ALFRED VENTOM, Tenor.

Mr. BOWMAN RALSTON, Bass.

At the Piano—Miss EMILIE SCOTT, A.P.T.C.L.
 Humorist (if required)—Mr. J. A. MUIR, late of D'Oyley Carte's Opera Company.

Part-singing a special feature.

For Particulars, apply, E. H. WILLIAMS, 27, Falkner, St., Liverpool.

THE LIVERPOOL CONCERT PARTY.

For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c. :—

Madame LAURA HAWORTH (Soprano).

Miss ANNIE RICHARDSON (Contralto).

Mr. ALFRED WHITE (Tenor).

Mr. FREDERIC OWENS (Bass).

Miss MABEL RICHARDSON (Elocutionist).

Master HERBERT SPENCER (Solo Violinist).

Miss MARGARET WEBSTER (Solo Pianist).

Mr. R. D. RODGERS (Humorist).

Miss RICHARDSON (Accompanist).

For particulars, terms, &c., address, Miss Richardson, 6, Abercomby Terrace, Liverpool.

THE BROOKLYN GLEE QUARTET (Alto, Tenors, and Bass) may be engaged for Concerts, Dinners, &c.
 For terms, apply to Mr. H. Tuddenham, 304, Regent Street, W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

MISS COYTE TURNER begs to announce her
 GRAND EVENING CONCERT, on Friday, November 29, 1889, at Camden Athenæum, Camden Road, at 8 p.m., when she will be assisted by eminent Artists. Full particulars and Tickets to be obtained at Camden Athenæum, and of Miss Coyte Turner, 21, Alexandra Road, Finsbury Park, N.

BRIXTON HALL.—Messrs. HANNS' CHAMBER
 CONCERTS (Fourth Series), November 6 and 27; December
 18. First Concert, November 6. Programme: Schubert's String
 Quintet, Haydn's Quartet in G, Mendelssohn's Piano Trio in C minor, Beethoven's 32 Variations, C minor (Piano Solo). Vocalist: Madame Hope Glenn.

MEMORIAL HALL (Licensed for Music), Far-ringdon Street (Ludgate Hill end).—The Larger and Smaller Halls (seating about 1,500 and 500 respectively) TO LET for Concerts,
 &c. Apply to the Secretary.

BURLINGTON HALL, 23, Savile Row, Regent
 Street, W.—The MUSIC ROOM of Old Burlington House (capable of seating 250) may be used for the use of Musical Societies on moderate terms. Apply to the Secretary, 23, Savile Row W.

MR. CHARLES FRY recites THE DREAM OF
JUBAL (Mackenzie), ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, ŒDIPUS
 (Mendelssohn), PRECIOSA (Weber), THE DESERT (David).
 Belmont, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Park, N.W.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—CHURCH OF ENGLAND
HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS (Limited), 6, Upper Baker Street, Regent's Park.—Head Music Mistress, Miss Macirone, late
 Professor of Royal Academy of Music. Fee, three guineas per term.
 Children from 8 to 13 allowed to begin and continue for two guineas per term. Pupils not in the School pay an entrance fee of one guinea.
 The fees payable in advance. Michaelmas Term begins October 2.
 Pupils wishing to join Violin Class under Mdle. Gabrielle Vaillant to send in their names to Miss Macirone.

E. J. HOLLAND, Chairman.

UNIVERSITY OF TRINITY COLLEGE, TORONTO.

(The Church of England University of Upper Canada.)

The next Annual Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held simultaneously in Toronto and London in Easter Week, 1890.

Women are admissible to these Examinations.

For particulars apply to

Rev. E. K. KENDALL, D.C.L.,
Registrar for England, Southsea.

THE Author of WEBSTER'S GROUNDWORK
 OF MUSIC gives Lessons in THEORY or ELEMENTS of MUSIC by correspondence. Over 200 Candidates have passed the Royal Academy, Trinity College, or Society of Arts Examinations.
 "Webster's method is logical and scientific."—See Athenæum,
 August 18, 1883. Address, C. A. Webster, care of Edwin Ashdown,
 Hanover Square, London, W.

Mr. Stedman's Musical Agency

(Established 1877, for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),

12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

CHURCH FESTIVALS of all kinds arranged.
 Choir Boys. All Classes of Artists for Opera, Theatre, Concerts, and for Banquets and Garden Parties, with management.

THE LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

FOR EXAMINATIONS IN PRACTICAL AND THEORETICAL MUSIC.

PATRONS.

Sir GEORGE J. ELVEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

The Most Noble the Marquis of CARMARTHEN, M.P.

The Hon. Sir WILLIAM GRANTHAM.

Sir HERBERT S. OAKELEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Dublin, St. Andrew's,
LL.D., Professor of Music, Edinburgh University.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

FREDERIC H. COWEN, Esq. | J. BAPTISTE CALKIN, Esq.

The above College holds periodical Examinations in Pianoforte Playing, Singing, Theory, and all branches of Music, and grants Certificates to all successful Candidates. Next examination in December.

Local Representatives required for Vacancies. Apply to Secretary.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE.

President: E. J. HOPKINS, Mus. Doc.

Principal: EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.

LOCAL THEORETICAL EXAMINATION, November 28, 1889.

Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.

COMPETITION FOR GOLD MEDAL, or its money value—viz.,

Ten Guineas—(London Centre), November 27, 1889.

HEDLEY CARUS, Esq., Hon. Sec., 270, Cornwall Road, W.

Telegraphic address, "Outnumber, London."

THE MUSICAL CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIA-TION (Manager, A. F. TINDALL, A.Mus., 30, Wyndham Street, W.). A new system of music publishing, whereby Teachers and Composers may exchange and sell each other's works. Write for prospectus.

PRIZES FOR WHITSUNTIDE AND ANNIVER-SARY MUSIC. £3; £2; £1. Pudsey and District S.S. Union.
 For conditions, send stamped addressed envelope to Isaac Windsor,
 Hammerton Field, Pudsey, Leeds.

"H. GERMER'S ELEMENTARY AND PRAC-TICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL is a model work of its kind."—Signal.

"Among the best works of this kind, Germer's highly interesting Pianoforte School must be mentioned."—C. Eschmann's Guide through Pianoforte Playing.

The author of the above desires to point out that this work has not been written to order, but simply with a view to produce a good and rational instruction, affording to the young pupil higher and better musical development.

May be had in three Parts, 2s. 6d. each net; or, complete, paper cover, 6s. net; or, boards, 7s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION, &c., AND FOR THE GRANTING OF CERTIFICATES AND DIPLOMAS IN MUSIC ON EXAMINATION.—INSTITUTED 1872.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR SESSION 1889-90.

PRESIDENT.—THE EARL OF ABERDEEN.

WARDEN.—THE REV. H. G. BONAVIA HUNT, Mus.D., F.R.S.E. | DIRECTOR OF STUDIES.—PROFESSOR BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.
DIRECTOR OF EXAMINATIONS.—PROFESSOR JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.

DEPARTMENT OF CLASSES & LECTURES.

The NEXT ORCHESTRAL CONCERT will take place on Monday, December 9, at Princes' Hall, Piccadilly. Conductor, Mr. George Mount.

The NEXT TERM commences Monday, January 13, 1890, when new Students (Professional and Amateur) are received.

The following is a list of the subjects taught, with names of Professors:—

HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT.—Professor Gordon Saunders, Mus.D.; Professor James Higgs, Mus.B.; C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.; James Turpin, Mus.B.

FORM AND ORCHESTRATION.—Professor E. H. Turpin, L.Mus.
COMPOSITION.—Frederick Corder.

MUSICAL ACOUSTICS.—W. H. Stone, M.A., M.B.

PIANOFORTE.—Professor Bradbury Turner, Mus.B.; F. G. Cole, L.Mus.; G. E. Bambridge, L.Mus.; Frederick Corder, R. F. Tyler, L.Mus.

ORGAN.—W. Pinney, Mus.B.; C. E. Willing, L.Mus.; F. G. M. Ogbourne.

FIGURED BASS PLAYING, TRANSPOSITION, &c.—Professor E. H. Turpin, L.Mus.

SOLO SINGING.—A. Visetti, J. C. Beuthin, J. H. Nappi, Wallace Wells, C. E. Willing, L.Mus.; Walter Bolton, Sinclair Dunn.

THE ART OF PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.—C. E. Willing, L.Mus.

VIOLIN.—J. T. Carrodus, L. Szczepanowski, H. Gibson, Bernhard Carrodus.

VIOLONCELLO.—E. Woolhouse.

DOUBLE BASS.—John Reynolds.

FLUTE.—John Radcliff, W. L. Barrett.

OBOE.—A. L. B. Dubrucq, W. M. Malsch.

CLARINET.—H. Lazarus.

HARP.—Ernest R. Lockwood.

HORN.—T. E. Mann.

ORCHESTRAL CLASS.—George Mount.

MUSICAL HISTORY.—Professor E. H. Turpin, L.Mus.; Rev. Dr. Bonavia Hunt.

SIGHT SINGING.—W. G. W. Goodworth, L.Mus.

CHORAL CLASS.—Sinclair Dunn.

VOCAL AND AURAL PHYSIOLOGY (Lectures).—C. E. Armand Semple, M.B., M.R.C.P.

VOICE PRODUCTION CLASS (Lectures).—A. Visetti.

OPERATIC CLASS.—Walter Bolton.

ELOCUTION.—J. L. Child.

FRENCH.—D. Hovelacque.

ITALIAN.—Professor Farinelli.

Both Male and Female Students are received, and there is no limit as to age. There are Evening as well as Day Classes, and Harmony and Counterpoint are also taught by Correspondence. Students of the College are allowed to enter for any of the College Examinations at reduced fees.

Prospectuses and all particulars can be obtained on application.

SCHOLARSHIPS, PRIZES, &c. In January next the following will be open for competition.

The "Maybrick" Prize, of Five guineas, for Ballad singing.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment Prize, of Five guineas.

The Gold Medal of the College for the best Essay "On the respective merits of the existing systems of Musical Notation." Adjudicator, W. H. CUMMINGS, Esq.

A Silver Medal for Singing.

In July next the following will be open for competition.

The "Henry Smart" Scholarship, tenable for three years.

The "Sir Julius Benedict" Pianoforte Exhibition.

The "Sims Reeves" Vocal Exhibition.

The College Organ, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello Exhibitions.

Silver and Bronze Medals for regularity and diligence.

The College Medals for Harmony and Counterpoint.

The "Turner" Medals for Pianoforte and Singing.

THE QUEEN VICTORIA LECTURES, for 1890, will be delivered by MORTON LATHAM, Esq., M.A., Mus. B., Vice-President of the College. Subject: "The Musical Renaissance."

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

THESE EXAMINATIONS TAKE PLACE IN JANUARY AND JULY.

The THIRTY-THIRD HALF-YEARLY Higher Examinations will take place in the week commencing January 6, 1890; as under:—

1. For the Diplomas of L.Mus., T.C.L., and A.Mus., T.C.L., at the College only.
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.), at the College only.
3. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.), at the College, and also at the following Local Centres, subject to final arrangements:—Aberdeen, Belfast, Birmingham, Bolton, Bristol, Cardiff, Cheltenham, Carmarthen, Edinburgh, Exeter, Glasgow, Keswick, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, Norwich, Nottingham, Plymouth, and Portsmouth.

Last day of entry, December 14, 1889.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

TWELFTH ANNUAL SERIES.

The LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) take place in the United Kingdom in December and June and in the Colonies in June.

THE NEXT HALF-YEARLY EXAMINATION will be held on Friday, December 13. Last day of entry November 13.

The Examination for the new INTERMEDIATE DIVISION (Pass and Honours Sections) will then be held for the first time.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC will take place throughout the Session at the following Centres, subject to final arrangements:—

Aberdeen, Aldershot, Altrincham, Ay, Bangor, Bath, Bedford, Belfast, Birmingham, Blackburn, Bolton, Bournemouth, Brecon, Brentwood, Brighton, Bristol, Bury St. Edmunds, Cardiff, Carlisle, Carmarthen, Carnarvon, Cheltenham, Chesterfield, Chichester, Chippenham, Cleator Moor, Colchester, Croydun, Derby, Dover, Dumfries, Dundee, Eastbourne, Eccles, Edinburgh, Exeter, Glasgow, Gloucester, Guildford, Halifax, Halstead, Harrogate, Hastings, Haverfordwest, Herne Bay, Hull, Ilminster, Ipswich, Jersey, Keighley, King's Lynn, Lancaster, Leamington, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, London, London, S.E., Maidstone, Manchester, Newark, Newbury, Newcastle, Newport, Northampton, Norwich, Nottingham, Peterborough, Plymouth, Portsmouth, Preston, Ramsgate, Reading, Redruth, Rochester, St. Ives, Salisbury, Shrewsbury, Sleaford, Southampton, Southport, Stockport, Stockton-on-Tees, Stroud, Surbiton, Swansea, Swindon, Taunton, Tiverton, Torquay, Truro, Walsall, Ware, Wellington (Salop), Weymouth, Wisbech, Wolverhampton, Worcester, Yarmouth, York.

The Examinations of the College, both Higher and Local, are open to all persons, whether Students of the College or not, and without restriction as to age, sex, or creed.

The following have been appointed Examiners:—

G. E. Bambridge, Esq.; John Francis Barnett, Esq.; H. R. Bird, Esq.; Arthur Carnall, Esq., Mus.B.; F. Corder, Esq.; A. E. Drinkwater, Esq., M.A.; John Foster, Esq.; Myles B. Foster, Esq.; W. G. W. Goodworth, Esq.; Prof. James Higgs, Mus.B.; G. A. Higgs, Esq.; Rev. H. G. Bonavia Hunt, Mus.D.; C. S. Jekyll, Esq.; E. Burritt Lane, Esq.; Dr. A. H. Mann; Dr. C. W. Pearce; W. Pinney, Esq., Mus. B.; Ridley Prentice, Esq.; G. Papini, Esq.; J. Radcliff, Esq.; Prof. Gordon Saunders, Mus.D.; Armand Semple, Esq., B.A., M.B.; E. H. Thorne, Esq.; Prof. Bradbury Turner, Mus.B.; C. E. Willing, Esq.

PRIZES.—There are four National Prizes of £5 each, the "Gabriel" Prize of 5 Guineas, and the Talis Gold Medal to be awarded in connection with the Examinations.

PUBLIC DISTRIBUTIONS.—The dates of the following have already been fixed: Gloucester (A. C. Wheeler, Esq., Mayor, in the Chair); Bolton (J. J. Bradshaw, Esq., F.R.I.B.A.); Hull (T. T. Hewitt, Esq.); Norwich (The Sheriff in the Chair); Bath (The Mayor in the Chair); Manchester (The Mayor in the Chair); Liverpool (The Mayor in the Chair); London (Dr. J. F. Bridge in the Chair); Bradford (The Mayor in the Chair); Edinburgh (Sir Herbert Oakeley, LL.D., in the Chair); Southampton, and Southport.

Prospectuses of the Classes Department, regulations for the Examinations (both Higher and Local), a complete list of Centres (both in the United Kingdom and the Colonies), as well as regulations for the Enrolment of Schools in Union and for Membership of the College, may be obtained from the Secretary. By order of the Academical Board,

SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

NOVEMBER 1, 1889.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.—
R.A.M. AND R.C.M.

ON Thursday last, at the Royal College of Music, and on the following day at the Royal Academy of Music, the finishing touches were put to the great work of amalgamating those institutions for the purpose of local examinations in music. Our readers have been already made acquainted with the outlines, and some details, of the scheme which has now taken definite form and shape. Many of them may be awaiting further information, especially with regard to the syllabus upon the basis of which operations will be carried on. Unfortunately that interesting document has not yet been officially published, and we are, therefore, unable to produce it here. But newspapers sometimes convey to the public a fair general idea of the Queen's Speech before her Majesty, or her Majesty's representatives, have uttered a word of it. The same good luck may, perhaps, attend us if we venture to anticipate the contents of the syllabus agreed to by the Associated Board.

In the first place, were we called upon to draw up a list of professors whom the syllabus will nominate as examiners, the following names would probably appear in it:—

Messrs. J. F. Barnett, Oscar Beringer, A. Blume, J. F. Bridge, A. Burnett, F. Cliffe, F. Corder, W. H. Cummings, F. W. Davenport, H. R. Eyres, F. E. Gladstone, R. Gompertz, H. Holmes, E. Howell, C. H. Lloyd, W. Parratt, C. H. H. Parry, E. Pauer, E. Prout, A. Randegger, C. Villiers Stanford, Franklin Taylor, John Thomas, A. Visetti, F. Westlake, T. Wingham, and W. G. Wood.

It is not at all unlikely that these names will be found in the syllabus, and we must confess that they make up a formidable band of examiners, including some of the best musical talent in the country. So far, then, very good.

With regard to the general regulations, it is not at all unlikely that they may turn out to be somewhat as follows:—

The first examinations will be held at the various centres on and after March 10 next, provided in each case fifteen candidates present themselves. There are two grades, Junior (from twelve to sixteen years of age) and Senior. There is no singing examination in the Junior grade. There will be two examiners. Fees are payable in advance—two guineas for one subject, one guinea extra for each subject in addition. The examiners will report to the central office, and the Board will publish the results. Candidates must communicate with one of the honorary local representatives, and send the fee to him with their application.

Every candidate will be required to pass a preliminary examination at a local centre on February 19. One paper will be worked, comprising questions in harmony, as far as the triads and their inversions, formed on the degrees of the major and minor scales. Candidates failing to satisfy the examiners will be debarred from further examination during the current year, and will have half the fee returned.

The subjects, all or any of which candidates successful in the preliminary examination are at liberty to choose, may turn out to be as follows: Theory of music, Pianoforte, Organ, Violin, Violoncello, Harp, and Singing. To each of these the division into two grades applies.

We come now to details in which many of our young readers are chiefly interested, and will venture to give them an idea of the "stiffness" of the test they may be asked to undergo. Taking the Theory of music (Junior), it is not improbable that candidates will be requested to analyse, both as to harmony and plan, one of Beethoven's early Sonatas, and write exercises on all the chords of the seventh, with their inversions. The seniors, on their part, may look for something like the following: Analysis of a Beethoven Sonata, harmonisation of a given melody, the addition of parts to a figured bass, exercises exemplifying all species of counterpoint in not more than three parts.

It is not improbable that the test, should it correspond with the above, will be pronounced unduly severe. But there is the consolation of reflecting that those who shrink from it can find examiners much more lenient—who are, indeed, the perfection of complaisance.

In the Pianoforte (Junior) candidates may expect to be put through all the scales, and arpeggios formed on all the major and minor common chords through three octaves. In each case the hands to be used separately and together. Candidates in the Senior grade may, in addition to the scales in direct and contrary motion, have arpeggios not only on the common chords, but on those of the dominant and diminished seventh, with all their inversions. Possibly, also, they will be asked to play scales in staccato octaves from the wrist.

Passing over the organ, violin, violoncello, and harp, with the simple observation that the same principles prevail as in the case of the pianoforte, we come to Singing. The candidates in this department may have to pass a voice test, and sing intervals, scales, and arpeggios, at any required rate of speed. In all departments a practical display of skill in the performance of certain given studies and pieces will be insisted on. A Junior pianist, for example, may find set before him Clementi's Study in A, and Mendelssohn's Andante and Allegro in A minor; while Seniors may be asked to play Chopin's Study in F and Schumann's Nachtstück in D flat. Similarly, candidates in singing will have to execute one or more solos from a varied and comprehensive list.

The foregoing may be relied upon with some confidence as giving a fair idea of the new examinations. We feel assured that when the syllabus appears, the whole scheme will meet with the approval of thinking amateurs as one which really supplies a test of merit, and as one certain to be carried out with a due regard to the dignity of art as well as to the feelings of the candidates. Well-wishers to music all the country over will watch the enterprise now about to begin with interest and sympathy, desiring for it unqualified success as a stepping-stone to still higher and better things.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS.

BY JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. XXVII.—HANDEL (continued from page 590).

HANDEL closed the Lent season of 1750 on April 11, and in June began the composition of the "Choice of Hercules" with a view to that of the following year. According to an inscription on the score, this work was finished by July 5, but whether in England or Germany remains uncertain. There is ample evidence to show that in the summer of 1750 the master paid a last visit to his native land. Unhappily, no record of the date on which he left these shores can be found; our information as to the whole matter beginning with a paragraph in the General Advertiser of August 21, where we read: "Mr. Handel, who went to Germany to visit his friends some time since, and, between the Hague and Haarlem, had the misfortune to be overturned, by which he was terribly hurt, is now out of danger." Regarding the circumstances and nature of this serious accident we are as ignorant as of its precise date; indeed, the visit to Germany is wrapped in obscurity so deep that, but for the newspaper paragraph, and a passage in Forkel's "Life of Bach," we should be almost justified in refusing it credence. As may be supposed, the date of Handel's return to England is left unrecorded, and thus the unsatisfactoriness of the whole incident, from a historical point of view, is complete.

The "Choice of Hercules" was produced on March 1, 1751, the season—which the death of Frederic, Prince of Wales shortened—being filled up with repetitions of "Belshazzar," "Alexander's Feast," "Esther," and other works. All this time the master was busy with the last of his oratorios, the swan song of the mighty musician. The story of the writing of "Jephtha" is among the most pathetic in all biography. Handel began the work on January 21, 1751, and completed the second part on February 27. The third part was not begun till June 18, and on July 17 was still unfinished, the composer then laying down his pen till August 13, when he resumed his labours, putting the last touches to "Jephtha" on August 30. Never before had Handel spread the composition of an oratorio over so long a time, but there was a sufficient reason for the delay in his declining health. Though constitutionally strong, the many vicissitudes of his career, acting upon an impetuous nature, had more than once, as we have seen, temporarily broken him down. In 1737 he suffered a grave attack of illness; in 1743 the master sought relief at the baths of Aix-la-Chapelle, and in 1751, when "Jephtha" was on hand, we find him at Cheltenham in the interval between the composition of the second and third parts of the oratorio. Although there is no explicit statement to the effect that Handel went to the Gloucestershire Spa on account of his health, we may very clearly infer as much from a paragraph in the General Advertiser of June 15: "On Thursday last, Mr. Handel arrived in town from Cheltenham, where he had been to make use of the waters." That many persons visit fashionable Spas and drink the waters who have little or nothing the matter with them is true enough, but Handel was not of that class. He suspended his work for no light reason. Besides, we know that a few weeks later symptoms of a great and heavy affliction set in. "In the beginning of the year 1751," writes Sir John Hawkins, "he was alarmed by a disorder in his eyes, which, upon consulting with Mr. Samuel Sharpe, of Guy's Hospital, he was told was an incipient gutta serena." Prompt measures of relief were taken, no fewer than three operations being performed, the last with promise of success. In the Theatrical Register of May 4, 1752, may be read: "Yesterday, George Frederic Handel, Esq., was couch'd by Wm. Bramfield, Esq., surgeon to Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, when it was thought there was all imaginable hopes of success by the operation, which must give the greatest pleasure to all lovers of music." But the promise was delusive. The shadows darkened around the master, and soon it was night; for, in January, 1753, a public journal announced: "Mr. Handel has, at length, unhappily, quite lost his sight. Upon his being couch'd some time since, he saw so well that his friends flattered themselves his sight was restored for a continuance, but a few days have entirely put an end to their hopes."

Hawkins tells us that the disaster profoundly affected Handel. "From the moment this opinion (Mr. Sharpe's) of his case was communicated to him, his spirits forsook him, and that fortitude which had supported him under afflictions of another kind deserted him upon being told that a freedom from pain in the visual organs was all that he had to hope for the remainder of his days." Who wonders at this? or that, in after time, when hearing his own "Total eclipse," tears welled from the sightless eyes of him who then knew, by sad experience, what the blind Milton meant when he wrote:—

No sun! no moon!
All dark to me amid the blaze of noon!

The year 1752, when the gutta serena was in an early stage, is the assigned date of a conversation reported in the Somerset House Gazette (1823), and introducing among the interlocutors Handel, Arne, Pepusch, &c. The verisimilitude of the circumstances detailed in this paper is so great that many persons have accepted the whole story as authentic; Mr. Schœlcher, amongst others, asserting that "entire faith" may be accorded to it. Modern research has, however, discovered that the paper was contributed to the Gazette by Mr. W. H. Pyne, the well-known author of "Wine and Walnuts." Still, as Mr. Rockstro justly points out, "it forms so pleasant a picture, and accords so closely with known facts, that it leaves but little more to be said concerning the manners and personal characteristics of the great composer." That being so, we cannot omit the paper here.

The imaginary narrator of the story is a Mr. Ephraim Hardcastle, whose uncle, Zachary Hardcastle, is represented as living in Paper Buildings, Temple, and there receiving, from time to time, men distinguished in literature and art. When taking an early walk in the garden of Somerset House, Zachary Hardcastle meets Colley Cibber, and invites him to breakfast before attending a competition for the post of organist at Temple Church. Cibber consents, and has Dr. Pepusch as a fellow guest. Presently Handel is announced, and enters, exclaiming:—

"What! mine dear friend, Hardcastle, what! You are merry by times. What! Mr. Colley Cibber, too! Aye, and Dr. Pepusch as well! Well, that is comical! Well, my friends, and how wags the world with you, mine dears? Pray, pray, do let me sit down a moment."

"Pepusch took the great man's hat, Colley Cibber took his stick, and my great-uncle wheeled round his reading chair, which was somewhat about the dimensions of that in which our kings and queens are crowned; and then the great man sat him down."

"Well, I thank you, gentlemen! now I am at mine ease once more. Upon mine word, that is a picture of a ham. It is very bold of me to come to breakfast with you uninvited, and I have brought with me a notable appetite, for the water of old Father Thames, is it not a fine bracer of the stomach?"

"You do me great honour, Mr. Handel," said my great-uncle; "I take this early visit as a great kindness."

"A delightful morning for the water," said Colley Cibber."

"Pray, did you come with oars or scullers, Mr. Handel?" said Pepusch."

"Now, how can you demand of me that silly question? You, who are a musician, and a man of science, Dr. Pepusch. What can it concern you whether I have one watermans or two watermans—whether I pull out mine purse for to pay one shilling or two. Diavolo! I cannot go here, or I cannot go there, but some one shall send it to some newspaper; as how Mr. George Frideric Handel did go sometimes last week in a waterman's wherry, to break his fast with Mr. Zac. Hardcastle; but it shall be all the fault with mineself if it shall be put in print whether I was rowed by one watermans or by two watermans. So, Dr. Pepusch, you will please excuse me from that."

"Nothing made Handel so peevish, in his latter days, as being questioned about trivial matters. He used to say: 'If a man cannot think but as a fool, let him keep his fool's tongue in his own fool's mouth!' But Handel, for all these little impatient humours, was a kind and good-hearted man."

"Poor Dr. Pepusch was, for a moment, disconcerted; but it was forgotten in the first dish of coffee."

"Well, gentlemen," said my great-uncle, Zachary, looking at his Tompion, 'it is ten minutes past nine; shall we wait more for Dr. Arne?'"

"Let us give him another five minutes' chance, Master Hardcastle," said Colley Cibber; 'he is too great a genius to keep time.'"

"Let us put it to the vote," said Dr. Pepusch smiling. 'Who holds up hands?'"

"I will second your motion with all my heart," said Handel. 'I will hold up my feeble hands for mine old friend, 'Gustus, for I know not who I would avail for over and above mine old rival, Master Tom. Only, by your permission, I will take a snack of your ham, and a slice of French roll, or a modicum of chicken; for, to tell you the honest fact, I am all but famished, for I laid me down on mine pillow in bed the last night, without mine supper, at the instance of mine physician, for which I am not altogether inclined to extend mine fast no longer.' Then, laughing: 'But, perhaps, Mr. Colley Cibber, you may like to put that to the vote. But I shall not second the motion, nor shall I hold up mine hand, as I will, by permission, employ it sometime, in a better office. So, if you please, do me the kindness to cut me a small slice of ham.'"

"At this instant a hasty step was heard on the stairs, accompanied by the humming of an air, all as gay as the morning, which was beautiful and bright. It was the month of May."

"Presto, be quick," said Handel (he knew it was Arne); 'fifteen minutes of time is pretty well for an ad libitum.'"

"Mr. Arne," said my great-uncle's man!"

"A chair was placed, and the social party began their déjeuner."

"Well, and how do you find yourself, my dear sir?" enquired Arne with friendly warmth."

"Why, by the mercy of Heaven, and the waters of Aix-la-Chapelle, and the attentions of mine doctors, physicians, and oculist, of late years, under Providence, I am surprisingly better, thank you kindly, Mr. 'Gustus. And you have been also doing well of late, as I am pleased to hear. You see, sir,' pointing to his plate; 'you see, sir, that I am in the way to recruit mine flesh with the good viands of Mr. Zachary Hardcastle.'"

"So, sir, I presume you are come to witness the trial of skill at the old Round Church. I understand the amateurs expect a pretty sharp contest," said Arne."

"Contest," echoed Handel laying down his knife and fork; 'yes, no doubt; your amateurs have a passion for contest. Not what it was in our remembrance. Hey, mine friend? Ha, ha, ha!'"

"No, sir, I am happy to say those days of envy and bickering and party feeling are gone and past. To be sure, we had enough of such disgraceful weapons. It lasted too long."

"Why, yes, it did last too long. It bereft me of mine poor limbs; it did bereave me of that which is the most blessed gift of Him what made us, and not we ourselves. And for what? Why for nothing in the world but the pleasure and pastime of those who, having no wit, nor no want, set at loggerheads such men as live by their wits, to worry and destroy one and another, as wild beasts in the Coliseum, in the time of the Romans.'"

"Poor Dr. Pepusch, during the time of this conversation, as my great-uncle observed, was sitting on thorns; he was in the confederacy professionally only."

"I hope, sir," observed the doctor, 'you do not include me among those who did injustice to your talents.'"

"Not at all, not at all, God forbid! I am a great admirer of the airs of the "Beggars' Opera," and every professional gentleman must do his best for to live.'"

"This mild return, couched under an apparent compliment, was well received; but Handel, who had a talent for sarcastic drollery, added:

"But why play the beggar yourself, doctor, and adapt old ballad humdrum, when, as a man of science, you could compose original airs of your own? Here is mine friend, 'Gustus Arne, who has made a road for himself for to drive along his own genius to the Temple of Fame.'"

"Then, turning to our illustrious Arne, he continued:

"Mine good 'Gustus, you and I must meet together some time before it is long, and hold a tête-à-tête of old days what is gone; ha, ha! Oh! it is comical, now it is all gone by. 'Gustus, do not! you remember, as it was almost only of yesterday, that she-devil Cuzzoni, and that other precious daughter of iniquity, Beelzebub's spoiled child, the pretty-faced Faustina? Oh! the mad rage what I have to answer for, what with one and the other of these fine ladies' airs and graces. Again, do you not remember that upstart puppy, Senesino, and the coxcomb, Farinelli? Next again, mine sometimes notable rival, Buononcini, and old Porpora? Ha, ha, ha! All at war with me, and all at war with themselves. Such a confusion of rivalships, and double-facedness, and hypocrisy, and malice, what would make a comical subject for a poem in rhymes, or a piece for the stage, as I hopes to be saved.'"

If not true, well found. The pleasant jeu d'esprit has become indissolubly connected with Handel, and is a happy instance of truth in the garb of fiction.

With total blindness rapidly coming on, Handel applied at once for the help of John Christopher Smith, who, though engaged on the Continent, came at once to England, and conducted the oratorios during the Lent of 1750; the old master himself doing no more than play a concerto at each performance. The arrangement, however, lasted but one season only. Handel, more reconciled to his fate, had rallied his natural forces, and discovered that he could still, by an effort of memory, preside at the organ during the oratorios.

In this manner the work of each successive year was done, favourite compositions being repeated till, in 1757, the master produced an English adaptation, with sixteen added numbers, including eight new ones, of his Italian Cantata, "Il Trionfo del Tempo e del Disinganno." The "Triumph of Time and Truth," which subsequently received other additions, was six times performed during the short remainder of Handel's life. At this period, also, the master composed:—"Zion now her heads shall raise" and "Tune your harps," for "Judas Maccabæus," besides making changes from time to time in the oratorios brought up for performance. So this great soul laboured on to the end. There was with him no folding of the hands to sleep till the hour when he was destined finally to enter upon the sleep that knows no waking.

We read in Hawkins: "The loss of his sight and the prospect of his approaching dissolution, wrought a great change in his temper and general behaviour. He was a man of blameless morals, and throughout his life manifested a deep sense of religion. In conversation he would frequently declare the pleasure he felt in setting the Scriptures to music, and how much the contemplating the many sublime passages in the Psalms had contributed to his edification, and, now that he found himself near his end, these sentiments were improved into solid and rational piety, attended with a calm and even temper of mind. For the last two or three years of his life he was used to attend Divine Service in his own parish church of St. George's, Hanover Square, where, during the prayers, the eyes that, at this instant, are employed in a faint portrait of his excellence, have seen him on his knees, expressing by his looks and gesticulations the utmost fervour of devotion." This passage is valuable as showing us Handel entering the valley of the shadow of death, with much of the earthliness of his nature refined away, and calmly seeing things in their true proportions.

In the early part of 1759 Handel's health deteriorated more and more, and it became evident to himself as well as those around him that the end could not be far off. Yet preparations went on for another season of Lenten oratorios. It was not yet night. There was time still for more work, and the fast-failing hands and brain made still another effort. "Solomon" was performed on March 2, with additions and alterations; "Susannah," "Samson," and "Judas Maccabæus" followed; last of all coming "The Messiah," given on April 6. With the final chord of the "Amen" chorus, Handel bade farewell to his art. He was seized with a sudden faintness, and, on reaching his home in Brook Street, took to his bed, whence he never again rose.

Strangely enough, the illustrious composer's mortal illness seems to have attracted little attention. Advertisements of a performance of "The Messiah" at the Foundling Hospital, under the direction of "G. F. Handel, Esq.," continued to appear, and one was actually inserted in the Public Advertiser in close proximity to a line of news which must have startled London: "Yesterday morning died G. F. Handel, Esq." For long years no glimpse of the master's death-bed was afforded, but in 1861, in the pages of a book entitled "The Autobiography and Correspondence of Mary Granville, afterwards Mary Delany," appeared a letter written by Mr. George Smyth, of New Bond Street, who seems to have been on intimate terms with his great neighbour. We give this communication entire:—

"DEAR SIR,—According to your request to me when you left London, that I would let you know when our good friend departed this life—on Saturday last, at eight o'clock in the morning, died the great and good Mr. Handel. He was sensible to the last moment, made a codicil to his will on Tuesday; ordered to be buried privately in Westminster Abbey, and a monument not to exceed £600 for him. I had the pleasure to reconcile him to his old friends; he saw them and forgave them, and let all their legacies stand. In the codicil he left many legacies to his friends and among the rest, he left me £600,* and has left to you the two pictures you formerly gave him.

He took leave of all his friends on Friday morning, and desired to see nobody but the doctor, the apothecary, and myself. At seven o'clock in the evening he took leave of me, and told me we should 'meet again.' As soon as I was gone he told his servant not to let me come to him any more, for that he had now done with the world. He died, as he lived, a good Christian, with a true sense of his duty to God and man, and in perfect charity with all the world. If there is anything that I can be of further service to you, please let me know. I was to have set out for Bath to-morrow, but must attend the funeral, and shall then go next week."

Accepting this letter as authentic, and a statement of fact, Handel clearly did not pass away on Good Friday, as Burney declares on the authority of Dr. Warren, the medical man in attendance. Burney's statement is in the following terms: "He expired on Friday, the 13th of April, 1759, and not on Saturday, the 14th, as was at first erroneously engraved on his monument* and recorded in his Life. I have indisputable authority for the contrary, as Dr. Warren, who attended Handel in his last sickness, not only remembers his dying before midnight on the 13th, but that he was sensible of his approaching dissolution, and having been always impressed with a profound reverence for the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion, that he had most seriously and devoutly wished for several days before his death, that he might breathe his last on Good Friday, 'in hopes,' he said, 'of meeting his good God, his sweet Lord and Saviour, on the day of His resurrection,' meaning the third day, or Easter Sunday following." This statement is not less explicit than the evidence of Mr. Smyth's letter, and surely a medical man in attendance upon a distinguished person would know and remember the time and circumstances of his patient's death. But both stories cannot possibly be true, and, noting Dr. Warren's touching anecdote of Handel's wish to depart on Good Friday, we are sorry to say that the weight of evidence is against the physician. Mainwaring, a contemporary, writes: "He expired on Saturday, the 14th of April." Hawkins, another contemporary, tells us that he "expired on the 14th day of April." The Public Advertiser of Monday, April 16, stated: "Last Saturday, and not before, died at his house in Brook Street, Grosvenor Square, that eminent master of music, George Frederic Handel, Esq." Similarly, the London Chronicle, or Universal Evening Post, of April 17, announced the death as having taken place on "Saturday last, and not before"—the "not before" of both papers referring to the Public Advertiser's premature news of Handel's decease, not on Friday, the 13th, but on Thursday, the 12th. Schœlcher's unwavering faith in Burney led him to adopt the Warren statement, but Schœlcher's biography was published five years before the Smyth letter came to light. The result of investigation is that the story of the death on Good Friday, according to the illustrious composer's alleged desire, must be regarded as one of the pretty fables that gather around the lives of great men, as though the genius of Fiction would embellish their memory with her choicest productions.

Between the death and the funeral there was talk of interring the remains in the grounds of the Foundling Hospital, for which Handel had done so much. But it came to nothing. The proper resting place was Westminster Abbey, the Walhalla of the English nation, and thither, on April 20, at eight o'clock in the evening, the body was borne. Handel had desired a private funeral, but the Dean and Chapter thought proper, in their admiration of the man, to disregard

* This is an error. The passage in Handel's will reads: "I give to Mr. James Smyth, of New Bond Street, Perfumer, five hundred pounds."

* And is so engraved now.

one of his last wishes. "The Bishop (Rochester), prebends, and the whole choir," says the Universal Chronicle of April 24, "attended to pay the last honours due to his memory." So did a multitude numbering 3,000 persons. What music was performed at the obsequies history sayeth not. Let us hope that in the programme was his own Anthem, so worthy and appropriate, "His body is buried in peace, but his name liveth evermore." Ended, at last, the toils and the struggles, the proud man's contumely, and the intrigues of envy, malice, and all uncharitableness; but not the honour and the glory, which remain an eternal possession and reward.

(To be continued.)

A GERMAN CRITIC AT LEEDS.

WE print elsewhere in our present number Mr. Otto Lessmann's important contribution to the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung on the recent Festival at Leeds. It should be carefully read, not only for its detailed criticism of the performances, but for its generous (and rare) appreciation of the state of music in England, and for the light it throws upon Continental opinion with regard thereto. As a rule, German musicians and amateurs, though they come to this country and see things for themselves, cannot shake off the inbred prejudice against us as an unmusical nation. We had a striking instance of that not long ago, when Mr. Hanslick came amongst us. He is a man credited with great insight and a desire to be fair, yet he returned to Vienna and there proclaimed that in England he had found all barren. Mr. Lessmann is of a different stamp. He sees much to admire, and his testimony to this effect is none the less valuable because he distinguishes shortcomings also.

With Mr. Lessmann's criticism of details at Leeds we shall not now concern ourselves. There are matters of greater moment in his paper—matters of more than local interest and application. The writer, for example, indirectly reveals to us the strength and deep-seatedness of the popular Continental notion that we are unmusical. So conscious is Mr. Lessmann of this notion that he devotes a great deal of space to a spirited refutation and earnest assurance that we are really not so black as painted. Our generous champion hits his countrymen so hard in doing this that we greatly fear he will not hear the last of it for some time to come. He combats not only one belief—that of our nonentity in music; but assails another also, and, nearly in so many words, suggests to Germany that her superiority over England exists in fancy alone. In this relation the first three paragraphs of the Zeitung article cannot but be read here with peculiar pleasure, in that, at last, a German has arisen to tell his compatriots what a pardonable amour propre has long suggested to us as fact. In the same connection may be mentioned a curious diversity between Mr. Lessmann and the English critics as regards the Leeds chorus. The German connoisseur has nothing but praise for the Leeds singers, whereas his confrères were compelled on several occasions to find serious fault. What is the explanation? Clearly that Mr. Lessmann judged the Leeds chorus by the best German standard of choral singing, while the English critics referred to a similar standard in their own country. The one was satisfied; the others were not, and the inference is obvious.

Mr. Lessmann's discriminating remarks upon the orchestra will be perused with pleasure; but, it may be, that those upon the reading of the orchestral compositions will receive greater attention. It is clear that he was not satisfied, and his description of the first three movements of the "Choral Symphony" as, in performance, "a blank" is very severe indeed. It is to be wished that he had given his reasons for so widely differing from the judgment of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Our critic's opinions about English composers and compositions are, likewise, of commanding interest. With all of them many may not agree; but no one will refuse adhesion to his remark that, at last, we have creative musicians with "independence of thought and sentiment." It is something to read in a German periodical such words as these: "If I am not entirely deceived, a new day has dawned for English music with the present musical young England. Although, indeed, educated in Germany, or according to the German masters, and endowed with all the ability which the German school requires from its own adherents, certain young English composers have nevertheless reflected that they owe it to the honour of their country to go their own way." This is no information to English observers, but from a German pen it is a surprise.

Our readers should look carefully at Mr. Lessmann's last paragraph, which his own countrymen may profitably contemplate with even more seriousness. The warning to the German public and artists against under-rating us is well timed, as is, in view of the "good reputation of being quite impartial" enjoyed abroad, the injunction to give more heed to English music. We can hope that the advice will be taken.

THE Globe is decidedly ill-starred in the matter of Musical Festivals. Last month it threw open its columns to a "Roving Correspondent," who discoursed upon Mackenzie's "Judith," and throughout the whole length of his divagations hardly ever deviated into accuracy or good taste. Now a "Working-man" has replaced the "Roving Correspondent," and the last state of the Globe is worse than the first, so far as music is concerned. The "Working-man" in question professes candidly that he is not musical, and the style of his comments is quite in keeping with his profession. Apropos of Dr. Creser's work he writes: "The whole hall was in ecstasies, and I shouted: 'Sammy, that was good,' among the loudest"; adding, "I saw one little Johnny lifted clean out of his chair by the hair of his head by an exciting burst of music." Spohr's "Consecration of Sound" Symphony is criticised as follows: "They played a piece which began with the silence of the earth before the birth of the musical sounds of nature. They did that well, only they might have given us more of the silence. Then we had the musical sounds of Nature—birds, beasts, and fishes, babies, storms, and rivers, &c. It was fun speculating which was which. It beat the Answer puzzle out and out. I flatter myself I spotted the cuckoo and the nightingale; but my next-door neighbour said the cuckoo was the nightingale and vice versa, so I can't be certain. Then they had a jig in the middle of this tune. I liked the jig; it freshened me up." Señor Sarasate and his "wheezy old fiddle" next come in for our author's attention, but we will not afflict our readers by any extensive citation from this part of the letter. On the whole, he admits that there were one or two tunes that he really did like. He preferred those parts where there was a good volume of sound, but he is kind enough to commend the efforts of some of the vocalists. "A Miss Macintyre sang, and she sang well; in one song she did a kind of gurgling, way down in her throat, which I thought very clever. A man named Tenor Lloyd sang also. I liked him because people said he was a good man and sang very well." One thing, at any rate, we feel sure of—that the working men of the West Riding of Yorkshire are most inadequately and unfairly represented by the writer of this silly, vulgar, and ignorant letter.

THE Bishop of Bedford's paper, at the late Church Congress at Cardiff on "Recreation," while affording most satisfactory proof of the advance made by the clergy of late years in understanding the requirements of the people, must yet have considerably startled many of his auditors' ideas concerning clerical propriety; for the good Bishop not only advocated dancing, but described it as a "healthy and invigorating amusement," and added that "the scruples of many he knew had been removed after constant and careful observation." We fear, too, the latter phrase implies a practical view of the subject which objectors to terpsichorean art in all its forms would refuse to entertain; in fact, we are inclined to think, from a subsequent expression of the reverend speaker, to the effect that at dances in the East-end of London "the behaviour of men to women and women to men was worthy of the imitation of many who were known as their betters," that he had not followed the precept of "constant and careful observation" to the extent his words would imply; indeed, the presence of "my Lord Bishop" at East-end "hops" presents much that seems incongruous. The whole subject, however, is one that appears to need ventilating, for if dancing affords so much enjoyment to all classes, as Dr. Billing evidently believes, it is the duty of the clergy not only to countenance it, but, by their presence, if not by actual participation in its mazy pleasures, to prevent it becoming a source of moral danger. We are reminded by the above of the story of an old Salisbury divine who, on being reproved by an elderly lady for being present at a dance, replied, "Madame, if there is nothing wrong going on here, why should I not be present; and if there is a chance of danger, is it not my duty to look after the young members of my flock?"

In the Contemporary Review for September last, Archdeacon Farrar, in an excellent article, draws attention to a recently published book called "The Nether World," by George Gissing, in which many of the social problems of the day are treated in a masterly manner. The author's graphic description of the dwellings and daily life of many poor working-men of the metropolis it is, of course, not within our province to criticise; but the following paragraph gives effect to a matter which has constantly been urged in our columns:—"To humanise the multitude two things are necessary—two things of the simplest kind conceivable. In the first place, you must effect an entire change of economic conditions, a preliminary step of which every tyro will recognise the easiness. Then you must bring to bear on the new order of things the constant influence of music." Believing as we do, with many other reformers, in the efficacy of this remedy, there can be little doubt that the establishment of cheap and good Concerts in various parts of London should be encouraged by every possible means, and also that bands should be organised to perform at stated intervals. Let it be known, too, as an important movement in the right direction, that the Lords of the Admiralty have decided that all the boys in their training ships shall be taught singing by the Tonic Sol-fa system, and that the Royal Marines have been ordered to adopt as their own particular March Mr.

Henry Russell's well-known song "A Life on the Ocean Wave." Of course, we do not affirm that this is the best possible March that could have been chosen; but the two facts we have stated show not only that music is rapidly advancing to its real place in this country, but that its power is beginning to be recognised by such usually impassive officials as the Lords of the Admiralty.

EDVARD GRIEG, the eminent Scandinavian composer, is nothing if not national. His latest work, consisting of several choral scenes from the unfinished drama "Olaf Trygvasson," is certainly no exception to the rule, for the local colour is laid on with an unsparing hand. There is one long chorus in the form of an invocation to all the separate gods in the Norse mythology, including several whom we confess to never having heard of. We quote a few lines at hazard:—

Trudfang's Hlorrida, Bilskirnir's fire-flame,
Thou of the strength-belt and hammer

Horn-bearing Heimdall, Ull in Ydaler,
Nyörd, mighty North-dweller—Hear us!

The publishers should really add a glossary—and a dentist.

WE have so often held up to ridicule the unsuccessful efforts of divers provincial critics that we feel it only right, for once in a way, to hold up to these well-meaning folks a model for their imitation, a specimen of what a critic can do when he tries. Concerning so small a matter as a well-played oboe obligato to a song in an opera at Covent Garden, the Morning Herald of December, 1784, had the following, from the pen of a famous man of letters:—

To thee, while others pour their praise,
The bard delighted joins the throng;
With pride he tunes, though weak his lays,
Where merit justifies the song.

Yet think not Parke thy wondrous skill
Fair praise alone from mortals draws:
Lo! Phœbus listens from his hill,
And all the Muses join th' applause.

It is interesting to speculate in what terms the bard would have celebrated, say, a performance of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto by Sarasate.

A CERTAIN "banjo artist" proclaims that he is "acknowledged by connoisseurs and musical professors on both sides of the Atlantic as being the only performer on the instrument capable of producing classical music. His novel and original performance with a violin bow on the banjo has never before been attempted by any other performer. The commonplace and ordinary banjo in the hands of this musical marvel becomes at once, and compels the greatest musicians to acknowledge it, a musical instrument." This is very gratifying to hear, but we wonder what "classical music" he performs and who are the "greatest musicians" who have acknowledged the artist's pre-eminence. Was Brahms one, or Sir Arthur Sullivan?

SIR GEORGE GROVE's slashing criticism of the statue of Schubert in Vienna affords some comfort to Londoners, in that their city is not the only capital afflicted with dreadful counterfeit presentments of great men. The usually placable "G." seems to have been intensely disgusted by the misrepresentation of his favourite composer, and he hits out at it in all directions. Schubert was a short man; the statue makes him tall. "He is seated on a heap of stones, with his right elbow leaning on the truncated stem of a tree, and is looking up as if for inspiration; the right hand holds a pencil, and the effect produced is that he is going to write in a large bound book which lies open across his knee." Sir George waxes interrogatively angry with all this, and demands: "What can he be writing in a book for? Why is he in the open air? What can he be looking up for?" Schubert "never sketched in the country or anywhere else; he never carried a book; he wrote straight off at a tall desk in his room; he was short-sighted, and, no doubt, bent down his head over his paper, and, as for looking up, the inspiration flowed without his seeking it." We can only attempt to console the irate critic by suggesting that art very properly idealises, and that Sir George might have been more vexed had the sculptor represented Schubert bending over a tall desk in his room, or, let us say, sitting, mug in hand, in a bier-halle.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

MR. BARNBY made the following address to his choir at the second rehearsal:—"I thought I had been very precise and careful in the explanation I made to you a fortnight since, on the subject of the Novello Choir, so that no misunderstanding could arise or get into the Press. A misunderstanding, however, has arisen, and has got into the Press. I have received cuttings from country, and even London papers, setting forth that I stated: 'That out of the numerous members of the Novello Choir who had presented themselves for examination for admission, only sixteen had been accepted.' The facts are that only a small number presented themselves, and to the best of my recollection all were accepted. I also took special care to point out that the members of the choir had reason to be proud of their new colleagues, who were admirable, and did honour to their old choir. Also, I thought I had made it distinctly understood that they had been gladly accepted, after trial, by me, as I am sure they have been by you."

THE following appeared in a recent number of our excellent Canadian contemporary, the Week: "A recent number of the New York Critic in reviewing, or rather noticing, the Grove's Dictionary of Music, takes offence at the space allotted to English composerlings. Some injury is also expressed and implied at the fact that American composerlings have not had justice done them. It would be a mistake to regard the Critic's statements in an international light, it is too broad and sound a journal for that species of advertising retort which finds now-a-days few to stomach it. But the notice has perhaps been handed in by someone incompetent to deal with the subject of English music. To call Arthur Sullivan, John Francis Barnett, Sterndale Bennett, A. C. Mackenzie, and Frederic Cowen composerlings is manifestly unfair, and to assert that the earlier and still more original school of English music under Arne and Purcell is inferior in influence to such isolated work as a Boito has given us, for instance, is simply absurd."

A RECENT announcement in the Musical Herald has caused some amusement: "Mr. — does not see how he can live through another winter, and being anxious to leave behind the best traditions that he can, hopes that pupils will turn up quickly." This ingenious exploitation of bad health reminds us of a somewhat similar case. A gentleman, whose avocations in connection with music frequently took him out of the country, was in the habit of employing a man to attend at law courts, coroners' courts, and so on, to swear that he was abroad and unable to serve on the jury. The man swore generally, and without reference to the question whether Mr. — was or was not at home at the moment. On one occasion, having been sent for to receive his instructions, he presented himself with a bad cough, hollow cheeks, and feeble step. "Look what a state I am in, sir; I cannot live very long, and, as I am going to swear falsely, you might make it a little more this time."

INDUSTRY is not always, like virtue, its own reward. At the Paris Exhibition, till judgment overtook him, was a young man, placed in charge of some musical instruments shown by an Italian firm. This individual, eager to display the quality of his employers' wares, began playing an organ as soon as the Exhibition opened, and continued playing through every lawful hour of every day. At last his neighbours rose in rebellion and appealed to the authorities, who ordered his expulsion from the building. The decree was carried out by two policemen, and the young man has retired to meditate upon a familiar mot of Prince Talleyrand's: "Above all, no zeal."

MR. OSCAR COMMETTANT is an optimist. Looking at the present state of music, he tells us—and we are fain to believe him:—"The epoch through which we are passing is in all things confused—in politics by the division of parties, in music by the excess of polyphony. All excesses are necessarily followed by a reaction. So will the harmony of things—the sovereign law of Nature. The exaggerated multiplicity of parts in music will lead us back to simplicity. This is inevitable. . . . Already we find wise counsellors advising musicians attacked by the contrapuntal plethora to seek restoration by a régime of national airs and popular songs."

A WRITER in the American Musician states that the Patti-Albani-Tamagno combination is to be run in America on popular lines. "The auditorium at Chicago, in which Patti opens her season next November, will, at popular prices, hold 12,000 dollars, while at 'Frisco, Mexico, and South America the 'masses' will be catered for, and the 'classes' can come or stay away without disturbing the equanimity of the proprietors of the biggest musical thing on earth." Mr. Abbey is declared to be so sanguine of success that he has refused "certainties" from local managers.

EVIDENTLY the hitherto despised librettist and lyric poet is coming to the front. We read in a contemporary: "There is too much tendency on the part of composers and publishers to ignore the writers of words for music. The writer of a good poem for a musical setting achieves quite as much as the inventor of a popular melody; more, indeed, for the words often inspire the music. If greater credit and better payment were given to the authors of words for songs, the grade of literary merit in this sort of work would be heightened; and poets of reputation would be glad to write stanzas for music."

The second volume of Messrs. Scribner's "Cyclopædia of Music and Musicians" (édition de luxe, only 50 copies reserved for England), was issued to subscribers in this country last week. It is a sumptuous tome—and ought to be at the price—but its chief value lies in the completeness of its information, and in the fact that the information is brought down to the present year. English musicians are, as in the first volume, very liberally treated, if, indeed, too much importance be not given to some of them.

Two young men, East-enders in appearance, who had strayed into St. Paul's Cathedral at the time of the afternoon Service, listened with rapt attention to the music. They were deeply interested. At one part of the Anthem, where a quiet "verse" succeeded a loud chorus, the suddenness of the contrast so moved one of them that he turned with anxious face to his companion and said: "Did you hear that? Pretty near a breakdown that time, 'Arry, wasn't it?"

MISS EMMA ABBOTT having declared that she dreams earnestly of producing the "Meistersinger" and "Tristan und Isolde" in America, one of her appreciative countrymen exclaims: "Oh! shade of the mighty Maëstro! Emma Abbott as Isolde! But hold! She says it is only an earnest dream. Dream on, Emma; but that your dream shall have no awakening is the earnest prayer of all sincere friends of the late lamented Wagner."

THE St. Petersburg Committee for promoting a testimonial to Rubinstein, on the occasion of his jubilee, have at last got their circular into decent English. From it we learn that the celebration will take place on the 30th inst., when the amount raised by subscription will be presented to the master, and his new opera, "Gloriouska," will be performed. The Russian Musical Society will issue a medal as a permanent souvenir of the event.

ENGLISH musical talent is indeed asserting itself on the Continent, when an Englishman carries off from all German competitors the "Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy State Scholarship for Composers," Berlin. This feat has been achieved by Mr. Percy Sherwood, lately a pupil of the Conservatorium at Dresden. Among the candidates who gained honourable mention was a young Englishwoman, Miss Dora J. Becker. Well done, both!

IN connection with the foregoing paragraph may be mentioned the recent successful appearances of Miss Fanny Davies and Miss Dora Bright in various German cities. Miss Davies is almost as well known there as here, and her Berlin Concert, lately given with the aid of Joseph Joachim, was a veritable triumph. On her part, Miss Bright has won the approval of the critics in Dresden and elsewhere by sound artistic qualities.

THE unmusical public will learn with disgust proportioned to the thinness of London house partitions that the Civil Service Musical Instrument Society, which will hold its first meeting on the 4th inst., promises a first-class pianoforte, American organ, or harmonium, &c., from a shilling a week, with 15 to 22½ per cent. discount off makers' price-lists. After this we may expect a public movement for the regulation of music in private houses.

THE new professorial broom at Oxford having got to work in the proverbial manner, a spirit of emulation has taken possession of Dr. Stanford at Cambridge. One thousand pounds has been guaranteed towards the expenses of four orchestral Concerts; and the works chosen for performance are to be analysed and described in the course of the Professor's lectures. This is business, and, in the slang of the day, "good business."

REFERRING to the Gloucester Festival, our contemporary, the Magazine of Music, observes: "Dr. Mackenzie's work deserves to be more generally performed than has been its fate since its production about a year ago in Liverpool. The 'Dream of Jubal' is so unlike anything else that it is difficult to classify it. Mr. Joseph Bennett's blank verse is indeed worth careful study, and Mr. Charles Fry, the reciter, did ample justice to it."

Le Ménestrel rebukes the silly Parisians who have raised a cry against the "Mikado" because of a reflection on the "Mounseers" in a subsequent work. Our French contemporary asks whether the Parisians have lost their esprit; reminds them that their librettists and playwrights are always lampooning the English, who show no resentment, and wants to know why Frenchmen should be so thin-skinned when the satire is turned upon them.

IN a criticism upon one of the Promenade Concerts at Her Majesty's Theatre, a contemporary says "Miss Hilda Wilson sang tastefully two songs by Kjerulf, which were out of place in a 'classical' programme, and the same may be said of Dvorák's 'Gipsy songs, Nos. 1 and 4,' capitably sung by Mr. Lloyd." Does the critic mean that even Dvorák's compositions had no right to be termed "classical"? and, if so, why?

THE following prayer was recently composed by a declaimer against the iniquities of current musical criticism: "O Father of all things, of Art as well as journalism, how much longer is this community to be disgraced by such incompetent dunces as are now permitted to abuse what is worthy, and to publish falsehoods when their interests command it?" We now await the prayer of the incompetent dunces.

WE are glad to know that the Orchestral Concerts for the people, connected with the West London Mission, have been resumed in Princes' Hall under the direction of Mr. R. Heath Mills. Music is of no theological colour, and lends itself to priest or presbyter with equal readiness. No matter who offers it to the millions of the metropolis, it is a plain duty to applaud and encourage.

THE question whether Mr. Nikisch, the newly appointed Conductor of the Boston Symphony Concerts, shall be allowed to land is still discussed. He is said to be under contract, and contract-imported labour is forbidden by United States law. What nonsense it all is! Later.—Mr. Nikisch has landed, and there have been no convulsions.

THE Committee of the Meistersingers Club are giving frequent orchestral Concerts this season. The more the better; but their new departure—smoking Concerts on Sunday evenings—cannot be equally commended. The entertainment is a sort of "go as you please," and is not, we fear, tending to much artistic edification.

THERE is a project to erect a monument to Richard Wagner in Dresden, with money subscribed entirely by women. Le Ménestrel congratulates the promoters upon a shrewd idea, seeing that the male German is extremely reserved when it is a question of honouring, in deed rather than word, one of the glories of his country.

THE St. George's Glee Club of New York has been reorganised for the performance of old English music which, says an American writer, "reaches the heart of the contrapuntist as surely as it does that of a man who never 'turned a tune' in the whole course of his life."

AN American paper gravely tells us that "Max Heinrich is a greater singer than Santley ever was, and has gone to London in time to supply that esteemed favourite's place at his retirement, made necessary by physical ailments." Poor Mr. Santley! kind Mr. Heinrich!

MRS. CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG-STRAKOSCH, having heard "Parsifal" at Bayreuth, declared that the music "lifted her out of herself." The American Musician opines that this will be "good news to the musical people of the small towns in the wild west, where she is booked to sing next season."

MISS EMMA ABBOTT'S manager has been made (by a compositor) to announce that she had only two errors in the company last season, but will now have four. The query is whether the compositor had heard Miss Abbott's tenors, and fell into a very natural error.

THE Wind Instrument Society, we are glad to see, is getting on. It announces, besides concerts, monthly meetings for the rehearsal of unfamiliar works. Anything that cultivates a healthy musical curiosity does well, and the Wind Instrument Society may "go up one."

A NEW Christmas Anthem, composed by Mr. J. Barnby, will appear in THE MUSICAL TIMES for December. A new departure has been made in the composition, and a novelty of treatment has been aimed at in the introduction of the words of a well known Christmas Carol, which has been most effectively done.

AN excellent opportunity is now offered to those who are in the habit of "touching up the old masters"; for in a recent advertisement for a tuner in Australia, it is announced that the applicant "must thoroughly understand renovating old pianos and music."

"THE dullest and most backward got through." As this line appears in the advertisement of a "coach" for examinations, would it not be good for parents and guardians before engaging a certificated master, to ascertain whether he has "got through" by "coaching" or "teaching."

WRITING and translating libretti for opéra bouffe seems to be a profitable avocation. Mr. Henry Farnie, who died the other day, left personalty to the value of £23,072.

It may be useful to point out that the amalgamation of the Royal Academy and Royal College for examination purposes does not affect the metropolitan examination of the older school, which will take place as usual in January next. Candidates' names will not be received after the 15th inst.

RUBINSTEIN has handed over 25,000 roubles, where-with to found an international musical scholarship, tenable for five years. The competitions will take place in the chief capitals of Europe successively, beginning at St. Petersburg, and the subjects will be composition and pianoforte playing.

MR. WILLIAM NYE, otherwise Bill of that ilk, has expressed an opinion to this effect: "The peculiar characteristic of classic music is that it is really so much better than it sounds." From a popular point of view Mr. Nye has hit the "gold."

ON the recommendation of Dr. J. F. Bridge, Mr. Hoyte has been suggested, by the representative of New South Wales in this country, as a fit and proper person to open the great Sydney organ. A better choice would be difficult.

It has been said, possibly to an audience of Marines, that fifty men, engaged to procure tickets for the new season of Boston Symphony Concerts, took their places near the office five days before the time of opening.

PRINCE HENRY OF PRUSSIA has, it is said, joined the band of Royal composers, and produced a hymn for voices and orchestra. Let us hope that he will not follow exactly in the footsteps of his grand-uncle the Duke of Saxe-Coburg.

At last! Leipzig has found the money for a statue of Mendelssohn, and will unveil the monument in November, 1891. Let the artist beware. Sir George Grove will inspect his work and, perhaps, write to The Times.

ALEXIS HOLLÄNDER, composer of the Prelude and Fugue to be played by Madame Haas at the first Saturday Popular Concert, is a brother of that lady. He has for many years conducted the St. Cecilia Society of Berlin.

A TRANSATLANTIC journal informs its readers: "Madame Christine Nilsson is so extremely healthy that she contemplates a series of annual farewell tours in America."

WE are glad to state that Madame Valleria, who was, through illness, unable to complete her task at the Leeds Festival, has now recovered sufficiently to carry on the work of her provincial tour.

ACCORDING to the Era, Mr. Buchanan's Greek play, with incidental music by Dr. Mackenzie, will soon be forthcoming at a West-end theatre. Advance, Caledonia!

MADAME SCALCHI is reported to be deeply offended at being left out of the Patti-Albani-Tamagno combination, especially when she learned that Patti caused the trouble.

MISS MARIMON, once well known on the Italian stage in London, has definitely taken up her residence in Paris as a teacher of singing. We trust she will be able to turn out vocalists as good as herself.

"LE SCHIAVO," the new opera by Gomez, was to have been produced at Rio Janeiro on the 20th ult. It may be an improvement upon "Il Guarany" with advantage.

THE provincial concert-tour of Madame Marie Roze and Company has been so remunerative that Mr. Vert and Mr. Henry Mapleson have arranged to begin another in January next.

A LONDON "daily" recently puzzled its readers by announcing that "Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor of 66," was to be performed.

WAGNER's son is being trained as an architect. Good. When out of his novitiate he may make the Bayreuth Festival Theatre a little less ugly.

We don't know why, but Mr. Gilmore, American bandmaster, has published his autobiography.

AMONG the engagements made by the Philharmonic Society for next season is that of Mr. Buonamici.

We ought soon to be a musical nation. There are 3,400 students at the Guildhall School of Music.

LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE sixth triennial Festival of Leeds began in the Victoria (Town) Hall on the 9th ult. and continued till the 12th, eight Concerts being given in the four days. For this great occasion, arrangements and preparations were on the usual scale of magnitude. The orchestra, in whose ranks were only three persons of foreign birth, numbered 120 performers, of whom eighty-two were "strings"; Mr. Carrodus at their head. The chorus, fully up to the strength of former occasions, was largely drawn from Leeds and its vicinity, and included nearly 100 amateurs—that is to say, persons who received nothing for their services. It had been trained by Mr. Alfred Broughton. As soloists, the committee engaged Mesdames Albani, Valleria, Macintyre, Fillunger, Hilda Wilson, and Damian; Messrs. Lloyd, McKay, Percy, Watkin Mills, Barrington Foote, and Brereton. Mr. Sarasate was solo violinist, Mr. A. Benton, Organist, and Sir Arthur Sullivan, Conductor. Regarding this personnel there is very little to say of a critical nature. The orchestra could not have been improved; and the solo vocalists, if not up to the mark of some former occasions, were the best available; but with regard to the chorus it must be admitted that its composition gave prima facie reason for some fears. It was a chorus not representative, like its early predecessors, of the West Riding, but of the Leeds district, and the ninety odd amateurs looked very much like an element of weakness. I shall have cause to point out, directly, that the chorus, though in various respects as satisfactory as could be desired, fell short in others.

Rehearsals are not per se a matter for public discussion, but it may be recorded that, after a preliminary trial of the parts, the orchestra and principal singers spent three long days in London, getting up their work; after which the first two days of the Festival week were devoted to general répétitions. In effect, therefore, the task of preparation occupied six days, to say nothing of the numerous choral rehearsals conducted by Mr. Broughton. No one can complain of this allowance as illiberal, though few who know what is involved in getting up eight Concerts will say that it was too much. The full rehearsals on Monday and Tuesday were, of course, invaluable, but had most untoward results, the chorus coming up to their public duties on Wednesday morning in a state of exhaustion which made it impossible to do full justice to themselves or the works in hand. Before the Festival of 1892 the committee will have most seriously to revise their arrangements in this regard. The present plan is simply ruinous, and must remain so while the vocal organs of singing men and women are constructed in the ordinary way.

A line in these preliminary remarks about the audience will save trouble. Full houses were the rule of the week, without, as far as I know, a single exception. No matter what the programme, the public came and occupied the hall from end to end, giving pleasant assurance to the guarantors that their functions were merely nominal.

The first Concert, on Wednesday morning, was devoted to the "Faust" of Berlioz—a thoroughly popular selection with Yorkshire amateurs, who never tire of the French master's "dramatic legend." Concerning the work itself I have nothing to say here, but the performance calls for notice in that it inflicted a serious disappointment upon well-wishers to the occasion. The chorus at once gave signs of weakness, being faulty in attack, and not seldom false in intonation, the tenors especially. Connoisseurs who took note of the fatiguing rehearsals were hardly surprised at the lack of life and "go," nor were those who marked the calibre of the tenors astonished at a tendency to flatten. The tenors were, strictly speaking and exceptions apart, not tenors at all, but high baritones, having the tenor notes within their range, but unable to sing the tenor music with ease, to say nothing about proper quality of tone. This was the faulty division of the chorus, and to it must be attributed the more serious choral defects of the week. I make no reflection upon the singers themselves. They gallantly did their best under circumstances of great difficulty, and failure must be attributed to the nature of things rather than to preventible shortcomings. The sopranos proved distinctly better than their predecessors in 1886, being strong, bright, and almost tireless; the contraltos, leavened by some twenty male altos, had a capital tone and held their own well in the ensemble; while the basses were simply magnificent in power and quality. Thus there were all the elements of a first-rate chorus save first-rate tenors. Here is another matter for the committee in view of 1892. It may be objected by some who were present that I am hypercritical in dwelling upon deficiencies. Not at all. The Leeds chorus has so earned the right to be judged by the highest and severest standard that the application of any other would be a poor compliment, which I am certainly not disposed to pay. It will be understood that the more energetic choral numbers in "Faust" were finely rendered; that the splendid orchestra did justice to its very important share of the work, and that the solo vocalists—Albani, Lloyd, Mills, and Brereton—sustained their repute. Mr. Mills may be said to have raised his by a capital characterisation of Mephistopheles.

The evening Concert brought with it the first novelty of the Festival—to wit, Mr. Corder's Cantata "The Sword of Argantyr." Inasmuch as there were five novelties in the Festival programme, and my space is limited, let me say at once that no exhaustive examination of the new works will be attempted here. That must be left, not only as a measure of expediency, but even of advantage, till the first London performance of each, and my present task must be limited to giving some idea of the productions in question.

Mr. Corder has treated a good dramatic subject, involving exciting scenes and contrasted feeling. Moreover, he has written a libretto of considerable literary and poetic merit. A certain drawback, however, arises from the fact that the book covers but a part of a story. Argantyr's sword has adventures before the action opens and after it closes, acquaintance with which is necessary to a perfect comprehension of the "argument." The libretto is, therefore, not self-contained—always a weakness, though sometimes, as in this case, not a very serious one. Sufficiently striking are the incidents of the story. Hervor's voyage to the island where the sword lies buried; the mutiny of the crew; the narrative of the legend of the sword and its effect upon the rebels; the landing at Samsoe; the adventure of the fire-guarded grave; the appearance of the Shade of Argantyr; the recovery of the weapon; the working of its curse in the death of Hjalmar, Hervor's shepherd lover; and the embarkation for home—all these events follow in rapid and effective succession.

The first impression received on looking through the music is given by the variety of styles resorted to. There are numbers in the work which commend themselves to the average taste by simplicity and unaffected charm. Such are a two-part Reindeer song, sung by the women on Hervor's ship, an orchestral Intermezzo introductory to the appearance of the shepherd, Hjalmar, whose pretty song, "Do you know, silly sheep?" is another addition to that side of the Cantata which appeals to the popular fancy. These are exceptions to the rule, and not the only ones, since some of the dramatic choruses are straightforward, forcible, and effective. The bulk of the music, I regret to say, is a not entirely successful imitation of the Wagner model, with abundant leading themes, vocal declamation, and all the rest of it. Mr. Corder has sought to be dramatic on these lines, and left the purely musical effect to take care of itself. The result is an absence of beauty and charm to which advanced adherents of the new school may be indifferent, but of which the vast majority among amateurs think themselves entitled to complain. No one will deny the extreme cleverness of the music. It shows ability of no common order, and indicates very earnest thought. In these respects the work deserves ample recognition, but no ability could atone for the defects of the system adopted—a system which sacrifices the fundamental obligation of art to a form of expression than which nothing is more artificial. Mr. Corder's admirers—some of his critics are among them—may well hope that in future compositions he will refuse to tie himself down to an unworkable theory, and elect to proceed upon the principles which are illustrated by the successful numbers in the present Cantata. The reception of the "Sword of Argantyr" was such as might have been expected. Whenever the audience were brought face to face with musical beauty they applauded it, for the rest they listened in silence, and, at the close, were less sympathetic than is usually the case, although the members of the chorus took care that the composer should receive customary honours. Mr. Corder himself conducted the performance, which was, on the whole, satisfactory, the chorus showing an improvement upon the "form" of the morning, and, together with the orchestra, surmounting the difficulties of a decidedly exacting task in a praiseworthy manner. The "persons of the drama" were represented by Madame Valleria (Hervor), Mr. Piercy (Hjalmar), Mr. Barrington Foote (A Captain), and Mr. R. F. Ferguson (Spirit of Argantyr). Madame Valleria was, unfortunately, much out of health, and deserved not only to have her shortcomings condoned, but to be praised for the gallant manner in which she did her best under trying circumstances. Her associates sang carefully and well; Mr. Piercy, on his part, evoking a demand for the repetition of the pretty song "Dost thou know, silly sheep?"

The Concert was continued by the third act of "Tannhäuser"—a questionable choice, since "recitals" of operas can never be satisfactory. The solos were taken by Madame Valleria (who was heard to greater advantage than in the "Sword of Argantyr"), Miss Fillunger (who might have known her part better), Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Piercy, and Mr. Barrington Foote. The honours were with Mr. Lloyd; falling to him easily and in plenty.

Thursday morning brought a feast of classical music—

Bach's Cantata "God's time is the best," Schubert's Mass in E flat, and Handel's "Acis and Galatea." Truly a royal banquet, which the audience seemed thoroughly to enjoy, wishing, no doubt, that the Festival scheme contained others like it. Readers of THE MUSICAL TIMES do not need to be enlightened upon the merits of the just-named works. They are familiar with the touching solemnity of the Bach Cantata—one of its composer's tenderest effusions, in which flowers twine around the tomb. Even less do they require instruction on the qualities that rank Schubert's Mass among the loveliest examples of music consecrated to religion. As for "Acis and Galatea," nothing except "The Messiah" and "Elijah" is better known. I pass on, therefore, to the performance, and congratulate the chorus (recovered from rehearsal fatigues) upon the admirable style in which Bach's concerted music was sung. The basses carried off special honours for a truly magnificent delivery of the florid passages in "Set thy house in order." Complaint has been made that this, which looks like a solo, was not given to a single voice. But there can be no doubt that Bach intended it for all the basses, and the effect at Leeds justified him in doing so. There was something awful in the volume of tone which conveyed the dread tidings "Thou shalt die and not live." The solos were in the safe hands of Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. McKay, and Mr. Brereton, but they are of secondary interest. The chorus was the thing, and the chorus, I repeat, did well. It should be added that the orchestra adhered as closely as possible to Bach's score.

The performance of Schubert's Mass must be pronounced the finest of the series. One critic has proclaimed the occurrence of a mishap in it, but the alleged slip having been unnoticed by me and, as far as I can ascertain, by all others to whom the work is familiar, I venture to regard it as purely imaginary. In any case, the rendering of the Mass was singularly fine. Why? Not alone because the chorus had recovered its vigour, but because it had vocal music to sing. There is vocal music, and there is music for voices. The two terms are not synonymous, as the experience of the Leeds week abundantly showed. Well, the music of the Mass is vocal in the strictest sense, and the singers felt it, enjoyed it, did justice to it—a fact of which the writers of unvocal music who were present should take note for future guidance. As was the attitude of the chorus towards their theme, so was that of the orchestra and the soloists—I may add the audience as well. Complete enjoyment reigned and the beautiful music won every heart. Miss Macintyre made her first appearance on this occasion, and made her mark also, the young artist's fresh voice, earnest manner, and vocal skill at once placing her on good terms with the Leeds public. Miss Macintyre's worthy associates were Miss Wilson, Mr. Piercy, Mr. McKay, and Mr. Brereton. The two tenors were, of course, heard together in the lovely "Et incarnatus," but neither out-shone the other.

It goes unsaid that the chorus revelled in the sonorous strains of their old favourite, Handel, when "Acis and Galatea" became the theme. Few who were present will readily forget the effect of "O the pleasures of the plains" and "Wretched lovers." Here, even more than in Schubert's Mass, the voices had fair play, and all that was there came out, suggesting the best days of the Leeds singers. The solo artists who took part in the Mass appeared in the Pastoral also, but Miss Macintyre is not yet a Handelian singer, and needs enlarged experience. On the other hand, Mr. Brereton, who did good and steady service throughout the Festival, obtained great applause for a just and spirited rendering of "O ruddier than the cherry."

At the Concert of Thursday evening the second Festival novelty was submitted, and Dr. Creser's "Sacrifice of Freia" challenged criticism. Curiously enough, the libretto of this work resembles that of Mr. Corder's "Sword of Argantyr" in dealing with a fragment of a larger story. I hear that the libretto supplied to Dr. Creser by the late Mr. Hueffer was intended as part of a work which should have a technically complete "argument." We can only regret that the author's premature removal prevented the plan from being carried out. As it stands, the book of the "Sacrifice of Freia" is singularly incomplete, and never permits us to lose sight of its episodic character. Two parties, on their way to Freia's shrine, meet and proceed together. Arrived at their destination, sacrificial rites are performed, and a maiden, offering a lamb, intercedes with the goddess for her soldier-lover who is going into battle. The lovers plight their troth (the inevitable duet, of course, occurs), Roman soldiers are heard in the distance; the worshippers respond with a patriotic hymn, and then the story—if story there be—abruptly breaks off. The literary character of the libretto is much higher than that of any other from the same pen. A few expressions betray the hand of a foreigner, but, generally speaking, the lyrics and dramatic passages are of a superior order. It is said, I know not how truly, that Dr. Creser composed the music under strict oversight from his Wagnerian colleague. If so, the composer must be credited with having carried out his instructions faithfully, although he has not quite succeeded in ignoring beauty for the sake of a conception of dramatic requirement. On the whole, and as far as it goes, a more complete illustration of Wagnerian theories has not appeared in the form of a Cantata. There is an abundance of representative themes, freely used as the warp and woof of the piece; the characters declaim in the now well-known manner, and the chorus is employed strictly in subordination to the dramatic plan of the work. Whatever advantages the system may have upon the stage, where drama is rightly a first consideration, I do not see that anything is gained in the Concert-room, where we look for musical development—and, in short, the supremacy of music. Dr. Creser would have done better, in my opinion, had he dispensed with the cumbrous machinery he chose to employ, and treated the story in a more simple and natural manner. He has not, however, concealed a certain freshness and energy. The various solos and concerted pieces have "go" and purpose about them, sometimes they present the beauty of absolute fitness, and the scoring is everywhere picturesque and effective. Should the "Sacrifice of Freia" be neglected, the reason will be found more in Dr. Creser's system than his want of ability. The performance, which Dr. Creser himself conducted, was one of the best of the week, the choir singing with spirit and correctness, and the orchestra being apparently in full sympathy with what must have been to them a very interesting work. Miss Macintyre, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Brereton answered for the solos, which received full justice at their hands.

The remainder of the programme was miscellaneous, and comprised Spohr's Symphony, "The Consecration of Sound"; Dr. Mackenzie's new Violin Suite, "Pibroch"; Mr. C. H. Lloyd's excellent Pastoral Chorus, "The Rosy Dawn"; two movements from Raff's Violin Suite, the Overture to "Mirella," &c. The familiar things in this selection may here be passed, with a simple note of the fine rendering given to certain parts of the Symphony. There remains the "Pibroch"—a work in three movements, respectively entitled Rhapsody, Caprice, and Dance. Its name implies an imitation, to some extent, of the old bagpipe form well known to students of national music. As is the implication, so is the fact. Not only are the melodies—borrowed or original—of a Scottish character, but some of the characteristics of pipe music are reproduced in an idealised form suited to the nature of the work. This is one of the happiest features in the "Pibroch," and shows fine invention as well as taste. The Rhapsody, in the nature of an improvisation, is, perhaps, the most striking of the three movements; but some may prefer the Caprice on account of its brilliant variations upon the Scottish air "Three guid fellows," with which is conjoined, by way of episode, a beautiful original melody quite as "racy of the soil." I understand that in the printed copies, soon to be forthcoming, an easier version of the more difficult passages will be presented as an alternative. This is well, for every violinist is not a Sarasate. The nature of the closing movement may be inferred from its title. Here, again, an authentic Scottish melody is given in association with an original theme, both being treated with unflagging spirit and amplitude of resource. So effective is the whole solo, and so interesting is the orchestral accompaniment, that I expect to find Dr. Mackenzie's "Pibroch" a stock piece among solo violinists in a very little while. There is no need to tell how Sarasate played it under the composer's direction, or with what enthusiasm were regarded author, executant, and work alike.

At the morning Concert of Friday was produced the fourth Festival novelty—Dr. Hubert Parry's setting of Pope's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day," regarding which expectation was high, on the strength of the composer's Birmingham success with "Judith." In this case I am fortunately spared the necessity of talking about the libretto. Every decently-educated person knows "Descend, ye Nine, descend and sing"—knows it better, perhaps, than Dryden's poem on the same subject, and quite as well as Collins's "Ode on the Passions," once so great a favourite with amateur elocutionists. Wherefore, no decently-educated person requires to be told how admirably adapted are Pope's verses for musical treatment, or how strangely they have been overlooked by composers in search of a subject. The Ode was a lucky "find" for Dr. Parry, to whose strongest points it was adapted, and who, I must at once say, has here given to English music nothing less than a masterpiece. I say English music with special emphasis on the adjective. An eminent German critic, whose impressions of the Leeds Festival are given at length on another page, has pointed out that some of our composers, instead of imitating German music, are striking out an independent course and forming an English style. He must have had Dr. Parry specially in mind, for the music to Pope's Ode, while lacking none of the richness, strength, and ideality characteristic of German art, has a perceptible English flavour, and, so to speak, introduces to us the national muse gloriously attired in the robes of classic art. This is as it should be. We do not want composers who give us imitations of Wagner, or Brahms, or Mendelssohn, or anybody else; but we do need men who can work out for us ideas suggested by the national musical spirit and taste. Dr. Parry is one of these. Hardly a number in his work lacks decided evidence of an indigenous origin. There are many passages which might have been written by Purcell, while in such numbers as the bass solo, "He sung and hell consented," and the chorus, "But when our country's cause," we hear the true English ring. The facts just stated give the work its greatest significance. I am not going into detailed criticism of the Ode, which will so soon be submitted to a London judgment and come under leisurely discussion; but one or two general features, in addition to that already noticed, demand a moment's attention. In the first place, Dr. Parry has never lost sight of the main raison d'être of art—the presentation of beauty. He has not even sought the aid of ugliness when depicting the gloomy horrors of Proserpine's domain. Even there, his art is still art, powerful, suggestive, picturesque, but essentially music, and not merely appalling and horrifying sounds. Indeed, the most attractive and, in this sense, masterly number in the Ode is the soprano solo "But when through all the infernal bounds," descriptive of the descent of Orpheus into hell. Another conspicuous feature is the richness and warmth of the orchestration. Dr. Parry loves to fill up his scores with a liberal hand. He appears to have no great love for orchestral conversations; preferring to combine the voices in a great whole. Yet he is never monotonous. All through the Ode the orchestra presents a warm and glowing background, against which the solo and choral voices stand out in the foreground of an effective ensemble. To sum up, this Ode is genuine music, and no mistake about it. It delights and exalts the hearer as only true art can, and it leaves behind it a desire for further and better acquaintance, which false art never does. The performance was exceedingly fine. As in the case of Schubert's Mass, the chorus had vocal music to sing, and music which called forth its sympathy to boot; the result being a splendid effect in the concerted numbers, particularly the opening "Descend, ye Nine," and the patriotic outburst, "But when our country's cause." The solos were taken by Miss Macintyre and Mr. Brereton, both artists singing very well indeed, and the lady making a great effect in "But when through all the infernal bounds," where her dramatic training was of use. Dr. Parry conducted in the clearest possible manner, and, at the close of his work, received an "ovation" from his gratified executants and audience.

The Concert continued with Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto (played by Mr. Sarasate) and ended with Beethoven's Choral Symphony, in which both orchestra and chorus distinguished themselves, without, however, quite satisfying the more exigent among their critics.

On the evening of the same day, the procession of novelties came to an end; the rear being brought up by Professor Stanford's "Voyage of Maeldune"—last, but not least. I can hardly say of Tennyson's poem as of Pope's, that its previous neglect by composers is something to wonder at. The cumbrous unvarying metre—cumbrous from a musician's point of view—to say nothing of a lengthy narrative, might well have frightened off any who looked at it in hope of finding a subject. But Professor Stanford's method of dealing with the "Revenge," by means of free declamatory passages, interspersed with cantilena where opportunity served, was readily applicable to the "Voyage of Maeldune," and the result is that all the peculiar difficulties of the poem are surmounted and its musical recital goes smoothly and easily, as well as effectively on. I need not describe Tennyson's poem here, the reader who is unfamiliar with it can take down his "Tennyson" and study the narrative at leisure, marking for himself, the wonderful pictures of the islands to which the ship was driven, and noting how well they lend themselves to musical description. Professor Stanford's treatment of that series of scenes, as well as of one—the Island of Witches—borrowed from the "Sea Fairies," constitutes a very large and distinct section of the work, which may, for purposes of examination, be taken separately. They are admirably dealt with by the composer, who has brought to bear upon them all his orchestral skill and ingenuity. It is with the orchestra that description and suggestion mainly lie; the voices often keeping up the prevailing declamation. I decline to say which picture is the best, so much is there to applaud in all, but as some may chiefly admire the solos of Flowers and Fruits, others may give their preference to the beautiful music which depicts the "undersea isle" with its submerged paradise. The narrative which carries on the main thread of the story is forcible and picturesque; only in the earlier part being too persistently harsh and rugged. This the Leeds audience appeared to regard rather coldly, but the island pictures, the music to the interview with the holy man who turned Maeldune's purpose away, and the conclusion, with its solemn and effective lesson, won every heart, and established the success of the work. Dr. Stanford makes free use of representative themes, but as, till nearly the end, there are only two, they are easily recognised and serve a legitimate purpose. The central motive—that of revenge—undergoes modification towards the close, losing, in a very suggestive manner its native ruggedness as the idea of revenge weakens in Maeldune's mind. The Cantata will be heard a second time with great interest, but no expectation that further intimacy will necessitate any change in the opinions above expressed. Professor Stanford secured a generally excellent performance of his work; the declamatory choral parts being given with fine effect and all necessary attention to justness of accent and dramatic characterisation. The very important orchestral writing could not have had a nobler rendering, while the solos, in the safe hands of Madame Albani, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Barrington Foote had nothing of which to complain. The lion's share fell to Mr. Lloyd, whose admirable effort to do justice earned for him the highest admiration, and, I doubt not, the composer's gratitude. Dr. Stanford, after steering his music safely through to success, retired from the platform amid a storm of applause.

In the second part of Friday evening's programme were the "Leonora" Overture, a liberal selection from the music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Wilbye's "Sweet honey-sucking bees," and Weber's scena "Softly sighs" (Madame Albani). Of these works simple mention now suffices.

On Saturday morning the attractions were Brahms's "German Requiem" and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," the first of these works being then, I believe, presented at Leeds for the first time. Much was expected from the performance of the "Requiem," since it was known that great pains had been taken with its preparation. As matters turned out, this was the least satisfactory effort of the week. In the very first chorus, where, as amateurs know, the voices receive little support from subdued and low-toned orchestration, the tenors flattened, and dragged down with them, more or less, the other parts, even the usual firm basses at times giving way. The effect continued throughout the quieter choruses, and was at moments decidedly painful, as well as disappointing. On the other hand, the louder concerted pieces went very well indeed, the sonorous orchestra keeping the drooping singers well up to the mark. For what was unfavourable in the performance Brahms himself must be held partly responsible. His harmonies are often not such as the best trained choir can attack with perfect confidence, and when this is the case the voices ought not to be left with an accompaniment, say, of close, rumbling harmonies from the bass strings and bassoons. The consideration, however, does not lessen the responsibility of the chorus for its share in the comparative failure, nor should it in the slightest degree abate a demand for real tenor voices instead of high baritones, which, singing tenor music, quickly tire and droop. The solos in the "Requiem" were taken by Miss Fillunger and Mr. Watkin Mills.

Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" made the situation wear a different aspect. Here everybody stood on firm and familiar ground, and all went well; the chorus especially wiping out, for the time, recollection of previous shortcomings. Its work was effectively done; "The night is departing" being, indeed, one of the "sensations" of the week. Admirable, too, were the soloists, Madame Albani, Miss Damian, and Mr. Lloyd, the last-named again carrying off chief honours, as the tenor should who has to sing "I called through the darkness."

The Festival closed on Saturday evening with a performance of Sullivan's "Macbeth" music, which, the overture excepted, ought never to be detached from the play, and the "Golden Legend." I have nothing to say about this, save that everybody had reason to be satisfied with an effort as perfect as skill and sympathy could make it. The chorus and orchestra were as good as could be wished; Mr. Watkin Mills was a capital Lucifer; Miss Damian, a respectable Ursula; and Madame Albani and Mr. Lloyd were as they always are when the "Golden Legend" is the theme. There was considerable enthusiasm at the close, and if "all's well that ends well," it was certainly all well with the Leeds Festival.

There has since been considerable discussion with regard to the chorus; yet, in reality, the remediable measures are simple enough. The committee must engage real tenors, and not tire the voices by heavy rehearsals in Festival week. This done, Sir Arthur Sullivan may be trusted to answer for the rest, by doing all that skill and experience can suggest. The business arrangements of the Festival worked smoothly, and thanks are due on all hands to Mr. Alderman Spark, who was "all things to all men" in the best sense, and contrived to please everybody by his patience, urbanity, and resourcefulness.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

THE thirty-fourth series of Concerts commenced on the 19th ult., when a Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra, by Saint-Saëns, Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, and an Orchestral Interlude from the new opera "Esclarmonde," by Massenet, were the chief features of the programme. It will be seen that the directors intend to continue to pay attention to the wants of those who attend these Concerts for the purpose of study as well as for pleasure, and they should command a hearty response to their endeavours from all for whom these attractions are laid out. The constitution of the orchestra is the same as in former seasons, and bids fair by means of its individual and general excellence, brought to perfection by the renowned Conductor, to exceed even its best efforts in the past. The soloists engaged are among the best obtainable. The Concert of Saturday opened with Stern dale Bennett's Concert-Overture, "The Wood Nymph." The grace and charm of this excellent piece of writing are too well known to require to be recapitulated here, and it is enough to say that it was played with all possible spirit and delicacy, under the direction of Mr. Manns, who was received with much enthusiasm by the audience on his appearance on the platform.

The Overture was followed by the Orchestral Interlude in the new opera "Esclarmonde," by Massenet, to which reference has already been made. As a composition it is characteristic and melodious, well scored, and thoughtfully worked out, and though excellent in itself, is chiefly so to those who can thoroughly appreciate the artistic labour involved in its production. Madame Roger-Miclos made her first appearance at the Crystal Palace at this Concert, and played the Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra, by Saint-Saëns, in which she was heard to the best advantage. Her reading of the work was at once vigorous and bold, but with careful attention to every delicate refinement in passage playing, and with most artistic phrasing. The performance was excellent, the band accompaniments were beautifully given, and the whole work made a favourable impression upon its hearers. Madame Roger-Miclos further contributed two soli by Pfeiffer and Chopin, "In quietude" and Polonaise in E flat. Beethoven's Symphony in C minor is a familiar work to all, and on this occasion its beauties were most favourably presented. Mr. Edward Lloyd sang with his usual excellence Rienzi's Prayer, from the opera of the same name, by Wagner, and Mr. Manns's tuneful Serenade, "O moon of night." The Concert concluded with the Overture to Wagner's "Tannhäuser," which was, as stated in a foot-note in the programme, produced on October 19, at Dresden, in 1845.

THE SARASATE CONCERTS.

THE crowded state of St. James's Hall on Saturday afternoon, the 19th ult., ought to go far towards dispelling the idea that Concerts cannot be made remunerative until November. The truth probably is that, given a really popular artist, at any season of the year the public would go to hear him without consulting the almanac. Such an artist is Mr. Sarasate, who, before leaving for an American tour, has arranged for three "farewell" Concerts, the first of which took place on the day above-named. The programme was very simple, consisting merely of pianoforte and violin music, the violinist being assisted by Madame Berthe Marx, who, it will be remembered, appeared at some of his Concerts last summer. Saint-Saëns's Sonata in D minor (Op. 75), which commenced the Concert, is not a very interesting work, save as to the brief Allegretto moderato, which is almost Mendelssohnian in its lightness and grace. It served, however, to display the marvellous perfection of ensemble to which the two artists have attained, and which is only possible when performers have grown accustomed to each other's style by long association. This delightful unanimity of method was even more apparent in Schubert's beautiful Fantasia in C (Op. 159), the work exactly suiting the idiosyncrasy of the players. Madame Berthe Marx has a singularly pure, limpid touch, and her execution of scale passages is noteworthy for clearness and brilliancy. These qualities were noticeable in her solos—Chopin's rarely played Ballade in F minor (No. 4), and a showy but superficial Valse Etude, by Saint-Saëns, for which she gained a vociferous encore. Mr. Sarasate played his favourite piece "La Fée d'Amour," by Raff, in his customary matchless style, and some of Dvorák's piquant Slavonic Dances completed the programme.

On the following Saturday the demand for places was quite unprecedented even at these Concerts, the first performance of Dr. Mackenzie's "Pibroch," after the Leeds Festival, coupled with a strong infusion of Wagner in the programme, no doubt being responsible for the unusual display of public interest. We speak fully elsewhere of the Scottish composer's remarkably fresh and original work, and need only record in this place that a second hearing revealed many hitherto unsuspected beauties, especially in the rhapsody. The "Pibroch" was enthusiastically received and the composer acknowledged the applause from the platform. Señor Sarasate's other solos were Raff's Suite in G minor, of which he had played two movements at Leeds, and his own piece, "La Muñeira." The orchestral selections were rather peculiar. A singular caricature of Bach's great Organ Fugue in G minor was followed by Wotan's Farewell and the Fire Music from "Die Walküre," the voice parts being omitted. Mr. Cusins conducted the Concert, which concluded with the Overture to "Die Meistersinger."

OTTO HEGNER'S CONCERTS AND RECITALS.

Two years ago the London Concert season was opened by little Josef Hofmann, and a similar duty was fulfilled by the still more gifted child artist, Otto Hegner, a month ago. At first it seemed as if public interest in "prodigies" had entirely ceased, for the attendance in St. James's Hall, on the 2nd ult., when the first of two Orchestral Concerts took place, was extremely small. Hegner's share in this performance may be briefly dealt with. The choice of music set down for him was not altogether wise, Weber's Concertstück and Chopin's Grand Polonaise in E flat (Op. 22) overtaxing his physical resources, though he displayed an amount of vigour in grappling with them that was simply astounding. Madame Valleria being unable to sing, the vocal element was supplied entirely by Mr. Max Heinrich, who was heard to much greater advantage in Schubert's "Am Meer" and "Taubenpost" and Brahms's "Dubist meine Königin," than in the hackneyed Toreador's song from "Carmen."

There was a much larger attendance at the first of two Recitals on the following Saturday afternoon, and the performance was in every way more satisfactory. Bach's music for the keyboard, containing as it does no passages requiring a grasp greater than an octave, is of course peculiarly suited to Hegner's present capacity, and a more intelligent rendering of the "Italian" Concerto we have no wish to hear. Beethoven's Sonata in E minor (Op. 90) is of course a far greater test of intellectual powers, but here again the youthful pianist was in great measure successful, his thoughtful reading of the music showing that he grasped the composer's meaning by some intuitive process. It was not a mere performance of the notes; every point was brought out with marked, and once or twice even exaggerated, expression. As a composer Hegner shows much promise, his Suite in G minor being remarkably well written and containing some fresh and attractive ideas. That he started with the idea, apparently, of writing in the style of the older suites, and was afterwards tempted to introduce themes of an essentially modern character, is one of the inevitable results of inexperience and does not greatly matter.

The second Orchestral Concert and the second Recital took place in the following week, the former on the 9th and the latter on the 12th ult. Both, unfortunately, clashed with the Leeds Festival, and must therefore be dismissed with brevity. Chopin's Concerto in E minor was the leading feature at the Orchestral Concert, and Beethoven's Sonata in D (Op. 10, No. 3) was the most important piece in the Recital. The rendering of both served to confirm the opinion that Otto Hegner is pursuing his studies in a manner that must call for approval even from those most opposed to the premature appearance of musically-gifted children. Words of caution are still necessary to those who are responsible for the well-being of this wonderful boy; but there is as yet no evidence that harm has accrued to him in consequence of his early commencement of a public career.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL AT LEEDS.

BY OTTO LESSMANN.

(Translated from the "Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung.")

It is usually considered throughout the world that the English are the most unmusical nation. What English musicians accomplished in the sixteenth century in the domain of vocal music has as good as disappeared from the public musical life of our day, and only rarely does a madrigal by Morley, Wilbye, and others find a place in the programmes of our capella choral unions. And what later times have brought forth in the domain of music is but little calculated to display a special talent of the English for musical composition. It betrays, meanwhile, a childish perception, not only of human nature, but of the nature of a whole people if we would trace this apparent want of the musical gift to the "practical sense" of the English, which, along with the desire of gain, does not allow any interest to grow for spiritual currents, for the life and weaving of fancy. The world, both present and future, must and will be thankful to the English for all that their thinkers and poets have achieved in science and poetry.

"Rasch fertig ist die Jugend mit dem Wort," says a German poet, whose fate it is now to be put on the shelf by a certain set of young Germany; but the saying is quite true nevertheless. All these old and young children who, true to tradition, copy celebrated examples in repeating the notion of England's want of the sense for music, should first well consider whether, in view of the greater number of creative musicians in Germany, and the interest in music which penetrates all classes of the people, there is really more genuine musical sense to be found in our country than in England. Whoever thinks that the miserable strumming of our girls is the expression of an innate love of Art will easily answer this question in the affirmative; but he who will take the trouble to search out how true Art is fostered in places where the true high priests of Art do sacrifice at her altar, will find that the English are not behindhand in surrendering themselves wholly to the impression which noble Art-work calls forth in the soul of man.

Let us instance Bayreuth! Is it the Germans who supported the life-work of one of their greatest masters? No, truly; and all who have any feeling of how a great cultivated people ought to show honour to their leading spirits must own with shame that just the professors, for example, who were appointed to schools and churches primarily to protect new spiritual and poetic sanctities, and to bring up in these truths the race committed to their care, turned away wholesale in a defiant manner from Bayreuth, and left it to a foreign country to grasp the enormous significance of the Wagner Art, and to celebrate the honour of the German name in Wagner's work. And there again it is not the English who are the last in doing homage to the genius of our great German composer. Germany has, of course, an easy answer ready—that the greater wealth of the English allows them to take part in any "fashion"! But in saying this are we not altogether forgetting the Englishman's sound "practical sense," which does not allow him to throw his money away over and over again for nothing? No, among the thousands who have been to the Wagner theatre at Bayreuth every Festival year, the greater proportion has been the English, who have there sought and found artistic edification.

If, further, we glance at the lists of students in the large German music schools, we shall find that there is scarcely one in which English names do not appear. If, then, we look at the English music schools, which of the German ones can compare with these in regard to a handsome provision for the payment of good teachers and the gratuitous artistic education of talented students without means? Do not all these signs show that in the soul of England there is an earnest desire and endeavour to foster and to enjoy music? The languishing of music in England during a century must be traced to other influences than the pretended one of that hunt after Mammon which kills all spiritual interest; and an explanation which has every appearance of probability is that Puritanism is responsible for this, and that during its reign the once highly developed musical life of the English people was utterly annihilated. Up to the beginning of the seventeenth century musical cultivation formed a part of the intellectual possession of the Englishman, and anyone who wished to appear well educated was expected to be ready and able at any moment to take his part in the carefully fostered vocal house-music of the families with which he had intercourse. And, as in the family, so also in the Church was music carefully and intelligently pursued, until Puritanism with mischievous over-zeal declared that Art was unholy either in Church or home, and induced an inevitable downfall, from which she has only freed herself again after a century of struggle. Whilst in other countries, Germany especially, the national soul has been able to work unhindered in the province of music, in a good as well as a bad sense, it has been clogged in England; and it is doing an injustice to a people mentally so highly developed as the English if we tax them with this want of freedom in the domain of music as something in its nature peculiarly their own. All classes of the English people have, no less than the Germans, the need of music; in evidence of which we have only to note the struggle of the working classes throughout the land to join in choral societies; and we in Germany have certainly no occasion to look scornfully on the English as an unmusical nation, especially on the earnestness with which music is cultivated by them, which at least bears comparison with our own.

An infallible touchstone for such a comparison was afforded me in the Festival which was held at Leeds, from October 9 to 12, at which I was most fortunately able to be present. Just as in the Lower Rhine provinces, Cologne, Aix-la-Chapelle, and Dusseldorf united to hold a great musical Festival each year alternately with one another, so have seven English towns arranged Festivals on the largest scale, at intervals of three years, in such a manner that at least two Festivals take place each year. An attempt which was made at Leeds in 1858, on the occasion of the opening of the Town Hall, and which had a great success, resulted in the formation of a committee, which arranged a triennial Festival for Leeds, at which English and foreign music should be brought forward side by side. When in 1861 preparations for a second Festival were put in hand, difficulties arose, in consequence of which any further attempt had to be abandoned for the next thirteen years. Only in 1874 did Leeds succeed in bringing about a second Festival, under the conductorship of Sir Michael Costa, and since that date there has been one every three years, to the honour alike of Art and Charity; for the substantial surplus, which amounted to the sum of £3,000 sterling, was, after the deduction of an adequate sum appropriated to a reserve fund, presented to the hospitals of the town.

Leeds is a prosperous manufacturing town, whose hundreds of smoking chimneys bear ample witness to the industry of its people and the value set upon labour. When in the midst of the turmoil of public life the attention of the masses is capable of being turned to the preparation for a musical Festival that is to last four days, the fact speaks assuredly not against the admission that, side by side with the business interest of the inhabitants, their interest in Art is a far more living one than is the case under similar circumstances in German towns. A striking proof of this, and one which might almost inspire us with envy in Germany, is the immense sum subscribed by the inhabitants of Leeds and the county of Yorkshire as a guarantee fund for the Festival. In the list of guarantors there are 33 names down for £200, 95 for £100, 145 for £50, 155 for £25, and 94 for £10 each, so that the committee would have a sum of about £28,500 (570,000 marks) at their disposal in an emergency. In the face of such liberality on behalf of a musical performance, and in view of our own miserably paltry proportion, have we any occasion, or even any right, to jeer at the sincere interest of the English in music, or even to question it? As regards the events in Leeds, we have only to set against them the deplorable want of sympathy, for example, which was shown in the Tonkünstler Versammlung of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein at Wiesbaden during the last days of June this year, to be forced to admit that a comparison of the musical circumstances of Germany and England does not prove unfavourable to the latter.

Leeds possesses in its grand Town Hall a Concert-room which, with its noble architecture and its boldly arched roof supported on columns, makes an immediately solemn impression, and this is heightened by the powerful organ with its 32-ft. pipes in view. This room, which almost resembles a church, holds about 2,500 people. Between the organ and the audience is an orchestra of 120 instrumentalists, and a chorus of eighty-two sopranos, seventy-four altos, seventy-seven tenors, and seventy-eight basses, 311 voices in all, rising one above another in amphitheatre fashion in a large semi-circle. The orchestra, composed entirely of English musicians, is placed like an impenetrable body in front of the chorus: high up, half way towards the organ, in a small space specially reserved for them, are the drums and other instruments of percussion; in front of these, and spread over both sides of the orchestra, are twelve double basses, and on each side of these are six violoncellos; two other double basses and two violoncellos are placed behind the two harps, in direct proximity to the Conductor. In a large semi-circle in front of the double basses are the brass and wood-wind instruments, to the left the horns and trumpets, to the right the trombones; and the mass of violins (twenty first and twenty second, and fourteen violas) fills the foreground where, on a slightly raised platform, Sir Arthur Sullivan, the Conductor of the Festival, takes his place. The ladies of the chorus are all dressed in white, the sopranos being distinguished by blue silk sashes and the altos by red silk, with forget-me-nots, and roses, emblems, as it were, of the faithfulness and love with which the wearers of the two colours have taken upon themselves the onerous preparations for the eight Concerts of the Festival.

Next, as regards the execution of the music, the performances certainly were not of equal perfection throughout. I cannot make it my business here to speak of all the eight Concerts in detail, but it was my desire to gain an opinion on the condition of public musical life in England from my own observation, and if, at such a Festival, and taking all circumstances into account, one really sees the very best that a town or county is capable of accomplishing, then my observations lead me to the conclusion that the Germans have very much underrated English capability in the domain of music. I heard choral performances of greater beauty in Leeds than in any town on the Continent. The voices are so fresh; the sopranos and tenors command the high notes with astonishing facility, and the altos and basses display admirable fulness and power. The list of chorus-singers shows that they assemble from the whole county of Yorkshire, and I was told that this particular neighbourhood is distinguished by unusual beauty of voice.

The choral performances however owed their charm not only to the natural beauty of the elements of sound, but quite as much to the careful training which the performers had received. The dynamic proportion of the individual voices to each other has attained the highest possible perfection. The intonation is as sure as possible, the sound itself mellow and round, and yet abounding in power and brilliancy. In the pronunciation of the words, which is, moreover, of exemplary clearness, there are some peculiarities which strike a foreigner; for example, single Latin words in Schubert's Mass in E flat major were pronounced partly English, partly Italian fashion—thus, "Amen" as "Aehmen" (like the a in age), and "Pacem" as "Pah-tsem" (like the a in art), &c., although the a in other words was treated as a pure a. In Bach's Cantata "Gottes Zeit" and in Handel's "Acis and Galatea," the chorus displayed the greatest beauty of sound and the utmost possible flexibility of voice, for the many rapid passages which Bach and Handel have written for chorus came out as clearly and flowingly as if from a flute. In addition to a finished technical drilling, the chorus also showed a high degree of intellectual comprehension of its tasks, for the sureness and reliability of all the dynamic and rhythmic nuances deserve the highest praise. The Chorus-master, Mr. Alfred Broughton, to whose efforts these achievements must be attributed, has here given a truly brilliant proof of his capability, just as the chorus itself has done of its will and intelligence. In short, I repeat dispassionately that I have never before heard such first-rate choral performances, either with accompaniment or without, in any other town. Amongst other works there was a most brilliant performance of the Ninth Symphony choruses, which were sung with unexampled delicacy.

I would not be unjust nor ungrateful to our Berlin choirs, nor would I seek to diminish their undoubted services in the furthering of chorus singing; but neither the Cathedral choir nor the Kottzolt Gesang-Verein, and the Academy of Singing—as chief representatives of a capella and accompanied singing—could compare in effect with this powerful and yet manageable choir. The impression made in a charming Pastoral, "The rosy dawn," by Harford Lloyd, and in a Madrigal by Wilbye (1560), both sung a capella, was just as astonishing, in the incomparable beauty of tone and exceedingly delicate gradations of sound, as were the choral performances with orchestra in Schubert's Mass, in Berlioz's "Faust," in parts of Brahms's "Requiem," in Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Hymn of Praise," and more especially in Sullivan's "Golden Legend" and the new Cantatas by Corder, Creser, Parry, and Stanford. It is only necessary to realise the enormous undertaking—eight performances in four days—which the chorus accomplished with indomitable energy, with almost unvarying freshness, equal in its enthusiasm and sure in its results, in order to be able to say that such a performance is without a parallel. I heard that the director of the chorus had, altogether, had only forty-nine vocal rehearsals in preparation for the Festival. That it was possible to accomplish such an immense amount of work with so comparatively few rehearsals is explained by the incessant attention which chorus-singing receives in England. Every village is said to possess a choir, and the young people are trained from childhood in the performance of Handel's choruses.

As regards the orchestra, there are also some particularly admirable performances to praise—several orchestral pieces from Berlioz's "Faust," Beethoven's third "Leonora" Overture, and the Overture to the "Midsummer Night's Dream" being more especially noticeable above the average excellence of the whole. The body of strings developed an astonishing amount of power without thereby injuring the fineness of the sound, and the flutes (the piccolo especially), the English horn, the first clarinet, and first bassoon distinguished themselves among the wood-wind instruments by their beautiful tone. Among the brass instruments the horns occasionally failed. In short, the orchestra rejoiced one by its euphony and great niceness in all technical detail. There is no question that many works would have been still better performed had they been more thoroughly rehearsed. Others differed so much from the German conception of them that more numerous rehearsals would scarcely have made any deeper impression on us. This, however, must not be charged to the orchestra as such, since every orchestra is in this respect dependent on its Conductor. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, especially (amongst several other works, Bach's Cantata, Brahms's "Requiem," &c.), seemed to me a complete blank in the first three movements. The tempo of the first and second movements was much too quick, so that the distinctness of the many parts was lost, and in the third movement a more careful elaboration of the middle parts was wanting. The only explanation of this is to be found in the difficulties under which the orchestral preparations for the Leeds Festival had to be made. The whole orchestra was made up in London, where Sir Arthur Sullivan held a number of preliminary rehearsals, followed by a few general rehearsals in Leeds. These latter were, however, evidently too few for the large number of works brought forward, and with the considerable surplus money which accrued, a few more rehearsals should have been arranged, so as to have ensured a still greater artistic success.

As regards the solo singers, their performances as a whole gave universal satisfaction, even if not all of equal merit. First in honour comes Madame Albani, whose voice seemed to us at first not quite so fresh as a few years ago in Berlin; but the artist is so perfect a mistress of tone, and her performance has such deep feeling, that she certainly holds her audience enchained. Her rendering of the "Golden Legend" was simply wonderful. Madame Valleria appeared on the first day only, having to excuse herself from attendance on the others on account of ill-health; therefore an opinion of her performances would hardly be in place here. Mesdames Wilson and Damian were not particularly prominent, but proved themselves useful, talented singers, with beautiful, if somewhat unpolished voices. The same may be said of Fräulein Fillunger, who took the soprano solos in the Ninth Symphony and in Brahms's "Requiem" with the most perfect certainty. Of the gentlemen, Mr. Edward Lloyd, the senior, must be mentioned with the utmost distinction; his soft lyric tenor voice, his pre-eminent style, his incomparable mezza-voce, and the vivacity of his delivery show him to be a concert-singer of the highest distinction. The remaining gentlemen, Messrs. Iver McKay and Henry Piercy (tenors), and Watkin Mills, Barrington Foote, and Brereton (baritone and basses) have also fine voices, but they are deficient in fineness of tone and in some special points of study, and Mr. Piercy appears to be not very certain musically, which was noticeable in his rather free treatment of rhythm. Among the newer forces Miss Macintyre was the most conspicuous. The young lady is endowed with a very beautiful, fresh, and rich voice, which has been trained in an excellent school, and has both musical certainty and a poetic conception of her art.

I now come to the chief point—the English composers. When in other countries the English were characterised as an unmusical nation, it was because of the fact that England had produced no great composers, for nothing was known of the musical life of the people themselves. Now after the time when musical art in England was in its prime, an art which ecclesiastical Puritanism swept away like a destroying blast, England's support was, musically speaking, on the Continent; for the few men who had come forward as composers had given up their native art and confined themselves entirely to imitation of German models. If I am not entirely deceived, a new day has dawned for English music with the present musical young-England. Although, indeed, educated in Germany, or according to the German masters, and endowed with all the ability which the German school requires from its own adherents, certain young English composers have nevertheless reflected that they owe it to the honour of their country to go their own way.

Art will never let itself be nationalised in the sense that, within certain boundaries, only a certain succession of sounds in certain forms can be allowed. Human sentiment is not changed by political boundaries, and as long as poetry and music are forms of expression of the soul's life, so long will musical Chauvinists in vain defend the idea of a one-sided national art in which composers of different nations shall shut themselves away from reciprocal influences. Germany certainly has not had to regret that her composers have been received by Italians, French, Slavs, and Hungarians; this has only helped to make the fancy ever more fruitful and to enrich the form of expression. And, on the other hand, whatever Germany has given to the composers of other countries, has certainly been no dishonour to the art of those countries. If English composers study German art thoroughly they do well; if, however, they sink into imitation of any one particular composer, they condemn themselves to unfruitfulness. He who has nothing of his own to say had better be silent. One does not wish to hear babblers. It is, alas! undeniable that the imitation of Mendelssohn in England has for decades demanded victims from musical talent, and this may well explain the fact that the English could not compete with the eminent composers of those nations which occupied themselves with music. Clear-sighted English musicians have long recognised the harmful influence of this Mendelssohnism on England, and have tried to counteract it—among others, Arthur Sullivan. Then the Schumann fever, as also in Germany, seized on the young musicians, and since then the Brahms fever, and whoever wanted to succeed thought he must offer the same kind of wares as these two masters, who had themselves won by their art the recognition of the world. Now, however, we seem to have got over this, for in some of the new works brought forward at the Leeds Festival there is so much independence of thought and sentiment that we can wish modern English Art joy of its enrichment.

It should also be mentioned here at once, as a further proof how greatly the English honour art and artists, that the committee had commissioned four composers to write a Cantata, each for one day of the Festival. In consequence of this commission, Corder's "The Sword of Argantyr," Creser's "Sacrifice of Freia," Hubert Parry's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day," and Stanford's "Voyage of Maeldune" were brought to a hearing. Corder and Creser have treated subjects from the Old Sagas; the former has chosen the conquering Tyring-sword which, once unsheathed, always drew blood. The latter treats of a Spring Festival at the altar of Freia. Corder is certainly the more gifted of the two composers; he succeeds sometimes in soaring to a certain height of sentiment which carries his hearers away, and he also understands—which is more common—how to make his ideas so plastic that everyone is in the greatest expectation of something remarkable; but he lacks the power of carrying out his ideas. It happens to him as to the general who has won a victory but does not know how to make use of it, and his music makes more the impression of a great rhapsody than of a logically developed, strictly formed work of art. Were the capability of Corder equal to his intention he would stand in the foremost rank of English composers of the present day, for he is not wanting in flights of fancy.

The second-named work appeared to me not to stand on the same level. William Creser sticks too closely to the heels of Richard Wagner, and that is dangerous to anyone, no matter of what nationality he may be. To him who has nothing special to say it is all one whether he brings in reminiscences of "Rienzi" and "Lohengrin" or borrows from Mendelssohn, for he will never bring forth any work of importance. That this work made a great stir may be explained, firstly, by the fact that the instrumentation is very effective; and, secondly, that Mr. Creser is an organist in Leeds, and as such it was but natural that he should be the object of much local patriotism. That the public, however, was not disposed to be unjust towards really important composers was shown by the reception accorded to the two other Cantatas, which were felt to be the ripe works of highly gifted and cultivated artists. Parry's "Cecilia" Ode, composed to Pope's well-known poem, would be an appropriate ornament to any German concert-room, and equally so would Stanford's "Voyage of Maeldune," based on a wonderfully beautiful poem by Tennyson, after an old Irish legend. Both compositions are manifestly the work of musicians of importance, who have learnt through real strict work to develop their ideas with full freedom of expression; and in the masterly flow of the compositions there is not a trace of poverty of idea, which would have laid itself like a leaden weight on the flight of fancy and the power and depth of expression. Parry and Stanford are two musicians whose vocation it is to compose good and important music, no matter for what nation. As special gems I would mention the opening movement of the former work, with an episode, "Exulting in triumph," which reminds one of Handel's style; the a capella chorus, "By the streams that ever flow"; and the imposing Finale. From the latter work the wonderfully beautiful, poetic, and closely allied movements, "And we came to the Isle of Flowers," and "And we came to the Isle of Fruits"; as also the exceptionally tuneful Finale, "And we came to the Isle we were blown from," to mention no other characteristic movements.

Besides these four composers and their works, there are still A. C. Mackenzie and Arthur Sullivan to mention. The former, alas, was only represented by one work, a Violin Suite in three movements, on the model of the Scottish bagpipe Suites, composed with the utmost artistic refinement, and entitled "Pibroch." The first movement, a "Rhapsody," will doubtless ere long be played by all violinists. The two principal themes bear the impress of the Scottish character, and the composer has incorporated them into one of the most beautifully carried-out subjects that I have ever heard for violin. This Rhapsody spans, in the broad flow of its melody, a world of sentiment so noble that we must look very high indeed among composers to find anything its equal. The second movement, a "Caprice," is a set of nine variations on a Scottish folk-song, in which the composer has piled up such a mountain of difficulties for the executant (who certainly was no less a person than Sarasate) that but few of the most exceptional virtuosi will be able to play it. The last movement, a "Dance," is a graceful piece, founded also on a genuine old Scottish folk-song, and on a second melody invented by Mackenzie in the Scottish style. The musical working out of the composition betokens the hand of a master, who not only writes for the violin with an intimate knowledge of it, but also with the utmost subtlety for the whole orchestra.* Sarasate, who rendered all honour to the work on this, its first performance, especially to the cantabile portions, achieved, together with the composer, a very great success. He also played in the course of the Festival the Mendelssohn Concerto and two movements of a Suite by Raff.

Arthur Sullivan appeared as a composer only at the last Concert, but there exclusively, with an Overture and incidental music to "Macbeth" and "The Golden Legend." The former work can only be properly understood in its connection with the performance of Shakespeare's tragedy; the small, and, in part, very delicately worked-out subjects, are too evanescent to make an effect taken out of their connection. The Overture is an orchestral work of the utmost brilliancy, which one can hardly characterise by any deeper title. With regard to "The Golden Legend," which the composer conducted some years ago in the Berlin Opera House, I must acknowledge, after hearing the brilliant and unusually effective performance at Leeds, that the Berlin criticisms at that time did the composer some injustice. The severe judgment which was then passed upon the work is only to be accounted for by the bad performance. After the second performance in 1887, in which Madame Albani took part and redeemed the soprano portions, I myself felt that the general impression of the work was, in spite of the foregoing criticisms, quite beyond my expectations, and included some scenes of great effect. Now that I have heard the work by a large chorus who sang with real inspiration, and by an orchestra that followed their Conductor with a perfect mutual understanding; and now that, in addition to Madame Albani, there was also such a tenor as Mr. Lloyd, whose poetic conception of his part was equal to that of his renowned colleague; and now that it was, moreover, given in the language in which it was composed, I cannot hesitate to ascribe a much greater importance to it than I did two years ago, for I myself have experienced its powerful effect in parts. The later English composers, moreover, are not so indifferent to the rhythm of their language as one is often inclined to think from translations.

* Mackenzie, who was educated in Germany, was formerly a member of the orchestra in Sondershausen.

And now, finally, the audience! To anyone who could observe this mass of human beings (for the most part provided with the cheap and handy pianoforte scores published by the great house of Novello, Ewer and Co.), which eight times over filled every seat of the vast hall, it must have been evident that so much devotion, such an assemblage, and such enthusiasm would be impossible if the people were unmusical by nature. The audience was indeed most courteous in its recognition of the performers, even when not perfectly satisfied with what was offered to it; all the more striking, therefore, was the warmth of applause following the better and more distinguished performances. The enthusiasm with which chorus and orchestra distinguished the principal Conductor, together with the Composers who conducted their own works, was touching—an expression of gratitude, as it were, for the trouble by which, after long working together, such beautiful artistic results had been achieved. And there is still another thing by which audience and artist in Germany might take pattern—neither wreaths nor flowers were given. I was assured that any artist who publicly accepted such an uncontrolled expression of favour would be laughed at, for that the audience knew how to express its recognition by the warmth of its applause.

Next to the audience, the numerous members of the committee deserve the warmest praise for the unflinching and careful arrangement of all external matters. I feel myself, personally, especially indebted to the Honorary Secretary, Mr. Alderman Spark, for the very kind trouble he took to ensure me good places for the performances. The Mayor of the town (Alderman Ward) represented it at each Concert in his official dress, and every member of the committee was most obliging in giving help and information wherever wanted.

I now bring my observations to a close, with a candid recognition of the highly developed musical life which has been evinced to me in this Festival, and also with a warning to the German public and the German world of Art not to underrate, as formerly, the pains bestowed upon the cultivation of music in England; and finally, with the expression of the confident hope that musical young-England will succeed in making its value felt as an independent member among musical nations. Let Germany, related as it is to England by race, help more especially by according to English composers of eminence a place in the programmes of great Concerts. We on the Continent have the good reputation of being quite impartial in matters of Art; then let us now prove this first of all to a people who, in other departments of intellectual and practical life, have laid us under obligations of gratitude and admiration.

OBITUARY.

THE death is announced on September 29, at Boulogne-sur-Mer, of Mr. WILLIAM WINTERBOTTOM, late band-master of the 2nd Life Guards. He was in his sixty-eighth year.

MR. JOHN VIPON BRIDGEMAN, who died on September 30, at his residence in the Strand, at the age of seventy, was for upwards of thirty years foreign editor of the Musical World. Mr. Bridgeman translated Wagner's "Opera and Drama," "Judaism in Music," and "A Communication to my Friends," besides several of the literary works of Pouglin, Berlioz, and others, for that paper. He wrote the libretti of Balfe's "Armourer of Nantes" and "Puritan's Daughter," and in German two dramas for the troupe attached to the Court Theatre, Brunswick, besides a number of other pieces for the stage. Among the works which he translated may be mentioned Dr. Reinhold Pauli's "König Aelfred," Theophile Gauthier's "Voyage en Espagne," Charles Blanc's "Vie des Peintres," Gustav Freitag's "Soll und Haben," and Victor Hugo's "Napoléon le Petit."

On the 3rd ult. Mr. WILLIAM MICHAEL WATSON, the well-known song composer, died at his residence at East Dulwich. He was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, on July 31, 1840, and first studied music under his father, the late Mr. William Watson, then a professor of music in that town. At his father's wish he attended the Royal Academy School of Design and Leigh's Art School, and had the late Frederick Walker, A.R.A., as his fellow student, with others who have attained eminence in the pictorial art. Young Watson loved drawing, but finally resolved upon making music his profession. Under his own name and that of "Jules Favre" he produced a large quantity of pianoforte pieces, part-songs, and ballads, some of which attained great popularity. Mr. Watson was a man of many gifts, and often wrote his own words and designed the title pages of several of his musical publications. He was an admirable pianist, a good conductor, and a successful teacher.

MADAME ERARD, widow of the pianoforte and harp manufacturer, died on the 14th ult., at La Muette, at the age of seventy-six, having survived her husband some thirty-four years. Madame Erard devoted her time and a great part of her fortune to assisting musicians and actors at their start in life or when in distress. The Salle Erard, which was always at the disposal of artists gratuitously, has been the scene of many famous débuts. The interest taken by the firm in music is further shown by the fact that it presents every year a grand pianoforte to the winner of the first prize at the Conservatoire, the house of Pleyel giving one to the second.

The death of ADOLPH HENSELT, the distinguished pianoforte teacher and player, took place on the 10th ult. at Warmbrunn, Silesia. He was born at Schwalbach, in Bavaria, on May 12, 1814. He studied music under a master named Lasser, and subsequently under a lady-pupil of Weber and Meyerbeer and Hummel. He found a style of his own in pianoforte playing, uniting the legato smoothness of Hummel with the sonority of Liszt; and a special peculiarity of his own in playing extended chords in arpeggio, which excited the notice of Mendelssohn in 1838. He visited England in 1852 and in 1867, but did not play in public on the last occasion. His compositions were many, but those by which his name is chiefly known in this country are "Si oiseau j'étais," and his Studies. He settled in St. Petersburg in 1838, where he was teacher to several members of the Russian Imperial family. He held the post of Inspector in Music of the Imperial Russian female assemblies.

M. CHARLES MIRY, Professor of Composition at the Conservatoire at Ghent, and a famous writer of songs to Flemish words, died on the 2nd ult., aged sixty-six. He produced several operas, of which "Charles V.," in five acts, performed in 1857 at Ghent, his native place, is the most important. His songs, cantatas, school choruses, and other works made his name extremely popular in his own country.

JULES LOUIS OLIVER MÉTRA, the well-known composer and Conductor, died on the 22nd ult., aged 59. He was born at Rheims, June 2, 1830, and studied at the Conservatoire in Paris under Elwart and Ambroise Thomas. He composed a number of ballets, pieces of dance music, and operas, including "Robinson Crusoe," 1857; "Le Valet de Chambre de Madame," 1872; "Yedda," 1879. His name is best known in England through the medium of his dance music.

S. AUTERÌ-MANZOCCHI'S OPERA "IL CONTE DI GLEICHEN." *

THIS lyric drama, which is the third and most recent of Signor Manzocchi's works, was brought out at the Teatro Costanzi, in Rome, in the early part of this year. His first two operas, "Dolores" and "Stella," had already established his reputation as a dramatic composer of no mean order; and it was "Stella" more especially that achieved a signal triumph some years ago in Florence, where it was put on the stage under Signor Manzocchi's own direction, and conducted by Signor Luigi Mancinelli. The subject of this opera, "Stella," reviewed in THE MUSICAL TIMES at the time, is a Venetian story, which afforded the composer ample scope both for brilliant scenic display and elaborate musical treatment; and the success was enhanced by the fact that Signor Manzocchi, besides having a most efficient staff of artists and a capital band, had secured the services of M. Maurel, who took the principal part—viz., the aristocratic lover of Stella, the fair but unfortunate Venetian fisher-maid—and was a host in himself. "Stella" therefore gave the brightest promises for the future achievements of the gifted Sicilian composer. We shall see whether those promises are borne out in "Il Conte di Gleichen," his latest production.

The libretto of this new opera is by Signor Auteri Pomar, and it must be admitted that of all the extravagant subjects for the purposes of lyric drama, he has certainly gone out of his way to choose the most extravagant.

Whether the subject be a legend or founded on fact, certain it is that the story of the Count of Gleichen and his two wives is deeply rooted in the popular mind of Thuringia, where it had its origin and is supposed to have been enacted; and that it has not only been narrated and discussed by many learned writers, but has even given rise to research in order to establish the fact that the skull of one of the wives really was that of a fair daughter of the East. In the Cathedral of the ancient City of Erfurt there exists to this day a bas-relief representing the Count with his two wives, although the crypt itself, which contained the remains of that remarkable trio, was destroyed during the thirty years' war and despoiled of all that was valuable in it. The inscription, removed from the tomb and now in the Benedictine Church of St. Petersburg, is believed to have been dictated by the Count himself in anticipation of his death.

The story, which is similar in character to that of the old ballad "Lord Bateman," has had a mysterious attraction for not a few poets and dramatists who, while varying the particulars according to their individual taste and fancy, have all preserved the main incidents of the narrative; and this example has also been followed in the libretto of Signor Manzocchi's opera, which is divided into a prologue and three short acts.

In the prologue, Fatima, the beautiful daughter of Sultan Saladin, watching the Christian captives, conceives a violent passion for Ermanno, the Count of Gleichen, which the gallant knight fervently returns. Fatima resolves to enable him to effect his escape, and proposes to accompany him to his distant Western home, become a Christian, and be his wife. Ermanno expresses some conscientious scruples as to the prospect of facing his faithful wife, the Countess Orlamunda, in the company of another; but he is determined to run any risk rather than die in slavery.

The scene of the first act is laid in the ancient castle of Gleichen in Thuringia, where Orlamunda is anxiously but vainly hoping for tidings from her husband. Her brother Idelberto resolves to set out for Holy Land himself, with other Crusaders, to trace and rescue the Count, and the knights and their retinue are already assembled at the foot of the castle to take leave of Orlamunda, when Ermanno's sudden return is announced, and presently he appears in person and receives Orlamunda in his arms. He explains that he owes his life and release to Fatima, the Sultan's daughter, who at her own wish has accompanied him, and Orlamunda, overjoyed at her husband's safe return, welcomes and embraces Fatima as her sister.

The second act brings matters to a crisis. Orlamunda, revolting against the idea of having a rival in Fatima, proposes to the latter that they shall decide by lot which of them is to take poison, thus leaving the other to the sole enjoyment of matrimonial happiness with the exemplary Ermanno. Fatima agrees, and the fatal cup is already in her hand, when Ermanno appears on the scene, and snatching the cup from Fatima announces his resolve to put an end to his own intolerable position by taking poison himself. At this juncture, however, Corrado, the Landgrave of Thuringia, and Superior of the Teutonic Order of the Cross, intervenes, followed by his friars, and, after threatening the unfortunate Orlamunda with anathema, wrings from her a vow that she will consent to Fatima's marriage with Ermanno, and will herself proffer the wedding ring to the converted Saracen princess.

The last act, the scene of which is laid in the Cathedral of Erfurt, witnesses the solemn ceremony of Fatima being received in the Church under the name of Angelica, followed by her marriage with Ermanno. Orlamunda, restraining her intense emotion and repugnance, kisses her rival, and tenders her the wedding ring, and presently it becomes apparent that, unable to bear the humiliation to which she has been subjected, she has taken poison. She dies amidst the solemn surroundings of the Cathedral scene, having forgiven her husband and blessed his union with her "sister" Angelica.

Such are the main features of this dramatic production, which Signor Manzocchi has had the courage to set to music. Although the libretto is not devoid of certain poetical merits, it would be colourless and lifeless in the extreme, were it not propped by some situations affording scope for elaborate scenic display. Under these circumstances, all the more credit is due to the ingenuity of the composer, who has found means of clothing a threadbare and singularly unsympathetic and unsuitable subject with musical grace and vigour.

Signor Manzocchi belongs, in the main, to the school founded by the late and lamented composer, Ponchielli, the Gounod of Italy, whose early death deprived his country of one of its foremost musicians. Following in Ponchielli's footsteps, Signor Manzocchi skilfully combines local colouring and effective orchestral and instrumental treatment with pathetic melody in the airs and graceful cantilena in the declamatory passages. These peculiar merits of his style were already noticeable in the score of "Stella," and are equally, if not more conspicuous in the opera under notice. Signor Manzocchi is, moreover, very successful in his choral writing, and hence such scenes as that of the assembled Crusaders in the first, the anathema with which the Landgrave and his friars threaten Orlamunda in the second, and the Cathedral scene in the third act, go a long way to cover the shortcomings of the dramatic action. Among the other concerted numbers of the score deserving special notice, may be mentioned the somewhat lengthy duet of Ermanno and Fatima in the prologue; the duet of Orlamunda and Fatima, as well as the highly declamatory and effective duet of Orlamunda and Corrado the Landgrave in the second act. The weakest part of the score is undoubtedly that of Ermanno; nor is this surprising, seeing what a sorry figure this wretched Christian knight is made to cut throughout the drama. His melancholy air in the opening scene of the second act, befitting his desperate situation, is, properly speaking, the only solo in the whole opera; and even this was evidently inserted with a view to afford this unmanly hero an opportunity of relieving the general monotony of his character.

The opera was put on the stage and performed at the Costanzi Theatre under very favourable auspices and with profuse scenic display, notably in the Eastern scene of the prologue, in the Crusaders' scene of the first, and the Cathedral scene of the third act. Nevertheless the second act, without requiring any elaborate scenic support, is intrinsically the best and most successful from a musical, as it is the least monotonous from a dramatic point of view; for the climax between the two rivals, and the subsequent struggle of the legitimate wife before she yields to the threat of anathema, infuse into both the action and music of this second act more life and vigour than all the brilliant display can impart to the rest of the opera.

On the whole, it is to be regretted that Signor Manzocchi did not bestow his talent and careful, conscientious, and intelligent labour on a subject more interesting and more worthy. Of the two operas, "Il Conte di Gleichen" and "Stella," the latter is decidedly the more successful and by far the more attractive. It is to be hoped that, as he is among the most gifted and promising of living Italian composers, he will, in his next work, take care to secure in the first place a solid, vigorous, and powerful dramatic foundation; for a weak, lifeless, and unattractive libretto places even the ablest composer at an enormous disadvantage, and is liable to shipwreck his best and most intelligent efforts.

* "Il Conte di Gleichen." E. Sonzogno, Milan, 1888

C. P. S.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WE are now in the midst of what promises to be a season of considerable musical activity. Concerts of every kind—sacred and secular, vocal and instrumental, classical and popular—abound, and even the claims of chamber music, after a long interval of neglect, are once again recognised by the institution of a special series of Saturday Concerts at popular prices under the auspices of the Birmingham and Midland Musical Guild. As a rule, the public respond pretty liberally to the efforts made for their musical recreation, the only exception of importance being in the case of choral music, which continues to meet with but indifferent support here. Concerts of the miscellaneous order still meet with most favour, more especially when the personal and artistic attractions are of the high order of those included in Messrs. Harrison's first Subscription Concert, on the 15th ult.

Prior to this last-mentioned event, which usually serves as the inauguration of the local musical season, one or two minor Concerts and musical entertainments must be briefly noticed. On the 5th ult. the Autumn session of the Birmingham and Midland Musical Guild was opened, in the presence of a large gathering of members and friends, with a lecture by the President, Mr. John Heywood, followed by a Conversazione and Concert. The lecture, which was well received, was devoted to an exposition of the advantages of union and organisation in the musical profession, as exemplified in the National Society of Professional Musicians and the work of the Birmingham Guild. At the subsequent Concert, in which Miss Preston, Madame Pollack, Miss Elsie Baugh, Mrs. Aston, Mr. Charles Lunn, Mr. G. Levetus, and Mr. Randell, vocalists; and Mr. Sück (solo violin), Mr. Frank Huxley (solo flute), and Mrs. Richardson, Miss Nellie Hargreave, Mr. J. D. Davis, Mr. Blakeman Welch, and Mr. Oscar Pollack took part, the principal instrumental pieces were Wilhelmj's Phantasiestücke; a Violin Suite, with pianoforte accompaniment in D minor, by Mr. J. D. Davis; Schumann's Novelette for pianoforte, in A major (No. 6), and a flute solo, by Cellier, with pianoforte accompaniment.

On the 19th ult. the Guild gave the first of a series of public Concerts at popular prices, the proceeds of which will be devoted to a fund for the establishment of a local Guild School of Music. The performers on this occasion comprised four solo vocalists, a choir of selected vocalists, trained by members of the Musical Guild, and conducted by Mr. S. S. Stratton; five instrumental soloists, Mr. F. Ward and Mr. E. W. Priestley (violins), Mr. Griffin (viola), Mr. J. Owen (violoncello), and Mrs. Richardson (pianoforte), with three pianoforte accompanists. The selection was of a very comprehensive character, ranging from ballads to classical instrumental compositions, like Schumann's Grand Quintet (Op. 44), of which, however, only the Finale was given. The new choir greatly impressed the audience by its excellent balance and the high quality of the voices; but, strange to say, the most enthusiastic manifestations were evoked by some of the instrumental pieces.

The musical event of the month has been the Harrison Concert, on the 15th ult., at which Madame Adelina Patti was the bright particular star. With Madame Patti were associated Mrs. Mary Davies, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. H. Guy, and Mr. Fredk. King, vocalists; Miss Janotha (solo pianoforte), Miss Nettie Carpenter (solo violin), Mr. van Biene (solo violoncello), and Mr. W. Ganz and Mr. Volkmer, Conductors.

A very satisfactory performance of Handel's "Samson" was given by the Festival Choral Society at its first Concert, on the 24th ult. Miss Macintyre more than fulfilled the promise of her performance at Leeds, and delighted the audience equally by her dramatic expressiveness in "Ye men of Gaza" and "Glorious hero," and by her vocal brilliancy in "Let the bright seraphim." Miss Damian was heard to great advantage in "Return, O God of Hosts." As the Israelite champion, Mr. Charles Banks distinguished himself by his singing of "Total eclipse" and in the duet, and Mr. Brereton produced a favourable impression in "Honour and arms." Mr. H. A. Sims, a local bass, acquitted himself creditably as Manoah, and Mr. F. Mott was fairly satisfactory as the Messenger. The choral singing throughout was excellent. The "Dead March" selected was the one in D, which properly belongs to the work. It was admirably played under Mr. Stockley's direction, as were indeed the orchestral parts generally. As the alterations of the Town Hall organ are not yet complete, Mr. C. W. Perkins had to make shift with a large American organ.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ALTHOUGH October may be considered as the opening month of the musical season, unusual musical activity has been manifested in Bristol in anticipation. The Bristol Musical Association gave the first Concert of this new season on September 28. Quite a sensation was created by the singing of "Daddy," by Miss Evans, of Swansea, a very young lady, who has won honours at the Welsh National Eisteddfod. Organ solos were played by Mr. George Riseley, and cornet and piccolo solos by Mr. Slade and Mr. Ace respectively; and the band performed operatic selections. A public meeting in connection with the Society was held on the 9th ult., under the presidency of the Mayor, who, in his address, set forth what had been accomplished by the association during the eight years it had been established.

On the 1st ult. the first meeting of the newly-formed Bristol Choral Society was held, Mr. George Riseley being Conductor. So numerous were the applications for membership that arrangements have been made with Mr. France, formerly a lay clerk at the Cathedral, to form a preparatory class in connection therewith. The Society numbers nearly 500 members, who meet weekly in the Lecture Theatre of the Museum. Brahms's "Requiem," Schumann's Mignon's "Requiem," and Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" and the "Hymn of Praise" are being rehearsed.

In less than a fortnight after the first meeting of the new Choral Society, a scheme was matured for establishing choral bodies in three of the four Parliamentary divisions of the city. Mr. George Riseley and a number of earnest and influential citizens, principally connected with the Choral Society, arranged the plans, and subscribed sufficient funds to meet preliminary expenses. The young societies in Bristol—South, East, and West—are to be directed by Mr. Morgan, Mr. J. F. Nash, and Mr. France. Arrangements are being made to form a Choral Society in North Bristol also.

The Bristol Musical Festival Society Singing Classes—one for elementary work, another for students who have reached the intermediate stage, and a third for more advanced studies—assembled on the 16th, 17th, and 18th ult. respectively. They were well attended, and promise to do good work in advancing musical knowledge among all classes in Bristol.

The Bristol Society of Instrumentalists, which now consists of nearly 200 members, met for the first time this season, on the 2nd ult., and has been practising weekly since, under the direction of Mr. George Riseley. It is intended to give further attention to the works studied last season, and to take up for practice additional ones.

The interesting popular Concerts have been continued at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall. The annual Choir Concert of the Bristol Temperance Society took place there on the 1st ult. The choir (the Bristol contingent of the Crystal Palace Adult Choir) sang part-songs, choruses, &c., and the soloists were Miss F. Crome, Miss C. Aldersley, and Mr. J. Lomas, of Bristol Cathedral. Instrumental pieces were played by Mr. F. Watts (violin), Mr. J. F. Hunt (organ), and Mr. W. Fowler (pianoforte).

The Sunday evening Concerts of sacred music, which proved so successful last year, have been re-started at the Vestry Hall, Pennywell Road; the Colston Hall, and in St. Stephen's Church, the rector and members of which carry them on. At the Vestry Hall there is an excellent band, and a lady or gentleman vocalist; and at the other places organ solos are given and sacred pieces are sung—at the church after evening service. Last season closed with a deficit of £60, and with the view of liquidating it a Concert was given in Colston Hall on the 12th ult., but so scanty was the attendance that the adverse balance was augmented. The vocalists were Madame Rosa Bailey, Miss Marie Gane, Miss Crome, Miss Kate Nicholls, and Mr. S. Evans, local vocalists, and Miss Randall from London. The instrumentalists were Mr. Theo. Carrington (violin), Mr. Edward Pavey (violoncello), Miss Carrington and Mr. H. Fulford (pianoforte), and Mr. George Riseley (organ). The pieces contained in the programme were all more or less familiar, and they were, as a whole, well rendered.

Madame Alwina Valleria and her company came to Bristol on the 15th ult. to give a Concert, but the chief lady, who had been unable to take part in one of the Leeds Festival Meetings a few days previously owing to indisposition, did not appear. The excellence of the other performers to some extent made amends. Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Orlando Harley, and Mr. Foli contributed songs and concerted pieces. Mr. Tivadar Nachéz and Mr. Johannes Wolff, violinists, besides playing solos, united in the performance of Bach's double Concerto in D minor for two violins—a production regarded as the noblest of its class—which received an admirable interpretation. Mr. Luigi Arditi played pianoforte solos, and Mr. Raphael Roche acted as Conductor and accompanist.

On the 18th ult. a Concert was given at the Victoria Rooms by a company including Madame Louise Dotti, Madame Lablache, Mr. Reginald Groome, Mr. Barrington Foote, vocalists; Mrs. Alice Shaw, the whistling lady; Miss Isabelle Levallois, a clever young French violinist; and Mr. van Noorden, pianist.

The first of Mr. T. Carrington's Concerts took place on Saturday, the 19th ult., when Mr. Carrington was assisted by Mr. Ten-Brink, of Bath (second violin), Mr. F. Gardner (viola), Mr. A. Waite (violoncello), and Mr. Frederick Huxtable (pianoforte). The works performed were Camille Saint-Saëns's "Introduction Capriccioso" for violin, admirably played by Mr. Carrington; Mendelssohn's Quartet (Op. 44) for two violins, viola, and violoncello; the first movement of Rubinstein's Sonata (Op. 18) for pianoforte and violoncello; and a Quartet (Op. 2) for pianoforte, violin, viola, and violoncello, from the pen of C. E. Stephens. Miss Maggie Davies sang "Two brown eyes" and "I love thee," two songs of Grieg, and the Valse song from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet"; and Mr. Lawford Huxtable sang Verdi's "Infelice e tu crederai." Mr. H. Fulford was the accompanist.

On the 22nd ult. the first Popular Chamber Concert of the fifth season was given at the Victoria Rooms, by Miss Mary Lock and Messrs. A. Hudson, F. Gardner, and E. Pavey. The works performed were Mendelssohn's Quartet in F minor (Op. 2), for pianoforte, violin, viola, and violoncello; a couple of movements from Raff's Sonata in A (Op. 78), for violin and pianoforte; and an interesting Trio in D, for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, a new work written by Mr. J. W. Hudson, brother of the violinist who took part in the Concert. Miss Lock played Chopin's Andante Spianato Mazurka for pianoforte, and Mr. Pavey contributed an Adagio (Op. 50) of Popper and a Tarantella (Op. 8) of Fischer. Miss Ruth Elvidge sang three songs. Mr. Blanchard was the accompanist.

Señor Sarasate, fresh from his laurels at Leeds, visited Clifton on the 23rd ult., and was cordially received by a crowded audience. The Spanish virtuoso was joined by Madame Bertha Marx, a pianist of high repute.

Mr. George Riseley commenced his series of Organ Recitals at Colston Hall, on the 19th ult.

The annual gathering of the members of the South Midland section of the National Society of Professional Musicians was held in Bristol, on the 23rd ult. In the afternoon Mr. C. E. Stephens distributed the certificates to the successful students at the recent examinations. In the evening an illuminated address was presented to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Roeckel in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

MUSIC IN CHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Cestrians, or at least some of them, had a good time of it on the 19th ult., at Eaton Hall, when the Duchess of Teck was treated to some music by the Duke and Duchess of Westminster. The occasion was availed of by Dr. J. C. Bridge to introduce Saint-Saëns's "Henry VIII." Ballet Music, and a selection from Sullivan's "Kenilworth," together with other pieces worthy of the gathering. There was a good chorus and orchestra, the former being provided by the Chester Musical Society.

The recent Harvest Festival at the Cathedral partook of more than local interest, the offertories being devoted to the Ouseley Memorial Fund. In addition to "It came even to pass," by the late Oxford professor, Mendelssohn's "95th Psalm" was given by an augmented choir, organ, and brass instruments.

Chester was once a Welsh city, and the Cymric element still flourishes largely in the border shire of which it is the capital. It is now proposed to hold an Eisteddfod regularly at Christmas time, the first gathering being fixed for December 26. A number of prizes are offered, and several choirs are expected to enter the lists. On the occasion in question Mrs. Mary Davies has promised to appear among her compatriots, and she is sure, as usual, of a hearty greeting.

Query is rife as to whether there is to be another Musical Festival here. It is no secret that the path of the promoters of previous triennial meetings has not been strewn with roses, but it is to be hoped that liberal counsels will in the end prevail, and Chester allowed to retain its place among the musical cities of the realm. The next Festival is not due till 1891, and as the matter is exercising the minds of those interested we must await the result with patience.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

QUITE an outburst of energy has signalled the opening of the musical season. Concerts and rumours of Concerts have, unusually early, disturbed the death-like stillness in which our fair and cultured city spends the summer months. The announcements of our local choral societies also show healthy and varied activity. The Choral Union will sing the "Erl-King's Daughter," "The Cotter's Saturday Night," and Stanford's "Revenge," at one of Paterson's Orchestral Concerts in December, and probably "The Hymn of Praise" at one of the "Reid" Concerts.

Pre-eminent among choral Societies, however, is Mr. Kirkhope's Choir, which now has no more need than right to call itself a "private" choir. At the first Concert, in December, Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night" is to be sung. Rheinberger's Cantata, "Christophorus," is to form part of the same programme, and MacCunn's new work, "The Cameronian's Dream," is to be performed by the Society at Paterson's Orchestral Concert in January.

Mr. Waddell's Choir, under the able leadership of Mr. Millar Craig, is at present studying Astorga's "Stabat Mater," and Bach's Cantata, "God's Time is the Best." Stanford's "Voyage of Maeldune" is in rehearsal by Mr. J. A. Moonie's Choir. Mr. Millar Craig's Ladies' Choir has undertaken Rheinberger's "Jairus' Daughter" and a miscellaneous programme.

Two Concerts remain to be noticed. On the 14th ult. Señor Sarasate gave us an opportunity of hearing Mackenzie's "Pibroch." He also exhibited his wonderful technique in Raff's "La Fée d'Amour," and two of Dvorák's Slavish Dances. Madame Bertha Marx made a more than favourable impression on her first appearance here; but the singing of Miss Florence Christie detracted somewhat from the success of an otherwise enjoyable Concert.

Sir Charles and Lady Hallé paid their annual autumn visit on the 19th ult.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SOME months ago reference was made in our columns to the accrued surplus from the Exhibition held in Glasgow last year, and, as was mentioned at the time, a goodly plum it is too—£46,000, plus the accumulated interest. That music contributed very largely to the success of the Exhibition has never for a moment been challenged. It is, then, incomprehensible that the "Surplus" Committee still maintains that the money should be entirely devoted to the erection of a Museum and Picture Gallery. It may be doubted, moreover, whether Glasgow is really an art loving city; instance the scant attention accorded to the valuable pictures in the Corporation Galleries, and the debt hanging over the Fine Art Institute. This debt is not creditable to those amongst us who, having the means, and who at the same time pose as connoisseurs, refuse to wipe off the comparatively small balance. No apology for this apparent digression is needed in the columns of a journal devoted to musical interests, because in the light of what has just been said the votaries of the harmonic art are amply justified in demanding a share of the loaves and fishes. It behoves, moreover, the leaders in local musical matters to be up and doing before it is too late, and as the "Surplus" Committee includes representatives of the Festival Executive Committee—an adjunct of the Glasgow Choral Union—it is not too much to urge that they should look vigorously after a fair division of the money. A special committee, composed of influential musicians—professional and amateur—ought to be formed without delay to press the recognition of musical interests. Without delay we say, because some fine morning soon musical folks will awaken to find a march stolen, and the suggested local college of music—or whatever other shape an Exhibition memorial might assume—out in the cold, so far as aid from the surplus referred to is concerned. There is really now no time to be lost—hence our return to the subject.

The Glasgow musical season may be said to have opened on the evening of the 15th ult., when the Society just named inaugurated its sixteenth series of Concerts. A couple of months will elapse, however, before the Choral Union operations are in full swing, and it may therefore be needful to explain that the unusually early announcement of these Concerts was due to the American and other engagements of Mr. Sarasate, an enormous favourite here, and an artist whose services were found desirable whenever, in point of fact, they could be had. The judgment of the management in securing the Spanish violinist was amply rewarded, for St. Andrew's Hall was filled in every corner; even the seats in the orchestra were fully occupied. The outlook, moreover, for the coming season is very encouraging, inasmuch as the interesting prospectus issued by the Council of the Choral Union has attracted a large number of subscribers, the booking up to date being in excess of that registered at the corresponding period of last year. Since our forecast of the various engagements in last month's MUSICAL TIMES, dates have been fixed with Mr. Franz Rummel and Mr. Georg Henschel, and, possibly enough, the scheme may yet be further strengthened. The full orchestral programmes are not available while we write, but the following interesting novelties will in all probability be accorded a hearing: Overtures—Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's "Twelfth Night" and Mr. E. Prout's "Rokeby"; Symphony in C minor, by Mr. Frederic Cliffe; Symphony in A, by Mr. Frederick Lamond (first time of performance); Piano-forte Concertos—No. 2, in B flat, Brahms, and No. 2, in A, Liszt; Sir Arthur Sullivan's Incidental Music to "Macbeth," and Selections from Grieg's Suite, "Peer Gynt."

Space can only, we fear, permit a brief reference to the opening Concert. The programme included Beethoven's Sonata in C minor (Op. 30, No. 2), a couple of Slavonic Dances (Dvorák), Dr. Mackenzie's "Pibroch," and a set of Spanish Dances. The novelty of the evening was the second last-named great, and in several respects unique, composition, which first saw the light of day at the recent Leeds Festival, the contents of which are described elsewhere in our columns. No need for us, then, to say much more than that the Suite was played by Mr. Sarasate with fascinating power, and received with uncommon favour mingled with feelings of amazement at the difficulties so profusely laid out for the soloist. Viewed from the light of the intricate structure of the work, the description of a "Pibrochd" to be found in Logan's "The Scottish Gael" will, doubtless, afford Dr. Mackenzie some amusement. Logan says that "a Pibrochd will be understood by those to whom 'The Battle of Prague' and similar pieces of that class of music are familiar." And this is fame. Before parting with the Suite let us note the engaging and felicitous treatment of the old Scottish air "Three guid fellows," Dr. Mackenzie's expressive and finely coloured melody, also to be found in the second movement, and the theme of the "Dance" taken from the Skene MSS., known, if we mistake not, as "Leslie's Lilt." The whole of the thematic material has, indeed, as might have been expected, a delightful whiff of "caller" Caledonian air. The work was heard with only its pianoforte accompaniment, and herein Miss Bertha Marx proved herself a worthy coadjutor of Mr. Sarasate, such an excellent pianist, in fact, that all-round regret was expressed that indisposition prevented her performance of the solos set down for her in the programme. The vocalist of the evening was Miss Ella Russell, whose distinct operatic style very speedily won the favour of her audience. After the Concert Mr. Sarasate was entertained at supper by the Society of Musicians, the Spanish Consul responding to the toast of the health of the guest of the evening.

Last month we had the annual visit of Sir John Stainer, Dr. W. A. Barrett, and Mr. W. G. McNaught in connection with the Government Examination of the Local Training Colleges—Normal Schools, as they are best known hereabouts. While in Glasgow both Dr. Barrett and Mr. McNaught found time to deliver lectures, and on subjects eminently congenial to both musicians. Mr. McNaught's theme, for example, was "A short account of some early uses of Sol-fa Syllables," a text which the lecturer treated with his well-known facility, and to the marked gratification of his audience, the members of the West of Scotland Branch of the Tonic Sol-fa College. Dr. Barrett lectured both at the Glasgow Art Club and before the Society of Musicians.

The attractions submitted at the City Hall, Glasgow, on the Saturday and on the Monday evenings during last month have drawn large audiences, notably the Glasgow Select Choir, a compact phalanx of voices which has long since won its spurs for refined part-singing. Miss Fanny Moody, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Iver McKay, and other established favourites, have been heard at the Monday "Pops," and "Nikita" was announced to return on the 28th ult., so great was the success of her former appearance. For the 24th ult. an evening Concert was announced in St. Andrew's Hall, supported by Mesdames Mary Davies, Antoinette Sterling, and Nettie Carpenter, Mr. Fred. King, and others. For Madame Adelina Patti's Concert, on the 31st ult., tickets have been in extraordinary demand, notwithstanding the high prices.

The programme drawn up by Sir Charles Hallé for his Concert at the Queen's Rooms, on the 17th ult., was chiefly remarkable for the works introduced to a Glasgow audience for the first time. These included the latest Sonatas of Brahms (his third) and Grieg for violin and pianoforte, compositions which were listened to with rapt attention. It would be rash, however, to say that the audience followed the solid, intellectual qualities of the great Teutonic master's work with full understanding. That could not be looked for on a first hearing, though there can be no doubt that the beautiful slow movement soon captivated Sir Charles and Lady Hallé's audience. In Grieg's Sonata (C minor, Op. 45), the Scandinavian colouring is, of course, very marked, and the light structure of the work was easily enough followed. Both Sonatas were interpreted, needless to say, with all the art and skill at the command of two of the foremost artists of the age. The reception accorded to each artist was cordial in the extreme, the recalls were numerous, and a well-filled house again showed the popularity of Sir Charles and his gifted wife.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by MARY RUSSELL MITFORD.

Composed by BATTISON HAYNES.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Allegro.

SOPRANO.
The sun is ca-reer-ing in glo-ry and might, Mid the deep blue sky and the

ALTO.
The sun is ca-reer-ing in glo-ry and might, Mid the deep blue sky and the

TENOR.
The sun is ca-reer-ing in glo-ry and might, Mid the deep blue sky and the

BASS.
The sun is ca-reer-ing in glo-ry and might, Mid the deep blue sky and the

PIANO.
(ad lib.) f Allegro.

cloud-lets white; The bright wave is toss-ing its foam on high, . . And the sum-mer cloud-lets white; The bright wave is toss-ing its foam on high, And the sum-mer breezes go

cloud-lets white; The bright wave is toss-ing its foam on high, And the sum-mer breezes go

cloud-lets white; The bright wave is toss-ing its foam on high, And the sum-mer

breez - es go light - ly by, go light - ly, .. light - ly by; The air and the water dance, light - ly by, the sum - mer breez - es go light - ly by; The air and the water dance,
 light - ly by, the sum - mer breez - es go light - ly by; The air and the water dance, breez - es go light - ly, go light - ly by; The air and wa - ter

glit - ter, and play— And why should not I be as mer - ry as they? The air and the wa - ter dance, glit - ter, and play— And why should not I be as mer - ry as they? The air and the wa - ter dance, glit - ter, and play— And why should not I be as mer - ry as they? The air . . and the dance and play— the air and wa - ter dance and play, The air and the glit - ter, and play— And why should not I be as mer - ry as they? And glit - ter, and play— And why . . . should not I be as mer - ry as they? As wa - ter play— And why should not I . . be as mer - ry as they? As wa - ter play— And why should not I be as mer - ry as they? And why should not I . . be as mer-ry as they? The lin-net is singing the wild wood through, The mer - ry, as mer-ry as they? The lin-net is singing the wild wood through, The mer - ry, as mer-ry as they? The lin-net is singing the wild wood through, The why should not I be as mer-ry as they? The lin-net is singing the wild wood through, The fawn's bounding footstep skims o - ver the dew; The butter - fly flits round the flow'r ing tree, . .

 fawn's bounding footstep skims o - ver the dew; The but-ter-fly flits round the flow'r-ing tree, And the fawn's bounding footstep skims o - ver the dew; The but-ter-fly flits round the flow'r-ing tree, And the fawn's bounding footstep skims o - ver the dew; The but-ter-fly flits round the flow'r-ing tree, And the
 . . And the cow-slip and blue-bell, the cow-slip and blue-bell are bent, are bent by the bee. All cow-slip and blue-bell are bent by the bee, . . the cow-slip and blue-bell are bent by the bee. All cow-slip and blue-bell are bent by the bee, . . the cow-slip and blue-bell are bent by the bee. All cow-slip and blue-bell are bent, . . . are bent by the bee. All

Musical score for "The Sun is Careering in Glory and Might." The score is written for voice and piano. It features a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and a common time signature (C). The music is divided into three systems, each with a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The lyrics are written below the vocal line. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings (e.g., f, pp). The lyrics describe a scene of nature, mentioning a lin-net, a fawn, a butterfly, and a cow-slip.

crea- tures that dwell in the for- est are gay— And why should not I . . be as mer- ry as they? All crea- tures that dwell in the for- est are gay— And why should not I be as mer- ry as they? All crea- tures that dwell in the for- est are gay— And why should not I . . be as mer- ry as they? All crea- tures in the for- est are gay, all crea- tures in the for- est are gay, all crea- tures that dwell in the for- est are gay— And why should not I be as crea- tures that dwell in the for- est are gay— And why . . should not I be as crea- tures are gay, are gay— And why should not I . . be as crea- tures are gay, are gay— And why should not I be as mer- ry as they, and why should not I . . be as mer- ry as they?
 mer- ry as they, as mer- ry, as . . mer- ry as they?
 mer- ry as they, as mer- ry, as . . mer- ry as they?
 mer- ry as they, and why should not I . . be as mer- ry as they?
 mer- ry as they, and why should not I . . be as mer- ry as they?

più f più f più f
f
cres.
ff
p p p p più vivo.
f ff ff
ff
f
ff

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 675, price 1d.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE inaugural Concert of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, given on the 8th ult., found the chorus in much better condition than was the case last year, though the performance of the pieces allotted to its members could not be by any means considered perfect. Earnest was however given, in the greater breadth of tone and general power and balance, of better things yet to come, of which further note will be made in the proper place. Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite was the leading orchestral work, and to those who knew Ibsen's drama it was specially interesting. In any case the analysis specially written for the occasion must have helped the audience considerably in following out some of the uncanny music of the Norwegian writer. The first section, illustrating the break of day; the second, a lament for the death of Ase, the mother of the hero; the third, with its fanciful dance rhythm; and the last, with its suggestive reference to the mad hero, all received a performance which was of the best possible order at the hands of the orchestra. Señor Sarasate gave a reading of the Beethoven Violin Concerto, which, while some took exception to it, others, who were well capable of judging, regarded as being perfectly legitimate in its airiness and lightness of treatment. Madame Nordica sang, and once more justified the prophecies made in her regard, when she first appeared here with Gilmour's American band a dozen years or so ago, under the name of Miss Lilian Norton.

At the second Concert, given on the 24th ult., the chief place was taken by Hamish MacCunn's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," and the Glasgow Cantata at once pleased its Liverpool audience. The Philharmonic Hall was packed in every part, even to the standing room in the galleries, where rows of patient listeners stood two or three deep; and rarely before has so much enthusiasm been evoked under similar circumstances. Our Philharmonic subscribers are cold and unimpressible as a rule; but on the Tuesday evening in question they actually cheered, and subjected the wondrous acoustic properties of the fine hall to unprecedented and unexpected tests. The performance of the orchestra was not of the best, and the young composer, who conducted, did not seem to have Sir Charles Hallé's men within his grip. He had, however, made fast friends with the choristers, and they sang so well that, coming even after the enormous breadth and vigour of the Leeds chorus heard only a week or so ago, they were as good as could very well be got together. Of the Scotch quartet, engaged as principals, the ladies took the palm, both Miss Macintyre and Madame McKenzie singing particularly well.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Musical Club, held on the 19th ult., a discussion arose upon the feasibility of adding instruction in instrumental music to the regular curriculum of Board School education, with a view to the eventual establishment of local orchestras. Mr. W. D. Hall was in the chair, and after the debate some good part-singing was accorded by Mr. J. F. Swift and several of his friends.

The certificates awarded at this year's local examinations of the R.A.M., at St. George's Hall, were distributed on the 26th ult., when there was an enormous gathering of the public and the profession, the Mayor as usual presiding. Mr. Argent, who has held office from the first as local representative, in retiring from this position so far as concerns the work of examination, gave a succinct account of what the future course of action would be, and introduced his honorary successor to those present. The appointment of Mr. A. E. Rodewald thus pleasantly brought about will greatly strengthen the position of the new dual control in Liverpool. At the close of the proceedings proper, the retiring representative was presented with a handsome illuminated address. The latter, which expressed the regard of the subscribers for Mr. Argent, bore the signatures of over fifty members of the musical profession.

There was a very large attendance at the same place a week previously when the annual distribution of Trinity College awards took place. The Deputy-Mayor presided, and Messrs. Turpin and Willing delivered addresses. The arrangements for this meeting were carried out as well as usual by Mr. J. J. Monk, who has been the local secretary of the institution named since its examination scheme was floated.

Mr. Lee Williams's "Last Night at Bethany" received very excellent treatment at the Church of St. Francis Xavier, on the 20th ult., under the direction of Mr. John Ross. A chorus and orchestra of about seventy were retained for this production, and the new Church-Cantata found itself especially well placed beneath the roof of one of the finest ecclesiastical buildings of this city.

The Sunday Society Orchestra played Barnett's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," composed for the Liverpool Festival of 1874, at the first afternoon meeting of the present session, and gave evidence of the possession of much good material. The vocalists were Miss Bouffleur and Mr. E. Grime, two excellent local artists. These Concerts are to succeed one another fortnightly through the winter. The Sunday Society is now entering upon its fourth year, having been inaugurated by the late Sir George Macfarren on October 24, 1886.

A new Orchestral and Choral Society has been established at Wallasey under Mr. Ross. The first meetings took place on the 14th and 17th ult., and the attendance augured well of what may be in the future. The chorus numbers fifty or sixty, and the amateur players about thirty. It has been decided to adopt MacCunn's "Bonnie Kilmeny" as the work to be first put in rehearsal.

Mr. Swift's Musical Association has taken up its residence, as was the case last year, at the Deaf and Dumb Institution; the work selected for rehearsal is "Elijah." The Liverpool Cambrian Choral Society, under Mr. Arvon Parry, is performing the "Creation" and "Hymn of Praise." The Birkenhead Cambrians are reviving "Samson," with Mr. D. O. Parry as their chief. The Neston Society has Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" in hand, Mr. H. Bulley being the conductor. Mr. J. W. Appleyard's St. Cecilia Society, at Birkenhead, has taken up Gade's "Crusaders" and Mendelssohn's Ninety-fifth Psalm. The Freshfield Congregational Choral Society, with Mr. McCulloch as director, is at work on "Elijah," "Acis," and "The Messiah." The Ormskirk Musical Society, of which Mr. S. Bradley is the chief, is rehearsing Haydn's "Autumn," and will be probably strengthened by the late members of the disbanded Aughton Choral Society.

Julia Wolff's "Carina" has been pleasing the lovers of melody at the Shakespeare Theatre. The pretty ballads of the opera recall to a considerable extent the Balfe-Wallace epoch. The Lingard-Van Biene organisation has also given us something new in the form of "The Brigands" at the Prince of Wales's Theatre.

There was a pleasant Smoking Concert on the 25th ult., given by the People's Orchestra, under Mr. Rodewald, with excerpts from Beethoven's Second Symphony. At the Catholic School for the Blind "Athalie" was given on the 21st, under Mr. J. T. Brown. Mr. T. Shaw, a good local violinist, gave a Concert on the 24th ult., and the Societa Armonica invited their friends to an open Rehearsal on the 19th ult. At the latter a Spohr Symphony was undertaken, with Mr. C. Cafferata at the Conductor's desk. Altogether the past month has been fairly busy.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE far too short visit of the Carl Rosa Company was so successful, and the increasing interest taken in opera has been so consistently shown, that it may be hoped that each succeeding year will bring to us longer opportunities of showing our appreciation of the admirable manner in which the performances are conducted and of the careful attention bestowed upon all details. Unfortunately some re-arrangement of the original prospectus was rendered necessary by the indisposition of Miss Fabris; and in place of "Lohengrin" we had "The Bohemian Girl," a change the more tantalising because Balfe's tuneful opera thus appeared as the sole representative of the modern English lyric drama, a position to which, with all its popularity, it certainly is not entitled. To many of the younger people "Lucia di Lammermoor" came as an absolute novelty, while to others it brought reminiscences of an almost forgotten time and of a school of writing that never could be re-invested with much of its old charm. But it afforded an opportunity of seeing and hearing Madame Burns and Mr. Barton McGuckin at their best. The alterations in the casting of "Faust" and "Carmen" excited curiosity; but while in the latter Miss de Lussan pictured in glowing tints the character of the heroine, and Madame Burns sang Margherita's songs with all her accustomed vigour and brightness of intonation, further changes will have to be made before our full estimate of the requirements of the parts may be satisfied.

Mr. de Jong, on the 12th ult., commenced his season with great promise of a brilliant campaign, having a largely increased list of subscribers, and an audience so fresh and clamorous as to be very easily stimulated into an enthusiasm altogether out of proportion to the merits of some of the performances. Always liberal in providing a sufficient staff of vocalists, Mr. de Jong supplied on his opening night such an array of performers as to render it difficult for each one to make the regulation number of appearances. To the vocal efforts of Mrs. Mary Davies, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Messrs. Henry Guy, Edwin Houghton, and Frederic King, were added the brilliant pianoforte playing of Miss Janotha (who pleased far more in the lighter pieces of her second selection than in a somewhat mechanical and shimmerless rendering of Beethoven's so-called "Moonlight" Sonata) and the violin playing of Miss Nettie Carpenter. But if Mr. van Biene's skill on the violoncello brought (like the strains of Donizetti's aforesaid opera) thoughts of an age when youthful astonishment was very readily excited and the higher claims and powers of music yet unimagined, the cornet playing of Madame Berger took us back to remembrance of yet earlier pleasures, the fascination of which has long vanished and left us without one regret for its disappearance.

For his second Concert, Mr. de Jong promises talent of higher grade; and it is pleasant to learn that his courage in engaging Madame Patti and her party is being duly recognised, and that a densely crowded house may be expected.

Very little information has been given as to the musical intentions of the "Gentlemen" this winter; but the Converrazione held on the 7th ult. formed a kind of prelude to a scheme not yet fully unfolded. Thereat Miss Enid Jones showed, in some pianoforte solos, considerable executive talent and—what was far better—a quick sympathy with the composers whose ideas she undertook to unfold; and Miss Frederika B. Taylor displayed a clear, pure-toned mezzo-soprano voice, pleasing—as she did also at Mr. E. Sachs's Concert on the 17th ult.—more in her quieter than in her more ambitious attempts.

Sir Charles Hallé's eight Afternoon Recitals will form the most useful, and possibly the most attractive portion of the winter doings at the Concert Hall; and it is well that a separate subscription for those pleasant gatherings has been opened. It is also well that their educational value should be enhanced this season by the historic character which Sir Charles proposes to give them. At the first Recital the selection extended from William Byrde (whose oft-named but little known works form the very earliest classics of the Virginals) to Rameau, with specimens from the writings of intermediate English, French, and Italian authors. The whole selection was so interesting that I give it entire:—

English composers—"Selling's Round" and "The Carman's Whistle," William Byrde (1546-1623); "The King's Hunting Jig," Pavane, "St. Thomas's Wake," and Courante, "Jewel," Dr. John Bull (1563-1628); Allemande, in A, Dr. John Blow (1648-1708); Suite, in D (Prelude, Allemande, and Courante), Ground, in E minor, and Suite, in C (Prelude, Allemande, and Gavotte—Gebell), Henry Purcell (1658-95); Sonata, in G (Preludio quasi-improvisazione, Allegro, Minuet with Variations), and Sonata, in B flat (Poco Largo and Gavotte), Thomas Augustine Arne (1710-78).

Italian and French composers—Andantino and Allegro, in G, Abbate Michael Angelo Rossi (1620-60); Sarabande and Gigue, in G minor, Domenico Zipoli (1685- ?); Four Pieces de Clavecin, Domenico Scarlatti (1683-1757); Fuga, in E minor, Padre Giov. Battista Martini (1706-84);

Allegro vivace, in D, P. Domenico Paradies (172-35); Minuetto and Gigue, in G minor, Jean Baptiste Lully (1660-1728); "La Bandoline" and "Les Agréments," François Couperin (1668-1733); Musette and Tambourin, in E, and Gavotte with Variations, in A minor, J. Ph. Rameau (1683-1764).

And if the pieces could have been given as Mr. Hipkins gave many of them at the last London conference of the N. S. P. M.—on the veritable instruments for which they were designed—the value of the Recital would have been vastly increased. The memory of that quiet afternoon's calm enjoyment, when the quaint old strains sounded as they must have responded to the touch of fingers long crumbled to dust, will linger as a most treasured recollection in the minds of many among that unique company of educated musicians, gathered in the quaint old hall of the Worshipful Company of Painters, and surrounded by the kindred specimens of old-world pictorial art which covered the wainscoted walls. In our Concert Hall, on the 21st ult., the surroundings were less congruous, but a feeling of pride could not be restrained that the vast modern expansion of clavichord music rests upon an English basis as its earliest quotable foundation; and that for the loss of the distinctly characteristic style in those early works (a national style which so many earnest students are now striving to resuscitate) we are indebted, not to the dying out of the poetic fire of our forefathers, but to the love of foreign music which has so often engrossed the affection of our rulers, and which so entirely swayed the restored court of Charles the Second, "to the great discouragement of Purcell and his contemporary native musicians."

The mention of Mr. Sachs's drawing-room gathering calls attention to what is still our great want in Manchester. Repeated and earnest efforts have been made to create here a genuine love of chamber music; but the coldness of the public has chilled all such aspirations. A better state of things is most heartily to be desired; and the manner in which Mr. Risegari led the concerted music on the 17th ult.—the great purity of his tone, the chasteness of his style, and the clearness of his phrasing—point him out as in every way qualified to undertake the conduct of such efforts as ought to meet with warm encouragement, and to occupy a most important place in our scheme of artistic education.

The Vocal Society commenced its twenty-third season on the 22nd ult., under favourable auspices, essaying, as is its custom, a somewhat large work for its central effort. But Mozart's "Davidde Penitente" is a very unequal Cantata, containing—especially in its final chorus—some admirable and most effective fugal writing, which strangely contrasts with the weak bravura passages of which chiefly the solos are constructed. Miss Herod displayed a clear soprano voice, very considerable executive skill, and a courage truly to be applauded; and the choir deserved commendation for the manner in which it unfolded the many contrapuntal devices which form, indeed, the chief attractions of the Cantata. Dr. H. Watson conducted, as usual.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE proximity of Leeds, with its all-absorbing Festival, paralysed musical enterprise on any extensive scale here during the first part of last month; but that important event now over, notes of preparation are resounding on all sides, and this month bids fair to be an exceedingly busy one. The November campaign will open with the visit of Madame Adelina Patti and concert party on the 6th inst. Nearly all the tickets have already been sold, and the success of the Concert is assured. The state of the Albert Hall is at present occasioning several public and many private comments. Though acoustically one of the best concert halls in the provinces, it is at the same time one of the dingiest, and the directors are unwise in letting it remain in its present condition.

On the 1st ult. Madame Marie Roze and party gave a Concert in the Albert Hall. The prima donna was supported by Miss Carlotta Desvignes, Mr. Durward Lely, Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. Simonetti (violin), and Mr. Bisaccia (pianoforte).

Mr. Sims Reeves visited Doncaster on the 16th ult., after an absence of thirty-eight years. The Corn Exchange was crowded, and the veteran tenor delighted the audience with several of the old favourite songs. Miss Helen d'Alton, Miss Bertha Moore, and Mr. Charles Manners were the other vocalists, with Mr. E. Haddock (violin), and Mr. A. Fogge (pianoforte).

The success of Mr. Henry Coward, who last month took the Degree of Mus. Bac., Oxon., has elicited many congratulations and general satisfaction from his townsmen. Mr. Coward, who has edited the New Primitive Methodist Tune-Book, is the composer of "Magna Charta," a cantata which has won more than a local success, and many excellent part-songs. His examination cantata, entitled "Bethany," is announced for performance by the Tonic Sol-fa Choir.

MUSIC IN SOUTH WALES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Carl Rosa Opera Company, which has given a week's performances at Cardiff, has also given Concerts at Swansea, Cardiff, and Newport. The first part of the programme comprised a full selection from different operas, which appears to be more fully appreciated than the Royalty Ballads, with which we are at times dosed by those whose talents and reputation would lead us to expect better things.

The celebrated Cyfarthfa Band, in compliance with a generally expressed desire on the part of the inhabitants of the town and district, has started a series of Sunday Evening Concerts of sacred music at the Drill Hall, Merthyr, during the winter, and the first was announced for Sunday, the 20th ult. The programme for that evening included "The March," from Costa's "Eli"; Handel's "Hallelujah" Chorus, the Gloria from Mozart's "Twelfth Mass," a selection from Cowen's "Rose Maiden," &c. The charges for admission are moderate, and it is hoped and expected that the audiences will be overflowing, and they will no doubt enjoy the performances of this well-known and excellent band. We should like to see an extension of Sunday evening Concerts throughout all our great centres of population. Pious people may perhaps shake their heads, but the sight of our crowded streets on Sunday nights would, we trust, be some justification for the course. Piety—or what you will—runs very strong in Wales in musical matters. It was not very long since that in one of our leading towns, not a thousand miles from Swansea, a well-known choral society was in the habit of having a practice on Sunday nights, but they never admitted their orchestral members, because it was Sunday, on which day they fancied instrumental music would be a desecration! We trust things are mending a little in that direction now.

At Pontardawe, on the 17th ult., a fine new organ and peal of tubular bells were dedicated in All Saints' Church. A musical Recital was given in the church at 3 p.m., when Gaul's "Holy City" was rendered by the choir, assisted by Mrs. Glanfrwd Thomas, Miss Ida Brown, and Mr. Hopkin Morgan as soloists, and the service concluded with Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," Mrs. Glanfrwd Thomas taking the solos. Mr. Arthur Gilbertson presided at the organ. The whole service was repeated in the evening to a crowded congregation.

The return of the dark days before winter is marked as usual by a renewal of life and vigour in the various musical societies that have been otherwise enjoying themselves during the summer. A hopeful sign of the times is the increasing desire for the cultivation of instrumental and orchestral music. The Cardiff Orchestral Society has issued its prospectus for the forthcoming season. Three Concerts are announced for November 13 and February 5 and April 9 of next year for which several well-known vocalists are engaged, with Madame Nordica at the head of the list, but only one instrumentalist, Miss Anna Lang, solo violinist, by whom a Violin Concerto is promised at the February Concert. There is, however, an excellent list of instrumental works put down for the orchestra, albeit we may fear lest the "Flying Dutchman" Overture and the "Eroica" may be rather trying for an amateur band. However, the Society is very much in earnest, and with such a sterling musician at its head as Dr. Joseph Parry they will doubtless be able to give very good performances. The band comprises over eighty performers, of whom rather more than one-half are violinists. Possibly if the worthy conductor could induce some of the latter to take up viola, violoncello, or contra bass it would in the end enhance their enjoyment and surely tend to a better balance of the orchestral quartet.

At Swansea the new Musical Society which we mentioned two months ago has commenced operations, the vocal portion under Mr. W. F. Hulley and the orchestra conducted by Mr. J. Squire. The latter contains some promising young performers, who will without doubt soon make themselves good and efficient orchestral players. We therefore hope at no very distant period to get regular performances of the important works of the great masters of orchestral writings, who are up to now only a name to dwellers in South Wales.

Mr. W. F. Hulley's comic opera, "The Rustic," was performed on Thursday, the 26th ult., at St. John's, Greenhill, Swansea. This interesting work loses none of its popularity; nay, rather the reverse. On September 24 it was given at the St. David's Bijou Theatre, Swansea, and on the 26th—too late for notice in last month's notes—the whole company, by invitation of Madame Patti, journeyed to Craig-y-Nos Castle and performed it before the diva and a few friends. The performance, which took place in the Conservatory, where a capital temporary stage and scenery were erected, went off with great éclat; the composer, author, principals, orchestra, and chorus, with their young fresh voices, coming in for their full share of cordial approval and compliments from the musical and critical audience. We hear that Madame Patti has taken steps to mark her approval of the work and its performance in a substantial form, of which we may have something to say later on.

MUSIC IN THE WEST OF ENGLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE annual Festival of Parish Choirs was held at Tewkesbury Abbey on September 28, and was attended by gratifying success. The choir consisted of 500 voices. Mr. C. Lee Williams, of Gloucester Cathedral, was the Conductor, and the Organists were Mr. D. Hemingway (Abbey Organist) and Mr. H. Rogers (Organist of Christ Church, Cheltenham), the two instruments which the Abbey possesses being used. Mr. Hemingway gave an Organ Recital in the evening, when vocal pieces were sung by Mrs. Hemingway, and Messrs. Albery, Starkey, Lomas, and Nash, of Bristol Cathedral.

On September 28 the annual Soirée and distribution of prizes and certificates gained by members of the Cheltenham Festival Society took place in Handel Hall. The Mayor presided, and was supported by the Conductor, officers, and committee of the Society. Madame Antoinette Sterling and her company visited Cheltenham Assembly Rooms on the 15th ult. and gave a Concert. The Cheltenham Instrumental Society, of which Mr. J. E. Teague is the Conductor, held its first meeting on the 30th ult.

The members of the press of Gloucester, a fairly numerous body considering the size of the city, are about to form a society among themselves for the singing of part-songs, glees, &c.

The Bath Orchestral Society, which was formerly in a rather languishing state, has just made a fresh start under the direction of Mr. H. T. Sims. The Society is an amateur body, but includes professional musicians. Mr. Ten-Brink, for some time first violin in the City Band, has been engaged as leader.

There is a scheme on foot for giving a series of Monday Popular Concerts in Brock Street Hall, Bath, similar to those which took place in Colston Hall, Bristol.

A new Musical Association has been formed in Bath, and entitled the Bath Orpheus Society. The first general meeting was held at the end of September, when a code of rules was adopted. The first meeting for practice took place on the 7th ult. A large number of members has been enrolled, and the Society has started with every prospect of success. The formation of the Association is no doubt owing to the visits to Bath of the Bristol Orpheus Glee Society and the Bristol Gleemen, who have given Concerts in that city during recent years.

An excellent prospectus has been issued by the committee of the Bath Philharmonic Society, the members of which are actively engaged in rehearsal. The first Concert of the season took place on the 25th ult., when the vocalists were Miss Marie Titiens, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Newbury, and Mr. Thorndike. Miss Kate Chaplin contributed violin solos.

The Cirencester Choral Society commenced work for the season on the 15th ult. Sullivan's "The Prodigal Son" and Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" have been chosen for study.

On the 16th ult. the annual Choral Festival in connection with the Dursley district of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Choral Union took place in Dursley Parish Church. The choirs taking part numbered upwards of 300 voices. Mr. James Capener, of Gloucester Cathedral, was the Organist.

A special Choral Service was held in Exeter Cathedral, and a Concert at the Victoria Hall in that city, on the 8th ult., in aid of the Choir Benevolent Fund. At the morning service in the Cathedral about sixty professional singers took part, embracing members of the choirs of Her Majesty's Chapels Royal, St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, St. George's Royal Chapel at Windsor, Eton College, and the Cathedrals of Bristol, Exeter, Gloucester, Norwich, Salisbury, Truro, Wells, and Worcester. Mr. Wood, of Exeter Cathedral, presided at the organ, and acted as Conductor of those portions of the musical service rendered without accompaniment. The Anthem after the Collect was Stainer's "I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne." Before the sermon a second Anthem was sung—viz., "I will lay me down in peace," composed for the Choir Benevolent Fund by Henry Gadsby. After the sermon Sir John Goss's Anthem "Praise the Lord" was rendered.

The Exeter Post Office Band gave its second annual Concert at the Victoria Hall, on the 16th ult.

A new Choral Society has been formed at Stow-on-the-Wold. The meeting to establish it was largely attended. Mr. Schreiber was elected Conductor, and Mr. and Miss Gillman the accompanists.

A new Choral Society was formed on the 9th ult. at Torquay, Mr. Michael Rice being chosen Conductor, and Mr. T. H. Eden, Hon. Secretary.

A Festival in aid of the Choir Benevolent Fund was held at St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, on the 9th ult. It was similar to that which took place at Exeter Cathedral on the previous day, a larger number of choristers, however, taking part. The church was crowded. A Concert was given in the evening in the Guildhall, which was filled with an appreciative audience. Miss Marian McKenzie and Miss Ada Patterson, Mr. A. Kenningham (St. Paul's), Mr. Gawthrop (Chapels Royal), and Mr. Robert de Lacy (St. Paul's) were the principal singers. The part-songs, madrigals, glees, &c., were particularly well sung. Mr. Sinclair, Organist of Truro Cathedral, played a Festival March for pianoforte of his own composition. Mr. J. A. Birch (Chapels Royal) conducted, and Messrs. J. Hele, S. Weekes, and H. Moreton acted as accompanists.

Mr. Paris Singer has presented to the Parish Church at Paington a new organ which cost £2,000. The instrument was opened on the 15th ult.

Mr. G. R. Sinclair has given a series of Organ Recitals at Truro Cathedral, vocal selections being contributed by members of the Cathedral Choir and others. After one Recital a collection was made for the Ouseley Memorial Fund for the endowment of St. Michael's College, Tenbury. Mr. Sinclair also gave a Recital in Stratton Church during the services held there to commemorate the re-opening of the building.

The Rev. S. Baring Gould, has repeated his illustrated Lectures on West Country Ballads in many places in Devonshire and Cornwall during the past month.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, October 16.

THE musical season in America cannot be said to have fairly begun yet, but there have already been some interesting entertainments, and before the next issue of THE MUSICAL TIMES the season will, as an American humorist once remarked, have "set in with its usual severity."

The thirty-second annual Music Festival at Worcester, Mass., began on September 24 and continued till September 27. The afternoon of the 24th was chiefly occupied with a public rehearsal of some of the works subsequently performed, and with an Organ Recital by Frank Taft, of New York.

In the evening Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was sung. The soloists were Madame Katherine van Arnhem, Miss Lillian Carll Smith, Messrs. George J. Parker, William Ludwig C. J. Rice, and C. J. Marshall. The massed forces were the chorus of the Worcester County Musical Association, numbering 500 voices, and an orchestra of sixty, nearly all members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The Conductor was Mr. Carl Zerrahn, director of the Festival. The Oratorio was given in a slipshod manner, the chorus being particularly lax in the matter of attack.

The following afternoon was devoted to a miscellaneous Concert.

In the evening Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Golden Legend" was produced, with Madame Corinne Moore-Lawson, Mr. Whitney Mockridge, Madame Clara Poole, and Mr. D. Merrill Hopkinson as soloists. The work was unquestionably the feature of the whole Festival, and made a profound impression. The New York Times, in a letter from its musical critic, said: "It contains a wealth of pure, flowing, elevated melody, rich and ever-changing harmony, lovely writing for the voice parts, and superb orchestration." After praising the work in detail, the writer expressed a strong hope that it would soon be produced in New York.

The whole of Thursday, the 26th, was taken up with miscellaneous music. In the afternoon the orchestra, conducted by the composer, played G. W. Chadwick's "Rip van Winkle" Overture. The strings were heard in an Andante, by Tchaikowsky, and Beethoven's Fourth Symphony was given in a lifeless manner. Miss Lillian Carll Smith sang "O Fatima," from Weber's "Abu Hassan," and O'Leary's "He roamed the forest." The chorus of women sang the Spinning Song, from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman."

In the evening Mr. Whitney Mockridge sang an aria from Goring Thomas's "Esmeralda"; Mr. Ludwig sang "For this my son," from Sullivan's "Prodigal Son"; Mdle. de Vere gave the Shadow Song, from "Dinorah"; Madame Poole, Margaret's air from Lalo's "Le Roi d'Ys"; and Mr. Herbert gave some violoncello solos by Bach, Massenet, and Davidoff. The orchestra played Berlioz's "Benvenuto Cellini" Overture, and the Introduction to the third act of "Lohengrin." The Concert concluded with Hiller's "Song of Victory," Mdle. de Vere singing the solo part.

The programme on Friday afternoon was the best of the miscellaneous Concerts. It consisted of Schumann's Symphony in B flat, the air "Revenge, Timotheus cries," from Handel's "Alexander's Feast," sung by Dr. Hopkinson; Beethoven's E flat Pianoforte Concerto, with Miss Adele aus der Ohe as the soloist; the aria "Mia cara," from Handel's "Rodelina," sung by Madame Moore-Lawson; and Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries." The Festival concluded in the evening with Haydn's "Creation." The soloists were Madame van Arnhem, Messrs. Frederick Harvey and D. M. Babcock.

On the evenings of October 7 and 8, the Arion Choral Society—or more correctly the Männergesangverein Arion—gave two Concerts of great merit under the title of "Song Festival." On the first evening six scenes from Max Bruch's "Frithjof Saga" were given by the entire chorus, orchestra, Herr Fischer, and Miss Juch; Herr Rafael Joseffy played the Romance and Rondo of Chopin's E minor Concerto, and Miss Juch sang Agatha's grand aria from "Der Freischütz." The orchestra played the "Tannhäuser" Overture as a suggestive opening to the knightly contest in song, and three minor numbers—John Lund's "Legend," Arthur Claassen's "Sans Souci" Minuet, and a "Festival Procession," with choral Finale, on "Ecce quam bonum," by Frank van der Stücken, Conductor of the Arion. The Concert closed with some old Netherlandish songs, arranged for male chorus and orchestra, by Edward Kremser.

The second Concert resembled a contest, though no prizes were offered.

On Friday afternoon, the 11th ult., Herr Arthur Nikisch, the new Conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the finest orchestra in the United States, made his first appearance and achieved a signal success. The importance of the Boston orchestra may be inferred from the fact that many musicians coming here from the European continent think that there are only two orchestras in Europe which equal it—the Berlin Philharmonic and the Leipzig Gewandhaus—while none surpass it. Mr. Nikisch comes from Leipzig. His programme consisted of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" Vorspiel, Beethoven's "Coriolanus" Overture, the second Entr'acte from Schubert's "Rosamunde," and Schumann's D minor Symphony. The Conductor demonstrated that in addition to a marked individuality of style, a freedom from slavish adherence to tradition, and a firm command over his forces, he possessed a keen power of analysis, a subtle insight into the poetic spirit of the composition in hand, and a rare and generous warmth of temperament.

The German opera season at the Metropolitan Opera House will open on November 27 with Goldmark's "Queen of Sheba."

The Oratorio Society of New York will give, during the coming season, Liszt's "Christus," Handel's "Messiah," and Edward Grell's "Missa Solemnis," a work which made a deep impression last season.

Theodore Thomas is now travelling on a testimonial tour with a good orchestra and Herr Rafael Joseffy as soloist. His season began in Brooklyn last Wednesday night before a large audience.

The Palestrina Choir, which began successfully last season, is to give another series of Concerts this year. Its chief object is to perform a capella works by the old masters.

THE inaugural address delivered at Trinity College, London, by the Warden (Rev. Dr. Bonavia Hunt), on Thursday, September 26, was chiefly on the subject of Church music. The lecturer referred to the progress in Church compositions, anthems, service music, hymn tunes, Church cantatas, and organ music, and spoke of the large addition of music to our services, not only in the Established Church but in dissenting places of worship. The lecturer was supported by the Rev. R. Gwynne, Mr. G. A. Osborne, Professor Bradbury Turner, Professor Gordon Saunders, Mr. Walter Bolton, Mr. F. G. Ogbourne, and others. The following scholars, exhibitors, and prize-winners were afterwards presented with their various honours. Albert William Ketelby, Queen Victoria Scholar; Gertrude E. Corbin, Benedict Exhibitioner; Maud Williams, Reeves Exhibitioner; Florence M. Brotherhood, Violin Exhibitioner; Frederick Charles Ford, Violoncello Exhibitioner. The higher examination candidates for the special certificates of Trinity College, in harmony, counterpoint, and other theory subjects, will be interested to know that in future they will have the opportunity of sitting for examination at various places throughout the country, as well as in London, arrangements having been made for holding the examinations at a number of the more important local centres. The intermediate division of local examinations will come into operation for the first time at the forthcoming half-yearly examination in December. Dr. J. F. Bridge presided and gave away the certificates and prizes at the annual public distribution in connection with the metropolitan centre for the local examinations of Trinity College, London, which took place on the 28th ult.

A FESTIVAL Service in aid of the Choir Benevolent Fund was held in Harrow Parish Church, by permission of the Vicar, the Rev. F. Hayward Joyce, on the evening of the 24th ult. The music was rendered by a choir of between fifty and sixty voices, selected from the choirs of the Chapels Royal, St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, St. George's Chapel, Windsor; Eton College, and the Cathedrals of Rochester and Chichester. The boys were thirty in number—twenty from Westminster and ten from St. Dionis Church, Fulham. The whole force was under the direction of Dr. Bridge, who, with Mr. Haydn Parry, the Organist of the Church, shared in the work of accompanying. Croft's "Cry aloud and shout," Orlando Gibbons's service (unaccompanied), Stainer's "I saw the Lord," Bridge's "It is a good thing to give thanks," and Goss's "Praise the Lord" were sung. The prayers were intoned by the Rev. T. M. Everett, Vicar of Ruislip. Canon Duckworth preached an eloquent sermon, in which special mention was made of the Fund's present need of honorary annual subscribers.

On the 19th ult. the Harvest Festival was celebrated in West Hackney Parish Church. A shortened form of Evensong was used, and in place of the Anthem, selections from Haydn's "Creation" were given. There was a full orchestra of thirty performers, under the leadership of Mr. H. Baynton, and the ordinary choir of the church was augmented to more than 150 voices by members of neighbouring choirs. Mr. Wilfrid Davies presided at the organ, and the whole was under the able direction of Mr. F. L. Kett, the Choirmaster of the Church. The soloists were Miss Julia Jones and Messrs. Mullerhausen and W. H. Webb. The hymns during the service were of the usual harvest character, and included one by the Conductor to "Holy is the seed-time," the last verse of which had a special part for bass trombone. The Voluntaries, performed by orchestra and organ, were Andante ("Italian" Symphony) and Meyerbeer's "Coronation" March.

THE Harvest Festival at St. Saviour's, South Hampstead, commenced on Saturday evening, the 19th ult., and was continued on the Sunday following. The service on Saturday evening was fully choral, with Stainer's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, and the Anthem, "O Lord how manifold" (Barnby). On Sunday morning, in addition to full choral service, there was the Te Deum (Dykes, in F), and the Anthem, "O sing unto the Lord" (Sydenham). The afternoon service consisted of the Litany (choral), the Anthem, "Great is the Lord" (Sydenham), and at the conclusion Dykes's Te Deum. The special music at the evening service was the Organist's (A. J. Greenish) Magnificat and Nunc dimittis; Smart's Anthem, "The Lord hath done great things"; Garrett's Anthem, "The Lord is loving unto every man," sung during the offertory; and, as a thanksgiving, Dykes's Te Deum was repeated.

At the second examination (Oxford October term) for the Degree of Bachelor in Music, the following satisfied the Examiners:—Anger, J. H., New College, and Surrey County School, Cranleigh; Coward, H., Queen's College, and Western Bank, Sheffield; Gale, C. R. (B.A.), Exeter College; Peacock, M. H. (M.A.), Exeter College, and Wakefield; Webber, A., New College; Whinfield, W. G. (B.A.), Magdalen, and Severn Grange, Worcester; Williams, C. F. A., Christ Church, and 11, Cathcart Road, London, S.W. The examiners were Sir J. Stainer, M.A., D.Mus., Magdalen College, Professor of Music; C. Hubert H. Parry, M.A., D.Mus., Exeter College, Chorus; J. Varley Roberts, D.Mus., Magdalen College. In a congregation holden on Thursday, the 24th ult., the Rev. Dr. Bellamy, Vice-Chancellor, presiding, Messrs. Coward, Gale, Webber, and Williams were admitted to the degree of Mus. Bac.

MR. GEORGE ROBERTSON SINCLAIR, Organist of Truro Cathedral, has been appointed Organist of Hereford Cathedral in the room of Dr. Langdon Colborne, deceased. Mr. Sinclair is the youngest Cathedral organist in England. He was educated at St. Michael's College, Tenbury, and was Organist at the Church of St. Mary-le-Crypt, Gloucester, which appointment he left to become the first Organist of the new Cathedral at Truro. He is a most accomplished performer, but beyond a few compositions for the organ and some lesser pieces he has not shown his theoretical powers. The Dean and Chapter have selected him out of, it is said, some fifty able musicians, all of whom have given proof of their capacity as conductors and directors. Mr. Sinclair will doubtless fulfil his duties in the Cathedral satisfactorily. How he will stand the trial as Conductor of the triennial Festivals remains to be seen.

THE People's Concert Society announces a series of Concerts for Saturdays and Sundays during the winter season. In conformity with the object of its foundation—"increasing the popularity of good music"—well-known vocalists and instrumentalists have been secured for the interpretation of selections from the great composers, while ballads and national songs will find a place in the various programmes. The first of the Sunday Concerts was given on the evening of the 6th ult., at the Westminster Town Hall, and they will be continued every Sunday until December 15. Entertainments of a similar character will be provided in St. Andrew's Hall, Newman Street, from November 3 to December 15. The Saturday evening Concerts commenced on the 5th ult., in the Poplar Town Hall, and are to be continued until December 21.

HARVEST Festival Services were held, on the 9th ult., at the Church of St. Andrew, Stockwell Green. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were by Martin, in G; the Anthem, Stainer's "Ye shall dwell in the land"; and before the Blessing, "The Heavens are telling" was sung. The solos in the Anthem were taken by Mr. J. W. Brooks (one of the choir of St. Andrew's) and Master B. Strachan (of the Temple Church). The hymns and concerted music were accompanied by the stringed band of the Ibis Orchestral Society, which also played the closing voluntaries. The musical arrangements were under the direction of the Organist and Choirmaster of the church, Mr. Herbert A. Keene, who presided at the organ.

At the Bow and Bromley Institute, an Organ Recital was given, interspersed with vocal music, on Saturday, the 5th ult., by Mr. W. G. Wood, assisted by Mr. Orlando Harley (vocalist), Miss Ada Tunks (violin), and Mr. Fountain Meen (accompanist). The programme included the organ solos—Allegro moderato, from Sonata in D minor (C. H. Lloyd), Andante in A flat (C. Hancock), Minuet and Trio (J. Baptiste Calkin), Concert-Overture in C, first time (W. G. Wood), Toccata and Fugue in C (Bach), Duet (organ and violin), Andante and Rondo (G. A. Macfarren), Postlude in C (Smart). A violin solo, Ballad and Polonaise (Vieuxtemps), was played by Miss Tunks.

THE MESSRS. Hann announce the commencement of their Chamber Concerts, on the 6th inst., at eight o'clock, at the Brixton Hall. Three Concerts will be given during the season—namely, on the 6th and 27th inst., and December 18, at which the Quartet in B flat, by Beethoven; a new MS. Quartet in C, by Gerard F. Cobb; and the Quintet in F minor, by Brahms, will be given. The gifted family will be assisted on each occasion by a vocalist, and the programme will be varied by solos for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello.

MR. GLADSTONE'S attention having been called to a reprint of an article on "Anglo-Canadian Copyright," which appeared in the September number of THE MUSICAL TIMES, the right hon. gentleman has replied as follows: "I feel an earnest interest in your letter and tract; but I regret to say that at this juncture it is wholly beyond my powers to give them the attention they deserve." Single copies of the reprint above referred to may be obtained, free of charge, on applying at the office of THE MUSICAL TIMES, 1, Berners Street, W.

THE next Festival of the Nonconformist Choir Union is to be held at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, on Tuesday Evening, December 3. A cordial welcome will be given to any choir wishing to join the Union and take part in the Festival. There are no fees of any kind. The Hon. Sec. is Mr. T. R. Croger, 114, Wood Street, E.C. Two Festivals have already been held: one at the City Temple, when 1,200 singers took part; the other at the Crystal Palace, with a choir of nearly 3,000 voices.

THE Harvest Festival at St. Alphege, London Wall, took place on the 20th ult. The offertories were in aid of the St. Alphege Society (founded 1738). The services morning and evening were choral, and included settings of the Canticles, hymns, and so forth, by Stainer, Tours, Sullivan, Bridge, Cobb, Monk, Tallis, Goss, Garrett, and Russell. At the conclusion of the evening service a short selection of music was performed by the Organist, Mr. A. C. Tattersall.

At St. Augustine's, Bermondsey, the Harvest Thanksgiving was celebrated on Thursday, the 3rd ult., and on the following Sunday. The choir sang Eaton Faning's Service, Goss's "Wilderness," and Beethoven's Hallelujah ("Mount of Olives"). The Organist was Mr. R. Greir, who gave as his voluntaries Smart's Postlude in D; Festal March, by J. B. Calkin; Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests," and Tours's Fantasia in C.

A SELECTION from Handel's "Messiah" was given in the Barbican Congregational Church, New North Road, on September 30, by the augmented Choir of the church, under the conductorship of the Organist, Mr. George H. Male. The choir numbered about eighty. The solos were sung by Miss Nellie Jones, Miss Alice Hersey, Mr. H. D. Field, and Mr. Frank Pridmore. Mr. Arthur Briscoe presided at the organ.

THE Old Acquaintance Musical Society gave the first of its annual series of Smoking Concerts at the Freemasons' Tavern, on the 1st ult., when an excellent programme was provided, the principal performers were Mr. Albert James, Mr. Arthur Thompson, Mr. Edwin Houghton, Mr. F. Bevan, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint. Mr. Alsepti gave some concertina solos. Mr. W. W. Hedgcock was the accompanist and Mr. James Kift the director.

AN evening Concert was given at the New Cross Public Hall, on Wednesday, the 2nd ult. The vocalists were Miss Annie Cook, Madame Adeline Vaudry, Miss Emily Himing, Mr. Herbert Sims Reeves, Mr. Arthur Strong, Mr. Frank Swinford, Mr. Fred. Cozens. The pianists were Madame de Szaramouriez and Mr. Herbert Strong; the violinist, Mr. Albert Piegaldi. There were also recitations by Mr. Ernest R. Abbott.

HARVEST Festival Services were held at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, on the 10th and 13th ult. The music included a Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G, by J. R. Griffiths; an Anthem, "The Lord hath done great things," by Henry Smart; "Hallelujah" Chorus ("Mount of Olives"), Beethoven; and Stainer's Sevenfold Amen, the whole of which were excellently rendered by the church choir. Mr. J. R. Griffiths presided at the organ.

A HARVEST Festival was celebrated in the Chapel of the Brompton Hospital for Consumption, according to annual custom, on St. Luke's Day, when the Anthem, "Blessed be the name of the Lord" (Henry Gadsby), in addition to the usual choral service, was effectively sung by the church choir, under the direction of Mr. T. Gilbert Webb.

At Christ Church, Newgate Street, now united with St. Leonard, Foster Lane, an Organ Recital was given by Mr. George Cooper, on the 24th ult. His programme was selected from the works of E. Bache, Smart, Bach, Mendelssohn, Onslow, Thorne, Haydn, and Guilmant. The vocalists whose efforts varied the programme were Mrs. C. Ashlin, Miss Mary Anderson, and Mr. H. Williams.

HARVEST Thanksgiving Services were held at St. Luke's, Kilburn, on the 6th ult. The music included Stainer's Evening service in E, the same composer's "Ye shall dwell in the land," and Macfarren's "God said, behold I have given you." A number of ladies of the congregation assisted the choir. The music was under the direction of Mr. F. H. Stokes, who presided at the organ.

ON Sunday evening, the 6th ult., at St. Augustine's, Highbury, after the Harvest Festival Services, the Organist, Mr. G. C. Richardson, gave a short Recital on the new organ by Willis, the programme including First Sonata, Mendelssohn; Fantasia, "The Storm," Lemmens; "Lift thine eyes" ("Elijah"), Mendelssohn; and Marche Cortège, Gounod.

THE first of the series of monthly free Oratorio performances at St. John's, Waterloo Road, S.E., took place on Sunday afternoon, the 20th ult., when Sir Arthur Sullivan's Oratorio "The Prodigal Son" was given under the conductorship of Mr. W. John Reynolds. Mr. Henry J. B. Dart was at the organ.

THE Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of "Elijah" in the Congregational Church, Canning Town, on the 23rd ult. The soloists were Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Ellen Cooper, Mr. Micklewood, and Mr. Albert Orme. Mr. E. H. Turpin accompanied on the organ.

THE Rev. H. H. Woodward, Minor Canon of Worcester and Warden of the Choir School, will succeed to the Precentorship of Worcester Cathedral in January next, on the resignation of the Rev. E. V. Hall, who has accepted the living of Bromsgrove.

MENDELSSOHN'S "Lauda Sion" was sung at the Harvest Thanksgiving Service at St. Michael's, Paddington, on the 16th ult., under the direction of Mr. Edmund Rogers, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church.

REVIEWS.

Harmony: its Theory and Practice. By Ebenezer Prout, B.A., London. [Augener and Co.]

THE high position which the author of this new book on harmony holds as a teacher is sufficient to ensure attention to all that he has to say on the subject in which he is so great an expert. He states in his preface that his "volume is the outcome of many years' experience in teaching the theory of music," and he hopes "that it contains sufficient novelty both in plan and in matter to plead a justification for its appearance." As far as the exercises and their accompanying explanation are concerned, his hope is realised and his book is welcome. These exercises—some 300 in number—have been chiefly drawn from the works of well-known masters, and form the chief interest of the book by showing practically the manner in which they have dealt with the progressions of chords. He goes no farther back than the beginning of the eighteenth century for his examples, as he is of opinion that "modern harmony may be said to begin with Bach and Handel." Students may find in the works of Palestrina, of the English madrigalian writers, of Henry Purcell, Arcangelo Corelli, and Alessandro Scarlatti many of the germs of harmony as modern as most of those to be traced in the compositions of those musicians whom Mr. Prout places at his boundaries. None will complain, however, at the omission of the names or of the quotation of the works of either the English or the Italian musicians when Handel is liberally referred to. None of them, nor perhaps any of those whose works form the examples in the book, knew much of any system of theory, and it is to a certain extent satisfactory to find that Mr. Prout has adopted the dictum of Helmholtz, that "the system of scales, modes, and harmonic tissues does not rest solely upon unalterable natural laws, but is at least partly also the result of æsthetic principles which have already changed, and will still further change with the progressive development of humanity." This is an admission which will be endorsed by all thinking musicians, who will also commend Mr. Prout when he frankly says that while he follows "Day and Ouseley in taking the harmonic series as the basis of his calculations, he claims the right to make his own selection, on æsthetic grounds, from these harmonics, and to use only such of them as appear needful to explain the practice of the great masters." This may be necessary to satisfy the enquiring minds of young students, but is it not superfluous labour to endeavour to account for motives which perhaps had no existence? Mr. Prout explains how far he has supported his claim to make his own selection when he says "Day's derivation of the chords in a key from the tonic, dominant, and supertonic is adhered to; but in other respects his system is extensively modified, its purely physical basis being entirely abandoned." Further he states, "In the vexed question of the tonic minor chord, Helmholtz is followed to a considerable extent; but Ouseley's explanation of the harmonic origin of the minor third is adopted."

Mr. Prout places a limit upon his history, and many of those who read his preface will fix the boundary of his scientific knowledge. His description of sound in the opening chapter scarcely coincides with the received descriptions. His adoption of the "Day theory" so far as it suits his convenience, amounts to a confession of weakness not only of the theory, but also of his own principles. All theories that look askance at the minor third as derived from a generator are inconsistent with everyday practice. Our modern writers work upon the theory, if such it be, of the tempered scale. The mathematicians only recognise just intonation, or the untempered scale. Mr. Prout gives a half-hearted admission to certain scientific reasons, but finding them untenable casts aside those which are not convenient for his purpose. The chords of the eleventh and thirteenth, as employed in the present day, are undoubtedly derived from the tempered scale, and not from the harmonics of an open string or pipe, modified to suit the needs of those who wish to pose as scientists, but who find practice is inconsistent with such accommodating theories. Mr. Prout does not vacate the position formed by the mathematicians who dictate reasons to musicians, but like a wise and experienced man who knows the insecurity of that position, he is content with shifting his balance when it is possible that greater security would be obtained by abandoning it altogether. The theorists have not yet found a wholly satisfactory scientific reason for the existence of the minor mode. Some who would have a mathematical basis for all the materials of harmony would deprecate the use of that mode as contrary to, or unaccountable by, natural laws. Most of the melodies of the popular folk-songs throughout the world are, in what may be called, for lack of a more accurate term, the minor scale. These songs are supposed to be the outcome of natural expression. Are they therefore wrong because they are unscientific?

The question whether all chords have roots has also exercised the minds of many able musicians. Mr. Prout gives explanations of chords in ordinary use, but he proposes a somewhat new idea, entirely fresh to "Day" theorists, when he calls the lowest notes of a chord its "root," while that note which most teachers have been accustomed to distinguish as the root he designates the "generator." This is to a certain extent logical as a rule, except in cases where the "root" does not bear a perfect fifth. It will be strange at first to those accustomed to other definitions, but, as he says, "this distinction will become more clear as we proceed."

Speaking of the "Tierce de Picardie," he assumes that the omission of the minor third and the presence of the bare fifth with which some pieces of old music and of modern music in imitation of the antique are ended, was due to the aversion to its employment by the old composers. "The minor third was not part of the compound tone of the tonic, and produced beats with the major third." This would seem to imply that the composers of old were acquainted with, and wrote their music according to the laws of acoustics. It was more likely to be due to some tradition concerning perfect and imperfect concords. But then Mr. Prout does not pose as a musical historian. The difference of method in tuning keyed instruments, and the limited number of keys employed in composition before the time of Bach and Handel, ought to be taken into consideration in the endeavour to account for methods of practice among musicians of time past.

Fortunately Mr. Prout seeks to teach modern ideas in a practical, reasonable way, and his work therefore will receive attention from thinking musicians on his own ground. It would have been well, however, had he thought proper to set out the whole design after the pattern which characterises the majority of his precepts and examples, and to bind himself by no other theory than that which is found in practical experience.

Novello's Parish Choir Book. Nos. 45—50.

- 45. Te Deum. G. H. Westbury.
- 46. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. E. C. Nunn.
- 47. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. E. Newton.
- 48. Benedictus. T. Hutchinson.
- 49. Te Deum. 50. Fubilate. J. W. Elliott.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

In the present numbers of this publication a new departure has been taken. Hitherto the "Parish Choir Book" has consisted entirely of settings of the Te Deum; but the other Canticles have now commenced to receive the notice which is their due. Attention may be called briefly to the contents of the numbers at present to hand. In No. 45 we have yet another setting of the Te Deum, the composer being Mr. George H. Westbury. It is simple, but dignified, flowing, and melodious. In writing "Sabaoth" and "took'st" the composer follows precedents which would be more honoured in the breach than the observance.

A skilful choirmaster, however, would have no difficulty in setting these matters right. The next instalment is a setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, by E. Cuthbert Nunn. It is, generally speaking, somewhat light in character, and the composer indulges freely in chromatic progressions, though he never forgets that he is writing for parish choirs. Those who desire an easy and yet thoroughly modern service should try that of Mr. Cuthbert Nunn. No. 47, another setting of the Evening Canticles, by Edward Newton, is more solid, and some would say more churchlike; but it is not wanting in brightness and is generally calculated to please. A setting of the Benedictus, by Thomas Hutchinson, forms the contents of No. 48. Its characteristics are similar to those of Mr. Newton's service. In No. 49 we revert to the Te Deum, the composer being Mr. J. W. Elliott. Choirmasters in whose eyes musical effectiveness is the first consideration will welcome it for its brightness and vigour, coupled with simplicity. No. 50 is a Jubilate by the same composer, written in the same key—D major—and equally cheerful and unassuming.

O Mistress Mine. Four-part Song. Words by Shakespeare.

There is a Garden. Four-part Song. Words by Richard Alison (1606).

It was a Lass. Four-part Song. Words by Mary E. Wilkins. Composed by Hamish MacCunn.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE composer of these pieces (forming three numbers of "Novello's Part-song Book") has rapidly, but firmly, won his way as a writer of high-class works; and we need scarcely say, therefore, that he may rely upon a cordial reception for any lighter compositions thrown off in his holiday moments. The specimens before us convincingly prove that Mr. MacCunn is resolved that the many who place their faith in him as a careful and conscientious artist shall have no cause to modify their estimate of his powers; for, although merely smoothly written and melodious part-songs, they are all thoughtful, and in thorough sympathy with the words. Shakespeare's well-known verses commencing "O mistress mine," especially, are most faithfully reflected in the music, and the song will doubtless become a favourite. "There is a garden" has a graceful melody, with some effective imitative points which will require delicate singing; and "It was a lass," to some quaint poetry in the Century, is sufficiently antiquated in feeling to satisfy the requirements of the text, the phrase "Ah, well a-day," particularly, being extremely happy. The pianoforte accompaniment throughout the songs is intended for practice only.

FOREIGN NOTES.

At the Paris Grand Opera the house has been, of course, crowded nightly for months past, owing to the Exhibition, although the performances have been limited to some eight works—viz., "Faust," "Roméo et Juliette," "L'Africaine," "La Juive," "Aida," "Les Huguenots," "Le Prophète," and "Guillaume Tell." The directors of this national institution have, however, at last decided upon an important revival, and "Lucia di Lammermoor" will shortly be added to the present répertoire. Surely a generous concession to the subscribers of the representative lyrical stage of France!

M. Colonne's Concerts at Paris recommenced on the 20th ult. with Berlioz's "La Damnation de Faust," the principal artists engaged in the performance having been Madame Krauss, MM. Vargnet and Lauwers. The orchestra of this institution is said to be finer than in any previous season. On the same day M. Lamoureux resumed his famous Concerts at the Cirque d'Été, when a brilliant interpretation was given of Schumann's Rhenish-Symphony; among the solo performers were Mdlle. Clotilde Kleeberg, MM. Faure and Talazac.

According to the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik, Henry Litolf, the eminent French composer, is busily engaged upon the score of an operatic work, "Roi Lear," drame lyrique en quatre actes, d'après Shakespeare, and there is every appearance of the veteran musician being able, ere long, to complete this important work.

It is stated that M. Richepin's drama "Le Filibustier" has been set to music by M. César Cui, the well-known Russian composer, and that there is every probability of the work being accepted for performance at the Paris Opéra Comique.

We read in Le Guide Musical that M. Gounod intends, in December next, to conduct a series of Concerts of his own compositions both at St. Petersburg and Moscow.

At a Concert given last month by Miss Fanny Davies at Berlin, a new Sonata by Johannes Brahms, for pianoforte and violin, was played by the gifted English pianist in conjunction with Dr. Joachim.

Berlioz's opera, "Benvenuto Cellini," already produced on several other German stages, has just been brought out at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, where the elaborate work, however, met with but a qualified appreciation.

A new opera, "Der Vasall von Szigeth," by A. Smareglia, was produced for the first time on the 4th ult. at the Vienna Hof-Theater, and was very well received. The composer, who is totally blind, and besides, very deaf, met with quite an ovation at the conclusion of the performance.

Herr Wallnöfer, the first tenor at the German theatre of Prague, is the composer of an opera entitled "Eddystone," which has just been produced with some success at the theatre in question. The work is said to display much talent, and is constructed throughout upon Wagnerian lines.

After a somewhat prolonged interval of retirement from public life, Madame Marie Krebs, the well-known sympathetic pianist, is announced to re-appear at one of the Gewandhaus Concerts at Leipzig this month. The gifted lady is also likely to revisit this country during the approaching season.

A new opera, "Der Meisterdieb," the music by E. Lindner, has just met with a very favourable reception at the Dresden Hof-Theater, a portion of the success being, it is said, owing to the brilliant co-operation of Madame Schuch-Proska.

The Cologne Conservatorium, under the able direction of Dr. F. Wüllner, publishes a very satisfactory report of its progress, the number of pupils during the previous academic year having been 314.

A circle of Munich ladies have conceived the idea of raising a fund amongst German ladies generally for the purpose of erecting a monument to Richard Wagner in the Bavarian capital.

The Leipsiger Tageblatt gives an enthusiastic account of an Organ Recital recently given by Mr. Clarence Eddy the eminent Chicago organist, at St. Thomas's Church, Leipzig. After dwelling upon the "phenomenal" technique displayed by the player, and the extraordinary ease with which he managed his pedals, the journal concludes "The dexterity manifested by the artist in the use of the registers, without in the least degree interfering with his playing, was something quite new to us. Altogether, Mr. Eddy's performance has greatly increased our respect for our foreign competitors in the art of organ playing."

Herr Richard Strauss, one of the most gifted of the younger generation of German composers has completed a new symphonic work, entitled "Don Juan," to which Lenau's poem on a kindred subject ("Faust") has furnished the "programme."

Carl Goldmark's new Concert-Overture, entitled "Prometheus," is to be first produced in public at one of the earliest Berlin Philharmonic Concerts, under the direction of Dr. Hans von Bülow.

A very successful performance of Liszt's Oratorio "St. Elizabeth" is reported to have taken place on the 12th ult. at Dessau, under the direction of Capellmeister Klughardt.

Herr Peter Schramm, one of the most valued singers at the Royal Theatre of Copenhagen, has just appeared for the 16th time at that institution in the rôle of Leporello in Mozart's "Don Giovanni," the artist's age being already past the proverbial three-score and ten. The Copenhagen public rendered the occasion a special one by treating the veteran singer to a perfect ovation.

Messrs. Servais and Bärfwolf, the new managers of the Théâtre de la Monnaie, of Brussels, have decided to produce during the present season Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" and "Siegfried," for the first time in the French language. The same master's "Die Walküre" and "Die Feistersinger," in M. Wilder's version, have, it will be remembered, already been brought out here in previous seasons.

Victor Nessler has just finished a new operatic work entitled "Die Rose von Strassburg."

Mlle. Teresina Tua, the violinist, is about to be married to Count Ippolito Valetta, of Turin, a well-known Italian amateur, and writer on musical subjects.

An opera, "Beatrice di Svevia," by the Maestro Benvenuti, will be one of the novelties to be brought out at the Venice Theatre, of Venice, during the present season.

A performance is reported from Brisbane (Australia) of Meyerbeer's "Le Prophète," sung in Volapük, the new universal language." The performance is said to have greatly pleased, and to have been repeated several times.

Richard Wagner's important paper "Ueber das Dirigen" appears for the first time in a French translation in the pages of the thirteenth volume (just published) of the Annuaire du Conservatoire royal de musique de Bruxelles. The translator is M. Emile Guillaume.

A new music journal, La Palestra, has been established in Venice, under the editorship of Signor C. Roman.

We have received the first number of the Neue Wiener Musik-Zeitung, a journal issued three times each month, at Vienna. Our new contemporary appears to be supported by able writers, and is edited by Herr Carl Mayer.

Bernhard Sulze, for many years principal Organist at the Stadt-Kirche of Weimar, and an excellent teacher, died at Weimar on the 5th ult., aged sixty-one.

The death is also announced at Dresden, of Emil Georg Noll, the esteemed Organist at the Hof-Kirche of the Saxony capital, aged seventy-one.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE R.A.M. AND LOCAL REPRESENTATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Of course it is annoying in the extreme to some people who have, owing to causes not altogether discernible, been lifted into a position for which they were eminently unsuited, to find themselves at one fell swoop removed from their pedestal. And it is perhaps only human nature that those immediately concerned should object to the proceedings of the Committee of the Royal Academy of Music. But after reviewing the thing in cold blood and with no prejudice, and having turned it over in the light brought to bear by a thorough knowledge of the machinery at work, the conclusion is driven home with all possible force that the move recently made is a wise one and for the good of the majority. Without for a moment desiring to reflect on any particular member of the profession who has lately held the office of local representative to the Royal Academy, it may be asserted, without fear of serious contradiction, that the action of some of these individuals has been open to question. That which should have been regarded as a sort of sacred trust has been employed in more than a single case as a lever to obtain personal advantage; and the fact that a man was commissioned to do clerical work and arrange business details has been in not a few instances construed into meaning that he had special facilities and command in the preparation of candidates for the local examinations. Those who consented to represent the Royal Academy in the various provincial centres ought to have remained satisfied with whatever emolument fell to their share, and it must be admitted that this has not always been so. On the contrary, some of those concerned have gone so far as to advertise their official position as a means of obtaining pupils, and have actually had the audacity to state in print that they were prepared to pre-empt candidates, other than their own pupils, who were anxious of passing the tests of the institution they represented. Then again, having obtained access to the addresses of certain individuals through official business, personal particulars and so forth have been launched forth wholesale and those brought together for a totally different purpose. Further, stationery, &c., bearing the national insignia and headed with the magic legend "Royal Academy of Music," has been used for the purposes of private professional correspondence, and in fact it has been made to appear in many cases that the people appointed to do work which should have been purely of a routine nature have given out to the world actively, verbally, and by the aid of pen and print that they were holding an artistic or educational position, to which their relations with the parent institution gave them really no claim whatever.

No wonder then that other professors and teachers objected, and used strong language, when they found an official, from whom they had a right to expect assistance, actually poaching upon their preserves; and no wonder that the National Society of Professional Musicians should have taken up the matter on behalf of the profession at large. It is not the place here to enter into the discussion of the details of the examination scheme propounded and carried out by this or any other irresponsible body, and the certificates which they grant may pass muster for whatever they are worth. But that ample cause for action had arisen was fully apparent. The late Sir George Macfarren was truly a man without guile, and he would fain have tried to believe the world at large, or at least the members of the profession at the head of which he stood, equally honest and straightforward. And although matters were brought under his notice years ago which needed instant reform, he went on hoping for the best. He did not perceive that the trade in home-made nostrums, insisted upon in the Royal Academy Syllabus, was carrying its influence into the provinces, and if special profit was to be made at the head centre out of the local examinations, why should not those in the outlying districts go and do likewise. True it is that the local representatives have in many cases succeeded in working up the number of candidates enormously, and to a certain number of them much credit is due; but the increase alluded to has not seldom been achieved at the cost of others, and the action of some, as a means to an end, cannot be commended upon any grounds.

It is a pity that the few just men should have to fall with the doomed city, but there seems to have been no road open but to effect a wholesale clearance of the professional representatives; and owing to the action of at least a large section of the genus the absolute extinction thereof has come about. Meanwhile a meeting of the recalcitrant ones has been held, and a manifesto has been sent to headquarters, to which has been accorded, as might have been expected, a courteous and dignified answer, which closed the correspondence at once and for ever so far as concerned the chairman, principal, and committee of the Royal Academy of Music. The next step took the form of a proposal to establish a series of examinations, conducted by the ousted local representatives themselves, or by some musician obtained from London. The first arrangement could surely not be consistently or seriously considered for a moment, as these persons had, as a part of their plan of campaign so long as they were associated with the Royal Academy, systematically cried down irresponsible examinations; and in regard to the alternative scheme, surely no musician of any reputation, or in any way connected with the Tenterden Street institution, would so far lose self-respect as to ally himself with such a movement. As a result of the commotion it is probable that the foundations of the Royal Academy will remain quite firm. Not a few of the best men till lately in control over the business of the examinations in the provinces have admitted the justice of the action of the Academy authorities. Others, finding that objection is futile, would do wisely to hold aloof from associating with their more demonstrative brethren. This at least is the opinion of one who has watched the course of events pretty closely, and who years ago foretold the reaping of the whirlwind while the wind was yet being sown. The scheme now in course of promulgation by the dual control seems to be sufficiently compendious for a start, and after all that has occurred not the least sagacious act on the part of the joint committee is the appointment of non-professional men as honorary local representatives, and the regular payment for all needful literary work. Under the earlier régime no one could actually know more than another what was required as to the standard to be reached by candidates, and the Syllabus containing all information for the year was, of course, or should have been, common property. The idea however got abroad that certain people had more power than others, and this was at least not contradicted as it ought to have been in many cases. In the appointment of gentlemen who have no ulterior gain to acquire professionally, financially, or socially, there will be avoided, not only the evil itself, but the semblance thereof; and one late representative at least will rejoice to be emancipated from a position around which, owing to the action of others, an odour of suspicion could hardly fail to linger.

I am, yours truly,

ONE OF THE LOCAL REPRESENTATIVES.

October 2, 1889.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—May I crave a small space in your next issue for a few words on the above question, which just now is exercising the minds, and perhaps tempers, of not a few who have hitherto enjoyed the privilege of being associated with the R.A.M. as local representatives. There is undoubtedly a very general feeling of, shall I say, wounded pride at the sudden overthrow of a large body of men who have worked zealously for the local examinations, more for the honour of representing such an old-established and excellent institution and for the general advancement of music, than for the small honorarium which, looked upon as a reward for the work and trouble expended, was really not worth material consideration. I must confess that upon receiving the first circular issued by the R.A.M. Board, one felt a little sore at what seemed to be an ungracious policy, ungracefully propounded; but upon further reflection one cannot but admit that the new arrangement is a wise one. It must be better for both teachers and candidates to have local representatives entirely independent of either; and that, together with the appointment of two examiners, will give the public generally an assurance that by no possible means can there be a vestige of favouritism. Further, it will remove all jealousy on the part of other teachers living in the same locality.

There can be no doubt that the local examinations have done much good. They have encouraged both teachers and candidates to aim at a more critical and careful rendering of the works submitted for examination, and have thereby raised the standard of music in those places where the examinations have been established. There is, however, a possibility that the associated boards of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. may not easily find men of independent position, not connected with the musical profession, who will be willing to undertake the work of local representatives in small places, and that in consequence those centres will be disestablished. The result of this will probably be that these small centres, which have received so much benefit hitherto, will be handed over to the smaller class of examination boards, which are frequently (as an article in the October MUSICAL TIMES puts it) mere money-making societies. People will, perforce, have their children prepared for examinations of some sort, and are not over-particular as to the standard required, provided the parchment is obtainable. I venture to express a hope, therefore, that the small centres may not be overlooked in the new scheme. It will, I am persuaded, be a mistake not to encourage these places to continue to send candidates for examination. The Syllabus of the new board has not yet, I believe, been issued; but I trust that the standard of the junior candidates' examination will not be raised. The present system of general education in schools demands so much from girls of ten to sixteen years of age, that there is little time for music practice, unless recreation is to be almost entirely abandoned. Trusting that these remarks, from one who has always striven to do his duty to the R.A.M., to other teachers in his immediate vicinity, and to the candidates brought under his notice in connection with the R.A.M. local examinations, will not be considered irrelevant, and thanking you, if you are good enough to accept them for publication in your columns.—I am, yours truly,

C. W. ROBINSON.

October 15, 1889.

THEMATIC COINCIDENCES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

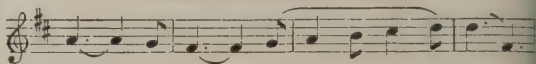

SIR,—I am not sure that the following thematic coincidences have been pointed out before, though, en passant, every fairly-read amateur must have observed them:—

I.

Schubert. Fantasia (four hands) in F minor.

Berlioz. Introduction to "Faust."

II.

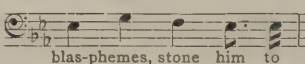

Schubert. Fantasia (four hands) in F minor.

Mendelssohn. "St. Paul"—"Stone him to death."

He blasphemes God, he blas-phemes Go,d, he blas-phemes, stone him to

If your columns were open to similar examples, no generally known, the results might be very interesting.

Faithfully yours,

JOSEPH BENNETT.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In the article on "Hoods and Falsehoods" in your last issue, reference is made to "the Company entitled Trinity College, Limited." It is obvious that Trinity College, London, is the institution here alluded to, but permit me to say that only the Corporation or Council of Trinity College is incorporated as a Limited Company, and that solely for the mutual protection of its members in dealing with the finances of the College. The College Organists, also mentioned in the article, avails itself of the same form of incorporation, yet the writer does not speak of the "College of Organists, Limited," which he might, with equal reason, have done. Trinity College, London, and the College of Organists could just as well carry on the operations without any such incorporation if they chose. Both these institutions have earned the highest respect of the musical and general public by their earnest work in the cause of musical education, but their success has unfortunately led to a mushroom growth of feeble imitations within the last two or three years.

On the hood question, in the absence of any Statute Law relating thereto, the writer quotes the Canon Law, which is hardly applicable, considering that Trinity College, London, and the College of Organists include Nonconformists among their diplômés, to whom the Canon Law is a matter of no concern. Even the Canon Law, however, recognises non-university hoods under the synonym "tippets," so they "be not silk"; but this restriction is entirely ignored and upset by King's College, London, whose Theological Associates wear a silk hood. The "tippets" too, of the diocesan colleges are usually bordered with silk. This question of material is of little moment, as Trinity College and the College of Organists could at once substitute satin or stuff hoods if deemed desirable.

The writer of the article goes on to state that "the only College not a University possessing the right to examine candidates and confer degrees in music is the Royal College of Music." So far as I am aware, no college has ever attempted to invade the prerogative of the Universities.

conferring degrees in music, but "the right to examine candidates" is not a monopoly of the Royal College, and requires no Royal Charter for its exercise. Hence the certificates and diplomas issued by Trinity College and the College of Organists are perfectly legal, and their technical value is evident to all whose knowledge enables them to form an accurate judgment.

As an old student of Trinity College, London, and a present member of its Council, I must deprecate attacks on an institution which has greatly advanced the cause of musical education in this country, has won for itself a solid and enduring reputation, and commands the adhesion of a large number of University graduates, as well as many others of high distinction in the musical world.

I am, Sir, yours truly,

E. BURRITT LANE.

33, Bouverie Road, N., October 14, 1889.

[It may seem to be a matter of little consequence whether the hoods that are worn be legal or not. The law remains firm though conscience is elastic.—ED. M. T.]

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Your valuable paper reached me here last week. Upon reading an article entitled "Hoods and Falsehoods," I find the statement, p. 591, line 17, et seq.: "The only British Universities which confer degrees," and so on, are Oxon., Cantab., Dublin, London, Cork, Durham, and Trinity College, Toronto. The statement is glaringly inaccurate; the University of St. Andrew's, the oldest in Scotland, has the right to confer degrees in music honoris causâ tantum, that is to say, if music is to be considered an ars licita; for the Charter of that University allows it to grant degrees in omnibus artibus licitis a facultatibus licitis, and as a double graduate of that University I venture to protest against such mis-statements obtaining currency and sheltering themselves behind your highly useful paper. I may add, perhaps, that A. C. Mackenzie was the first Mus. Doc. of the St. Andrew's University, to which he dedicated his "Story of Sayid."—Yours very truly,

ANDREW GRAY.

7, Kramerstrasse, Leipzig, October 14, 1889.

ERRATUM.

In the letter written by Mr. Silas in the September number, the sentence beginning "I hope," &c., ought to read "Those writers who prefer continuing the old ways let them do so by all means, if it gives them pleasure, but every composer should have the right," &c.

PATENT INTELLIGENCE.

DURING the past few weeks the following Inventions connected with music have been registered at the Patent Office, the list being especially compiled for THE MUSICAL TIMES by Messrs. Rayner and Cassell, Patent Agents, 37, Chancery Lane, from whom all further information concerning Patents may be had gratuitously:—

14,598. Improved Pneumatic Slide Valve for draw-stop action in Organs. George Tucker, September 17, 1889.

14,667. Improvements in Pianoforte Actions. Harry Lyman Hone, September 17, 1889.

14,852. Improvements in Church, Chamber, and similar Organs. Gray and Davison (Ltd.) and Thomas Poyser, September 20, 1889.

14,856. Improvements in Binding or Fastening together Sheets of Music, or other Papers, Pamphlets, and Books. Thomas William Jones, September 20, 1889.

14,900. Improvements in Apparatus for Facilitating the Practice of Music on Pianofortes, Harmoniums, and like Instruments. Andreas Wider, September 21, 1889.

14,983. Improvements in Stringed Musical Instruments. Lucius Virgil Barnard, September 23, 1889.

15,014. Organs. Henry Fordam, September 24, 1889.

15,054. Improvements in Pianofortes. Leopold Alfred Squire, September 24, 1889.

15,081. Improvements in Apparatus for Mechanically turning over the Leaves of Music Books. Edmund Edwards, September 24, 1889.

15,088. Improvements in Musical Instruments. Walter Brierley, September 25, 1889.

15,271. An Improved Musical Notation. William Grimmond, Junior; September 28, 1889.

15,630. A novel Attachment for Banjos. George Kemp Jones, October 4, 1889.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

BÄTON.—There is no special book in English giving instructions in the Art of Conducting, but a number of very useful hints will be found in "General Musical Instructions and aid to Teachers and Learners in every branch of Musical Knowledge," by A. B. Marx (Novello, Ewer and Co.). Each Conductor makes his own rules, guided by experience. In the examples sent by you, the method of beating is intelligent and practical. In the first two bars of No. 2 the beating should not be distinctly marked until the chord changes.

B.—Local Musical Examinations were commenced by the Society of Arts in 1859.

F. R. GODFREY.—We are much obliged for our Correspondent's interesting letter on Ladies' Surplined Choirs, but the subject has been ended and cannot be renewed at present.

ARTHUR BOND.—See answer to F. R. Godfrey.

F. P. G.—See answer to F. R. Godfrey.

G. A. H. (Walsall).—If the words are to be spoken the fifth word should be emphasised, if set to music it should receive an important accent.

J. E. P.—"Elijah" is, on all points, the more difficult work of the two named.

YOUNG COMPOSER.—If your ability is equal to the effort, you are at liberty to use any words for musical setting which are not copyright. You also may set copyright words if you obtain permission.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

BRADFORD.—On the 15th ult., in the Church Institute, Mr. S. Midgley opened the winter season with a Concert. Mr. Risegari and Mr. Farnow were Mr. Midgley's associates in Schumann's Trio, "Fantasiestücke," Op. 88, and other instrumental pieces of the programme. The other pieces were Rubinstein's Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello, Op. 39; Brahms's Violin Sonata, Op. 108; and Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor, Op. 66. Mr. Farnow played his part of the Sonata with great spirit and skill. Later he gave a Tarantella, by Popper. Mr. Risegari played Ernst's "Elegie" with much expression. Miss Briggs, of Kildwick Hall, a young lady with a full and pleasant mezzo-soprano voice, gave some good songs in an expressive style. Mr. Midgley added to his liberal programme Grieg's arrangement of two of his Songs, which he played with a rare poetic touch. The Concert concluded with a fine rendering of Mendelssohn's splendid Trio.

BURNHAM.—An Organ Recital was given at St. Andrew's Church, on the 7th ult., by Mr. Charles Lavington, of St. Mary's, Bridgwater, who played pieces by Handel, Corelli, Spinney, Archer, and Batiste. Miss Harper was the vocalist, and her songs were by Weber, Piusotti, and Handel. The weather was very bad, and accounted for a small attendance. The music, both instrumental and vocal, was good.

CLUMBER.—His Grace the Duke of Newcastle's private chapel at Clumber, near Worksop, was consecrated on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., by the Bishop of Southwell, and the music at both morning and afternoon services was of an elaborate character. The usual choir of the Duke's chapel was supplemented by a contingent of men and boys from Lincoln Cathedral, and some of Mr. Dutton's boys from London. There was an orchestra of fourteen players from St. Agnes, Kennington, London, S.E., consisting of strings, trumpets, and drums, conducted by Mr. W. W. Hedgcock. Mr. G. F. Ashley (the Duke's private Organist) and Dr. Roberts, of Magdalen College, Oxford, were at the organ. Tours's Communion Service in C had been specially scored for the occasion and was used at the morning service. Several Gregorian hymns and chants were used during both services, and the Anthem in the evening was Spohr's "How lovely are Thy dwellings fair." Dr. Roberts played the Voluntaries after both services.

DARLSTON.—Mr. J. Shakespeare Robinson gave a very successful Concert in the Town Hall on the 8th ult. The performers were Miss Lilian Mills, Madame Emilie Young, Mr. J. S. Robinson (of York Minster), and Mr. Robert Grice (of St. Paul's Cathedral, London). Mr. Thomas Cotterell presided at the pianoforte.

DARTMOUTH.—A Festival Service was held in the Church of St. Saviour, on the 2nd ult., when the service used at the Diocesan Choral Festival in Exeter Cathedral was repeated. Mr. T. Roylands Smith, Diocesan Choirmaster, conducted, and Mr. C. T. Davis was the Organist.

DUDLEY.—The Harvest Festival was held in the Parish Church on Thursday evening, the 10th ult., and was continued on Sunday, the 13th ult. The music selected consisted of pieces by Haydn ("God of Light"), Dr. Waring ("Rejoice in the Lord"), Tours ("Rejoice in the Lord"), and "Thanks be to God," from Elijah. Master A. Lee, of All Saints', London, sang solos by Handel and Hady. The Anthems were admirably rendered by the choir, under the conductorship of Mr. G. H. Mainwaring. Mr. W. Stansfield, Organist of the Church, presided at the organ. An efficient though small orchestra was employed on the Sunday evening to assist in the choruses. Mr. Stansfield gave a short Organ Recital at the close.

HADLEY, SHROPSHIRE.—On Thursday evening, the 10th ult., a special Choral Service was held to mark the enlargement of the Church organ. Mr. Smart (of Newport) presided at the organ, and after the service gave a Recital.

HALSTEAD.—On Tuesday evening, the 8th ult., a Choral Festival was held in St. Andrew's Parish Church, about 200 voices from the neighbouring choirs taking part. The Anthem was "The Lord is my strength," Monk; the Confession being chanted to the Ely use, while the hymns for the most part were sung to special tunes by Dr. Dykes and others. Mr. Herbert Ham presided at the organ.

HELSTON.—On the 14th ult. the first annual Festival of the Associated Choirs of the Rural Deanery of Kirrier was held at Helston, eight choirs, numbering 120 members, taking part in the service.

LAUNCESTON.—The Choral Society gave a capital entertainment at the Town Hall, on the 11th ult. Part-songs were well sung by the members of the Society; songs were rendered by Miss Sedgwick, Mr. C. R. G. Grylls, and Mr. Leslie Moreton; violoncello solos were contributed by Mr. H. Moreton, Conductor of the Society, and Miss Stringer gave a recitation.

LEAMINGTON.—The Harvest Festival at St. Alban's, Harwick Street, was held on the 10th ult., at Evensong. The Service was Winchester in B Flat, and the Anthem "O Lord, how manifold" (Barnby). The Festival was continued until Sunday, the 13th. At Mattins the Service was Hopkins in G and Garrett in D; The Introit was "And now on this our festival day" (Tours), and the Communion Service Garrett in D. At Evensong the Service was Tours in F, and three pieces from Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise, "All men, all things," "All that has life and breath," and "Sing to the Lord," were sung as the Anthem. The Services were under the direction of the Organist, Mr. E. R. West.

LINCOLN.—The forty-ninth of a series of high-class Concerts commenced by her late husband, was given by Mrs. Barraclough in the Masonic Hall, on the 16th ult., and was a marked success in every way. The performers were: Mrs. Mary Davies, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Miss Janotha, Miss Nettie Carpenter, Mr. Henry Guy, Mr. F. King, Mr. van Biene, and Mr. Alois Volkmer, and their several and united efforts gave much pleasure to the audience.

MELBOURNE.—The first of a regular series of Concerts, given by the Victorian Orchestra, took place on August 9, when Mr. J. Hamilton Clarke (of London) made his début as Conductor in Melbourne. It is gratifying, therefore, to be able to record that the Concert was in every respect a brilliant success, and that both Mr. Clarke and the musicians whom he directed won golden opinions by the thoroughly legitimate, and therefore artistic, methods in which the best results were achieved. It is intended that all the large centres shall be visited by the orchestra in due course. To this end committees have been formed, or are in course of formation, at Ballarat, Sandhurst, and Geelong, and the same plan will probably be adopted with regard to other towns. To maintain an orchestra numbering in its ranks between fifty and sixty first-class musicians, as may be readily supposed, entails a very heavy expenditure. So much interest has, however, been taken in the subject, and the efforts of the orchestra were so enthusiastically received by the great audience present, as to augur well for the future, and inspire confidence as to the successful establishment of the orchestra as a permanent institution. The Concert opened with Mendelssohn's fine Overture to Ruy Blas, and the performance of the first few bars was quite sufficient to show that Mr. Clarke, who on his entrance received a hearty and demonstrative welcome, had his forces well under control. Each musical phrase was rendered by the performers with the nicest gradations of light and shade, and throughout the evening the performance of the various numbers was marked by an evenness of tone, a precision of attack, and a delicacy or warmth of musical colouring which were perfectly delightful. Mr. Hamilton Clarke has been made a member of the Society of Musicians in Melbourne.

NEWPORT, SALOP.—On the occasion of the Harvest Thanksgiving Services at the Parish Church, on Thursday, the 3rd ult., and continued on the following Sunday, Garrett's new Harvest Cantata was sung. Its effective and very appropriate writing was much admired, as it is within the means of execution by any well trained Parish Church Choir. Mr. J. B. Smart, jun., was at the organ. Mr. Smart acted as Conductor.

NEWRY.—On Tuesday evening, the 15th ult., in St. Mary's Church, Mr. Gilholy gave an Organ Recital after the service—viz., Grand March "Daybreak," by Spinney; "Cavatina," by B. M. Gilholy; "The Bell Rondo," by Morandi; and a Pastoral Movement. Mr. Sylvester Smith and Sergeant Whittle (East Lancashire Regiment) sang some solos. The Harvest Cantata, composed by Dr. Garrett, and the words selected and written by John Francis Waller, LL.D., sung by the choir, was a refreshing change, inasmuch as it was the first occasion on which a full Cantata was given in church. The choir sang it exceedingly well and the work made a good impression.

RAWFENSTALL.—An Organ Recital was given by Mr. J. E. W. Lord, on the 17th ult., in the church, when he performed pieces by Steggall, Capocci, Dubois, Burnap, Lemaigre, Carnali, Mozart, Dudley Buck, and Jules Grison.

ROCHESTER.—A new organ has been erected in Vines Church, by Eustace Ingram, of Holloway, and the instrument was formally opened on the 16th ult., by Mr. J. R. Griffiths, of London, who gave a Recital. It is worthy of remark that the handsome case of the old organ (which was built in 1789 for George III., and subsequently became the possession of the Marquis of Anglesea and then of Vines Church) has been retained and re-decorated.

SWANSCOMBE, KENT.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held at All Saints' Church, on Wednesday evening, the 2nd ult., and the following Sunday, the 6th ult. Bunnett's service was used, the Anthem being Gadsby's "Blessed be the Name of the Lord." Special Psalms and hymns were sung. The Organist and Choirmaster of the Church, Mr. T. H. Jarvis, presided at the organ, and at the conclusion of the evening services gave short Organ Recitals.

TENBURY.—The annual series of Commemoration Services at St. Michael's, were held in the week beginning September 29, and continued until the following Thursday, the 3rd ult. On the day of the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, the Canticles, morning and evening, were sung to Garrett's fine setting in D, and the Anthems were Elvey's "O praise the Lord of Heaven" and Sullivan's "I will mention the loving-kindness of the Lord." At the services on September 30 and the 1st and 2nd ult., music by Rogers, Stainer, Hiles, Elvey, Gibbons, Croft, Mee, and Ouseley, was sung at the morning and evening services. Thursday, the 3rd, was observed as the Commemoration Day, when Smart in F, "Praise the Lord" (Goss), and "How goodly" (Ouseley), were given. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. C. J. Corfe (eldest son of the late Dr. Corfe), of Oxford, formerly one of the masters in the College, and latterly Chaplain and Instructor in the Royal Navy, and now Bishop designate of Corea, a position for which, by his accomplishments and knowledge, he is most eminently fitted. In the evening, Smart in F, and "It came even to pass" (Ouseley), were sung. After the service, one of the most noteworthy features of the Festival, an Organ Recital, was given by Mr. G. R. Sinclair, a former pupil of the College, and now recently appointed Organist of Hereford Cathedral. There was, as might be expected, an element of sadness in the rejoicings, as this was the first commemoration since the building of the church which had not been graced by the presence of the pious and gifted founder, Sir Frederick A. Gore Ouseley. He was much missed by all, but especially by those to whom he had endeared himself by many acts of kindness and friendship. The many visitors were most cordially welcomed by the new Warden, the Rev. John Hampton, who has been intimately associated with the College since its institution, now thirty-three years since.

WELLINGTON, N.Z.—Several Concerts of interest have been given lately, the first being a fine performance, by the Harmonic Society, of Costa's Naaman, which was given in the Theatre Royal, on August 6, before a crowded and enthusiastic audience. The principal solos were admirably sung by Lady Campbell, Miss Grady, Mrs. Webb, Mr. Püschell, and Mr. Prowse; and the band and chorus were very efficient. Mr. Robert Parker conducted. On August 10 Rossini's Stabat Mater was given, also under Mr. Parker's direction, in aid of the fund for enlarging the organ at St. Paul's Cathedral Church. The soloists, Lady Campbell, Mr. Püschell (of Christchurch), Miss Williams, and Mr. Prowse, were again thoroughly efficient, and a very artistic performance was the result. Mr. Parker gave his own annual Concert on August 29, with a most interesting programme, which included Beethoven's Symphony, No. 8 (played in its entirety), two movements of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto (well played by Mr. MacDuff Boyd), and other orchestral pieces, besides a very attractive selection of vocal music.

WEMBLEY.—Madame Emily Lawrence gave an Evening Concert in aid of a new Organ Fund for St. John's Church, Wembley, on Tuesday, the 15th ult., in the schoolroom adjoining the church. Mrs. Henry R. Clayton sang songs by E. M. Lawrence and by Halfdan Kjerulf, besides taking part with Mr. Derris Hart in Stainer's Duet "Love Divine." Madame Mudie-Bolingbroke sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" and Behrend's Ballad "The Gift," and took part in Leslie's Trio, "Love," in which she was joined by Miss E. R. Willson and Mr. Derris Hart. Miss E. R. Willson sang Erskine Allon's song, "Where true love dwells is Paradise," accompanied by the composer, and two of E. M. Lawrence's songs. The instrumental portion of the programme included Beethoven's Sonata (No. 1, Op. 27), played by Madame Emily Lawrence and Mr. Wiener, who gave as his solo the Andante and Finale from the Mendelssohn Concerto, and with Madame Emily Lawrence her own Sonata (Op. 20) for violin and pianoforte.

WITNEY, OXON.—On the occasion of the Harvest Thanksgiving Service at the Wesleyan Chapel, on the 7th ult., Mr. J. W. Owens (son of Mr. G. Owens, Organist of St. Mary's Parish Church) gave an Organ Recital on the organ recently enlarged by Mr. C. Martin, of Oxford.

WORCESTER.—Mr. Spark's Jubilee Concert was given on the 21st ult. The Public Hall was filled in all parts. Madame Marie Rose, Miss Carlotta Desvignes, Mr. Durward Lely, Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. Simonetti, and Mr. Bisaccia were the performers.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. R. S. C. Keymer, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Aylesbury.—Mr. John Osborne Williams, to the Parish Church of Cathcart, Glasgow.—Mr. Richard J. Guy, Organist and Choirmaster to St. John's (old Cathedral) Church, Calcutta.—Mr. T. Merton Clark, to the Parish Church of St. Mary's, Lambeth.—Mr. J. E. W. Lord, Organist and Choirmaster to the Priory Church, Bridlington, Yorkshire.—Mr. Henry J. Baker, Organist and Choirmaster to the new Parish Church of St. Mary, Hornsey, Middlesex.—Mr. William E. Thorneole, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Omagh, County Tyrone, Ireland.—Mr. C. H. Wroughton, to Morton Parish Church, Thornhill, Dumfriesshire.—Mr. A. E. Bostock, Organist and Director to St. Anne's Parish Church, Torton, near Bolton.—Mr. Louis C. Graper, to St. Anne's Church, Hoxton Street, N.—Mr. William J. Tidmarsh, to Christ Church, Paris.—Mr. Ernest R. Clayton, to St. Saviour's, Forest Gate.

Mr. G. S. Chignell, to an Organ Scholarship at Selwyn College, Cambridge.

Mr. G. Davis, to the Classical Scholarship at Durham.

Mr. Gilbert Campbell, Professor of Singing at the Guildhall School of Music.

Miss Josephine Chatterton, Principal Directress of Harp Studies at the Chicago College of Music.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—“Ode on St. Cecilia's Day,” by ALEXANDER POPE. Vocal parts, 3s.

PRENDERGAST, A. H. D.—“The Second Advent.” A Sacred Cantata, in four parts, each part consisting of passages from Holy Scripture. Set to music for two Solo Voices (Tenor and Bass), Chorus, and Organ, and terminating with a well-known Hymn and Tune, to be sung (in Unison) by the Congregation. The Words selected by the Rev. C. T. MAYO, M.A. 1s. 6d. Words only (with hymn-tunes), 1½d.

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS.—“The Voyage of Maelundne.” Ballad, by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. Set to music for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Vocal parts, 3s.

SAWYER, FRANK J.—“The Star in the East.” An Oratorio. 2s. 6d.

DORAN, REV. J. W., AND SPENSER NOTTINGHAM.—A noted Directory of Plain Song. Part 2. The Canticles. 9d.

BEBBINGTON, G. W.—(In A). Cantate Domino and Deus Misereatur. 4d.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—(in D). Te Deum Laudamus (Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 49). 3d.

—(in D). Jubilate Deo. (Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 50). 3d.

DAVIDSON, HENRY.—A complete Office of the Holy Communion (set to music chiefly minor) for use of the Church in Advent and Lent, and Requiem Celebrations. 1s.

FIELD, J. T.—(in F). The Office for the Holy Communion. Short settings of the Office for the Holy Communion (including the Benedictus and Agnus Dei). For Parochial and General use. No. 13. Edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN. 1s.

GREENISH, ARTHUR J.—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

MAUNDER, J. H.—Benedicite, omnia Opera (No. 2). 2d.

MILLER, C. E.—Benedicite, omnia Opera (No. 3). 2d.

NUNN, E. C.—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 46.) 3d.

WALMSLEY, THOMAS ATTWOOD—(in D). The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Sanctus, Kyrie, and the Nicene Creed. Complete, 1s. 6d. Or, singly: No. 1, Te Deum Laudamus, 4d.; No. 2, Benedictus, 4d.; No. 3, Kyrie, No. 4, Nicene Creed, No. 5, Sanctus, 4d.; No. 6, Magnificat, No. 7, Nunc dimittis, 4d.

WRIGLEY, JAMES G.—Responses to the Commandments (Six settings). 3d.

DAWKINS, F. W.—“The Christmas stars are shining.” Christmas Carol. Words by JULIA GODDARD. 2d.

SAUNDERS, GORDON.—“Sing everyone in happy glee.” Carol. The words by A. E. DRINKWATER. 1½d.

MANN, A. H.—“God be merciful unto us.” Anthem. For Soprano Solo and Chorus. (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 341.) 4d.

MEE, JOHN H.—“God, who at sundry times.” Anthem for Christmas (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 344). 4d.

ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—“Peace I leave with you.” Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. 3d.

BISHOP, HENRY R.—“The Halt of the Caravan.” Quintet, with Chorus. (Bishop's Glees, Trios, Quartets, &c., No. 68.) 2d.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—“Bold Turpin.” A Humorous Part-Song. 4d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—“The Ladies” (Toast, No. 1). The words written by STEPHEN S. STRATTON. (The Orpheus, No. 216.) 2d.

ROBINSON, WILLIAM.—“The Rose in October.” Four-part Song. The words written by MARY TOWNLEY. (Novello's Part-Song Book, No. 555.) 2d.

SCHARTAU, HERBERT W.—Two-part Songs for Schools. No. 1. Spring. 2d.

BUNNETT, EDWARD.—“By the Wayside.” Song. For Soprano, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, and Violin and Organ, or Harmonium Accompaniment ad lib. Words by EDWARD OXENFORD. 2s.

BLACOW, FRED. W.—Twenty Offertory Interludes (to follow the reading of the Offertory Sentences, and written to accord with the sentiment of each Sentence as read). For the Organ. 2s.

SPINNEY, WALTER.—The Vesper Bell series of Organ Pieces.

No. 7. Berceuse in D major 1s.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—Continued.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT.

No. 656. The Victor's return . . . MENDELSSOHN 1d.
 „ 669. I will always give thanks . . J. BAPTISTE CALKIN 1d.
 „ 670. Field Flowers . . . F. STANISLAUS 1d.
 „ 671. { Blow, blow, thou winter wind . . R. J. S. STEVENS } 1d.
 { Hard by a fountain . . . H. WAELRENT }
 „ 672. And the angel said unto her . . KING HALL 1d.
 „ 673. Hushed in death . . . HENRY HILES 1½d.

Now ready.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, with various improvements and many additional Chants, of THE PSALTER, arranged for Chanting. With appropriate English Chants. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Edition I., in Post 8vo, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 2s.
 Edition II., in Foolscap 4to, large type, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 4s.
 Edition III., in Imperial 32mo. Words only. Cloth, 9d. With Proper Psalms, 1s. The Proper Psalms separately, 3d.

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE CANTICLES, &c. First Series.

I. Post 8vo, chants in short score. 6d.
 II. Foolscap 4to, chants in short score. 1s.
 III. In 32mo. Words only. 1½d.

When this new Edition is required, instead of the original Work (which is on sale in all its original forms), orders should be specific for “REVISED EDITION.”

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of the ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. A Collection of Single Chants, Ancient and Modern, appropriated to the Daily Psalms, Canticles, and Hymns in the Book of Common Prayer. The Chants correspond with those of the “Psalter” and are similarly numbered. Edited by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 8vo, in paper cover, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d. Foolscap 4to, large type, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Local Examinations in Music.—R.A.M. and R.C.M.	649
The Great Composers—Handel	649
A German Critic at Leeds	653
Occasional Notes	653
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	655
Leeds Musical Festival	658
Crystal Palace	661
The Sarasate Concerts	662
Otto Hegner's Concerts and Recitals	662
The Musical Festival at Leeds (by Otto Lessmann)	662
Obituary	666
S. Auber-Manzocchi's Opera “Il Conte di Gleichen”	667
Music in Birmingham	668
Bristol	668
Chester	669
Edinburgh	669
Glasgow and the West of Scotland	670
Liverpool	675
Manchester	675
Sheffield	676
South Wales	677
The West of England	677
America	678
General News (London)	679
Reviews	681
Foreign Notes	682
Correspondence	683
Patent Intelligence	685
Answers to Correspondents	685
General News (Country)	685
List of Music published during the last Month	687

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0 3 0
Three Lines	0 3 4
For every additional Line	0 0 10
Half a Column	2 0 0
A Column	4 0 0
A Page	7 10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion in their proper places, Advertisements should reach the Office
 NOT LATER THAN THE 23RD OF EACH MONTH.

MISS MILDRED DUBOIS (Soprano).

Cert. Hon. T.C.L. For Ballad or Oratorio Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c., address, Agent, Mr. H. Klein, 3, Holborn Viaduct, E.C.

MISS ANNIE MATTHEWS (Soprano).

For Concerts (Oratorio and other), Banquets, &c., address, Goring House, 8, Hayter Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MRS. CRESER (Contralto),
22, Blenheim Terrace, Leeds.

MR. LLOYD JAMES (Tenor).
Address, Smethwick, Birmingham.

CONCERT.—"Bride of Dunkerron," Solihull.—"Mr. Lloyd James again gave a capital exposition in the art of tenor singing, and gave unbounded pleasure to those who listened to his beautiful mellow voice, controlled by such accuracy and precision."—Birmingham Paper.

Engaged: October 5, 14, 15, 16, 21, 22, 23. November 4, 5, 6, 11, 13, 16, 18, 27. December 16, 25. February 5, 17, 20. Others pending.

MR. C. EMLYN JONES (Tenor),
From Royal Albert Hall, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts.
For terms, address, 10, Prince's Square, S.E.

MR. WALTER JONES (Baritone).
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., 107, Coldharbour Lane, London.

PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIST (Vocal and Instrumental).—Madame HEMERY is now booking dates for the ensuing season. Concerts, Matinées, At Homes, Practices, &c., 44, Endymion Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. HOLBERRY HAGYARD, of the Crystal Palace, Covent Garden, Promenade Concerts, &c. (Quartet provided when required). Engaged: Luton, Ballads; Liverpool, "Elijah"; St. Neots, Ballads; Darwin, "Creation"; Birkenhead Subscription Concerts; Brighouse, "Messiah"; St. Ives, Selection; Chesterfield, "Messiah"; Derby, "Messiah"; Accrington, "Hereward"; others pending. Address, Principal Tenor, Trinity College, Cambridge; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London.

APOLLO GRIFFIN GLEE SOCIETY
(Prize Glee Competition).

The Committee of the above Society beg to announce that Dr. J. F. BRIDGE has decided that the best of the Gleees forwarded for COMPETITION is the one bearing the title "Shepherds, rise," the composition of Mr. HENRY LAHEE. The Glee will be performed at the Society's Concert, held at Great Eastern Hotel, Bishopsgate Street, on November 18.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION

OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, GENERAL INVENTION, AND INDUSTRIES,
EDINBURGH, 1890.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: The MARQUIS OF LOTHIAN, K.T., Secretary of State for Scotland.

Prospectus and Forms of application for space may be had at the Offices, 3, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.; 40, Frederick Street, Edinburgh; and 6, Waterloo Street, Glasgow.

GEORGE E. WATSON, C.A., Secretary.
S. LEE BAPTY, F.R.G.S., General Manager.

* * SECTION XIII.—Music Classes 63, 64, and 65, comprising Musical Instruments, Works on Musical Subjects, &c.

MR. ARTHUR W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTER-POINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, &c., by post. Several former pupils have been successful in various examinations. Address, Sandrock, Sevenoaks.

MUSICAL PARTNERSHIP.—HALF-SHARE in good TEACHING CONNECTION (Piano, Singing, and Violin) offered to experienced Teacher with small capital. Receipts over £200 per annum; capable of great extension in rapidly rising suburb, N. Would entertain good offer for the purchase of entire connection. Music, 532, Hornsey Road, N.

AN Associate of the College of Organists desires an APPOINTMENT as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, where there is an opening for teaching music. Has had a Cathedral education. Several years' experience. Good choir trainer. Excellent testimonials. Anglican service. Apply, C. O., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. A. A. MACKINTOSH, F.C.O., &c., can recommend his Pupil (son of a Clergyman) as an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Address, C. H. G. T., 1, Fountain Villas, Huntingdon.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, for a First-class firm in Ireland. A good, reliable hand. Apply, in first instance, to Challen and Son, 46, Oxford Street, W.

WANTED, at once, a good TUNER and Repairer of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums, for the country. Must be steady and reliable. State experience and references, age, salary, and photo to H. R., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GOOD TUNER WANTED, who understands American Organs and Harmoniums. None but thoroughly competent steady men need apply. Write, stating wages required, &c., to P. P., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER (First-class) desires ENGAGEMENT. Long experience; knowledge of Harmoniums and American Organs. Could manage Branch, having thorough knowledge of the Trade in every department. Advertiser's wife can undertake counter business, sheet music, small goods, stationery, books, &c. Good reader and pianist. T. G., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ASSISTANT desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Thirteen years' experience. Thorough knowledge of the trade. Address, Catalogue, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at Bargain Prices for Cash. A 150-guinea "Karn," 2 manuals and pedals, 9 sets, for 55 guineas; a 120-guinea "Bell," 1 manual and pedals, for 45 guineas; an £80 two-manual and pedal Reed Organ, by Sprague, for 25 guineas; a one-manual and pedal ditto, for 18 guineas; a £70 "Karn" organ, with Subers's Patent Pedals, for £35; a fine £70 two-manual "Alexandre" organ, for 30 guineas; also several large Organs and Harmoniums, 2 manuals, &c., at about one-third the original price. Every instrument guaranteed perfect as new, with warranty. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg and Co., 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

ORGAN, 2 Manuals, 7 Stops on Great, 5 on Swell, Pedal Bourdon, and 2 Couplers, to be SOLD cheap. Several others for Sale. G. Field, Organ Builder, 58, Erskine Street, Hulme, Manchester. (Agent for W. Hill and Son, London.)

ORGAN (Chamber Pipe), 7ft. 6in. high. Ornamental case. Open diapason, stopt diapason, Principal, two octaves Pedals. Perfect order. £20. Appointments (evening preferred). Organ, 21, Waltham Road, Westbourne Park, London, W. Photo, 6 stamps.

LARGE AMERICAN ORGAN (new last March). Cost 105 guineas. By best maker. 14 sets of reeds. Suitable for small Church or Drawing-room. Perfect condition; TO BE SOLD, a bargain. G., 6, Buckland Terrace, Plymouth.

PROFESSORS OF MUSIC are informed that there is always at the Grand Piano Depot, 19 and 21, Newman Street, Oxford Street, a STOCK of genuine Second-hand GRAND and SEMI-GRAND PIANOS by BROADWOOD, ERARD, and COLLARD, in condition like new, at moderate cash prices. Unusually liberal commissions.

PERFECTED INSTRUMENTS.—Messrs. HAWKES and SON, Manufacturers of high-class Instruments of every description, beg to call the attention of Amateurs, Professionals, and others interested in Music, to their new SPECIAL SHEET CATALOGUES, which will be sent gratis on application.

Soloists requiring fine Instruments, of a quality superior to those generally sold by dealers, should place themselves in correspondence with Messrs. HAWKES and SON, stating their wants, and details and estimates will be submitted.

Messrs. HAWKES and SON have a staff of clever workmen on the premises, and the perfect repair of valuable String Instruments is made a feature of. References can be given to gentlemen who have had Instruments of value repaired by Messrs. H. and S.

Estimates given for String Bands, Drum and Fife Bands, and Reed or Brass Bands.

Send for illustrated lists.

Hawkes and Son (Late Riviere and Hawkes), 28, Leicester Square, London.

CONCONE'S LESSONS

NEW EDITION
WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING

BY
ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH.

- 50 LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE.
- 25 LESSONS. A SEQUEL TO THE FIFTY LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE.
- 40 LESSONS FOR CONTRALTO.
- 40 LESSONS FOR BASS OR BARITONE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY
HENRY T. TILTMAN.

No. 1.—HARK! WHAT HEAVENLY SOUNDS ARE FLOATING.

No. 2.—WHILE IN PEACEFUL SLUMBERS LYING.

Price Twopence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition.—To Sir JOHN STAINER.

SUN OF MY SOUL.—Admired new Tune. See

"Five Tunes to Standard Hymns." By JOHN J. JONES. Price 3d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A DESTE FIDELES, with Variations for the Organ. 2s. net.

THE CLARION MARCH, for the Organ. 2s. net.

I WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS. Song. 1s. net.

Ditto, as a Four-part Song. 3d. net.

THE HOLLY-TREE AND MISTLETOE. Part-Song. Score and Parts, 6d. net.

To be had of Dr. BELCHER 228, Stratford Road, Birmingham.

MR. W. B. HEALEY'S SPECIAL LIST.

TELEGRAPHIC ADDRESS, "HEALEY'S AGENCY, LONDON."

MR. HEALEY begs to call attention to the following lists of engagements of two of his special artists, for whom he is sole Agent:—

MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA'S ENGAGEMENTS for nine months in 1889:—

January 8, Liverpool Philharmonic Society (Miscellaneous Concert); 10, Manchester ("Rose of Sharon"); 23, Novello's Concerts ("Elijah"); 25, Belfast (Concert); 26, Dublin (Concert). February 2, Royal Choral Society ("Elijah"); 4, Birmingham (Messrs. Harrison's Concert); 6, Birkenhead (Subscription Concert); 7, Edinburgh (Miscellaneous Concert); 13, St. Leonards-on-Sea ("The Golden Legend" and "Stabat Mater"); 14, St. Leonards-on-Sea (Morning Concert); 16, Crystal Palace ("The Lay of the Last Minstrel"); 20, Royal Choral Society (Mancinelli's "Isaiah" and Barnby's "The Lord is King"); 28, Leicester ("The Spectre's Bride"). March 4, London ("Elijah"); 8, Bradford ("Elijah"); 19, Novello's Concerts ("Light of Asia"); 20, Leeds (Dvorák's "Stabat Mater" and Miscellaneous Concert); 28, Birmingham ("Elijah"). April 19, Royal Choral Society ("The Messiah"); 20, Crystal Palace (Mr. Manns's Concert); 24, Plymouth (Recital of Gounod's "Faust"); 30, Hull ("Creation"). May 2, Birmingham (Mr. Stockley's Concert); 8, Bournemouth ("The Golden Legend"); 11, St. James's Hall (Royal Amateur Orchestral Society); 17, Bruton Street (Madame Oppenheim's Concert); 30, Royal Italian Opera (début in Wagner's "Lohengrin," leading prima donna); 31, Buckingham Palace (State Concert). June 4, Royal Italian Opera (Verdi's "Aida"); 7, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"); 12, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"); 22, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"); 26, St. James's Hall (Signor Mattei's Concert); 29, Royal Italian Opera (Wagner's "Lohengrin"). July 2, Royal Italian Opera (State Visit of the Shah); 8, Royal Italian Opera ("Lohengrin"); 17, Bruton Street (Madame Oppenheim's Concert, for their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales); 19, Royal Italian Opera ("Huguenots"); 25, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"). August and September, On the Continent (Resting). October 3, Ashford (Concert); 8, Liverpool (Philharmonic Society's Concert); 17, Royal Victoria Hall (Concert); 19, Glasgow (Concert); 23, Plymouth (Miscellaneous Concert); 29, Blackheath (Concert). November 2, Bristol (Concert); 6, Birkenhead (Concert); 7, Birmingham (Mr. Stockley's Concert); 9, Crystal Palace (Saturday Concert); 13, Cardiff (Orchestral Society's Concert); 15, Belfast (Concert); 16, Dublin (Concert); 20, Leeds Philharmonic ("St. Paul"); 25, Birmingham (Messrs. Harrison's Concert). United States of America to follow, with Madame Patti and Signor Tagmano.—W. B. HEALEY, Sole Agent.

MADAME BELLE COLE'S ENGAGEMENTS:—

January 1, 3, 5, Glasgow; 7, Edinburgh. January 14 to February 25 (six weeks' tour); 28, Bow. March 2, Crystal Palace; 4, Hampstead; 6, Ballads; 8, Bradford; 13, Ballads; 14, Royal Victoria Hall; 20, Ballads; 25, Dundee; 26, Edinburgh; 28, Dublin; 29, Belfast. April 6, Bow and Bromley; 8, Tunbridge Wells; 19, Royal Choral Society; 24, Plymouth; 25, Royal Victoria Hall. May 1, Grosvenor Gallery; 2, Crystal Palace; 6, Cannon Street Hotel; 9, Brixton Hall; 10, Birkbeck Institute; 21, Miss Gomes's Concert; 23, Southsea; 29, Nikita's Concert; 30, Institute Painters. June 1, Alexandra Palace; 13, Bath; 19, Albert Hall; 20, Manchester; 26, Princes' Hall. July 6, Alexandra Palace; 8, Lord Brassey's; 9, Grosvenor Gallery; 30, Grosvenor Club. August 6, Weston-super-Mare; 12, 13, 14, Promenade Concerts; 16, Marven; 17, Promenade Concerts; 19, Cheltenham; 20, 22, Promenade Concerts; 23, Eastbourne; 24, 27, 28, September 2, 4, 9, 14, 16, 20, 24, 26, Promenade Concerts; 28, Bow and Bromley. October 3, 4, Promenade Concerts; 5, Crystal Palace; 7, Promenade Concerts; 8, Woodford; 9, 11, Promenade Concerts; 14, Glasgow; 16, 17, 22, 24, Promenade Concerts; 25, Bath; 26, Bristol; 28, Winchester; 29, Southsea; 30, Southampton; 31, Victoria Hall. November 11, Shore-ditch; 12, Wanstead; 13, Royal Albert Hall; 20, Ballad Concert; 22, 23, Belfast, Dublin; 26, Colchester; 27, Ballads; 30, Royal Albert Hall. December 2, Clerkenwell; 3, Brixton; 4, Royal Albert Hall; 11, Ballads; 12, Royal Victoria Hall; 14, Manchester; 17, Glasgow; 18, Leeds; 20, Huddersfield; 25, Oldham; 26, Preston. January 4, Ballads; 8, Ayr; 13 to end of February, Concert Tour. March 4, Darwin; 5, Ballads; 12, Ballads; 19, Nottingham. April 4, Royal Albert Hall; 10, Exeter; 17, Newport (Mon.); 24, Birmingham.—W. B. HEALEY, Sole Agent.

And to the following list of towns, where he has booked ahead—viz., from November, 1889, onward, in some cases three quartets for the same Society, for different dates, in others, trios, duets, and instrumentalists, in Liverpool, Glasgow, Belfast, Bristol, Bath, Hanley, Manchester, Norwich, Woodford, Southsea, Birkenhead, Southampton, Birmingham, Ayr, Wolverhampton, Brighton, Darwen, Plymouth, Winchester, Blackheath, Wilmslow, Cheltenham, Tamworth, Crystal Palace, Hull, Paisley, Dundee, Kirkcaldy, Dunfermline, Peterhead, Greenock, Wanstead, Colchester, Preston, Burnley, Cardiff, Hereford, Dublin, Elland, Utoxeter, Aberdeen, Ryde, Oldham, Sheffield, Keighley, Leeds, Newport (Mon.), Huddersfield, Nottingham, Exeter, Edinburgh, Jersey, Cleator Moor, Darlington, and the United States of America; including the following artists:—

Mesdames Nordica, Mary Davies, Clara Samuëll, Belle Cole, Bertha Moore, Hope Glenn, Clara Wright, Helen d'Alton, Dyke, Agnes Larkcom, Enriquez, and Louise Pyk.

Misses Anna Williams, Alice Gomez, Marie Titiens, Marie de Lido, Meredyth Elliott, Margaret Hoare, Kate Fuselle, Emily Spada, Agnes Janson, Margaret Hall, Eugene Kemble, Patti Winter, and Fanny Moody.

Messrs. H. Guy, Orlando Harley, Durward Lely, Llew. Cadwaladr, Philip Newbury, William Nicholl, Richard Clarke, E. Houghton, Percy Palmer, Joseph Heald, Wm. Foxon, and Iver McKay.

Messrs. Watkin Mills, J. Bridson, Herbert Thorndike, Andrew Black, Bantock Pierpoint, Henry Pope, Donnell Balfe, A. Strugnelli, Wilfred Cunliffe, and Signor Foli.

Instrumentalists: Madame Schumann, Mdles. Kate, Nellie, and Mable Chaplin, Anna Lang, and Signor Tito Mattei. Messrs. Howard Reynolds, Isidor Cöhn, and Waldemar Meyer; The Heckman and Schiever Quartets.

Mr. Charles Dickens, Readings.

Mr. Healey has on his books, for selection, Sopranos, Mezzo-Sopranos, Contraltos, Tenors, Baritones, Basses, and over 100 Instrumental Soloists.

BEING AN OLD ARTIST AND MANAGER, OF 47 YEARS' STANDING, Mr. Healey will be pleased to give any information appertaining to the Musical profession.

Address, 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W. The oldest Musical Agent in London; first established in Golden Square, 1856.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL MUSICAL AGENCY

(REGISTERED),

447, WEST STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station),

CONDUCTED BY

MR. W. SEXTON, VICAR CHORAL, WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

MR. SEXTON can supply every requirement in the Musical Profession. His personal acquaintance with the whole of the Musical Profession enables him to give advice to his Clients on all Musical matters and supply their wants.

CONCERT AGENT.

MR. SEXTON can supply ARTISTS of every description. All Artists guaranteed. Entertainments and Concert Parties anywhere in the United Kingdom. Very reasonable terms. Send for list of Artists, Prices, and Programmes.

SOLO CHOIR-BOYS.

MR. SEXTON sends highly-trained SOLO BOYS for any work anywhere in England. Special First Class Solo Boys for Church Festivals. Shortest notice. Choir of 16 Choristers. People's Palace, Bow Institute, St. James's Hall. Sole Manager for the celebrated Boy Soprano, WARWICK MAJOR.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY QUINTET OR QUARTET (GLEE PARTY).

MR. SEXTON arranges for the services of this celebrated QUINTET (or Quartet) of five Solo Voices from Westminster Abbey. Single Concerts, Tours, Seaside, &c. Great success in Scotland, &c. Quartet with Lady or Solo Boy if desired. Concerts now being arranged at most of the large towns in England.

ORCHESTRA.

MR. SEXTON'S experienced BAND, single or any number, for Oratorio, Church, &c. Primrose Cinderella Band.

SINGING, ORGAN, AND PIANOFORTE LESSONS.

MR. SEXTON, assisted by Mr. F. Smith, gives LESSONS as above, and introductions to high-class Concerts and paid Engagements to pupils when efficient. Three-manual Organ, 50 stops. Choir-boys' Classes on Saturdays. Telegrams and Letters as above.

C. T. JOHNSON,

CONCERT AGENT,

57, BERNERS STREET, W.

CONCERT GIVERS SHOULD COMMUNICATE WITH

C. T. JOHNSON,

57, BERNERS STREET, W.,

WHOSE LIST OF ARTISTS IS MOST COMPREHENSIVE.

MUSIC FOR MASONIC & OTHER BANQUETS PROVIDED AND ALL DETAILS OF MANAGEMENT

UNDERTAKEN BY

C. T. JOHNSON, 57, BERNERS ST., W.

ARTISTS FOR AT HOMES AND EVENING PARTIES

SUPPLIED BY

C. T. JOHNSON,

57, BERNERS STREET, W.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY*Established as a medium of communication between Concert Givers and Artists, and to facilitate business between them, in London, the Provinces, and America.*

CONDUCTED BY

MR. H. TUDDENHAM, Principal of the English College of Music.
Established 1879.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

MR. TUDDENHAM is prepared to provide Artists for Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, Mixed Concerts, Ballads, Part-Songs, Glee, Morning and Evening Concerts, Garden Parties, At Homes, Dinners, Tours arranged, &c. Mr. Tuddenham being personally acquainted with most of the leading VOCALISTS and ORCHESTRAL PLAYERS, will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all projectors of Concerts favouring him with their requirements.

MR. TUDDENHAM'S select CONCERT PARTY, consisting of six Artists—including Ballads, Songs, Duets, Quartets, Recitations, Violin or Flute Solos—may be engaged to perform the entire programme, either in London or the Provinces. Terms on application.

MR. TUDDENHAM'S SOLO CHOIR BOYS may be engaged for Church Festivals, Choral Weddings, Banquets, Concerts, &c. Good Chorus Singers for assisting Choirs. Clergymen and Organists are invited to write for requirements; perfect satisfaction guaranteed. Letters, telegrams, &c., to Mr. H. Tuddenham.
304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies SOLO BOYS (personally trained and thoroughly reliable) for all kinds of Church work, Concerts, &c. Advent Season: "Last Judgment," "Holy City," "Messiah," "Stabat Mater," &c. Excellent testimonials from Clergy and Organists. Address as above, or 79, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application. Parcels of music sent on "sale or return" on receipt of two London references or a deposit of £2.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MESSRS. BEARE AND SON,

34, RATHBONE PLACE, LONDON, W.,

Invite an inspection of their unrivalled Collection of

OVER THREE HUNDRED

OLD VIOLINS, TENORS, CELLOS,

AND DOUBLE BASSES.

Sole Wholesale Agents for JAMES TUBBS'S celebrated BOWS.
The only Makers of the

NEW QUEEN'S MODEL

PIANO AND AMERICAN ORGAN CHAIRS

From 25s.

TOY INSTRUMENTS AND MUSIC

for the performance of Toy Symphonies, from 18s. 6d. per set, including Music. Lists sent on application.

HARPS bought, sold, or taken in exchange.

REPAIRS of every kind of Musical Instrument executed promptly by experienced workmen.

NEWLY REVISED AND ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.

VIOLINS, TENORS, and VIOLONCELLOS.—

OLD ITALIAN, of the most eminent makers. The "UNRIVALLED" Italian, real Roman Strings for Violin, Tenor, Violoncello, and Double Bass. MANDOLINES by VINACCIA and other Neapolitan Makers. Plectrums and Strings. The trade supplied. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street, Soho Square, W.

ARNENTERON VIOLIN and VIOLONCELLO STRINGS. Best gut strings made. True, very durable, thoroughly reliable. Sample, violin length, sent free on application. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London.SILVER FLUTE, by RUDALL & Co., for SALE.

In perfect condition. Original price, 28 guineas. Open to offer. Inspection invited. A. Norton, 45, The Chase, Clapham, S.W.

VIOLINS, &c.COLLIN-MÉZIN À PARIS.

GEORGE WITHERS AND CO.,

VIOLIN and BOW MAKERS and REPAIRERS,
51, ST. MARTIN'S LANE, LONDON,
Sole Agents."TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c., 29, Minories, London. List for stamp.

WRIGHT and ROUND, 34, Erskine Street, Liverpool.FOR MILITARY, BRASS, AND FIFE AND DRUM BAND MUSIC."BRASS BAND NEWS."

Great Success! Album of Dance Music for Pianoforte (with Stave for Clarinet or Cornet). 2nd Edition now ready. This music is played by all the celebrated Northern Prize Bands. 20 Pages full music size. Price 1s. 1d.

Send for circulars and trade terms.

D'ALMAINE'SPIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.

Established 102 years.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

*Specifications and Estimates sent free.KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly's Organ Harmoniums are the "only instruments" of English manufacture that gained "any award" at the Dublin and Paris Exhibitions.

A liberal discount for Schools and Charitable Institutions.

Three hundred Second-hand Pianofortes by the leading makers, at all times very cheap. New Pianos (Warranted), in elegant Walnut or Rosewood Cases, from 19 guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., Post-free.
Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing-Class Tutor, 14th edition, 6d each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing.
Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 11, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.JAMES CONACHER AND SONS,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

BATH BUILDINGS, HUDDERSFIELD.

Gold Medal awarded, Bradford Technical School Exhibition, 1882.

*Specifications and Estimates free of charge.TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS,
Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGWAY and CO., Music Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, London, W., undertake the RE-VISING, PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' Works included in Catalogue and introduced without extra charge.TO AMATEURS & PROFESSORS about to PUBLISH.—J. McDOWELL, Removed to 13, Little Marlborough St., Regent St., W., undertakes Revising and Publishing Musical Works in best manner, on lowest terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.MUSIC COPIED and Drawn from the Full Score, with proper Cues for Engraving; also Songs or other Pieces Transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.MUSIC Legibly TRANPOSED or COPIED at 6d. per Folio Manuscript Page. Copyist, 20, St. Michael's Road, Wallington, Surrey.MUSIC COPYING of every kind done neatly and quickly, also transposing. Address, X. Y. Z., Rothesaye, St. Albans.SECOND-HAND ORGAN MUSIC WANTED.—Send price list to Organist, Benefield, Oundle.TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHURCH CHOIRS, &c.—Dr. COLBORNE'S SAMUEL.—For DISPOSAL, 36 Chorus Parts and 6 Full Vocal Scores, in capital condition. Apply, Watson Hunter, Hartlepool.

TO COMPOSERS.

HARMONIUM MUSIC WANTED, by a Publisher. Fully developed movements, easy to play, occupying four or five minutes in performance, for Church use. Address, Harmonium, care of Mr. C. Wilkes, 29, Ludgate Hill, London, E.C.SURPLUS STOCK.—Extraordinary Bargains. "Myosotis Waltz" or "Bitter Sweet," and 24s. worth of best Songs, Dances, and Pianoforte Pieces, for 1s., post-free. Terms for quantities on application. William Lea, Music Warehouse, 50 and 52, Church Street, Liverpool.

TWENTY

SACRED SONGS

COMPOSED BY

JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH.SELECTED FROM THE SCHEMELL COLLECTION, AND ARRANGED FOR VOICE AND PIANOFORTE
ACCOMPANIMENT,

BY

ROBERT FRANZ.

The English Version by the Rev. Dr. TROUTBECK.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REQUIEM

FOR

SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

JOHANNES BRAHMS.

(Op. 45-)

Vocal Score, with English words	net	4	0	s. d.
Full Score	34	0
Orchestral parts	48	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

LAND OF THE MOUNTAIN AND THE FLOOD

CONCERT-OVERTURE

BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

(Op. 3-)

Full Score, 10s. 6d.; String Parts, 4s.; Wind Parts, 6s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE PIECES

FOR ORGAN

BY

THEO. DUBOIS,

ORGANIST OF THE MADELEINE, PARIS.

PRICE EIGHT SHILLINGS.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MUSIC FOR ADVENT.

ANTHEMS.

It is high time	J. Barnby	1½d.
The grace of God that bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	1½d.
When shades of night. Hymn	J. Barnby	2d.
O that I knew where I might find Him (St. Thomas's Day)
Sir W. Sterndale Bennett
Dies iræ, dies illæ	W. T. Best	3d.
Rejoice greatly	H. Gadsby	3d.
Prepare ye the way of the Lord	Dr. Garrett	3d.
Thou wilt keep Him in perfect peace	H. J. Gauntlett	3d.
The wilderness and the solitary place	Sir J. Goss	6d.
Blessed is He who cometh	Chr. Gounod	1½d.
And the angel said unto her	King Hall	1½d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	Dr. H. Hiles	6d.
When the Son of Man	Kent	4d.
Who is this that cometh?	Kent	4d.
Hosanna to the Son of David	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
The great day of the Lord is near	George C. Martin	1½d.
Day of anger, day of mourning ("Dies iræ," from the Requiem)
Mozart		6d.
Rejoice in the Lord	S. Reay	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord	John Redford	3d.
The night is far spent	Montem Smith	1½d.
Hosanna in the highest	Dr. Stainer	1½d.
Hearken unto Me, My people	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Beloved, now are we the sons of God	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
Thou Judge of quick and dead	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Rejoice greatly	Rev. H. H. Woodward	1½d.

Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH"

By SCHUMANN

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

By REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

For Soprano Solo and Chorus, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

GEORGE C. MARTIN (No. 1 in F, No. 2 in E flat, No. 3 in G)	each	4d.
W. T. BEST		3d.
J. BARNBY
JOHN FOSTER
MONTM SMITH (two settings)		1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)
REV. C. A. WICKES (two settings)
HENRY GADSBY		2d.
C. E. MILLER		2d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)		2d.
Sir J. STAINER, R. DE LACY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS		1½d.
Sir J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER		1½d.
Dr. J. F. BRIDGE, JAMES TURLE, and Dr. HAYES		2d.
Dr. S. S. WESLEY (easy setting)		2d.
J. W. ELLIOTT		2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (with a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)		2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA

SET TO MUSIC BY

EDWARD HARVEY.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE UNDERMENTIONED COMPOSITIONS BY

J. H. MAUNDER

Are favourites with both Singers and Listeners:—

CHRISTMAS CAROL, "Once in Bethlehem of Judah." 2d.

"Very touching and simple."

BENEDICITE in A (Three Chant form). 1½d.

(As sung at St. Paul's Cathedral.)

Just published.

NEW BENEDICITE in G. Octavo. 2d.

Dedicated by permission to J. F. Bridge, Esq., Mus. Doc., Organist, Westminster Abbey.

Set in a new and original form, by which all monotony is avoided.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

O COME, O COME, EMMANUEL

ADVENT HYMN

COMPOSED BY

R. DAWRE.

Price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"THE NIGHT IS DEPARTING," 3rd Ed.

(Advent). "For unto us," 18th Ed. "Glory to God," 5th Ed. (Christmas). "O worship the Lord," 23rd Ed. "My heart is fixed," 5th Ed. (for Choral Festivals). Anthems by THOS. SMITH. 3d. each. Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BENEDICITE. By JOHN S. STEANE.

Price 2d. Easy, varied, and effective.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR ADVENT.

THE BENEDICITE. Easy Chant Form.

Sung at St. Andrew's, Wells Street; St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, &c.

Composed by HENRY KNIGHT. Price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR ADVENT.

SAVE ME, O GOD. Motet. Composed by M. W.

BALFE (1846). Set to English words and arranged for the Organ by W. A. BARRETT. Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GOD, WHO AT SUNDRY TIMES

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

COMPOSED BY

JOHN H. MEE.

Price Fourpence.

(NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS, No. 344.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"An able composition, well suited to the season for which it is written, and free from difficulties that may cause uncertainty in performance."—Church Times.

"A gain to music of this class."—Musical Times.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-halfpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS CAROL.

THE CHRISTMAS STARS ARE SHINING

Words by JULIA GODDARD; Music composed by F. W. DAWKINS, Organist, St. James's, Hampton Hill;

Also, by same Composer,

THROUGH THE MIDNIGHT AIR (5th 1,000).

Sung at Christ's Hospital, St. Augustine's, Queen's Gate, &c.

Price 2d. each. Words only (from Composer), 1s. per 100.

"Bright and pretty airs; harmonies very agreeable."—Surrey Comet.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Or, of the COMPOSER, Ayot Villa, Teddington.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS

By DR. JACOB BRADFORD.

LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM.

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR.

Price Twopence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.—"Arise, shine," 2d. "Bright and joyful," 3d. "Christ is born," 2d. "God so loved the world," 4d. "The heavenly choir," 3d. Sent post-free, by the Author, C. WARD, Speen, Princes Risboro'. Also may be had, "The Prodigal Son," a new Oratorio, 83 pages of music, 1s. 2d.

NEW CAROL FOR CHRISTMASTIDE.

RING OUT THROUGH EVERY NATION. By

F. J. WITHERS. Price 2d. Words only, 2s. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By EDWYN A. CLARE.

SING, O HEAVENS. Just published. 2nd 1,000 3d.

BEHOLD, I BRING. 4th Thousand 3d.

PRaise THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 4th Thousand 3d.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 2nd Thousand 4d.

"Melodious, flowing, and spirited."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.

ANTHEMS.

In the beginning	G. B. Allen	14d.
Christians, be joyful	Bach	3d.
Drop down, ye heavens	J. Barnby	14d.
Holy night	J. Barnby	14d.
The grace of God, that bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	14d.
*Sing and rejoice	J. Barnby	14d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Barnby	3d.
While Shepherds watched	W. T. Best	14d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	14d.
Hail! Thou that art highly favoured	Arthur Carnall	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Giovanni Croce	14d.
*Arise, shine, for thy light is come	Sir Geo. Elvey	14d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	14d.
Behold, a star appeareth	Niels W. Gade	4d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion	H. Gadsby	14d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings	Sir J. Goss	14d.
O sing to God (Noël). (Female Voices)	Ch. Gounod	6d.
O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.)	Ch. Gounod	14d.
Brightest and best	Rev. E. V. Hall	4d.
Behold, I bring	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah") Handel	Handel	3d.
Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	Dr. E. J. Hopkins	14d.
Sing, O heavens Kent	4d.
For unto us was born	Sir G. A. Macfarren	3d.
While all things were in quiet silence	Sir G. A. Macfarren	14d.
God, who at sundry times	J. H. Mee	4d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	The Earl of Mar	14d.
Rejoice, O ye people	Mendelssohn	14d.
Let our song of praise	Mendelssohn	14d.
Hallelujah! for unto us a child is born	Dr. W. H. Monk	14d.
*Sing unto the Lord	Vincent Novello	14d.
Glory to God in the highest	Perpognesi	14d.
Break forth into joy	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	C. W. Smith	14d.
The light hath shined	E. Silas	14d.
The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	6d.
O Zion, that bringest good tidings	J. Stainer	14d.
*The hallowed day hath shined upon us	J. Stainer	14d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	14d.
The angel Gabriel was sent from God	H. Smart	14d.
In the beginning was the Word	E. H. Thorne	14d.
Sing, O heavens	B. Tours	14d.
This is the day which the Lord hath made	J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined	Dr. C. G. Verrinder	14d.
There were Shepherds	Dr. Charles Vincent	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings Vittoria	14d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	Dr. S. S. Wesley	14d.
Glory be to God on high	Dr. S. S. Wesley	2d.
Anthems marked thus* to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 14d., and 2d. each.
Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS AND CAROLS.

Adestes Fideles ("O come, all ye faithful")	Arr. by V. Novello	14d.
Christians, awake! salute the happy morn	Dr. W. H. Monk	14d.
Hark! the herald angels sing	J. Baptist Calkin	14d.
"	Dr. Ions	14d.
"	Mendelssohn	14d.
Now join we all with holy mirth	J. Stainer	14d.
O come, all ye faithful	J. Barnby	14d.
Of the Father's love begotten	Rev. J. B. Dykes	14d.
See, the morning star	Dr. E. G. Monk	14d.
Shades of silent night	Samuel Gee	14d.
There were whisperings	J. T. Cooper	14d.
O come, all ye faithful	Old Melody	14d.
Approach, all ye faithful	J. Barnby	14d.
Christians, awake!	Sir J. Goss	14d.
Hark! the hosts of heaven are singing	Henry Smart	14d.
O come, new anthems let us sing	Dr. H. J. Gauntlett	14d.
Hark! the heavens' sweet melody	Sir J. Goss	14d.
O come, loud anthems let us sing	Dr. S. S. Wesley	14d.
Christ is born, tell forth His fame	Ch. Gounod	14d.
Come, ye nations, faithful own	Sir G. Elvey	14d.
Hark! the herald angels sing	Mendelssohn	14d.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORGAN MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.

SIX ORGAN PIECES (Book V. of "Collection of Organ Pieces")	W. T. Best	3 0
POSTLUDE	Dr. Garrett	1 6
OPFERTOIRE ("The Modern Organist," No. 9)	Léfebvre-Wély	2 6
OPFERTORIUM (Four Organ Pieces, No. 2)	J. Lemmens	2 6
VOLUNTARY	Sir Fred. Ouseley	2 6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PART-SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

*A Christmas Madrigal	T. Ions	14d.
A New Year's Carol	James Shaw	14d.
A Wreath for Christmas	Bartholomew	14d.
Caput apri defero	R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
Christmas	G. A. Macfarren	14d.
Come, let us be merry	R. L. de Pearsall	14d.
*Hollyberries	Dr. Westbrook	14d.
*In dulci jubilo	R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
*New Year's song	B. Tours	14d.
*Oh! the roast beef of Old England	14d.
The Christmas fairies	C. Goodban	14d.
*The last night of the year	A. Sullivan	14d.
The Waits	Saville	14d.
Up, brothers, up	J. B. Calkin	14d.

* These published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1d. and 14d. each.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.MENDELSSOHN'S
SIX CHRISTMAS PIECES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS MORN

A BIBLICAL PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY THE REV. S. J. STONE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HENRY LESLIE.

Vocal Score, 8vo, 2s. 6d. Vocal Parts, 6d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS EVE

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR ALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS.

Words by F. R. HAVERGAL

MUSIC BY

A. RANDEGGER.

Illustrated, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Carols for Christmastide

SET TO MUSIC

FOR LITTLE SINGERS

BY

GEORGE FOX.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

J. MAUDE CRAMENT.

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

- No. 1. SOFTLY THE NIGHT IS SLEEPING.
No. 2. IN EXCELSIS GLORIA.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REDUCED PRICES.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

NEW AND OLD

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE
REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY
JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.

THREE SERIES (MUSIC AND WORDS), ONE SHILLING EACH;

Cloth gilt, 2s. Three Series, complete, cloth gilt, 4s.

Words only, each Series, 1½d.; or, complete, 4d.; cloth, 6d.

First Series, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1s.; or, in separate numbers, 1d. each.

SEPARATE NUMBERS, ONE PENNY EACH:—

FIRST SERIES.

- | | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------------------------------|----------------|
| 1. God rest you merry, gentlemen... | Traditional. | 11. When I view the Mother ... | J. Barnby. |
| 2. The Manger Throne ... | Dr. Steggall. | 12. The seven joys of Mary ... | Traditional. |
| 3. A Virgin unspotted ... | Traditional. | 13. On the Birthday of the Lord ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 4. Come, ye lofty ... | Sir G. Elvey. | 14. What Child is this? ... | Old English. |
| 5. Come, tune your heart ... | Sir F. Ouseley. | 15. Glorious, beauteous, golden ... | Maria Tiddema |
| 6. The First Nowell ... | Traditional. | 16. Waken! Christian Children } ... | S. C. Hamerto |
| 7. Jesu, hail ... | J. Stainer. | 17. A Child this day is born ... | Traditional. |
| 8. Good Christian men ... | German. | 18. Carol for Christmas Eve ... | Sir F. Ouseley |
| 9. Sleep, holy Babe ... | Dr. Dykes. | 19. When Christ was born ... | A. H. Brown |
| 10. Good King Wenceslas ... | Traditional. | 20. Christmas Morning Hymn ... | J. Barnby. |

SECOND SERIES.

- | | | | |
|--|-----------------|--|--------------|
| 21. Carol for Christmas Eve ... | Traditional. | 33. A Cradle Song of the Blessed } ... | J. Barnby. |
| 22. Jesus in the Manger ... | H. Smart. | Virgin ... | ... |
| 23. The Holly and the Ivy ... | Old French. | 34. Christmas Song ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 24. The Moon shone bright ... | Traditional. | 35. Jacob's Ladder ... | Traditional. |
| 25. The Virgin and Child ... | Dr. Steggall. | 36. The Story of the Shepherd ... | J. Barnby. |
| 26. The Incarnation ... | Traditional. | 37. The Wassail Song ... | Traditional. |
| 27. Christmas Day ... | J. Stainer. | 38. In terrâ pax ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 28. The Cherry Tree Carol ... | Traditional. | 39. Dives and Lazarus ... | Traditional. |
| 29. God's dear Son ... | Traditional. | 40. From far away ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 30. Christmas Hymn ... | Sir J. Goss. | 41. Carol for Christmas Day ... | A. Sullivan. |
| 31. The Babe of Bethlehem ... | Traditional. | 42. The Child Jesus in the Garden ... | J. Stainer. |
| 32. In Bethlehem, that noble place ... | Sir F. Ouseley. | | |

THIRD SERIES.

- | | | | |
|---|---------------|--|---------------|
| 43. What soul-inspiring music ... | Har. by J. S. | 56. Christmas Night ... | A. H. Brown |
| 44. In the country nigh to Beth- } ... | G. Hine. | 57. The Christmas Celebration ... | E. Prout. |
| lehem ... | | 58. Arise and hail the Sacred Day ... | A. H. Brown |
| 45. We three Kings of Orient are ... | Har. by J. S. | 59. The Holy Well ... | Har. by J. S. |
| 46. Emmanuel, God with us... | H. Gadsby. | 60. The Angel and the Shepherds... | E. H. Thorpe |
| 47. New Prince, new pomp } ... | Dr. Steggall. | 61. The Coventry Carol ... | Har. by J. S. |
| 48. A babe is born ... | Har. by J. S. | 62. The Morning Star ... | Dr. Bridge. |
| 49. Come let us all sweet Carols } ... | F. Champneys. | 63. The Shepherds went their hasty } ... | J. F. Barnett |
| sing ... | | way ... | |
| 50. Let music break on this blest } ... | J. B. Calkin. | 64. I saw three ships ... | Har. by J. S. |
| morn ... | | 65. Mountains, bow your heads ... | W. H. Cummins |
| 51. Carol for New Year's Day ... | A. H. Brown. | 66. Luther's Carol ... | J. Higgs. |
| 52. The Angel Gabriel ... | Har. by J. S. | 67. The Boy's Dream ... | W. H. Morris |
| 53. The Shepherds amazed ... | A. H. Brown. | 68. Legends of the Infancy... | Dr. Bridge. |
| 54. Noël! Noël! ... | Har. by J. S. | 69. The Black Decree ... | Traditional |
| 55. I sing the birth ... | G. C. Martin. | 70. For Christmas Day ... | Traditional |

A Selection from the above (24) for Men's Voices, 2s.

Illustrated Edition (First and Second Series), handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7s.
Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding, 7s. 6d.

LONDON & NEW YORK; NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Largo in E flat	1s.
Twelve short and easy pieces for the Organ	2s.

Lists of all Compositions by the same to be had of the Publishers,
 London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SACRED MUSIC

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE RAYLEIGH VICARS, M.A.

BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL.

Anthem. 3d.

LORD, FOR THY TENDER
MERCIES' SAKE.

Anthem. 1½d.

"Two exceedingly effective Anthems, suitable for general use. Mr. Vicars writes well; and choirmasters wanting music full of expression will do well to see these compositions."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

BEHOLD, I SHEW YOU A MYSTERY.

Anthem. 3d.

"The composer of this anthem is evidently a musician who thinks for himself. There are some curious and clever effects—notably, . . ." &c.—Musical Times.

BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL.

Anthem. 3d.

"The closing bars are charming."—Musical Times.

PEACE I LEAVE WITH YOU.

Short Anthem for General use. 2d.

THE SONG OF THE SILENT
LAND.

Price 3d.

"May be made most effective."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR ADVENT.

SAY, WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE NIGHT?

Hymn, set to music by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK. Price Threepence net, or Two Shillings and Sixpence per doz.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also, by the same Composer, NEW EDITION, revised by himself, of SEVEN HYMNS, in various Metres, set to music.

Price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also, by the same Composer,

BLESSED ARE THE DEAD. A short, full, and easy Anthem, with introductory Organ Symphony, suitable for All Saints' Day and Funeral Services. Price 3d. To be had also arranged, by W. MEYER LUTZ, for Voices, Organ, two Cornets, two Trombones, and Muffled Drums. Also, shortly, for full Orchestra.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also, by the same Composer, SECOND EDITION of TWELVE SINGLE CHANTS, together with Double Chant (for Psalms xliii. and xxxviii.), a Setting of Benedicite, omnia Opera, and Responsive Aens to the "Dresden" Amen.

Price 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHILDREN OF THE HEAVENLY KING,

"On the Resurrection Morning," and other new Tunes. Just published. Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By ARTHUR R. WHITLEY. Price 3d. "Smoothly written."—Musical Times. "We recommend this service for the use of country choirs."—Church Bells.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MORNING and EVENING SERVICE in A flat

(with BENEDICTUS), by BASIL HARWOOD, M.A., Mus. Bac., Organist of Ely Cathedral. Price 6d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC.

SOLEMN MARCH, by T. TERTIUS NOBLE. Price

1s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

O LORD, HAVE MERCY. Anthem for Festival

or General use. By VINCENT MORGAN. Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S (WM.) FESTAL and GENERAL ANTHEMS.

- No. 1. THE LORD REIGNETH. Easter, Whitsuntide, or General.
 " 2. THUS SAITH THE LORD, THE KING OF ISRAEL. Easter, Trinity, or General.
 " 3. PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY. Harvest, Easter, or Whitsuntide.
 " 4. I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD, MY KING. Festival or General.
 " 5. IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. Christmas.
 " 6. I WILL GIVE THANKS. Easter, Ascension, or General.
 " 7. ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE, O LORD. Harvest or General.

Price 2d. each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Price Fourpence.

THE OFFICE FOR HOLY COMMUNION

Set to simple Music in the key of G. By HENRY J. PEEL. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; also

H. J. P. WESTGATE, Mansfield, Notts.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By

S. BATH. Price Threepence.

"A composition of much stately grace."—Scotsman.
 "Will form an acquisition."—Graphic.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat

by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. By

ALFRED J. DYE. Price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced Price, Threepence.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO

and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by ALFRED R. GAUL

HOSANNA TO THE SON OF DAVID. Anthem for Palm Sunday

YULE TIDE. Christmas Carol. Specially written for use in places of Worship. With obligato Organ Accompaniment

BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. Anthem

for the Season of Christmas.

O PRAISE GOD IN HIS HOLINESS. Festival Anthem

NO SHADOWS YONDER ("Holy City")

FOR THEE, O DEAR, DEAR COUNTRY ("Holy City")

THINE IS THE KINGDOM ("Holy City")

BLESSED ARE THE DEPARTED AND WHY SHOULD'ST

THOU FEAR THE BEAUTIFUL ANGEL DEATH,

from the Passion Music, and specially adapted for use at

Funeral Services

AVE MARIA. Choral Song ("Joan of Arc")

WEDDING CHORAL MARCH ("Ruth"). Specially adapted for use at Weddings

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. Anthem

TWENTY OFFERTORY SENTENCES

THE SHIPWRECK. Birmingham Prize Glee

The gratuitous loan of Orchestral Parts, as also the same arranged as Pianoforte Duet, may be had on application to the COMPOSER.

THE CHILDREN. Part-Song (S.A.T.B.)

SIX SCHOOL SONGS (4th Thousand)

THE CORNER STONE. Masonic Song.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THOUSANDS OF POUNDS

Are raised every season for Parochial and Congregational Funds performing

SERVICES OF SONG.

J. CURWEN & SONS have just issued

ABRAHAM THE PATRIARCH

JUDAS THE WARRIOR.

And they will be pleased, until the end of November, to send a sample copy of these gratuitously to the Conductor of any Choir that performs Services of Song, enclosing at the same time a descriptive list of Services. Please mention name of Choir, and if Old or New Notations are desired.

London: J. CURWEN and SONS, 8 & 9, Warwick Lane, E.C.

Just Published. Price One Penny.

ST. PATRICK'S BREASTPLATE

(Version by Mrs. Alexander.)

PRIZE TUNE

BY

T. R. G. JOZÈ, Mus. D.

To be had at the Depository of "The Christian Knowledge Association," 37, Dawson Street, Dublin.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

'Tis Morn 3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.).. 2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) .. 3d.	Welcome, young Spring! .. 2d.
The River 3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.).. 2d.
Over the mountain side .. 3d.	The Dream of Home .. 2d.
Soul of living music .. 3d.	Summer and Winter .. 2d.
The Jäger Chorus 3d.	Departed Joys 2d.
The Stormy Petrel 3d.	There's beauty in the deep 1½d.
The Coral Grove 3d.	Soldier, rest! 1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu .. 3d.	Woods in Winter 1d.
The Oyster Dredgers 2d.	Autumn 1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

Three Doughtie Men. (34th thousand) 3d.
Three Children sliding. (6th thousand) 3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste 3d.
The Snow-white Doe 4d.
Ben Bowles (EDWARD OXENFORD) 4d.
The Carrion Crow 3d.

PART-SONGS.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse 4d.	The Ocean 3d.
Off to Sea 4d.	*The Ironfounders (24th thou.) 3d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas 26th thousand .. 2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all 7th .. 3d.
A Happy New Year 5th .. 3d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood 53rd .. 2d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, and Forest Echoes 9th .. each 3d.
Fairy Revels 12th .. 3d.
England's Glory 7th .. 3d.
Sunny Rays and The Streamlet 4th .. each 3d.
Songs of Praise the Angels sang 7th .. 3d.
Who is Sylvia? and Where are you roaming? 2nd .. each 3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave 2nd .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced price, 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

TO TAKE THE AIR A BONNY LASS WAS WALKING. A Madrigal for S.A.T.B. Composed by W. WOLSTENHOLME, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; Manchester: WATSON and Co. Post-free from the COMPOSER, 36, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by ALBERT HAM, F.C.O.

Part-Song—"The sun has gone down" (S.A.T.B.) .. 2d.
—"Little Jack Horner" 4d.
(Sung with great success in London and provinces.)
Two-part Songs (s.c.)—"The Robin" 2d.
—"The Skylark" 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED GILBERT'S SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOLS and CHOIR-BOYS is equally adapted for Ladies' and other Schools. Price 6d. Appendix of Practical Exercises. 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SINGING BOOK Series of Two-Part Songs, For Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Suitable for Classes. 8vo, 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A VILLAGE HOLIDAY

(UNE FÊTE AU VILLAGE)

English Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM.

MUSIC ARRANGED AS DUET AND CHORUS BY

B. LÜTGEN.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CONSIDER THE LILIES

The Words selected from the Holy Scriptures; the Music composed by ROBERT TOPLIFF.

ARRANGED FOR TWO VOICES BY

B. LÜTGEN.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net, by GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR COMPOSITIONS by GABRIEL DAVIS.

SONGS.

	Net.
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? (New Patriotic Song.) s. d.
The Words written by F. E. Weatherly 2 0
(Sung by Mr. THURLEY BEALE.)

KING CARNIVAL. The Words written by F. E. Weatherly 2 0
BY THE RIVER. The Words written by Herbert Gardner .. 2 0
ELSIE (The Flower Girl's Song) 2 0
(Sung by Miss ADA TOLKIEN.)

THE ZINGARA 2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON.)

THE COMING YEAR. The Words written by Dean Alford 2 0
THE OLD MEADOW GATE. The Words written by R. Richardson, Esq. 2 0
NELLIE OF THE LEA. The words written by R. Richardson, Esq. 2 0
THE LITTLE LASS O' BRAY. The Words written by Edward Oxenford 2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON and Miss JEANIE ROSSE.)

PIANOFORTE, &c.

ALBANY. Grande Marche Triomphale (Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold). 2nd Edition 2 0
Transcription for the Organ, by Dr. W. J. Westbrook .. 2 0
MY LADY BARBARA'S GAVOTTE 2 0

PART-SONGS, S.A.T.B.

THE THREE STARS. 2nd Edition 0 2
THE KNIGHT'S RETURN. 8th Edition 0 2
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. 10th Edition 0 2
THE DISTANT SEA. 6th Edition 0 2
TO THE WOODS. 13th Edition 0 2
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC. 8th Edition 0 2
THE HOUR OF REST. 5th Edition 0 2
DAME WIGGINS OF LEE. (Humorous.) 10th Edition .. 0 2
DAME TROT. (Humorous.) 7th Edition 0 2
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? 4th Edition. (Patriotic Part-Song. For T.T.B.B.) 0 3

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS by A. J. CALDI-COTT.

Poor Little Tom-ee (just published) 6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (just published) .. 6d.
Humpty Dumpty 6d.
Little Jack Horner (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) 6d.
Jack and Jill 4d.
The House that Jack built (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) 6d.
Sobbing Quartet 3d.
The Haymakers. Part-song 4d.
Out on the Waters. Part-song 4d.
Yule. Part-song 4d.
The Boy and the Bee 6d.

London: METZLER and Co., 42, Great Marlborough Street, W.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

TOM, TOM, THE PIPER'S SON. By ALFRED ALLEN, composer of "Dickory, Dickory, Dock." Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.	4. The Skylark.
2. The Nightingale.	5. The Owl.
3. The Dove.	6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming, the voice-parts being so disposed that they may be easily learnt, and the accompaniments are as characteristic as they are pretty. Each separate piece is so good that we cannot make references to special favourites. Young ladies who take pleasure in part-singing will find variety in the collection, and both in the home circle and in the school class Mr. Gaul's new work is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s. d.
Complete, paper cover 1 0
scarlet cloth 2 6
Or, in Six Numbers each 0 2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

The London Music Publishing Co., Limited.

STANDARD
SERVICES AND ANTHEMS

The Organ Accompaniments Arranged and the whole Revised

BY

W. J. WESTBROOK,

Mus. Doc., CANTAB.

In making a new Edition of these Popular Services and Anthems, it seemed well that the Accompaniments should be made playable upon the modern Organ, the old G manual having almost disappeared from churches and "places where they sing." In doing this, the Editor has been careful to make it easy to play—easier than it was before—and at the same time clear and effective. As these Services have been, and most likely will continue to be, more widely sung than any others, there can be no reason why they should remain in a fossil condition.

This Edition claims to be, therefore, something more than a mere reproduction of existing copies.

Now Ready, Super-Royal 8vo.

JACKSON, in F, paper covers, 8d. | ARNOLD, in A, paper covers, 6d.
BOYCE, in A " 8d. | EBDON (Evening), in C " 3d.

Each Movement printed separately.

To be continued.

Just ready, handsomely Illustrated.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Edited and Revised, with an Historical Preface

BY

DR. W. J. WESTBROOK.

One Vol.; super-royal 8vo.

Price 1s.; handsomely bound in cloth, 2s. 6d.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ORGAN

By W. J. WESTBROOK, Mus. Doc., CANTAB.

This work has been designed to meet the wants of those Organists who have to play organs more or less incomplete. The whole of the pieces may be played, therefore, upon organs with two keyboards; many of them, by a little management, upon organs with only one. The pedal is, of course, indispensable. It has been the aim to make all the pieces throughout playable, and as easy as was consistent with their due effect.

Nos. 1 to 16 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

Complete in 2 vols., handsomely bound, 5s. each net.

THE ORGAN JOURNAL

By W. J. WESTBROOK, Mus. Doc., CANTAB.

The pieces here provided are of moderate difficulty, may be played upon organs with two keyboards and pedals, and appear for the first time in any publication for the organ, almost without exception.

Nos. 1 to 8 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

Complete in one vol., handsomely bound, 5s. net.

The only Edition as performed.

MESSIAH

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 1 of New Edition of Standard Oratorios and Cantatas.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by
SIR GEORGE MACFARREN.

The only Edition as performed.

THE CREATION

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 2 of New Edition of Standard Oratorios and Cantatas.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by
SIR GEORGE MACFARREN.

Prospectuses of Series gratis and post-free.

MY JUBILEE. By SIMS REEVES.

Price 6s. net.

"Exceedingly pleasantly written."—The Times.

"Will be read with instruction by musicians and with pleasure by everybody."—Daily Telegraph, July 20.

"May be sure of a large circle of interested readers."—Daily News.

"A most interesting account of his own career."—St. James's Gazette, July 20.

THE ROYAL PERSIAN MARCH, official copy as accepted by his Imperial Majesty the Shah, K.G., and dedicated by special permission to the Right Hon. Sir Henry Drummond-Wolff, G.C.B. Ready this day, 2s. net.

THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY (LIMITED),
54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, W.

London: 24, Castle St., Berners St., W.

PATERSON & SONS

(MUSIC PUBLISHERS, EDINBURGH)

Beg respectfully to announce to the Trade, Profession, and Musical Public that owing to the increasing demand for their publications in London and the Provinces, they have formed a DEPOT at the above address, where their music can now be had.

PUBLISHERS of the following IMPORTANT and SUCCESSFUL WORKS:—

EASTER EVE.

SONG BY CHARLES GOUNOD.

Keys C, B flat, A, and G. 2s. net.

One of the best written by this eminent Composer.

BONNIE KILMENY

CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA, BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

Staff, 2s. net; Sol-fa, 1s. net; Harmonium Part, 3s. net. Full Score and Orchestral Parts on hire.

Conductors of Choral Societies should see this beautiful and interesting Work. Received with the greatest enthusiasm wherever performed.

NEW SONGS BY HAMISH MACCUNN.

A Heart in Armour 4s.	The Ash Tree. E flat, F .. 4s.
To Julia, weeping 3s.	At the mid hour of night .. 4s.
I'll tend thy bower. Keys, B flat and C 4s.	I will think of thee, my love .. 4s.

The Strathearn Collection of Part-Songs.

Price 2d. Those marked *, 3d.; Sol-fa, 1d.

- | | |
|--|---------------------------------|
| 1. *The Auld House | Comp. or Arr. by H. A. Lambeth. |
| 2. *The March of the Cameron Men | " |
| 3. *Will ye no come back again | " |
| 4. *Auld Edinburgh Cries | " |
| 5. Braw, Braw Lads | " |
| 6. Bonnie Prince Charlie ("Cam' ye by Athol") | " |
| 7. Roslin Castle | " |
| 8. The War Song of the Men of Glamorgan | " |
| 9. Savourneen Deelish | " |
| 10. The Jolly Miller | " |
| 11. Begone, dull care | " |
| 12. *How calm, how beautiful (Sol-fa, 1d.) | T. Richardson |
| 13. *The Two Doo's | J. Yorkston. |
| 14. *The Covenanter's Widow's Lament | " |
| 15. *It was a Lordling's Daughter | T. Richardson. |
| 16. *The March of the Cameron Men | J. Yorkston. |
| 17. *Will ye no come back again | " |
| 18. Flowers of the Forest | W. Hume. |
| 19. Caller Herrin' | " |
| 20. Lord Gregory | " |
| 21. Pibroch o' Donuill Dhu | " |
| 22. The Rowan Tree | H. A. Lambeth. |
| 23. Bonnie ran the burnie | " |
| 24. The Bonnie Brier Bush | " |
| 25. Joy of my earliest days | " |
| 26. The trump of war | " |
| 27. Bonnie Wee Thing | F. Peterson. |
| 28. Of a' the Airts | H. A. Lambeth. |
| 29. My Nannie's awa' | " |
| 30. Good night and joy be wi' ye a' | " |
| 31. *Gondellied (In the gondola), Op. 20 | Alfred Gallreich. |
| 32. A Sailor's Song (Seemann's Lied), Staff, 6d. | O. Schweizer. |
| 33. *Chorus of spirits ("Bonnie Kilmeny") | H. MacCunn. |
| 34. *Weep not for her (ditto) | " |

THE WAVERLEY COLLECTION OF VOCAL TRIOS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Price 3d.

- | | |
|---|---------------|
| 1. Mid the lilies | O. Schweizer. |
| 2. Bonnie Kilmeny went up the glen] | H. MacCunn. |
| 3. Robin Adair | G. Fox. |
| 4. Flora Macdonald's Lament | " |
| 5. Jock o' Hazeldean | " |

PRACTICAL SIGHT-SINGING

A MANUAL FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES

By FRANKLIN S. PETERSON. 1s. net.

SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS

A COLLECTION OF SACRED AND SECULAR SONGS FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

By GEORGE FOX. 1s. net.

Complete Catalogue on application.

PATERSON AND SONS,

LONDON: 24, CASTLE STREET, BERNERS STREET, W.
(AGENT—E. DONAJOWSKI.)

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT 1881, CONTAINING 37 TUNES, 6d.

TO MATCH EITHER EDITION.

The complete work, containing 751 Tunes and Chants. s. d.

9. Limp cloth	4	0
10. Cloth boards	5	0
11. Small edition	3	0
12. Tonic Sol-fa	3	0

First and Second Series can still be had separate.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS (BIBLE VERSION),

With Canticles and Anthems.

Printed for Chanting for Congregational use 1 3

(Offered in quantity at reduced price per dozen.)

The pointing is of the simplest plan, easily understood, and without multiplication of marks and accents, which tend to confuse rather than help.

Communications and inquiries as to copyrights, and also as to copies of these works at reduced prices, may be addressed to the publishers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN; and all Booksellers and Musiciansellers.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

SECOND EDITION. REDUCED PRICES.

Words and Music, 4to, cloth, price 4s. 6d.; 18mo, 1s. 9d.; Treble, 16mo, 1s. Words only, 9d. and 6d.; paper, 4½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

And SIMPKIN and MARSHALL.

THE HOME HYMN-BOOK.

Second Edition, with Music, 3s. 6d. Words only, 6d. and upwards.

G. C. MARTIN: "It is one of the very best collections existing." FRANK BATES: "I have gone carefully through the book, and like it exceedingly."

J. C. BRIDGE: "An excellent collection, and the number of hymns suitable for children is a strong feature."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Hymns, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

THE LORD REIGNETH

(PSALM 93RD)

SET TO MUSIC BY

ROBERT PARKER PAINE.

Price One Shilling.

The composer of this work is evidently well versed in the English School of Music, and his Psalm would make an extremely effective hymn for festival occasions."—Musical Times.The Lord Reigneth' has been well set to music by Robert Parker Paine," &c.—Graphic.Successful and meritorious."—Windsor and Eton Gazette. The composition gives full effect to the spirit of the words. There is grandeur about the composition in harmony with the tone of the hymn."—Eton Express.Without doubt there is very much that is really grand in it."—Northamptonshire Advertiser.A very successful setting. The opening solo (baritone) is effective, the choruses are bold and striking," &c.—Ecclesiastical Gazette.A composition which is of an effective character."—Worcester Chronicle.An able setting of the 93rd Psalm."—Worcester Daily Times. Full Score (MS.) and Band Parts can be hired or lent on certain conditions.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW AND REVISED TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.

EDITED BY W. G. McNAUGHT.

ELIJAH

AN ORATORIO

BY

MENDELSSOHN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Fifth Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s., paper cover; 3s., cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite, exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page, and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 32mo, without Chants, 9d. with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with Chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 13d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

And PARKER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twentieth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small edition is in preparation.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Published November 4.

DIVINE LOVE

A CHURCH ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES B. RUTENBER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WEBSTER'S GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. 2nd Edition.

"The examination questions are searching and well chosen."—See The Musical Standard, January 23, 1888."A thoroughly useful work."—See Graphic, March 3, 1888.

WEBSTER'S MUSIC COPYBOOK.

"An item of education which deserves to be supported."—See Musical Times, March, 1888.

London: SIMPKIN and MARSHALL; or all Booksellers.

THE VESPER BELL

SERIES OF ORGAN PIECES

EDITED AND COMPOSED

By WALTER SPINNEY.

No.		s. d.
1.	VESPER BELLS (5th printing) net	1 6
2.	HARVEST HOME (4th printing)	1 6
3.	SONGS IN THE NIGHT (5th printing)	1 0
4.	STATE MARCH, in C (2nd printing)	2 0
5.	ALLEGRO, by Dr. DUPUIS (2nd printing)	1 6
6.	DAYBREAK, Andante (varied). Composed expressly for the eminent Belgian Organist, M. AUGUSTE WIEGAND (2nd printing)	1 6
7.	BERCEUSE (just out)	1 6

Are played by the Organists of St. Paul's Cathedral, the Crystal Palace, The Madeleine, Paris; Exeter, Peterborough, Cork, Liverpool, Bangor, Salisbury, and Norwich Cathedrals; on the Grand Organs at Rheims Cathedral, St. Eustache, Paris, and The Kursaal, Ostend; the Parish Churches of Boston and St. Michael's, Coventry; Sherborne Abbey; Magdalen and Keble Colleges, Oxford, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS, REVIEWS, &c.:

"Very many thanks for the charming little movement."—"Songs in the Night."—Mus. D., Cathedral Organist.

"This last piece ('Daybreak') is fully up to the excellence of the former numbers; I quite look forward to the arrival of each number."—Late Oxford Coll. Organist, and Tutor to the late H.R.H. Duke of Albany.

"I have played your 'Harvest Home' and 'State March,' which I think quite out of the common, at my Sunday evening Recitals. There are generally from 500 to 700 people remain behind."—Solo Organist.

"Songs in the Night' I am including in my next programme, and I am sure it will delight everybody. It haunts all who hear it."—Abbey Organist.

"I am certain the organ pieces will find a place in every Organist's library. We have very little of your style of composition in the English organ music. If we want melody and taste we have to resort to France or Italy. . . . Your accompaniment to the melody in 'Songs in the Night' is really original and immensely pretty."—Scotch Solo Organist and well-known Composer.

"As examples of tone-painting nothing could have been more delicious than the selection from Walter Spinney's 'Songs in the Night.' . . . With such music, and with the aid of an exquisitely balanced swell organ—which M. Wiegand is a perfect master—he was enabled to put his audience in an ecstasy of devotional feeling. His management of the duplicate melody in Spinney's composition was exquisite, the rich mellow stops being brought out one after the other in beautiful contrast."—Bradford Observer, May 21, 1889.

"Thank you for the pretty little piece you sent me; it is a veritable little Nocturne for the Organ."—Mus. Bac., Cantab., Professor Royal Academy of Music, and Composer to the Leeds Triennial Festivals.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Or, of the COMPOSER, Bemerton House, Leamington Spa.

Gentlemen playing these pieces in public would confer a favour by sending copies of their programmes to Mr. SPINNEY.

OFFERTOIRES FOR THE ORGAN

By DR. JACOB BRADFORD.

No. I. ADVENT HYMN	rs. od.
" VI. HANOVER	rs. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOW TO LEARN TO PLAY THE PIANO

WELL. 5th Ed. "The Art of Playing at Sight." 5th Ed. "Little Difficulties in Playing Explained." "Rules of Simple Harmony." 3rd Ed. "Harmonium, and How to Play it." "How to Form and Train a Choir." 2nd Ed. "How to Tune your own Piano." rs. each net. THOS. SMITH, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

POPULAR PIANO PIECES by HORTON ALLISON.

Fingering fully printed for right and left hands throughout.

LYRICS. Moderately difficult. Sets 1 and 2	4s.
VALSE—"Star of India." on white keys only. Easy	3s.
MAZURKA in F—"Oakleigh." Rather easy	4s.
TWO AIRS COMBINED (Solo). Not difficult	3s.
SEA SONG (Piano or American Organ). Melody	2s.
MELODIOUS PIANO STUDIES, in Two Books. Book 1, Easy; Book 2, Moderately difficult	6s.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

Dedicated, by permission, to the College of Organists.

2ND THOUSAND.—ON TUNING THE ORGAN:

Illustrated. Faults with remedies. Post-free, 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. HEMSTOCK, Organist, Diss. "Every page shows that Mr. Hemstock is master of his subject."—Musical Standard.

"Contains much useful information."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

THEORY OF MUSIC

By LOUISA GIBSON.

FIRST BOOK (25th Thousand). Price 1s.—Elements of Music.
SECOND BOOK (4th Edition). Price 1s. Newly revised, assisted by E. PROUT, Esq.—Triads, Suspensions, &c.

THIRD BOOK (2nd Edition). Price 1s. Newly revised, assisted by E. PROUT, Esq.—Dissonant Harmony, Counterpoint, &c.

"Real marvels of conciseness and practical utility."—E. Aguilar.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Staff Edition. Ninth and Tenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

Paper cover	s. d.	price 2 6	Tonic Sol-fa	s. d.	price 1 0
" boards	"	3 0	Vocal parts	"	1 0
Scarlet cloth	"	4 0	Words only	"	7 6

ENT. STA. HALL.

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

EDITED BY SIR JOHN STAINER.

Will be published November 4.

MUSICAL DICTATION

A PRACTICAL GUIDE

FOR MUSICAL STUDENTS

BY

FRÉDÉRIC LOUIS RITTER.

IN TWO PARTS.—PART II.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s. in stiff-paper, 3s. net.

A COMPLETE COURSE OF WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS FOR STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. LEFFLER ARNOLD, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: " . . . I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: " . . . I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: " . . . Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Hinde Street, W.

HARMONY: ITS THEORY AND PRACTICE.

By EBENEZER PROUT, Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music, &c. Bound, net 5s.

AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate Street, E.C.; and only West End address, 1, Foubert's Place, W., London.

HARMONY LESSONS (2nd Edition). By C. A.

TREW. Adapted for Self-Instruction and Tuition by Correspondence. "All that is required as a preparation for the study of larger works."—Musical World. Price 1s. SCHOTT, 159, Regent Street, and AUTHOR, 57, Addison Mansions, West Kensington.

NEW SONG FOR SOPRANO

BY THE WAYSIDE

WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR ORGAN OR HARMONIUM AND VIOLIN (ad lib.)

COMPOSED BY

E. BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REDUCED PRICES OF

HOUSELEY AND MONK'S

POINTED PSALTER.

4to Edition, with Chants in Short Score	4	0
12mo Edition. Vocal Parts	each	1 6
32mo Edition. Words only	0	9
Ditto. Ditto, with Proper Psalms	1	0

This pointing of the Psalter is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Staff Notation Edition. Sixteenth and Seventeenth Thousand.

RUTH

A PASTORAL CANTATA

Words by EDWARD OXFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilt's Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM,
ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s. The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. The gratuitous loan of Band Parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Complete Edition. Fourth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(Composer of the "Holy City," "Ruth," &c.)

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Parts I. and II.	each	s. d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers	each	0 2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HAROLD.—DRAMATIC CANTATA for SOLO VOICES and ORCHESTRA. Founded on Lord Lytton's Historical Novel. The Poetry by the Rev. F. W. VERNHAM; the Music by J. F. H. READ. Performed at the Walthamstow Musical Festival for 1887. Price 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORGANISTS!

RUMMENS'
ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT
FOR PIANOFORTES
FOR THE HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN
MUSIC.

WRITE AT ONCE FOR NEW ILLUSTRATED
PRICE LIST,

Giving full particulars of this most unique mode of applying Organ Pedals to Pianos, and after careful perusal you will be convinced that every word lavished in its favour by

Sir JOHN STAINER,
Dr. JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE,
Dr. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST,
Dr. EDWARD J. HOPKINS,
Dr. GEORGE C. MARTIN,
Dr. CHARLES STEGGALL,
E. H. TURPIN, Esq.,

Mus. Bac.'s, R.A.M.'s, and hundreds of other customers (including the nobility), is fully merited.

My Pedals and Attachment are superior to others for the following reasons:—

They are more easily applied to any Piano, &c., by any one.

Every gradation of tone can be obtained from pp to ff, but not louder, so Piano is not injured by heavy pedalling.

The touch is simply perfection—according to the testimonials from the above-mentioned.

The action is thoroughly mechanical, and will thus bear favourable comparison with other advertised "notions." It is guaranteed, with ordinary care, to last for many years.

They are the best London make, and every Set being French polished (to order) to match Piano, will not offend the most educated eye or cultured taste—in short, they will harmonise with the fittings and appointments of the most elegant drawing-room, and, when not in use, can be removed instantly, and replaced (when required) as quickly.

Kindly call and try them, or depute a London friend to do so.

The most liberal and easy terms of payment arranged to suit the most straitened means.

The Profession and Trade invited to apply for List.

HENRY J. RUMMENS,

47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

PEDAL PIANOS for SALE or HIRE.

PEDAL PIANO PRACTICE, SIXPENCE PER HOUR.

F. ST. JOHN LACY.

ANNABEL LEE (2nd edition). 4d. net.

"Mr. F. St. John Lacy has written some very effective music to the words of Edgar Poe's 'Annabel Lee.' It is arranged as a solo for tenor, with chorus, which is very cleverly handled by the composer."—Saturday Review.

THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY (Limited), 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MUSICAL FRAGMENTS

A SERIES OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANO, SONGS (Secular, Sacred, and Humorous), VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS, DUETS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO, FLUTE AND PIANO, VIOLONCELLO AND PIANO, and numerous other forms by various eminent Composers.

Folio size, ONE SHILLING net; by post, 14 Stamps, of all Musicsellers.

CONTENTS.

BOOK 1.

MARCHES FOR PIANOFORTE.

Pioneer	J. Horspool.
Cavalcade	Theo. Bonheur.
March of the Pilgrims	A. Graham.
Processional	A. W. Marchant.
Roman	E. Boggetti.
Recessional	W. Haynes.
Druids	A. Carnall.
Gladiators	A. J. Greenish.

BOOK 2.

DUETS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO.

Prayer	Sydney Beresford.
Swing Song	"
Gigue	"
Romance	"

BOOK 3.

ALBUM OF DANCES.

Phemie Waltz	E. Boggetti.
Westminster Quadrille	"
Merry Gipsy Mazurka	"
Blue Bell Polka	"
Dearie Waltz	"
Fairyland Schottische	"
Madeline Polka-Mazurka	"
Frivolity Galop	"

The Cornet part of above, 6d. net.

BOOK 4.

GAVOTTE AND MINUET ALBUM.

Leonora Gavotte	E. Boggetti.
Aurora Minuet	Odoardo Barri.
Ariadne Gavotte	A. Graham.
Woodbine Minuet	Theo. Bonheur.
Minstrel's Minuet	A. J. Greenish.
Diana Gavotte	Odoardo Barri.
Elfin Gavotte	Theo. Bonheur.
Malvern Minuet	W. Haynes.
Stella Minuet	A. W. Marchant.
Twilight Minuet	F. F. Rogers.
Pastorale Gavotte	J. Horspool.

BOOK 5.

MARCHES FOR PIANOFORTE.

Moonlight March	J. Thérèse.
Marcia Funèbre	S. Smith.
Grand March	Frank Manly.
College March	Theo. Bonheur.
Marche des Cavaliers	J. Thérèse.
Senator's March	A. Graham.
Tuscan March	J. E. Newell.
Funeral March	Odoardo Barri.
Festal March	J. Thérèse.
Processional March	S. Smith.
Emigrant's March	J. C. Beazley.

BOOK 6.

EASY TRIOS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Daughter of Zion	L. Mason.
Hebrew Morning Hymn	Méhul.
Far o'er the wave	Swiss Air.
The Weaver's Song	C. H. Purday.
The Vesper Hour	Moore.
When the sweet night	National Air.
The faded flower	J. Hook.
Where is the home	German.
Like a dream	National Air.
Hail to the brightness	L. Mason.
Afar from my home	Sicilian Air.
The merry harvest home	German.

BOOK 7.

SIX SKETCHES FOR PIANO.

Early Morn	E. W. Hamilton.
Scherzino	"
Day Dreaming	"
Resignation	"
Greeting	"
Parting	"

BOOK 8.

DUETS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO.

Toccata	J. E. Newell.
Gavotte	"
Lullaby	"
Prelude	"
Gigue	"
Nocturne	"

BOOK 9.

GAVOTTE ALBUM.

Gavotte	Henri Stanislaus.
Gavotte	Frank Manly.
Gavotte	Seymour Smith.
Gavotte	J. E. Newell.
Gavotte	Theo. Bonheur.
Gavotte	Jules Thérèse.
Gavotte	King Hall.
Gavotte	Vernon Key.
Gavotte	Henry Stanislaus.

BOOK 10.

SIX GRAND STUDIES.

The rolling waves	E. B. Jewson.
La Coquette	"
Dancing Nymphs	"
The Rippling Stream	"
Romance	"
The Waterfall	"

BOOK 11.

DUETS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO.

Arietta	Kent Sutton.
Andante Religioso	"
Tarantelle	"
Melodie	"
Menuet	"
Barcarolle	"

BOOK 12.

SACRED SONGS.

Jesus is mine	Michael Watson.
Art Thou, my Saviour, ever near	Beethoven.
There shone a star in heaven	F. L. Moir.
O Lord, in Thee I put my trust	M. Costa.
Consider the lilies	Alexander Lee.

BOOK 13.

CLASSICAL ALBUM.

Heureux Printemps (Caprice)	Eug. Wagner.
Caprice à la Tarantelle	Carlo Perrone.
Dulcinea (Scherzo in A)	Leonard Gautier.
Don Quixote (Scherzo in E minor)	"
Sancho Panza (Scherzo in C)	"

BOOK 14.

PIANOFORTE DUETS.

Intermezzo	Berthold Tours.
Gavotte Pastorale	E. Boggetti.
Pan Chorazy (Polonaise)	S. Moniuszko.

BOOK 15.

GAVOTTE ALBUM.

Gavotte Pastorale	E. Boggetti.
Gavotte Antique	Haydn Mellor.
Gavotte in C	W. H. Richmond.
Gavotte de la Reine	Carlo Perrone.
Daphne (Danse Ancienne)	Frank Manly.
Gyneth (Gavotte)	Arthur Garland.

BOOK 16.

DUETS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO.

La Styrienne	Alois Volkmer.
Elégie	Viotti Collins.
Les Cloches	Michael Pearsall.
La Romanesca	Odoardo Barri.

BOOK 17.

THE JUVENILE PIANIST.

The Croquet Party	L. Waldstein.
The Gondola	W. Smallwood.
Song of my heart	Carl Hause.
The Little Sailors	L. Waldstein.
Fairy Harp	Joseph Varey.
Dearie	Vernon Rey.
The Fairy Well	W. Smallwood.
On dine	Joseph Varey.
The Haymakers	L. Waldstein.
Royalists' March	E. Boggetti.
The Little Soldiers	L. Waldstein.

BOOK 18.

VOCAL DUETS FOR SOP. & CON.

Night and Morning	Vernon Rey.
Pleasant Times	A. Graham.
When we were young	A. Knight.

BOOK 19.

LADIES' HUMOROUS SONGS.

Bewitching (Vocal Gavotte)	E. Boggetti.
Tell Tale Tit	Arthur Briscoe.
Cousin Madge	Geo. E. Iles.
Gooseberry Fools	Réséda.

BOOK 20.

MARCHES FOR PIANOFORTE.

March of the Bards	T. Kay.
The Troubadours' March	J. E. Newell.
March of the Friars	Theo. Bonheur.
March of the Minstrels	F. A. Dunster.
Foresters' March	J. E. Newell.

BOOK 21.

VIOLONCELLO AND PIANO ALBUM.

Moonlight	E. Boggetti.
Mazurka	J. Cotrufo.
Repose	Berthold Tours.
Romance	J. Cotrufo.

BOOK 22.

DUETS FOR FLUTE AND PIANO.

Old English Rustic Dance	E. M. Flavell.
Cradle Song	"
Romance	"
Galop	"

BOOK 23.

HARP ALBUM.

Dreams of Mendelssohn	Chatterton.
Selections from Maritana	N. Ch. Bochsa.
Mendelssohn's Wedding March	Chatterton.
Selections from Martha	"

BOOK 24.

CLASSICAL ALBUM.

Une Fête Rustique	J. W. Lowe.
Polish Dance	H. Wienskowitz.
Danse des Marionnettes	N. Chaplin.
Cavatina	J. H. Kay.
Bourée	A. Rowland.

BOOK 25.

BARITONE ALBUM.

The Freebooter (C to E)	M. Elliott.
Heroes (A to E)	D. A. Barnard.
Britain's Flag (D to E)	J. E. Newell.
Our Little Craft (D to E)	H. Stanislaus.
The Knight's Bride (A to E)	J. L. Hatton.

BOOK 26.

TENOR ALBUM.

Waiting for Thee (F to A flat)	D. A. Barnard.
A Loyal Heart (F to G)	C. F. Hayward.
My Queen of Hearts (D to G)	E. Harper.
Shadow Dreaming (F to F)	J. North.
Thine (D to F)	P. Otway.

BOOK 27.

CONTRALTO ALBUM.

Finette (B to D)	J. L. Molloy.
Past Days (D to D)	J. L. Roedel.
Realm of Bliss (C to E)	A. Briscoe.
Unchanged (C to D)	Godfrey Marks.
Cradle Song (B to E)	W. Spinney.

BOOK 28.

SOPRANO ALBUM.

Sadly Sweet (C to F)	Odoardo Barri.
Dream of the woods (C to F)	T. Hutchinson.
Thy Name (D to G)	B. Tours.
Nightingale's Farewell (D to G)	Boscovitz.
You needn't say a word (D to G)	S. Dolby.

BOOK 29.

SACRED SONGS.

Thou art my rest	M. Watson.
The pure in heart	H. Smart.
At Prayers	B. Tours.
The Reaper	C. A. E. Harris.
Beloved, it is well	M. Watson.

BOOK 30.

DUETS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO.

Twilight	A. J. Carpenter.
Tarantella	A. Guest.
Une Fête Rustique	J. W. Lowe.
Augusta	W. M. Betteridge.

BOOK 31.

WALTZ ALBUM.

Polynesia	F. G. Hime.
Bixone	Grace Temple.
Mine for ever	D. Pecorini.
Klea	Grace Temple.
Viola	J. E. Newell.

PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

0%

BY

SET TO MUSIC BY

Paper cover, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

THE BALLAD

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA, BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 34.)

Paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth gilt, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SUITE FOR VIOLIN

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price Six Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL.

THE

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS

(Gloucester).

Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL.

FOR SOPRANO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

THE POEM WRITTEN BY

MRS. HEMANS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

“The LEADING Pianoforte Manufacturer of the WORLD.”—Leipsic Conservatorium of Music.

THE BLÜTHNER PIANOFORTES

(GRAND AND UPRIGHT).

THE MOST PERFECT PIANOFORTES
IN THE WORLD.

THE BLÜTHNER PIANOFORTES “maintain the FIRST POSITION in the world” is the verdict of Dr. OSCAR PAUL, whose History of the Pianoforte is the standard treatise on the subject; this estimate of the accomplished Music Critic and Historian being amply sustained by every form of appropriate evidence. They have received similar Testimonies from the most eminent Pianists and other Musicians of the present day*; have invariably obtained the Highest Honours and Awards of the International Exhibitions of the World whenever entered for competition; have been supplied to almost all the Royal Courts of Europe; and have an annual sale which is larger and far more cosmopolitan than that of any other Pianofortes in the world.

* TYPICAL ILLUSTRATION.

“Having observed with much interest your steady progress in the manufacture of Pianofortes during the past TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and believing you to be WITHOUT A RIVAL in the Art of Pianoforte Making, we beg you will receive this letter as a proof of our high appreciation of the honourable position which you now occupy as THE LEADING PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURER OF THE WORLD.”—Leipsic Conservatorium of Music.

Descriptive Catalogues Free on application.

BLÜTHNER HOUSE,
7, 9, 11, WIGMORE STREET, CAVENDISH SQUARE,
LONDON, W.

THE SWORD OF ARGANTYR.

A DRAMATIC CANTATA IN FOUR SCENES

For Soprano, Tenor, Baritone, Chorus, and Orchestra.

WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR

THE LEEDS FESTIVAL

BY

FREDERICK CORDER.

Vocal Score, 3/- net. Paper Boards, 3/6 net. Chorus Parts, 1/- each net.
The Accompaniments arranged for Pianoforte and Harmonium. Price 10/6 net.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY NEWS.

... Obviously the work of a composer of brains and resource. A remarkably graceful pastoral intermezzo introduces us to the scene on the island of Samsoe, where the shepherd sings (and the audience unsuccessfully endeavoured to encore) his dainty little ditty to his sheep. . . . At the end of the Cantata Mr. Corder was recalled and vociferously cheered.

THE MORNING POST.

Mr. Corder has written his poem in the old style of verse, but has set it to a new style of music. In the opening chorus he sings the first strain of his new song with a poetical energy which is continued throughout with no less vigour and originality of design. The chorus writing throughout is splendidly dramatic and stirring, and . . . the music forms a school of its own, which must be studied to be appreciated.

THE SUNDAY TIMES.

The libretto is cleverly put together, the story of Hervor's quest for her ancestor's sword being set forth in bold dramatic form and picturesque verse. . . . The choruses supposed to be sung on board ship are vigorous and characteristic, and include some of the most satisfactory music in the Cantata.

THE YORKSHIRE POST.

One of the finest features of the Cantata is to be found in the choral climaxes which abound, as, for example, in the extremely striking conclusion to the scene of the mutiny, and the choral ending to the dashing ballad, "Argantyr has ridden away to the chase." The orchestration is full of interest and variety . . . and increases in interest as the work progresses.

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

The "legend" is a wonderfully picturesque and novel movement; the whole is instinct with the breath of the north wind, and every phrase tells in impressive fashion. . . . No one could fail to be charmed with the beauty of the orchestral treatment of the Siren's chorus. Its luscious melody is sustained by the cellos in the first instance, with harp accompaniment, the strain being taken up at the crisis of the situation with extraordinary effect by the violins. . . . Then there is the extraordinary chorus, "Ha, see! 'tis a mountain of fire!" If Mr. Corder had done nothing but this he would have proved himself a remarkable musician. . . . A very cleverly written trio, "Love is abjured," next arrests attention. As a specimen of musicianship it will bear favourable comparison with anything in the work.

THE BIRMINGHAM DAILY GAZETTE.

The chief features of the third scene are Hervor's invocation, which is full of refined and dignified melody; a solo of a declamatory character for the spirit of Argantyr; a trio for Hervor, Hjalmar, and the Spirit; and an orchestral Coda in the shape of a very charming melody with an arpeggio accompaniment. One of the most striking numbers in the Cantata, both for its vocal and instrumental writing, is the love duet for Hervor and Hjalmar at the opening of the last scene. Hjalmar's death has a very dramatic setting, the curse theme being used with powerful emphasis, and the end is reached by a touching elegy sung by the heroine.

FORSYTH BROTHERS,

272a, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London, W., and 122 & 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

RUDALL, CARTE & CO.

Having completed Rebuilding their Factory, the increased accommodation and greater conveniences will enable MESSRS. RUDALL, CARTE & Co. to execute orders for all kinds of Wood and Brass Wind Instruments with much greater despatch.

Repairs of Brass and Wood-Wind Instruments.

MESSRS. RUDALL, CARTE & Co., in addition to doing what may be necessary to their own goods, are willing to Repair the Instruments of any other Makers. Having great facilities for doing Repairs of all kinds, they can undertake to do them well, reasonably, and without unnecessary delay.

23, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

"THE CHALLENGE
IRON-FRAME PIANOS

Are unrivalled for excellence of tone and touch, good workmanship, and moderate price."—Testimonials from Mr. FREDERIC H. COWEN, ANTON RUBINSTEIN, Mr. FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS, Mr. JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT, Sir JOHN STAINER, and other eminent Musicians.

HIGHEST AWARDS for UPRIGHT PIANOS
1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1885, 1886.

PRICE LISTS POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

CHALLENGE & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NEW

AVE MARIA

Meditation on Sebastian Bach's 2nd Prelude

BY

CHARLES GOUNOD.

With Violin, Cello, Organ, and Piano Accompaniments.
Violin obbligato written by the eminent Violinist TIVADAR NACHÉZ.

ONE OF CHARLES GOUNOD'S FINEST WORKS.

In keys to suit all voices. Copyright secured for all countries.

PRICE 2s. NET.

J. & J. HOPKINSON, 95, New Bond St., London, W.

KING ARTHUR;

OR,
THE BRITISH WORTHY.

AN OPERA.

WORDS BY JOHN DRYDEN.

MUSIC BY

HENRY PURCELL.

NEW EDITION. PRICE 4s. NET.

MS. ORCHESTRAL PARTS LENT FREE
BY THE PUBLISHER.

Immense Success. New March. Easy & Effective.

TRIOMPHE

GRAND MARCH.

COMPOSED BY

E. L. HIME.

This descriptive March is very effective and at the same time not at all difficult. In the opening movement one can almost imagine the triumphal entry of a conquering army returning from battle; and the Hymn of Praise which forms the trio is a most charming movement of a calm religious character, and greatly enhances the effect of the brilliant finale.

PIANOFORTE SOLO	net	2	0
Ditto (easy Arrangement)	"	1	6
PIANOFORTE DUET	"	2	0
ORGAN (with Pedal Obbligato)	"	2	0
FULL ORCHESTRA	"	2	0
SEPTET	"	1	4

LONDON: ALPHONSE CARY, 87, OXFORD STREET, W.

ALPHONSE CARY'S PIANOFORTE PRIMER

OR,

First Lessons for Young Pianists.

Forty Pages. Full Music Size. Price 1s. 6d. net.

An examination of the pages of this work will satisfy practical teachers that excellent results will be obtained by its use. The system (though new) is very simple, progressive, and thorough, and the pupil not only gets a sound knowledge of the primary elements, but at the same time acquires a love for good music.

Sixty Pages, Royal Quarto; printed from Engraved Plates. Price 2s. net.

VIOLIN PRIMER

OR,

First Lessons for Young Violinists

BY

E. POLONASKI AND FRANK ROTH.

This book is without doubt by far the easiest and most progressive work of the kind published. It is entirely original; and, being written in duet form, is also specially adapted for class teaching as well as private practice.

It contains a large number of charming Melodies, also tuneful Studies, Exercises on Bowing, &c.; and is in every way par excellence the first book to be placed in the hands of every would-be violinist.

CHAPPELL'S

PIANOS

From 16 to 135 Gs.

On the One, Two, or Three Years System
OF

HIRE AND PURCHASE.

Also a large assortment of New & Second-hand Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, and Bechstein, at greatly reduced prices.

ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.

Agent for Clough & Warren's Organs and Alexandre Harmoniums.

50, NEW BOND STREET, AND 15, POULTRY.

And of all the principal Musiciansellers.

ORGANISTS AND ORGAN STUDENTS.

ff, f, mf, p. DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON! p, mf, f, ff.

ALL the above modifications of Tone are obtainable by AINSWORTH'S PATENT ACTIONS and ORGAN PEDALS in combination with any Pianoforte. They are the ONLY ones whereby you may PLEASANTLY (not by mere monotonous sounds) acquire or maintain proficiency as an Organist.

AINSWORTH'S NEW PATENT MODIFYING ACTION and ORGAN PEDALS may now be inspected in combination with a Pianoforte almost everywhere. Where it is not convenient to inspect, they may be had through any Dealer or Professional Gentleman on approval. They are positively the

ONLY ONES POSSESSING REAL MERIT.

Owing to improved machinery and large demand, AINSWORTH'S prices defy competition. PRICE from £4 4s.

On receipt of trade or professional card you will receive list and liberal terms.

Second-hand List issued Monthly. Very low prices.

Address—AINSWORTH'S (Patent Piano & Organ Combination Works), Brinscall, Chorley, England.

N.B.—Works two minutes' walk from Brinscall Station. Inspection allowed to intending customers.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 562.—Vol. 30.
Registered for transmission abroad.

DECEMBER 1, 1889.

Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor: Mr. BARNBY.

BENOIT'S "LUCIFER,"

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 4, AT 8.

Artists: Miss MACINTYRE, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. IVER McKAY, Mr. WATKIN MILLS, and Mr. BLAUWAERT. Organist, Mr. HODGE.

Prices: 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., 3s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH,"

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1890, AT 8.

Artists: Madame DOTTI, Madame PATEY, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS. Organist, Mr. HODGE.

Prices: 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., 3s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

WIND INSTRUMENT CHAMBER MUSIC SOCIETY.

The Twenty Guinea Prize offered for the best Quintet for Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Horn, and Bassoon, has been awarded to Mr. CHARLES WOOD, of Caius College, Cambridge, by the Judges, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Dr. C. Hubert Parry, and Prof. C. V. Stanford.

The Judges also specially mention the compositions of Messrs. Arthur Carnall, Mus. Bac., and Arnold Dolmetsch, as of equal merit; and of Mr. R. E. Strickland, as deserving favourable commendation.

There were thirty Competitors. The four Quintets above-mentioned will be performed by the Society during this season, the remainder will be delivered to the order of the owners, on application to Major Wyndham Malet, 9, Bridge Street, Westminster, S.W.
Nov. 18, 1889.

TUFNELL PARK CHORAL SOCIETY.

CONDUCTOR.—MR. W. HENRY THOMAS.

The "ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY," by Dr. Hubert H. Parry, and "THE BRIDE," by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, will be performed at the next Concert on TUESDAY EVENING, December 17, 1889.

CLAPHAM PHILHARMONIC CONCERTS.

Director: MR. WALTER MACKWAY.

1889-1890.

CLAPHAM ASSEMBLY ROOMS, S.W. (opposite Clapham Road Station, L.C.D.R.), to commence at 8 o'clock.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1889.

MR. WALTER MACFARREN

WILL GIVE HIS

RECITAL OF PIANOFORTE MUSIC, ANCIENT AND MODERN,

From HANDEL to STERNDALÉ BENNETT, interspersed with historical and analytical remarks.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1889.

CONCERT OF CHAMBER MUSIC.

Violin, Mr. PERCY OULD; Violoncello, Mr. CHARLES OULD; Pianoforte, Mr. C. HOPKINS OULD; Vocalists, Miss LOTTIE WHITMELL, Miss LUCY ETHERIDGE; Mr. WALTER MACKWAY; Mr. CHARLES COPLAND. Accompanist, Mr. ALFRED IZARD.

The Programme will include Trios (Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello)—Beethoven, in D major, Op. 70, No. 1; Mendelssohn, in C minor, Op. 66. Waltzes (for Four Voices, with Pianoforte Duet Accompaniment)—"Songs of Love," Op. 52, Johannes Brahms.

Tickets, Numbered Seats, 3s.; Unreserved, 1s. To be obtained at Mr. William Dunkley's Music Warehouse, High Street, Clapham; and at the Clapham Assembly Rooms.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

PATRONS—THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.

PRINCIPAL—DR. A. C. MACKENZIE.

The NEXT STUDENTS' ORCHESTRAL CONCERT will take place at St. James's Hall, on WEDNESDAY EVENING, December 11, at eight. JOHN GILL, Secretary.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Conducted under the Direction of the ASSOCIATED BOARD of the ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC and the ROYAL COLLEGE of MUSIC.

PRESIDENT—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD:

The Rt. Hon. the LORD CHARLES BRUCE, Chairman.

A. C. Mackenzie, Esq., Mus. Doc., Principal of R.A.M.

Sir George Grove, D.C.L., LL.D., Director of R.C.M.

Professor James Dewar, F.R.S., &c.,

Alberto Randegger, Esq.,

Thomas Threlfall, Esq.,

Frederick Westlake, Esq.,

F. Meadows White, Esq., Q.C.,

Edward W. Hamilton, Esq., C.B.,

C. Hubert H. Parry, Esq., Mus. Doc.,

Professor Sir John Stainer, Mus. Doc.,

Sir Arthur Sullivan, Mus. Doc.,

Franklin Taylor, Esq.,

HONORARY TREASURER—Charles Morley, Esq.

HONORARY AUDITOR—Sir Charles Lister Ryan, K.C.B.,

Comptroller and Auditor General.

SECRETARY—George Watson, Esq., Central Office, 52, New Bond St., London, W.

BANKERS—Bank of England, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London, W.

EXAMINERS—Messrs. J. F. Barnett, O. Beringer, A. Blume, J. F. Bridge, Mus. Doc., A. Burnett, F. Cliffe, F. Corder, W. H. Cummings, F. W. Davenport, H. R. Eyres, F. E. Gladstone, Mus. Doc., R. Gompertz, H. Holmes, E. Howell, C. H. Lloyd, A. O'Leary, W. Parratt, C. H. H. Parry, Mus. Doc., E. Pauer, E. Prout, A. Randegger, Prof. C. V. Stanford, Mus. Doc., F. Taylor, J. Thomas, A. Visetti, F. Westlake, T. Wingham, W. G. Wood.

Local Examinations will be held at various centres throughout the United Kingdom on and after March 10, 1890, in the presence of two Examiners.

The Examiners will make their reports to the Board, and successful candidates will receive certificates, bearing the names of the Chairman of the Board, the Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, and the Director of the Royal College of Music. Such certificates will not entitle the holders to append any letters to their names, nor will they certify to their qualification as teachers.

The subjects of Examination are as follows:—(a) Theory of Music. (b) Practice of Instrumental Music. (c) Practice of Vocal Music.

There are two grades of Examinations and Certificates, Junior and Senior. No candidate will be accepted in any subject who is under 12 years of age on the date of the Preliminary Examination, February 19, 1890.

Junior Certificates are granted in all branches, except Singing, to Candidates over 12 and under 16 years of age, on February 19, 1890. Senior Certificates include Singing.

The Fee for Examination (including the preliminary) is Two Guineas for one subject, and One Guinea extra for each additional subject.

Candidates who fail to pass the Preliminary Examination in the Rudiments of Music will be debarred from further examination during the year, and will receive back one half of the fee.

Candidates for Examinations must apply not later than January 31, 1890, on forms which may be obtained from the Secretary, at 52, New Bond Street, London.

GEORGE WATSON, Secretary.

MESSRS. CHAPPELL AND COMPANY beg to announce that the exclusive RIGHTS for STAGE REPRESENTATION of Gounod's FAUST have been purchased by the Carl Rosa Opera Company for London and the following list of principal towns in the United Kingdom:—

Cork	Leeds	Edinburgh
Dublin	Sheffield	Dundee
Belfast	Newcastle-on-Tyne	Nottingham
Manchester	Hull	Bolton
Liverpool	Southport	Hanley
Birmingham	Bradford	Brighton
Bristol	Derby	Blackpool
Cardiff	Glasgow	Plymouth

All applications for performance of the Opera in these towns must be made to the Carl Rosa Opera Company. For right to perform the Opera in any of the towns not mentioned in the above list, application must be made to Messrs. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond Street; or to Mr. Alfred Moul, 40, Old Bond Street, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS EFFIE CLEMENTS (Soprano).

Address, 36, Albion Street, Hyde Park, W.

MISS CONWAY (Soprano)

(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 53, Robert Street, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano).

Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS MARY DITCHBURN (Medalist, Soprano)

(First-class Society of Arts).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, &c., 21, Albany Rd., Stroud Green, N.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)

(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq.).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne; or, W. B. Healey, Esq., 10A, Warwick St., Regent St., W.

MISS MARIANNE FENNA (Soprano),

84, Mansfield Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MISS JEANNETTA FRAZIER (Soprano).

For Ballad Concerts, Italian Operatic, Oratorios, &c., address, Beeches, Bolton Road, Small Heath, Birmingham.

MADAME FLORENCE M. FULTON (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Choral Societies' Concerts, &c., at moderate terms. "Golden Legend," "Callirhoe," "Psyche," "Redemption," "Ruth," "Loreley," "Lay of the Last Minstrel," "Ancient Mariner," "Sleeping Beauty," "Rose of Sharon," &c.

"Spectre's Bride."—"A remarkably fine exposition; successful in both execution and expression, an artistic interpretation being the result."—Liverpool Daily Post."A musical treat of the highest order, her great capabilities entitling her to a leading position as a vocalist."—North Wales Press.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)

(Pupil of Madame Saintron-Dolby, formerly her Assistant Professor; Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME CLARA GARDINER (Soprano)

Is now booking Engagements for the ensuing season. Address, 16, Burns Street, Nottingham.

MISS JESSIE GRIFFIN (Soprano),

6, Hamilton Terrace, Hyde Vale, Blackheath, S.E.

MADAME MINNIE GWYNNE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, address, 18, St. Stephen's Avenue, Uxbridge Road, W.

MISS ISABEL HALL (Soprano).

For Concerts, Recitals, &c., address, 65, Shear Brow, Blackburn. "Miss Hall possesses a voice which has been highly trained, and each of her songs was rendered in excellent style, especially Bishop's 'Bid me discourse,' for which she was loudly recalled."—Burnley Express, November 6, 1889.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano).

Address, 27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MADAME FARRAR-HYDE (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Carr Hill, Mossley, near Manchester.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano)

(R.A.M. Honours Certificate).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, St. Asaph; or, 238, Brixton Rd., S.W.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Sq., N.E.

MISS ZIPPORA MONTEITH (Soprano),

Oratorio and Concerts. 34, Bloomsbury Square, W.C.

MISS NELLIE MOORE (Soprano)

(Of the principal Liverpool and Provincial Concerts).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 22, Grange Mount, Birkenhead.

MISS JESSIE MOORHOUSE (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., Longsight, Manchester.

MISS M. LISTER-NEWMAN, R.A.M. (Soprano)

(Silver Medalist, 1886; Certificate of Merit, 1887).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons, address, 220, Marylebone Road, W.

MADAME SHEPLEY (Soprano).

Address, Guido Villa, Alexandra Park, Oldham.

MADAME MARTIN TEGG (Soprano).

Address, Weedon House, Stamford Hill, N.

MADAME HENRIETTA TOMLINSON (Soprano),

MISS MARIANNE TOMLINSON (Contralto).

Address, 3, Oakroyd Villas, Bradford.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano).

MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto).

Address, 14, Peel Street, Nottingham.

MISS FRANCES ACTON (Contralto)

(Pupil of Sig. G. Garcia and Dr. H. Hill).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 3, Stanhope Terrace, Whitton Hounslow.

MISS FLORENCE BOURNE (Contralto),

Lynwood, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MRS. CRESER (Contralto),

22, Blenheim Terrace, Leeds.

MDLLE. JOSÉ D'ARÇONVILLE (Contralto),

Parsonage Road, Withington, Manchester.

MISS DEWS (Contralto),

St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MADAME ALICE GORSE (Contralto),

Gold Medalist,
88, Broad Street, Birmingham.

MISS HEMMINGS (Contralto).

For Concerts (Oratorios or Ballads). Address, Parkfield Road, Wolverhampton.

MADAME FANNIE LYMN (Contralto),

4, Mansfield Grove, Nottingham.

MISS KATE MILNER (Contralto).

For Oratorio, Operatic or Ballad Concerts, Lessons, &c., 21, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)

(Pupil of Madame Saintron-Dolby).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Alfley, Leeds.

MISS MARY TUNNICLIFFE

(Principal Contralto of St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, E.C.)

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Lessons, &c., address, 3, Norland Road North, Notting Hill, W.

MISS COYTE TURNER (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Address, 21, Alexandra Road, Finsbury Park, London, N.

MISS FLORENCE WALLIS (Contralto)

(Pupil of the late Madame Saintron-Dolby).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 217, Boxley Road, Maidstone.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Saintron-Dolby, and Assistant Professor in her Academy).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Rd., N.W.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES AUBREY (Tenor).

Concerts (only), address, 21, Blackheath Road, S.E. Terms moderate.

MR. J. VERNEY BINNS

(Principal Tenor of the Halifax Parish Church).

For Concerts, &c., address, Halifax.

MR. J. T. BIRCH (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 110, Church St., Lozells, Birmingham.

MR. EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(Solo Tenor, St. Andrew's, Wells Street).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous Concerts, and Glee and Concert Parties, address, 37, Torrington Square, W.C., or to St. Andrew's.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor).

Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. CLIFFORD CONSTABLE (Tenor)

(Choirmaster, Bromley Parish Church).

Concerts, &c., address, Royal Courts Chambers, Chancery Lane, W.C.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Scottish Tenor).

For Oratorios, Opera, Concerts, or his Popular Concert Entertainments, address 67, Berners Street, W.

MR. JOHN HART (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c., 10, Park Road, Middlesbro', Yorkshire.

MR. LLOYD JAMES (Tenor).

Address, Smethwick, Birmingham.

CONCERT.—"Samson," Birmingham Town Hall.—Mr. Lloyd James sang 'Total Eclipse' with much pathos and delicacy."—Daily Post. "Mr. Lloyd James made a decided hit."—Birmingham Mail. Engaged: December 4, 16, 25; February 5, 17, 20. Others pending.

MR. H. JULIUS JONES (Tenor).

For Oratorios, &c., address, Cathedral, Ely. Terms moderate.

MR. CHARLES KARLYLE (Tenor).

"Splendid voice, clear pronunciation."—Musical Standard."Excellent vocalist."—Era.—Echo.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, Oseney Crescent, N.W.

MR. COLLIS KENTON (Robust Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 44, Ringstead Road, Catford, S.E.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor),
St. George's Chapel, Windsor.
Address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. RICHARD R. WILSON (Tenor).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Organ Recitals, Ballad Concerts, &c. For terms, address, Grange Road, West Hartlepool.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. HENRY BAILEY (Baritone).
Address, 15, Pasley Road, Manor Place, Walworth, S.E.

MR. HAMILTON BENNARD (Baritone).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., Chilton House, Alkham Road, N.

MR. ARTHUR W. BLACKBURN (Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Granby Place, New Street, Earlsheaton, Yorkshire.

MR. JOHN COATES (Baritone)
(References: Dr. J. C. Bridge, of Chester; and R. S. Burton, Esq., of Leeds and Harrogate).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 42, Carlisle Place, Bradford.

MR. J. G. HEWSON (Baritone).
Address, 2, St. Ann's Road, Stamford Hill, N.W.; or, 276, Hyde Road, Manchester.

MR. ROWLAND HILL (Baritone).
For Concerts and Oratorios. Address, Long Eaton, Nottingham. "Mr. Rowland Hill has a baritone voice of remarkable excellence."—Nottingham Express.

MR. WALTER JONES (Baritone).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, &c., 107, Coldharbour Lane, London.

MR. ARTHUR M. SHORE, R.C.M. (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signori Alberto Visetti and Franco Novara).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Has vacancies for pupils for Singing and Violin. 14, Dewhurst Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. CHARLES STANLEY (Baritone).
For Concerts, Matinées and Soirées, Banquets, At Homes, &c., address, 22, Grange Road, Ealing, W.

MR. W. WANDESFORDE (Baritone),
Rochester House, Brook Green, London, W.

MR. LUCAS WILLIAMS (Baritone).
Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, 9, Upper Woburn Place, W.C.

MR. EDWARD HALEY (Bass).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, Hunsworth, Cleckheaton.

MR. THOMAS KEMPTON (Bass),
67, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

MR. W. BELL KEMPTON (Bass),
Of St. George's Chapel and H.M. Private Chapel, Windsor Castle.
Address, St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle.

MR. HOWARD LEES (Bass).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Delph, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES ORTNER (Bass),
20, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MR. GEORGE STUBBS (Bass),
St. George's Chapel and Her Majesty's Private Chapel.
Address, 18, Cloisters, Windsor Castle.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN (Bass),
Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music.
For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. SYDNEY BLAKISTON (Solo Pianist)
(Of the Crystal Palace Concerts).
For Concerts, Lessons, &c., 3, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboeist and Oboe Maker).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 235, Lydgate Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

MR. H. A. LUDLAM (Violoncello).
For Concerts (Orchestral, Choral, Chamber, and Miscellaneous), Matinées, Soirées, and At Homes. Newport House, West Bromwich.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano), engaged in December: 2, Pudsey, ("Elijah"); 4, Holbeach; 10, Brigg (12th Mass and "Rose Maiden"); 16, Bailey ("The Messiah"); 17, Ludlow (the "Creation"); 21, Leeds ("The Messiah"); 23, Hull ("Lady of Shalott"); 25, Uppertorpe ("The Messiah"); 26, Chesterfield ("The Messiah"). Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire, and Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS SARA BERNSTEIN, A.R.A.M. (Soprano), has REMOVED to 28, Birchington Road, West Hampstead, London, N.W. Certificated for singing in public and teaching.

MISS HATTIE HICKLING (Soprano), pupil of Wm. Shakespeare, Esq., at liberty for Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Address, 30, Pepps Road South, New Cross, S.E.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano), 2, Brighton Terrace, Cornbrook Park Road, Manchester. November 1, Manchester; 4, Broughton; 8, Eccles; 9, Preston; 11, Pendleton ("Creation"); 12, Eccles ("Creation"); 16, Bacup; 23, Haslingden; 30, Leeds. December 3, Failsforth; 7, Rochdale; 9, Manchester; 17, Keighley ("Judas"); 21, Manchester ("Messiah"); 25, Blackburn ("Messiah"). January 21, 1890, Oldham; 25, Eccles. February 1, Over Darwen; 8, Swinton; 15, Bury. March 15, Manchester; 31, Manchester.

MISS KATHERINE JAMES (Mezzo-Soprano), compass G to A flat requests that all communications concerning Engagements be addressed, 13, Horsford Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MISS JULIA JONES (Soprano) begs that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., will be addressed to 4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS EDITH MARRIOTT (Soprano) begs to notify her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to Oaklands, Parson's Green, S.W., where she desires letters respecting Concert Engagements or Pupils to be addressed; or, to Mr. W. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano), engaged: 28 November 20, Sowerby Bridge (Ballads); Skipton, 23 ("Creation"). December 7, Stockton (Ballads); Ossett, 9 ("St. Paul"); Penrith, 11 and 12 ("Golden Legend"); Greenock, 17 ("Seasons"); Nelson, 21 ("Messiah"); Rawmarsh, 26 ("Elijah"), others pending. Address, Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.
(Copy).

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 44, Alexandra Road, London, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS FREDERIKA B. TAYLOR (Soprano) requests that in future all communications respecting Concert Engagements be addressed to her at 2, The Bourne, Chiswick, S.W.

MISS ELLEN MARCHANT (Contralto), Gold Medalist; Society of Arts Medalist; City Exhibitioner, G.S.M., is prepared to accept engagements for Oratorio, Ballad or Operatic Concerts, in town or country. For terms, apply to Mr. W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick Street; or to Miss Ellen Marchant, 22, Walham Grove, Fulham.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral. Engaged: "Israel in Egypt," Dublin; "Elijah," Nottingham; "Selections," Basingstoke; "Elijah," Maidstone; "Prodigal Son," Dulwich; "Messiah," Southport; "Judas," Doncaster; "Selections," Manchester; "Sacred Cantata," Southsea; "Bride of Dunkerron," Pimlico; "Selections," Tottenham; "95th Psalm," &c., Finchley; "Ballads," Streatham; "Ballads," Saffron Walden. Address, 47, Croxeted Road, Dulwich, S.E.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD. Engagements: Manchester, Liverpool, Buxton, Halifax, Cheltenham, Dublin, Thames Ditton, Cardiff, Forest Hill, Northampton, Streatham, Birmingham, Crystal Palace, &c. For vacant dates, terms, &c., address, 23, Endlesham Road, Balham, London, S.W.

(Copy).
In consequence of MR. SIMS REEVES being too ill to appear this evening, as see copies of Telegram posted outside the Hall, MR. JOSEPH HEALD has kindly consented to sing the songs Mr. Sims Reeves had announced.—Royal Victoria Hall, November 14, 1889.

MR. CHARLES KENNINGHAM (Tenor).

"The duet between Albani and Mr. C. Kenningham was one of the most delicious. . . Mr. C. Kenningham earned scarcely less the admiration of the audience by his splendid singing in his duets with Albani, and especially in the Prayer 'O! Dionysos.' Without the slightest apparent effort he rendered with great power the forte passages, while the exceeding delicacy of his voice was displayed to advantage in the plaintive themes. Mr. C. Kenningham, too, did not escape a demand for the repetition of his delicate and tasteful rendering of Balfe's 'Good-night, beloved,' and his response showed him to be a true master of ballad singing. His musical intonation and the enunciation of his words are admirable" ("Callirhoe," Bridge, &c., at Plymouth).—Western Morning News.

MR. CHARLES KENNINGHAM already booked—Deal, Ballads; Camden Athenæum, Ballads; Canterbury, "Last Judgment"; Canterbury, Ballads; Wrexham, "Ancient Mariner"; Tunbridge, "Elijah"; Canterbury, Ballads; Dover, "Christus," &c.; Canterbury, "Messiah"; Blackheath, "Last Judgment" and Schubert's Mass in F; Borough of Hackney Choral Association, "Callirhoe"; Maidstone, "Martyrdom of St. Stephen," Henniker (first performance); Oldham, Ballads; Finsbury Choral Association, "Messiah"; &c.

For terms, &c., address, The Cathedral, Canterbury; or, C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners Street, W.

MR. HILTON CARTER (Baritone) begs to announce that he has a few VACANT DATES in December, and is also prepared to accept engagements for Christmas performances of "The Messiah." All communications respecting Oratorios Concerts, &c., to be addressed, W. B. Healey, Esq. (Sole Agent), 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W.

CHORAL SOCIETIES, ORGAN RECITALS, &c.
—Baritone Vocalist will be glad to give services for expenses. Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous. Address, Mr. John Ortner, Laleham House, Santos Road, Wandsworth, S.W.

MR. BINGLEY SHAW (Baritone) has just returned to England, after fulfilling an eighteen months' engagement on the Continent, and is booking ENGAGEMENTS for the season. Dates already booked: Nottingham, October 18 and 22; Derby, 29; Newark, November 5; Hove, 7; Long Eaton, 17; Nottingham, 19; Tamworth, 20; Nottingham, 23; Sheffield (Costa's "Eli"), 30; Kensington Town Hall, December 7, 11, 14, 21; Walsall, Birmingham, and others pending. For terms and vacant dates, address, 96, Goldsmith Street, Nottingham.

MR. FRED. W. CARTER (Basso) (Pupil of MONTE SMITH, Esq.) can accept ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Répertoire and terms on application. Permanent address, 223, Eversleigh Road, Shaftesbury Park, Clapham; or A. MOULE, Esq.

MR. BYRON DEWHURST (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 49, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. JAMES B. SMITH (Principal Bass, Peterborough Cathedral) requests that all communications respecting Concerts, &c., be addressed to 4, Princes' Villas, Peterborough.

MR. and MRS. WILLIS A. WALLIS (Bass and Mezzo-Soprano), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Two hours' Dramatic and Musical Recitals given.) Willow Lodge, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE ALBU begs to announce her CHANGE of ADDRESS from Blackpool to 223, Maida Vale, London, W., where all communications respecting Concerts, Oratorios, &c., should be addressed.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that communications respecting ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, &c., be addressed to her at 158, Portswain Road, W.

MISS MARY WILLIS begs to announce that at Christmas she resigns her position as Professor of Singing at the Hyde Park Academy of music. After that time all tuition will be given privately at her own home, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. JOHN PROBERT requests that all communications be addressed to Woodville, New Barnet, N.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS in VOICE TRAINING and SOLO SINGING. 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

MRS. SLESSER (Pupil of Th. Kullak, Berlin), Experienced ACCOMPANIST to Vocalists and Instrumentalists. Terms, &c., Colosseum House, Regent's Park, N.W.

MISS MURIEL FRECKELTON, ELOCUTIONIST for High-class ENTERTAINMENTS. "The Dream of Jubal," "Athalie," and Miscellaneous Works. Address, 28A, Lonsdale Square, N.

MR. and MRS. HENRY BEAUMONT (Madame Adelaide Mullen), on Tour in the United States and Canada, return to England end of February. Address, 47, Ladbroke Road, W.

MR. W. SIDNEY GANDY has a few vacant dates at Christmas for his ORIGINAL DRAWING-ROOM MUSICAL SKETCHES, as given by him at Concerts, "At Homes," &c. 8, Crown Villas, Kennington Oval, S.E.

THE PEARL GLEE PARTY are open to make Engagements for Public and Private Dinners, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For dates, apply to Mr. John Davis, 67, Burton Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music, and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON.; MUS. D., DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Dublin, June, 1889), Oxford, and Cambridge; "Honours" in the R.A.M. Senior Local Exam., 1889; L.Mus., 1889; L.R.A.M., N.S.P.M. (Honours, 1889), F.C.O., A.C.O., Toronto (one Doc. and 26 in 1st, 2nd, and Final Bac.) More than THREE HUNDRED and FIFTY Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained by Dr. ALLISON's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won FIVE GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. CAMBRIDGE HOUSE, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations by post. Instructed successfully for Local Exam., R.A.M., 1889. Personal Lessons in Theory or Pianoforte given at own or pupil's residence, or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Organ Lessons, Willersley House, Wellington Road, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. WM. BLAKELEY, Mus. Bac.—Candidates successfully prepared by Post for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887; First and Second Exams., 1888 Final Exams.; all First Class, &c. 23, Gillespie Crescent, Edinburgh.

PER SCRIPTA IN ABSENTIA.—DR. BRADFORD'S System (registered).—Ten Lessons, £1 11s. 6d. for Instruction, by correspondence, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and all subjects for any Musical Examination. "Per Scripta in absentia" offers advantages to Students, and includes (inter alia) Dr. Bradford's workings of the Oxford Examination Papers for the past ten years. Address, 32, Bensham Manor Road, Thornton Heath, Surrey.

MR. EDWARD BROMELL (Professor, London Academy of Music) gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., personally and by correspondence. Classes' Compositions revised. 16, Meynell Road, South Hackney, E.

MR. ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, &c., by Post. 9, Avington Grove, Penze, S.E.

C. CHAMBERS, Mus. Doc., Cantab., F.C.O., teaches HARMONY, &c., by post. Address, 86, Rye Hill, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

DR. CROW, of Ripon Cathedral, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, &c., by Correspondence.

MR. JOHN GREIG, M.A., Mus. Bac., F.C.O. (qualified by examination for Mus. Doc., Oxon.), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and FUGUE by Correspondence. Successes: Final Mus. Bac., Oxon., and F.C.O. paper work. 7, Scotland Street, Edinburgh.

H. A. HARDING, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.C.O., L. Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by correspondence. Dr. Harding, Bedford.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab., Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L. Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: Mus. Doc., Toronto, 1889; Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1889, First, Second, and Final Exams. First Class, Gold Medalist, 1887; L.R.A.M., 1889; L. Mus. (including Candidate with highest number of marks 1888), and A. Mus., T.C.L., 1889; F.C.O. and A.C.O., 1889; Tonic Sol-fa College, Highest Exams., 1889; A.R.C.M.; Church Choir Guild; F.Gld.O.; Senior Local R.A.M. and T.C.L. Honours; Society of Arts, Honours. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, &c., by post. Several former pupils have been successful in various examinations. Address, Sandrock, Sevenoaks.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, Mus. Bac., Toronto, and Local R.A.M. Examinations, &c. Terms moderate. 22, Market Street, Mayfair, W.; or, Haldon, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.C.O., L. Mus., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Forty-six Degrees, Diplomas, and other Honours, including Mus. Bac., F.C.O., A.C.O., F.Gld.O., and L. Mus., have been gained by Dr. TAYLOR's Pupils during the past Three Years. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. E. THATCHER, B.Mus., Lond., and Inter-med. B.A., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Botolph, Bishopsgate, visits or receives PUPILS for ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and SINGING. Prepares Candidates for Examinations in Arts and Music, either personally or by post. Schools attended. 50, Milmay Road, N.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Upwards of 100 pupils have passed recent examinations.—Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, INSTRUMENTATION, CANON, and FUGUE by Correspondence, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. Latest successes—L.R.A.M. and A.C.O., January, 1889; 1st Mus. Bac., Cantab., May, 1889. Address, Dr. Wareing, 76, Bristol Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

CORRESPONDENCE COLLEGE OF MUSIC, Bisley, Woking, Surrey.—The Staff undertake to PREPARE STUDENTS, while residing at their own homes, for University and other Exams. Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue Form, Instrumentation, Arts and Science. Terms and papers of the Registrar.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Paul's, Camden Square. Salary, £15 per annum. Address, Vicar, 37, Camden Square, N.W.

ALTO, TENOR, and BASS VOICES WANTED, for Church in N.W. district. Two services. Choral and Choir practice. £12. Apply by letter to Organist, 283, Camden Road, N.

ALTO WANTED. Stipend, £15 to £25. Good reading essential. Usual Sunday Services and week-night practice. Mus. Doc., 28, Priory Road, Kilburn, N.W.

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL.—There will be a VACANCY at Christmas for a TENOR VOICE in the Choir of the above Cathedral. Salary, £65 a year. Duties: to sing at Mattins and Evensong on Sundays and on five week-days. Applications, with copies of testimonials, to be addressed by December 9, to the Rev. J. Cavis-Brown, Succentor, Vicars' Close, Chichester.

WANTED, SOLO TENOR, £20, and ALTO, £10 per annum, for West End Church. Musical service. Apply to A. B., 57, Regent Street.

TENOR SOLOIST WANTED, for St. Stephen's, South Kensington. £30. Apply by letter to Mr. Hamilton Robinson, 17, Stratford Road, Kensington, W.

TENORS WANTED, for the Surpliced Choir at Christ Church, Newgate Street. Travelling expenses allowed. Apply to Mr. George Cooper, on Fridays, at 8 p.m.

WANTED, VOLUNTARY MALE VOICES for Choir. Cathedral Service and Anthems. Good Training. Apply, Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C., Wednesday evenings, 8.30. Also Vocalists to join Choral Society, Thursday evenings. Free.

BASS and TENOR WANTED. Church near Piccadilly Circus. Anglican service. Communicant. Two services and one practice. Stipend, £10. Address, by letter, with references, Frederick J. Crowest, 28, Calthorpe Street, W.C.

BASS (or Deep Baritone) WANTED, at Christmas; S.E. District. Good Reader. Services twice on Sunday. Wednesday evening practice. Stipend, £12 per annum. Also, ALTO (voluntary); Cathedral Service. Address, C.M., 7, Trinity Street, Southwark, S.E.

WANTED, CHOIR-TRAINER for Brecon Archidiaconal Choral Union, to train Choirs during January, February, March, and one month preceding a Festival to be held before June 20, 1890. Knowledge of Gregorian music essential. Salary, eight guineas per month for five nights per week training. Applications and testimonials to be sent to the Rev. John Price, Llanveigan Rectory, Brecon.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for the Crouch Hill Presbyterian Church. Send copies of testimonials and state salary expected. Address, J. S. B., 10, Upper Mount Pleasant Villas, Stroud Green, N.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED. Apply, with testimonials and references and salary expected, Vicar, St. John's, Cheltenham.

ORGANISTS.—The Organist of a fashionable foreign winter resort wishes to INTRODUCE a gentleman to his appointment. Excellent opportunity for a delicate person, as the climate is a splendid one. Good salary. Premium required (payable on appointment), £60. Address (on foreign note paper) at once, giving experience, Terpander, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

DEPUTY-ORGANIST.—The Advertiser wishes to meet with a Gentleman who would act occasionally as DEPUTY, in return for practice on a new Three-manual Organ, by WILLIS. Church in East-end, but close to an underground railway station. Reply to Honorary Organist, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ST. ANDREW'S, Hoxton.—WANTED, at Christmas, Voluntary ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Two-manual Organ; also, BASS and TENOR VOLUNTEERS, with privilege of using Organ for practice. Rev. H. Hayman, St. Andrew's Vicarage, Mortimer Road, Kingsland, N.

ORGANIST and VOCAL MUSIC MASTER WANTED, after Christmas, at Leeds Grammar School. Salary, £50. Apply, in the first instance by letter only, to the Head Master.

WANTED, for Rubislaw Parish Church, Aberdeen, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £52 ros. Apply to Harvey Hall, Advocate, 222, Union Street, Aberdeen.

ORGANIST WANTED, for the Parish Church, Fyvie, Aberdeenshire. There is also an excellent opening for cultivating a teaching connection. For particulars, apply to James Macbeth, 181, Union Street, Aberdeen.

HARMONIUMIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Parish Church of Glencairn, Thornhill, Dumfriesshire. Two-manual Harmonium. Proposed salary, £40 per annum. Some teaching in neighbourhood. Application, with certificates of character and qualification, to be lodged with Parish Minister there by December 12.

WILL Organists, Instrumentalists, and Vocalists kindly VOLUNTEER to take part in the ORGAN RECITALS at Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C., on Monday evenings. New Organ. Address, Vicar.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires RE-ENGAGEMENT; good Player, thoroughly experienced Choir-trainer. Highest musical references; communicant. Minim, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN A.R.A.M., having held Appointment of Organist and Choirmaster 22 years at West-End Church, seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT; Town or Country. Highest testimonials. Apply, Musicus, 30, Formosa Street, Maida Vale, London.

IN return for practice, Advertiser wishes ENGAGEMENT as ASSISTANT ORGANIST, or at Organ or Harmonium (gratis); Church, Chapel, or Hall within easy distance of Finsbury Park. Address by letter, Minor, care of Y., 89, Stroud Green Road.

MR. R. E. CLARK, A. Mus., desires ORGANIST-SHIP in or near London. Church. Would deputise. Salary. Good references, &c. Address, 66, High Street, Barnet.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (disengaged) desires APPOINTMENT in or near London. Moderate Salary. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

WANTED, MUSIC-MASTER in a School after Christmas, to teach PIANOFORTE and VIOLIN if possible, train the Choir, and conduct the Singing-Class of the School. Must give up all his time to the work. A good Musician, and one anxious to stir some enthusiasm for Music in the school, wanted. Give references as to teaching power and musical ability. State terms. Address, B. L., care of Mr. Thin, Bookseller, South Bridge, Edinburgh.

AN excellent opportunity OFFERS for a competent young Lady Pianist to join first-rate CONCERT PARTY. Long engagement. Constant good appearances. Evening dresses found. Travelling and other expenses covered. No Premium. Apply T., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A MUSIC TEACHER in Scotland requires an ASSISTANT, who can Teach Violin and Viola. Preference given to one who can Teach the Theory. Address, Allegro, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, in a good School in the country, a SITUATION as VISITING MUSIC MISTRESS, by a Lady holding highest diploma from Leipzig. Brilliant pianist; experienced. Preparation for examinations. Highest references. Address, T. B., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. J. G. WRIGLEY, F.C.O., Mus. Bac., Oxon., O. and C.M. Parish Church, High Wycombe (Conductor, Maidenhead Philharmonic Society, Wycombe Choral Association), has a VACANCY for a Resident or Non-Resident ARTICLED PUPIL. Moderate premium. Large Organ. Address, Alderley High Wycombe.

AN ORGANIST wishes to meet with a gentlemanly YOUTH (about 17 or 18) to train for the MUSICAL PROFESSION. Three-manual organ, full choral services, choral societies, &c. Moderate terms. Address, Cantab, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

TO ORGANISTS.—Mr. Jas. Fitzgerald, F.S.Sc., wishes to recommend his late Articled Pupil as ASSISTANT. Small salary if possible. W. J. W., 22, Bridge St., Stourport, Worc.

WANTED, by a Lady (Gold Medalist, A.R.C.M., &c.) a Non-Resident ENGAGEMENT as MUSIC TEACHER in a good School, in town or neighbourhood. Experienced. Pupils most successful in Examinations. C., High School, Herne Bay.

TO SCHOOLS.—A well-known LADY PROFESSOR of SINGING is relinquishing a School at Christmas, and will be at liberty to accept another ENGAGEMENT. The highest references given. M. B., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, first-class TUNER and REPAIRER, with knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums; or one with above qualifications and some capital, as Partner in a well-established country business. Apply to G. D., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

WANTED, a first-class TUNER and REPAIRER of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums, for the country. None but steady, reliable Tuners need apply. Permanent situation and good salary offered. Send age and references to M. A. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GOOD TUNER WANTED (Single preferred), with general knowledge of instruments, and able to do small repairs. Apply by letter, stating age and salary required with photo, to Newman and Sons, 84, Queen Street, Cardiff.

AN Experienced Country TUNER WANTED. Permanent situation. Dale, Forty and Co., Cheltenham.

TUNER WANTED, by Dealer in Norfolk. Must be efficient in Tuning and Repairing Pianofortes, Organs, and Harmoniums. Highest references required. Total abstainer preferred. Musicus, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a Competent Man in a PIANO, MUSIC, and MUSICAL INSTRUMENT WAREHOUSE. Must read Music or Tune, and be conversant with the Hire System and Sheet Music Trade. Send Carte, and full particulars, stating wages required, &c., to Oxford, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an experienced ASSISTANT for a MUSIC BUSINESS. Qualifications: Pianist, good knowledge of sheet music trade, and booking. Letters, with photo, to Messrs. Beare and Son, Music Warehouse, Rathbone Place, London.

ASSISTANT TUNER WANTED, for Provinces. Enclose C.D.V. State wages, age, and references, with stamped envelope for reply. Williamson, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

WANTED, for a Music Warehouse, in a fashionable watering place, West of England, a YOUNG PERSON who understands the SHEET TRADE, BOOKKEEPING, &c. Apply, by letter, enclosing photo, to E. P., care of Messrs. Beare and Son, 34, Rathbone Place, Oxford Street, London.

LADY requires RE-ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC BUSINESS. Long experience. Address, D. M., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A YOUNG LADY requires SITUATION in good MUSIC SHOP. Some experience. Fair reader. Can attend to books. Good references. Address, H. O., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (fine) and REGULATOR desires a permanent APPOINTMENT about January. Understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Could assist in Warehouse. Four years in present situation. Aged 26; good references. Address, Fine, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER—WANTED, a SITUATION as PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER. Thoroughly experienced in country work, with very fair knowledge of American Organs, Harmoniums, Concertinas, &c. Apply, F. E. G., 77, Etam St., Leominster.

RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, by first-class TUNER. Factory experience; good reference. C. 39, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COLONIES or ABROAD.—WANTED, a SITUATION as TUNER. Aged 26. Single. First-class references, good address, competent Salesman, or to Manage. Tuner, care of Mr. Hawkins, 26, Lisson Grove, N.W.

AS TUNER or ASSISTANT, London or Neighbourhood preferred. Aged 27. Good References. R. W. G., 183, Lower Kennington Lane, London, S.E.

TUNING CONNECTION for SALE. Price, £50. Would suit a man who is a good Repairer. Good opportunity. Address, Unison, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUTH (educated and of good address), aged 19 years, is desirous to obtain a SITUATION as JUNIOR TUNER where he would be able to gain further knowledge of regulating and repairs; can tune very well. Small salary. Would not object to give services for two years for Board and Lodging in lieu of Wages. Good character and references. Address, R. G. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE (in the City). One shilling per hour, upon a complete instrument. Three manuals and independent pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis, 20, Minorities. ORGAN and PIANO Lessons by Mrs. ELIZABETH STIRLING.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depot, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE, tubular pneumatic; three manuals; independent pedals; terms and specification on application. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on fine three-manual Organ. S.E. district. Course of twelve weeks, £2 2s.; with Harmony, £3 3s.; wind, 4d. an hour.—Brownlow Baker, 3, Langdon Road, N., and 48, Trinity Square, S.E.

ORGAN LESSONS.—MISS AMOR, certificated R.A.M., pupil of W. S. Hoyte, Esq., and the late Sir G. Macfarren, receives PUPILS. Address, 67, Mayfield Road, Dalston, N.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE and LESSONS.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles St., Camberwell New Rd.

WANTED, a Second-hand ORGAN, suitable for a Church, in which may be seated a congregation of 600 persons. Must be by a good Builder. Send description, name of Builder, and cost of erection at Christ Church, Yeovil, Somerset, to C. Vining, 49, Vicarage Street, Yeovil.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned Instrument, in first-class condition. Great Organ, 12 stops; Swell Organ, 9 stops; Pedal Organ, 2 stops. Full particulars, Post-free. W. White, St. Peter's Hill, Grantham.

FOR SALE.—The ORGAN, lately in The College Chapel, Chester. 2 Manuals, 2 Octaves of Pedals, 12 Stops. Apply to the Rev. the Principal. Any reasonable offer accepted.

CHURCH and CHAMBER ORGANS for SALE or HIRE. Large stock list. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Manchester, S.W.

ORGAN. Fine tone. Two CC manuals and pedals. 17 stops. 16-ft. open diapason on pedals, &c. For SALE. Price £150. A Bargain. Ingram, Burnard Place, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

ORGAN for SALE. Now in use at St. Mary's Church, Stamford Brook. A good modern instrument. CC swell, full compass Pedal Organ, 14 stops. In first-class condition. Price £185. Particulars of R. Lochner, Organist, 133, Lancaster Road, Notting Hill.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two Manuals, full compass pedals, suitable for a room or small Church or Chapel. Guaranteed in good working condition. Also, Gas Engine, complete. Address, Wm. Richardson and Son, Organ Builders, 13, Mostyn Terrace, Lathian Road, Brixton, S.E., for cards to view.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE. One-manual, CC to G, seven stops; two octaves key pedals; 15 ft. high, 9 ft. wide, 6 ft. deep on floor, 8½ ft. in upper part; built by BEVINGTON, in 1880. To be SOLD a bargain to make room for a larger one. Apply, Rector, Weston Turville, Tring.

CC ORGAN for SALE, on Easy Terms.—Three manuals and pedals, 31 stops, 3 reeds, 2 pedal stops. Quite an orchestral instrument. Capable of great variety; splendid quality of tone. Suitable for church, chapel, gentleman's hall, or public. Also CC Organ, 16 stops, 2 manuals, 2 reeds, pedals, 5 octaves. For particulars, apply, R. Young, Organ Builder, 135, York Road, Camden Road, London, N.

EXCELLENT Two-Manual ORGAN; new; good value. Also, Three-Manual ORGAN, by F. W. JARDINE. Young and Sons, Organ Builders, Eldon Street, Manchester.

FOR SALE.—The ORGANS now standing at 1. St. Matthew's Church, Gosport, containing 1 manual and Pedals. 20 stops.

2. Congregational Chapel, Newmarket. 1 manual and pedals. 7 stops.

3. St. Lawrence's Church, Norwich. Two manuals and pedals. 14 stops. Price £60.

These Organs to be sold to make room for new and larger instruments. They are all in regular use and can be tried by appointment. Apply, NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Works, Chapel Field Road, Norwich.

ON SALE, owing to the death of the performer, a unique set of forty attuned MUSICAL GLASSES, ranging over more than 3 octaves, carefully selected (from hundreds made for him) by a well-known public player, and firmly fitted, for performance and for travelling, in a handsome mahogany lock-up case with brass mountings, &c. Also go extra Glasses, of all sizes, to provide against breakage. Apply, A. B. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GENUINE Old Italian Violins for SALE: Johannes Baptista Guadagnini, Laurentius Storioni, Jofredus Cappa in Saluzia, Bernard Fendt (copy of Maggini), fine specimen. Price and particulars, apply to Mr. Brentnall, Northumberland Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

A VERY handsome fine-toned Old Italian VIOLON-CELLO to be SOLD at once. No reasonable offer refused. May be seen at Messrs. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond Street, W.

BUY of ENGLISHMEN ONLY. MAYSON VIOLINS, in amber, warranted equal real Cremonas, and the best in Europe. Ten guineas cash. Wood, Blindley Heath.

PIANO, with ORGAN PEDALS.—The Organist of St. Philip's, Camberwell, wishes to SELL his PIANO as above (Rummens's Attachment, with seat, &c., complete). Room wanted. Can be seen at any time by appointment. Chas. O. M. Philips, 9, Avondale Square, Old Kent Road, S.E.

PEDALS.—For SALE, COLLARD SQUARE PIANO, with full scale organ Pedals, roller-board attachment and bench. £8, or offers. E. J. E., 67, Romilly Road, N.

FLUTE WANTED.—RUDALL, CARTE & Co.'s 1867 Patent Flute. Cocoa-wood and silver keys. Flautist, 83, Patshull Road, London, N.W.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

THE "CARRODUS" VIOLINS (named by permission of J. T. CARRODUS, Esq., the eminent Violinist). The finest that can be made. Prospectus and list of testimonials free. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London, and all musicellers.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

N.B.—The LIBRARY is 'OPENED on TUESDAYS, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Proposed arrangements for the Session, 1889-90.

December	3	D. J. Blaikley, Esq., will read a paper on "The Development and History of Wind Instruments." To commence at 8 o'clock.
January	7, 1890	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	8	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	9	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	10	Distribution of Diplomas.
"	14	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	15	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	16	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	17	Diploma Distribution.
February	4	Lecture.
March	4	Lecture.
April	1	Lecture.
"	14	Annual Dinner.
May	6	Lecture.
June	3	Lecture.
July	2	Lecture.
"	15	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	16	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	17	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	18	Distribution of Diplomas.
"	22	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	23	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	24	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	25	Diploma Distribution.
"	31	Annual General Meeting.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—CHURCH OF ENGLAND
HIGH SCHOOL for GIRLS (Limited), 6, Upper Baker Street, Regent's Park.—Head Music Mistress, Miss Macirone, late Professor of Royal Academy of Music. Fee, three guineas per term. Children from 8 to 13 allowed to begin and continue for two guineas per term. Pupils not in the School pay an entrance fee of one guinea. The fees payable in advance. Michaelmas Term begins October 2. Pupils wishing to join Violin Class under Mdlle. Gabrielle Vaillant to send in their names to Miss Macirone.

E. J. HOLLAND, Chairman.

UNIVERSITY OF TRINITY COLLEGE, TORONTO.

(The Church of England University of Upper Canada.)

The next Annual Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held simultaneously in Toronto and London in Easter Week, 1890.

Women are admissible to these Examinations.

For particulars apply to

Rev. E. K. KENDALL, D.C.L.,
Registrar for England, Southsea.

THE LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.FOR EXAMINATIONS IN PRACTICAL AND THEORETICAL MUSIC.

PATRONS.

The Most Noble the Marquis of CARMARTHEN, M.P.

The Hon. Sir WILLIAM GRANTHAM.

Sir FRANCIS BRADY, Bart., Q.C., Vice-President Royal Irish College of Music.

J. SIMS REEVES, Esq.

PRESIDENT.

FREDERIC H. COWEN, Esq.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN, Esq.

WM. SPARK, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.C.O.

The above College holds periodical Examinations in Pianoforte Playing, Singing, Theory, and all branches of Music, and grants Certificates to all successful Candidates. Next examination in December.

Local Representatives required for Vacancies. Apply to Secretary.

GLASGOW MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

(Under the patronage of the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council).

Artists of first-class standing, Vocal and Instrumental, are invited to send dates and terms to—

D. MACCOLL, Managing Director,
40, St. Enoch's Square, Glasgow.

THE CAPTIVES OF BABYLON, an Oratorio by GEO. SHINN, Mus. Bac., will be performed with Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ, under the direction of the Composer, at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, on TUESDAY, December 3, at 8 o'clock. Seats free, at 7.50.

TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT

TO

DR. C. S. HEAP.

A GRAND PERFORMANCE OF DR. C. SWINNERTON
HEAP'S CANTATA

"THE MAID OF ASTOLAT"

(First time of Performance in Birmingham)

ON MONDAY, DECEMBER 9.

ARTISTS:

MRS. HUTCHINSON. MR. ORLANDO HARLEY.

MISS EMILIE LLOYD. MR. D. HARRISON.

MR. WILLIAM EVANS.

FULL BAND AND CHORUS OF 450 PERFORMERS.

CONDUCTOR.....DR. C. S. HEAP.

Tickets, at 4s., 2s. 6d., 1s. 6d., and 1s., may be purchased at Messrs. Rogers and Priestley's, Colmore Row, Birmingham.

THE LIVERPOOL CONCERT PARTY.

For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c. :—

Madame LAURA HAWORTH (Soprano).

Miss ANNIE RICHARDSON (Contralto).

Mr. ALFRED WHITE (Tenor).

Mr. FREDERIC OWENS (Bass).

Miss MABEL RICHARDSON (Elocutionist).

Master HERBERT SPENCER (Solo Violinist).

Miss MARGARET WEBSTER (Solo Pianist).

Mr. R. D. RODGERS (Humorist).

Miss RICHARDSON (Accompanist).

For particulars, terms, &c., address, Miss Richardson, 6, Abercromby Terrace, Liverpool.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

Mr. Stedman's Musical Agency

(Established 1877, for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),

12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

CHURCH FESTIVALS of all kinds arranged. Choir Boys. All Classes of Artists for Opera, Theatre, Concerts, and for Banquets and Garden Parties, with management.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY

Established as a medium of communication between Concert Givers and Artists, and to facilitate business between them, in London, the Provinces, and America.

CONDUCTED BY

Mr. H. TUDDENHAM, Principal of the English College of Music
Established 1879.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

MR. TUDDENHAM is prepared to provide

Artists for Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, Mixed Concerts, Ballads, Part-Songs, Glee, Morning and Evening Concerts, Garden Parties, At Homes, Dinners, Tours arranged, &c. Mr. Tuddenham being personally acquainted with most of the leading VOCALISTS and ORCHESTRAL PLAYERS, will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all projectors of Concerts favouring him with their requirements.

MR. TUDDENHAM'S select CONCERT PARTY, consisting of six Artists—including Ballads, Songs, Duets, Quartets, Recitations, Violin or Flute Solos—may be engaged to perform the entire programme, either in London or the Provinces. Terms on application.

MR. TUDDENHAM'S SOLO CHOIR BOYS

may be engaged for Church Festivals, Choral Weddings, Banquets, Concerts, &c. Good Chorus Singers for assisting Choirs. Clergymen and Organists are invited to write for requirements; perfect satisfaction guaranteed. Letters, telegrams, &c., to Mr. H. Tuddenham.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

THE MUSICAL CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION (Manager, A. F. TRINDALL, A. Mus., 30, Wyndham Street, W.). A new system of music publishing, whereby Teachers and Composers may exchange and sell each other's works. Write for prospectus.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President: THE EARL OF ABERDEEN.

Warden: The Rev. H. G. BONAVIA HUNT, Mus.D., F.R.S.E.

Director of Studies: Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

Director of Examinations: Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus.B.

The next STUDENTS' ORCHESTRAL CONCERT will take place at Princes' Hall, Piccadilly, on Monday, December 9, at 8 o'clock. The programme will include:—Symphony, No. 1, in E flat (Spohr); Overture, "Zanetta" (Auber); Concerto for Pianoforte and Orchestra, in E flat (Beethoven); Fantasia for Pianoforte and Orchestra (Liszt); and Serenade, Allegro Gioioso, for Pianoforte and Orchestra (Mendelssohn), &c. Tickets, price 5s. and 2s. 6d. The usual privileges in regard to tickets are granted to past Students, Diplomés, and Members.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

THESE EXAMINATIONS TAKE PLACE IN JANUARY AND JULY.

The THIRTY-THIRD HALF-YEARLY Higher Examinations will take place in the week commencing January 6, 1890; as under:—

1. For the Diplomas of L.Mus., T.C.L., and A.Mus., T.C.L., at the College only.
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.), at the College only.
3. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.), at the College, and also at the following Local Centres, subject to final arrangements:—Aberdeen, Belfast, Birmingham, Bolton, Bristol, Cardiff, Cheltenham, Carmarthen, Edinburgh, Exeter, Glasgow, Keswick, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, Norwich, Nottingham, Plymouth, and Portsmouth.

Last day of entry, December 14, 1889.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

TWELFTH ANNUAL SERIES.

The LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) take place in the United Kingdom in December and June and in the Colonies in June.

THE NEXT HALF-YEARLY EXAMINATION will be held on Friday, December 13.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC will take place on various dates, a list of which may be had on application.

Prospectuses of the Classes Department, and regulations for the Examinations, may be obtained from the undersigned.

By order of the Academical Board,

SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

FOR ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS.

SUITABLE FOR USE

IN

THE CHURCH SERVICE

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH"

By SCHUMANN

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

By REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

For Soprano Solo and Chorus, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

Price One Shilling.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS MORN

A BIBLICAL PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY THE REV. S. J. STONE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HENRY LESLIE.

Vocal Score, 8vo, 2s. 6d. Vocal Parts, 6d. each.

CHRISTMAS EVE

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR ALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

THE

COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT

A POEM

BY

ROBERT BURNS

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready.

ST. JOHN'S EVE

AN OLD ENGLISH IDYLL

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE POEM BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

PAPER BOARDS, 3s. CLOTH GILT, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

JESUS, NOW WILL WE PRAISE THEE

A SACRED CANTATA FOR NEW YEAR'S DAY

COMPOSED BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

The English version by the Rev. Dr. TROUTBECK.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

TRIO

IN E FLAT MAJOR

FOR

PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, AND VIOLONCELLO

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 35.)

Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

PIBROCH

SUITE FOR VIOLIN

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price Six Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

DECEMBER 1, 1889.

THEATRES v. MUSIC HALLS.

THE controversy that has raged around the music halls in the columns of an enterprising daily paper has taken a new and unexpected turn since Mr. Pinero leaped into the fray. He began by a speech at the Royal Theatrical Fund dinner, in which he painted in heartrending language the degrading effect on the theatre of granting licences for the performance of plays at the music hall. As a safeguard against the incursion of the "pathos of the pantry and the wit of the wash-tub"—whatever that may mean—Mr. Pinero clamoured for protection for the theatres. But this is not all. Not content with pleading that the playhouses are to be protected against the competition of the music halls, Mr. Pinero, like Oliver, asks for more. Writing to the Daily Telegraph of the 15th ult., Mr. Pinero puts forward a further modest proposal as follows:—"If Mr. Jones will devote his fluent and eager pen to advocating the subsidising of some of our theatres, I will willingly take my place behind him, and trudge at his heel. Subsidised art is protected art, but the pill is coated. Has Mr. Jones the hardihood to join me in urging the administration of this medicine? Subsidise for the service of the serious drama but one English theatre, and I shall regard with greater equanimity the prospect of entrusting the people's play to the care of those managers of music halls who, on their own piteous avowal, have found themselves incapable of keeping what is unseemly out of a business which they profess to understand." Mr. Jones, be it remarked, had in a previous letter named six or seven theatrical managers who had gained money and renown by providing a "comparatively intellectual dramatic entertainment" for their patrons. Hence it was not by any means a foregone conclusion that he would fall in with Mr. Pinero's demand. As a matter of fact, his view of the question was commonplace but sensible. Writing a few days later he declares, "I do not think we are in any urgent and desperate need of a government subsidy," but adds that he would cordially support any scheme for an endowed national theatre that promised to be workable; but he fears that it would become a haunt of Boeotian dullness, or used words to that effect. The disinclination of persons connected with the drama to back Mr. Pinero's appeal—as evidenced by their silence in the press—is, we think, pretty significant. They feel that they cannot with a good conscience plead for State relief in the face of the incontrovertible evidence of dramatic prosperity aduced by Mr. Jones.

But while Mr. Pinero stands Oliver-like in his demand, but not in his needs, after the fashion of those of whom a Roman writer said, Et cum possideant plurima, plura petunt, why is it that no Roland steps forth on behalf of an art at least as meritorious as the drama, and blows a blast on his dread horn that may stir the pity of the official Philistines? Why subsidise the theatres when many playwrights and managers on their own confession make a good thing out of it? Echo—a personage whose sympathies are entirely on the side of music—answers why? Mr. Jones points to more than half-a-dozen theatrical managers who have gained money and won renown by providing a comparatively intellectual dramatic entertainment. Would it be possible to do the same in the musical world? We greatly doubt it. That musical enterprises conducted on the highest artistic principles are non-remunerative is a proposition which may be accepted in the light of an axiom. It is only by the means of private subsidies or guarantees that such concerns can be carried on at all. Such a case as that of the Leeds Festival is hardly to the point. It is certainly an exception to the rule which dooms musical entrepreneurs to financial failure—failure the more complete in direct proportion to the height of their artistic aspirations. The only way to make Concerts pay, as we heard it cynically remarked the other day, is not to pay your performers. What men of business would care to invest money in the Richter Concerts Company—supposing such a concern were to be floated—or the Philharmonic Company, or the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts Company? Music is a fine profession undoubtedly, but there are not many great fortunes to be made in the pursuit of its legitimate branches. Dramatic management is more speculative, inasmuch as the initial cost of producing a play may come to ten times that of producing a musical work. But if the piece has a long run the remuneration is out of all proportion greater than that in the case of a Concert. Where any considerable profits are made out of musical management, it is generally in connection with Opera or the Concert tours of operatic stars of the first magnitude, and here the risk is very great. If we are to believe what we read in the papers, Madame Patti's Transatlantic entrepreneurs are not altogether to be envied. To pay a single singer £1,000 a night eats a big hole in one's receipts, no matter how large they may be.

Whether we look at the matter from its æsthetic or its practical side, it must be conceded that the claims of music to financial recognition from the State are at least as great as those of the drama. Roughly speaking, the principle by which the authorities are actuated in such cases is that help should only be bestowed on the deserving, who are at the same time unable to maintain themselves. On the admission of a leading playwright, the drama is not in any urgent need of subsidy. It may be said that the same is true of our musical institutions. But if there is to be such a thing as State aid, we trust that music will not lack eloquent advocacy. The educational and humanising value of the drama is peremptorily insisted on by many persons, but there is a considerable section of the community who regard it as a neglectable or even as a non-existent quantity. Now as to the educational and humanising influence of a great portion of the music publicly performed in this country, there is no controversy whatever. Again, its recreative and tonic, or even therapeutic, influence on those who work the greater part of the day, cannot easily be exaggerated. On this head we quote the sensible remarks of Mr. Finck, which, though primarily addressed to an American audience, are in great part equally applicable to English readers:—"In America, more than anywhere else, is music needed as a tonic, to cure the infectious and ridiculous business fever which is responsible for so many cases of premature collapse. Nowhere else is so much time wasted in making money, which is then spent in a way that contributes to no one's happiness—least of all the owner's. We Americans are in the habit of calling ourselves the most practical nation in the world, but the fact is, it would be difficult to find a nation less practical. For what is the object of life? Is it to toil like a galley-slave and never have any amusements? Every nation in Europe, except the English, knows better how to enjoy the pleasures of life than we do. Our so-called "practical" men look upon recreation as something useless, whereas, in reality, it is the most useful thing in the world. Recreation is re-creation—regaining the energies lost by hard work. Those who properly alternate recreation with work, economise their brain power, and are, therefore, infinitely more practical than those who scorn or neglect recreation." The recreative influence of the drama is undoubtedly great, but there can be no questioning the fact that in the more serious and ambitious of its modern manifestations, such recreative influence is greatly impaired by the intrusion of the element of so-called realism. People—most people, at any rate—go to the playhouse to get away from their everyday surroundings, to escape from their environment into the realms of romance. Now the relentless realists of to-day deny them this satisfaction—whether in fiction or in the drama. But—thank Heaven!—there can be no Realism or Naturalism in a piece of music. A musical Zola or a musical Ibsen are equally impossible. To sum up the whole: the theatre does not want State help. Music manages to get on without it. But if any of Mr. Goschen's surplus is to be devoted to a further recognition of the claims of the Fine Arts, we trust that the case of the music hall—using the term in its proper and undegraded sense—will receive due attention. And we believe that so long as Mr. Balfour is in the Cabinet, the youngest of the Arts is in no danger of being treated like Cinderella by her elder sisters.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS.

By JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. XXVII.—HANDEL (concluded from page 653).

HANDEL left a will disposing of his property, and that document cannot be omitted here:—

"In the name of God, amen. I, George Frideric Handel, considering the uncertainty of human life, do make this my Will in manner following—viz., I give and bequeath unto my servant, Peter le Blond, my clothes and linen and three hundred pounds sterling, and to my other servants a year's wages. I give and bequeath to Mr. Christopher Smith my large harpsichord, my little house organ, my music books, and five hundred pounds sterling. Item. I give and bequeath to Mr. James Hunter five hundred pounds sterling. I give and bequeath unto my cousin, Christian Gottlieb Handel, of Copenhagen, one hundred pounds sterling. Item. I give and bequeath to my cousin, Magister Christian August Roth, of Halle, in Saxony, one hundred pounds sterling. Item. I give and bequeath to my cousin, the widow of George Taust, pastor of Giebichenstein, near Halle, in Saxony, three hundred pounds sterling, and to her six children each two hundred pounds sterling. All the next and residue of my estate in Bank Annuities, 1746, sft. sub., or whatsoever kind or nature, I give and bequeath unto my dear niece, Johanna Frederica Floerchen, of Gotha, in Saxony, born Michaelsen, in Halle, in whom I make my sole executor of this my last will. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, this first day of June, 1758.—(Signed) GEORGE FRIDERIC HANDEL."

To this document were subsequently added four codicils, the first of which runs as follows:—

"I, George Frideric Handel, make this codicil to my will. I give unto my servant, Peter le Blond, two hundred pounds additional to the legacy already given him in my will. I give to Mr. Christopher Smith fifteen hundred pounds additional to the legacy already given him in my will. I give to my cousin, Christian Gottlieb Handel, of Copenhagen, two hundred pounds additional to the legacy already given him in my will. My cousin, Magister Christian August Roth, being dead, I give to his widow two hundred pounds, and, if she should die before me, I give the said two hundred pounds to her children. The widow of George Taust and one of her children being dead, I give to her five remaining children three hundred pounds apiece, instead of the legacy given to them by my will. I give to Dr. Morell, of Turnham Green, two hundred pounds. I give to Mr. Newburgh Hamilton, of Old Bond Street, who has assisted me in adjusting words for some of my compositions, one hundred pounds. I make George Amyant, Esquire, of Laurence Pountney Hill, London, merchant, co-executor with my niece, mentioned in my will, and give him two hundred pounds, which I desire him to accept for the care and trouble he shall take in my affairs. In witness whereof," &c.

The above codicil, made August 6, 1756, was followed on March 22, 1757, by another:—

"I, George Frideric Handel, do make this further codicil to my will. My old servant, Peter le Blond, being lately dead, I give to his nephew, John Duburk, the sum of five hundred pounds. I give to my servant, Thomas Bramwell, the sum of thirty pounds, in case he shall be living with me at the time of my death, and not otherways. In witness whereof," &c.

A third codicil was made on August 4, 1757:

"I, George Frideric Handel, do make this further codicil to my will. My cousin, Christian Gottlieb Handel, being dead, I give to his sister, Christiana Susanna Handelin, at Goslar, three hundred pounds; and to his sister, living at Pless, near Teschen, in Silesia, three hundred pounds. I give to John Rich, Esquire, my great organ that stands at the Theatre Royal in Covent Garden.* I give to Charles Jennens, Esquire, two pictures, the old man's head and the old woman's head, done by Denner.† I give to — Granville, Esquire, of Holles Street, the landskip, a view of the Rhine, done by Rembrandt, and another, by the same hand, which he made me a present of some time ago. I give a fair copy of the score and all the parts of my Oratorio called 'The Messiah' to the Foundling Hospital. In witness whereof," &c.

The fourth, and last, codicil was made April 11, 1759—three days before the testator's death:—

"I, George Frideric Handel, make this further codicil. I give to the Governors or Trustees of the Society for the Support of Decayed Musicians and their Families‡ one thousand pounds, to be disposed of in the most beneficial manner for the objects of that charity. I give to George Amyand, Esquire, one of my executors, two hundred pounds additional to what I have before given him. I give to Thomas Harris, Esquire, of Lincoln's Inn Fields, three hundred pounds. I give to Mr. John Hetherington, of the First Fruits Office, in the Middle Temple, one hundred pounds. I give to Mr. James Smyth,|| of Bond Street, perfumer, five hundred pounds. I give to Mr. Matthew Dubourg, musician, one hundred pounds. I give to my servant, Thomas Bremwell, seventy pounds additional to what I have before given him. I give to Benjamin Martyn, Esquire, of New Bond Street, fifty guineas. I give to Mr. John Belchar, of Sun Court, Threadneedle Street, surgeon, fifty guineas. I give all my wearing apparel to my servant, John de Bourk. I give to Mr. John Cowland, of New Bond Street, apothecary, fifty pounds. I hope I have the permission of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster to be buried in Westminster Abbey, in a private manner, at the discretion of my executor, Mr. Amyand; and I desire that my said executor may have leave to erect a

* Rich was the manager at Covent Garden. The organ remained till 1808, when, with the theatre, it was destroyed by fire.

† Denner painted the acknowledged best portrait of Handel, now in the possession of Mr. Alfred H. Littleton, Westwood House, Sydenham.

‡ The Royal Society of Musicians.

|| This is the person whose evidence as to the exact date of Handel's death we have quoted.

monument for me there, and that any sum, not exceeding six hundred pounds, be expended for that purpose, at the discretion of my said executor. I give to Mrs. Palmer, of Chelsea, widow of Mr. Palmer, of Chelsea, formerly of Chappell Street, one hundred pounds. I give to my maid servants each one year's wages over and above what shall be due to them at the time of my death. I give to Mrs. Mayne, of Kensington, widow, sister of the late Mr. Batt, fifty guineas. I give to Mrs. Downham, of Charles Street, Berkeley Square, fifty guineas. I give to Mr. Reiches, Secretary for the affairs of Hanover, two hundred pounds. In witness whereof," &c.

These documents give us a most favourable idea of Handel's character. We see that, though separated from his German relatives, with many of whom he could have had but the slightest possible intercourse, the kindly composer did not forget them, nor, when any of those mentioned in his will died, did he withdraw the bequest from their representatives. Handel's care for his servants, and his substantial gifts to persons who had been useful to him, bespeak the rare and precious virtue of gratitude in no ordinary degree. All through his life it has appeared to us that, underneath a rough exterior, and amid the explosions of a passionate nature, a good heart was beating. The testimony of the papers given above confirms the evidence and puts it beyond cavil.

Reference must be made to one other document—namely, the inventory of Handel's household goods, as taken for the purpose of sale to his servant, John Duburk. It enables us to look into the house in Brook Street, and see what kind of bachelor establishment it was that Handel carried on. The spectacle is not a gorgeous one. We behold little of luxury, but a good deal of the commonplace—in point of fact, about as queer an assemblage of domestic "odds and ends" as any middle-class London house of the period could show. Let us go through the rooms and take a look round.

Beginning at the garrets, we find two old globes, several old trunks, an old saddle, an old grate, and a bedstead, with linen, &c. The front room on the second floor contains, besides the necessities of a sleeping apartment, six old matted chairs and a stove. In the room behind, also a bedroom, are an oval wainscot table and three old chairs, in addition to the bedstead and its belongings. Descending to the back room on the first floor, we find it furnished as a sitting-room. There are in it some matted chairs, a card-table, a pair of old green silk window-curtains, a chimney-glass, a pier-glass, a bellows, and a brush. The front room on this floor is used as a sitting-room. It contains an iron hearth with dogs, two card-tables, seven matted chairs, a leather stool, two gilt sconces, and a broken chimney-glass. All the furniture of the stairs and passage consists of an eight-day clock and a square lantern. Passing into the front parlour, we come upon the usual fireside appurtenances, an oval table, a square ditto, six old matted chairs, a gilt sconce, a chimney-glass, an old desk, five china coffee cups and six saucers, and a blue and white spoon boat. In the back parlour (evidently Handel's favourite room) are an easy chair and cushion, an old stove, a writing desk, a swing dressing-glass, an old basin-stand, a wicker fire-screen, two deal boxes, a linen press, a deal bookcase, and two wig-blocks. Among the miscellaneous contents of the kitchen we note five saucepans, twelve pewter dishes and twenty-six plates, a dozen knives and forks, and a shaving basin. "All the before-written goods," say Messrs. James Gordon and W. Asherd, the appraisers, "is appraised and valued to the sum of forty-eight pounds," and for £48, sterling coin of the realm, John de Bourk, or Duburk, became their lawful possessor. It must be conceded that the Brook Street establishment was not an example of ostentatious splendour. But Handel had his head well furnished, whatever may be said of his rooms.

Turning to the subject of Handel's personal habits and character, we can hardly do better than take as authoritative the statements of Sir John Hawkins, who was for many years the master's contemporary, and must have known him well. As to Handel's bodily appearance, the musical historian says: "He was in person a large-made and very portly man. His gait, which was ever sauntering, was rather ungraceful, as it had in it somewhat of that rocking motion which distinguishes those whose legs are bowed. His features were finely marked, and the general cast of his countenance placid, bespeaking dignity tempered with benevolence and every quality of the heart that has a tendency to beget confidence and ensure esteem. Few of the pictures extant of him are to any tolerable degree likenesses, except one painted abroad, from a print whereof the engraving given in this work is taken. In the print of him by Houbraken the features are too prominent, and in the mezzotint after Hudson there is a harshness of aspect to which his countenance was a stranger. The most perfect resemblance of him is the statue on his monument, and in that the true lineaments of his face are apparent." Speaking of Handel as a religious man, Hawkins bears witness to his freedom from bigotry. Though a Lutheran, he did not decline "a general conformity with that (the religion) of the country which he had chosen for his residence, at the same time he entertained very serious notions touching its importance." On this matter we need not enlarge. The fact has already appeared that Handel feared God as well as loved his neighbour, his piety having the simple, unaffected, week-day character which is the best sort to wear and of the most value.

Of what the master was by education Hawkins observes: "His attainments in literature cannot be supposed to have been very great, seeing that the studies of his profession absorbed him, and the prodigious number of his compositions will account for a much greater portion of time than any man could well be supposed able to spare from sleep and the necessary recruits of nature, and yet he was well acquainted with the Latin and Italian languages, the latter he had rendered so familiar to him that few natives seemed to understand it better. Of the English, also, he had such a degree of knowledge as to be susceptible of the beauties of our best poets; so that in the multiplicity of his compositions to English words he very seldom stood in need of assistance in the explanation of a passage for the purpose of suiting the sense with correspondent sounds. The style of his discourse was very singular; he pronounced the English as the Germans do, but his phrase was exotic and partook of the idiom of the different countries in which he had resided, a circumstance that rendered his conversation exceedingly entertaining."

Handel's mode of life, according to the authority we are now quoting, was such as might have been expected from the master of a house like that we have seen in Brook Street. His early years in England were a good deal spent in public, but as time went on and he found himself more and more at variance with the "society" of the day, he "gradually retreated into a state of privacy and retirement," and showed no disposition to form new connections. His habits were the reverse of extravagant. We have seen that he spent little money on furniture; it appears, also, that when his income was at its lowest he lived upon it, and incurred no debts. His settled resources were the pensions of £400 and £200, bestowed upon him by Queen Anne and George I. respectively. Out of this, and his salary as Conductor at the Opera, he managed to save £10,000, which amount was wholly absorbed in the disastrous first struggle with the nobility. During his later years, the Lenten Oratorios brought him a yearly average of £2,000, this sum, with the pensions, being so economised that he was able to leave the considerable fortune (about £20,000) disposed of by his will. Hawkins adds: "In the latter part of his life he forebore yielding to a temptation which few, in such circumstances as he was then in, would be able to resist—that of keeping a carriage. Indeed, when his sight failed him, he was necessitated occasionally to hire a chariot and horses, especially in his visits to the City for the purpose of investing his money."

Handel was not what is called sociable, nor was he much given to hospitality—as the existence of only a dozen knives and forks in his house would seem to indicate. Not only did he remain unmarried, but free from female connections of any sort—something of a phenomenon in his day. He had few intimate friends, the nearest to his heart, perhaps, being Goupy, the painter (who caricatured him), and Hunter, a scarlet-dyer of Old Ford, who "pretended a taste for music." Some other friends were City men, but Hawkins points out, "he seemed to think that the honour of his acquaintance was a reward sufficient for the kindness they expressed for him."

It must reluctantly be admitted that the master had a violent temper, which was, indeed, his "thorn in the flesh." He would fly into a passion on the smallest provocation, and then condescend to language of the grossest kind. As to Handelian oaths and such like, we must, however, remember that the first half of the eighteenth century was distinguished for swearing. It was the time when our army swore terribly in Flanders, and an age in which no gentleman was thought the worse of for interlarding his conversation with words of which, now, a White-chapel costermonger would be ashamed. We shall not repeat here any of the numerous anecdotes bearing upon Handel's irascibility. Enough that he had the defect and could never conquer it. As for the enormous appetite so much insisted on, it was more a misfortune than a fault. A large amount of food was necessary to him, and if he enjoyed eating it so much the better. It may truly be said of the great master that, though choleric, he was never malicious; and, though fond of the pleasures of the table, never selfish.

All features in Handel's character become insignificant when compared with the innate nobility of his mind. He was proud in the best sense—that is to say, he scorned a base or equivocal action, and always insisted upon the respect which he felt was deserved by his dignity as a true man. We have seen how punctiliously his social obligations—such of them as affected character—were discharged. As with them, so with every duty, whether to others or to himself. Schœlcher well says: "Everyone praises his integrity, which was equal to his talents. He hated the lightest chains, even those that were the most gilt. At an age when artists used to live in a sort of domesticity with the rich and powerful, he refused to be the dependent of any one, and preserved his dignity with a jealous care. . . . He begged for patronage from no one. That respect for himself from which he never departed gave him a special position, apart from all, among artists and poets." We must all admire this manful dignity, so becoming to true greatness; and not less are we bound to applaud the master's wonderful courage and inexhaustible confidence in himself. The aristocracy, whose power was then real, and not a mere simulacrum as now, could never subdue him, as we have seen. "He had the inflexibility of all great minds. He was a true hero—a moral hero. . . . Vexation at defeat, ruin, bankruptcy, and all the sorrows which they bring upon a man so proud as he was, could not weigh him down; he recommenced again and again, and by dint of activity, energy, genius, and courage, he finished by conquering fortune." To think of Handel in this regard is to be reminded of the words of Seneca: "The greatest man is he who chooses right with the most invincible resolution; who resists the sorest temptation from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in storms and most fearless under menaces and frowns; whose reliance on truth, on virtue, and on God is most unflinching."

Concerning Handel as a musician a whole volume might be written. Happily he is well enough known as a composer in respect of all his greatest qualities. Amongst Englishmen, at any rate, he is the hero, almost the divinity of music, and had he lived in the earlier ages of the world, grateful admirers would have raised him to the dignity of an Orpheus and given to him a wonder-working lyre. On this matter we shall not enlarge, but it may be of interest to quote from Hawkins about Handel's capacity as an instrumental artist: "As to his performance on the organ, the powers of speech are so limited that it is almost a vain attempt to describe it otherwise than by its effects. A fine and delicate touch, a volent finger, and a ready delivery of passages the most difficult are the praise of inferior artists; they were not noticed in Handel, whose excellences were of a far superior kind; and his amazing command of the instrument, the fulness of his harmony, the grandeur and dignity of his style, the copiousness of his imagination, and the fertility of his invention were qualities that absorbed every inferior attainment. When he gave a Concerto his method in general was to introduce it with a voluntary movement on the diapasons, which stole on the ear in a slow and solemn progression, the harmony closely wrought and as full as could possibly be expressed; the passages concatenated with stupendous art, the whole at the same time being perfectly intelligible and carrying the appearance of great simplicity." Handel as an organist we can know only by report that has come down to us through the intervening years, but, in his higher and greater capacity, he lives amongst us still. Spite of those who meddle with his works and those who, in their ignorance, sneer at them, he will be with us for all time.

MUSIC AND SOCIETY.

At a date like the present, when the imbecility of the fashionable young man is proclaimed on the housetops without provoking antagonistic comment, it is reassuring to learn on the authority of Lady Catherine Milnes Gaskell (vide The Nineteenth Century for November), that the spindle side of the jeunesse dorée is already living in the Intellectual Millennium, or at least is rapidly advancing to that much desiderated consummation. With the writer's remarks on the standard which is imposed on fashionable women of to-day in other departments, it is not our intention to deal. Suffice it to state that, to use her own image, they must be Admirable Crichtons in petticoats if they are to make any mark in society. But when Lady Catherine Milnes Gaskell discourses on their achievements in the domain of art and music, we feel that it is within the province of a writer to THE MUSICAL TIMES to examine into the accuracy of her contentions. The article is headed "Women of

"To-day," but the title is eminently misleading. There are millions of women in England to whom its contents have no application whatever. "Women of To-day," as drawn by Lady Catherine Milnes Gaskell, preside over more than one extensive establishment; they entertain all the celebrities of the day; they keep a large staff of servants, and order their dresses in Paris. In short, they belong to the supernal spheres of society. Life might be one long sinecure to them, instead of which their thirst for culture is such that they frequently labour fourteen hours a day—according to Lady Catherine—in order to attain the requisite level of encyclopædic accomplishment which is expected of them by the present generation.

As depicted in these lively pages the condition of the "upper ten" as regards Art is truly enviable. They are saturated with the genuine æsthetic feeling. In diesen heil'gen Hallen no Philistine ever intrudes. The profane vulgar are both artistically and socially ineligible for admittance. It is an aristocracy of intellect as well as of birth. "Insufficiency is no longer considered a mark of ladylike refinement. . . . The knowledge of what is really good in Art or music no longer belongs to a coterie. . . . The kindly amateur whose small attempts were greeted by his friends with enthusiasm in the last century is becoming extinct. 'Unless you can do a thing well, do not do it at all,' is not only said in public, but in family life, and nobody wants accomplishments unless they are of so superior an order that they can command respect anywhere." O happy "upper ten," where all the amateurs are professionals, and everybody is a first-rate critic, and incompetence is reduced to a mute and inoffensive minimum! Had Herr Otto Lessmann, who has spoken with such genial enthusiasm of the musical capacity of the English bourgeoisie, only visited a few drawing-rooms in Mayfair, what rapturous eulogies would he not have written! Perhaps for the peace of mind of his compatriots it is as well that he refrained from penetrating to these haunts of perfection.

Lady Catherine Milnes Gaskell's paper throws a flood of light upon a matter which has long perplexed us. The dislike, or at best the apathy, with which fashionable personages are wont to regard good music led us to imagine that they were unable to appreciate it. We now acknowledge our error, and will endeavour to make ample amends for our unjust estimate. The attitude of the aristocrat is rather one of conscious merit than ignorant arrogance. "What is the good," he asks, "of my going to concerts and listening to professional singers and players, when I can hear far finer performances at home? Joachim is all very well, but you should hear my sister Mabel on the banjo!" Again the disinclination shown of late years by fashionable people to engage the leading professional representatives of legitimate vocalism and instrumentalism, becomes perfectly intelligible. The extraordinary high level of proficiency attained by members of these households enables them to dispense with such extraneous aid. So severely classical is the taste of the "upper ten" that their predilection for whistling ladies, jugglers, and the variety entertainment generally, is merely an instance of the desipere in loco principle. The great mind must unbend sometimes. Nothing but Brahms and Beethoven makes the gilded Jack—or, as we ought to say, the gilded "Johnnie"—a dull boy. He and his sisters eclipse the professional in the province of earnest endeavour, but they cannot compete with the sparkling inanity of the "lion comique." We are all attracted by our opposites. Joachim is said to be very fond of listening to waltzes on a barrel organ, and Du Maurier has depicted a duchess whose ambition was to sing a song in a manner franchement canaille.

Artists who complain that in the matter of engagements at private parties they are completely outpaced by music hall performers may console themselves with the reflection that when fashionable folks did condescend to patronise high-class art, their patronage was extended in such a way as to affront any self-respecting musician. When Spohr visited London he made a gallant stand against the unbecoming and degrading manner in which singers and players of the greatest eminence were treated at private houses. He mentions in his autobiography that they were not admitted to join the company, but were shown into an adjoining room whence they were summoned by the steward of the household, and that they were expected on their appearance to salute the company with a profound bow. How Spohr baffled the lackeys at the house of the Duke of Clarence and extricated himself from what he calls this "disgusting exclusion" would take too long to quote here, but the occasion for such a protest lasted for a great many years after the visit in question. Singers are no longer roped off from the rest of the company as they used to be in the days of Spohr, and affability has taken the place of condescension. But with the banjo enthroned as king of the aristocratic orchestra, how vain it is for earnest musicians to look for any stimulating encouragement from "society"! After all, why should they? The nobles of Germany and Italy did on the whole a great work by their liberal and fostering patronage of the great composers. The aristocracy of England have done next to nothing, pace Lady Catherine Milnes Gaskell. Music is essentially a democratic art amongst us, and its roots are most firmly fastened in the most democratic parts of the country.

It is no doubt disheartening to professional musicians to see those who can best afford to pay for good music preferring to subsidise buffoonery and charlatanry, but such perfunctory patronage as "Men and Women of To-day" (in Lady Catherine Milnes Gaskell's restricted use of the term) can bestow is not worth fretting about. If people honestly prefer a siffleuse to Madame Néruda, why, there is an end of it! Their pecuniary patronage, if destitute of artistic appreciation, is hardly worth having. And yet such frank Philistinism is meritorious and even admirable in comparison with the practice of certain fashionable and wealthy people who invite artists to their house and, as a set-off for the social or gastro-nomic advantages which the latter are supposed to receive, calmly expect them to perform gratuitously. This sort of sponging is even worse than the rudeness or arrogance of the old school, and it is to us a source of wonderment that no protest or stand has been made against it by those most immediately concerned. A loud cry was raised a few years ago by some aggrieved professionals that they were being seriously injured by the competition of highly trained amateurs. The cry was a preposterous one and yet a great deal was written about it. But here is a genuine grievance, and the writer of this article—who is neither a singer nor a player—is under the impression that he is the first to ventilate it.

FORTHCOMING NOVELTIES.

MR. F. H. COWEN's new Cantata, "St. John's Eve" (published this day by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.), will be produced at the Crystal Palace, on the 14th inst., under the composer's direction. The interest it may be assumed to have already excited is a sufficient excuse for some words of description trenching as little as possible upon the domain of criticism.

The librettist, Mr. Joseph Bennett, has sought in this work to reproduce scenes of old English village life as connected with one of its favourite superstitions. There are three parts or acts. When the first opens, villagers are discovered decorating their houses with flowers and greenery on the eve of St. John's Day (Midsummer Day). The maidens are talking of the good fairies who, lurking amid the branches, will enter their chambers and make them dream of lovers, when Margaret, an ancient dame, intervenes. She warns the girls against trust in fairies, and, calling them around her, proceeds to tell how they may behold their future husbands. One after another is advised till it comes to the turn of Nancy, who is bidden to pluck a rose at midnight and conceal it from every eye till Christmas Day. If then found unfaded, and worn on the bosom, the man who takes it from her will be her husband. Overhearing this, Robert, a rustic swain, declares that he will win the prize; but Nancy turns away coldly, and the girls rally him upon his ill-success. Men are now building the bonfire, which is an indispensable feature of the rejoicing; singing as they work. Midnight strikes, the torch is put to the pile, and men and lads dance round the burning mass. Presently, the villagers take brands from the bonfire, by the light of which they disperse to their homes.

In the second part, the scene is changed to the garden of Nancy's cottage. Midnight is close at hand, when the maiden comes out of the house, and, approaching the rose trees, calls upon all sweet influences to guide her choice of a fortunate flower. She plucks a bloom and sings to it of the secret it cannot yet disclose. At the close of her song, a tenor voice in the distance performs a serenade. Nancy has heard it before, and now, the light of the village bonfire falling upon her, she listens with special interest and wonder. The love strain ends, and the maiden slowly retires into the cottage.

We find the scene of the last part laid in the Squire's hall. It is Christmas Day and the assembled villagers have just sung a carol, when Nancy enters wearing a rose in bloom. Her friends congratulate her on the omen, while Robert, boasting that he means to conquer, takes from her the flower. The bold swain is exultant, the villagers assure themselves that Nancy cannot escape her fate, the girl protests that she will die a maid, and there is great commotion. At this juncture the young Squire appears, singing a snatch of the serenade. On hearing what has taken place, he declares that the purloined rose is one which he had caused to be substituted for the long-since faded flower of St. John, in order that Nancy might have "sweet visions of a happy love." Hearing this the girls tease Robert, who rushes from the hall in confusion. A love-duet for Nancy and the young Squire, and a chorus of rejoicing, bring the incidents to an end.

In setting music to this idyl of village life, Mr. Cowen has been careful about two important things. First, he has studied the convenience of the average choral society, with its comparatively limited resources. The orchestration is so laid out as that a small band can be used or one of full size; while the music from beginning to end steadily avoids difficulties that singers and players of moderate ability cannot surmount. This, we may add, is no drawback to the effect of the work. It rather enhances effect by keeping the music parallel with the simple, unaffected character of the story—a desideratum which the composer has everywhere had in view. It is not rash to say that all the numbers will be found more or less engaging. In the "first flight" of the concerted pieces are the opening chorus, "Bring branches from forest"; the bonfire chorus, "Ho!

good Saint John was a shining light"; the very animated chorus sung as the pile is lit, "Whirl round the torch"; the Christmas carol (solo and chorus) and Finale, "Now joy shall be in cottage poor." Excellent as these are, the solos are the strong point, both as regards dramatic fitness and lyrical beauty. Robert's two songs exactly reflect his character as presented by the librettist, and the share allotted to Margaret, especially her address to Nancy, may claim credit for equal propriety. Better than these, however, are Nancy's song in the garden, "Say, what dost thou bear in the secret deep," and the young Squire's serenade, "O zephyr, stirring 'midst the leaves." Here Mr. Cowen's gifts as a lyrical composer have free outcome, and the result is wholly charming. We anticipate a very hearty reception for these songs. But the entire Cantata seems destined to popularity, not only on account of its musical merits, but also because English people naturally sympathise with subjects taken from the rural life of the olden time.

Another important new work is Dr. Mackenzie's choral setting of Burns's "Cotter's Saturday Night." The first performance will be given by the Choral Union in Edinburgh, the Composer's native city, on the 16th inst., under his own direction; and it will also be heard at the Royal Albert Hall, together with the "Dream of Jubal," on March 5, 1890. The "Cotter's Saturday Night" is for orchestra and chorus only, nothing being given to a solo voice. But though the chorus is employed throughout, the composer has taken care to avoid heaviness and monotony. This he accomplishes by using the various sections of the choir to a large extent individually, and reserving his full effects for such lines in the poem as seem to call for them. By liberal use of this obvious device sufficient variety is secured, over and above that dictated by the changing sentiment of the words. Dr. Mackenzie has succeeded in giving a certain Scottish flavour to his music without restricting his freedom in the treatment of the piece. So national a theme calls imperatively for the companionship of the national muse, and the composer meets the demand not only by presenting certain characteristics of expression unmistakable in origin, but by, where possible, drawing upon the folk-music of Burns's country. A Scottish air, for example, appears in the orchestra when the "strappan youth," Jenny's lover, comes on the scene. Similarly, at the reference to "'Dundee's' wild warbling measures" and "plaintive 'Martyrs,' worthy of the name," snatches of those hymn-tunes are heard. These are legitimate means, and add to the interest of the work as well as to its "local colour." The scene in the Cotter's house—the arrival of the lover, the supper, the family worship, &c.—is treated with great feeling and beauty, while the patriotic closing lines give opportunity for a grand peroration, of which Dr. Mackenzie has fully availed himself. We need scarcely add that the work is musicianly from first to last, the music being as good in its way as the poetry with which it is worthily allied. This is high praise, but deserved.

In the number of THE MUSICAL TIMES for November we were able to anticipate with absolute correctness the provisions of the syllabus drawn up by the Associated Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. The document has since been published, but we need not reprint any part of it here, since the reader knows where to refer for all that is essential therein. Accompanying its issue was a letter from Lord Charles Bruce, Chairman of the Board, one or two passages from which may usefully be cited. The writer says, with regard to the first action of intending candidates, "Candidates for examination must apply on forms, provided for that purpose, to the nearest hon. local representative not later than January 31, 1890. Such forms may be obtained either from the Secretary, 52, New Bond Street, London; or, from the nearest hon. local representative." There is, also, a reference to the seriousness with which the new Board look upon their duties: "The list of examiners contained in the syllabus testifies to the importance which the Board attach to these examinations being carried out upon a sound basis, and the presence of two examiners at each centre indicates the thoroughness with which it is intended they shall be conducted." A further paragraph shows the Board to be quite conscious that they have placed the standard somewhat high: "In dealing with the subjects of the local examination, the Board have been actuated by a desire to make the standard of qualification so high that the certificate granted by them may be regarded as a distinction worthy of attainment, and one which will encourage its recipients to persevere in the cultivation of music." The whole scheme is now before the nation, and it remains to be seen what the result will be. We cannot but think that success will attend it as regards those who enter into the study of music with a serious purpose. It may not find great favour with the schools and other institutions which prefer cheaply-won and essentially valueless certificates for the gratification of scholars and their parents, to whom one "parchment" is as good as another for framing. These will not be allured from the examinations which easily serve the purpose, and drawn to one that demands serious preparation and actual attainment. But surely there are earnest young musical students in this country who are sharp enough to see that a real distinction is held out to them, and whose numbers are sufficient to make the new enterprise pay its way. Any doubt on this subject time will shortly resolve. Meanwhile, we wish brilliant success and long continuance to the Local Examinations of the Associated Board.

GERMAN critics cannot be accused of an excess of leniency in regard to the performances of English artists. Their attitude of reserve—not to say hostility—has been emphasised of late by the admission into the ranks of the Bayreuth cast of two Netherlandish singers, MM. Blauwaert and Van Dyck, whose indisputable success has proved a trifle galling to those musical patriots who regard the Festival Plays as an exclusively national legacy from Wagner. This attitude is not altogether unnatural, as it is well known that Wagner's own intention was that the Bayreuth Festival should remain in all regards purely German, whereas it is now a cosmopolitan rendezvous for the musical enthusiasts of all nations, especially English and Americans, and, as we have seen, foreigners have been actually admitted amongst the performers. Praise from German critics, then, is doubly valuable, because it has to be wrung from them. This fact is curiously and significantly illustrated by the remarkable tribute which has been paid to our compatriot, Mr. Plunket Greene, on the occasion of his recent début at Berlin. Mr. Greene sang, first of all, at a Concert of the Wagner-Verein, where his performances in the "Charfreitagszauber" music from "Parsifal" and selections from "Lohengrin" were most cordially and generously greeted by the audience. On the 14th ult. Mr. Greene gave a public Concert of his own at the Sing-Akademie, and in a widely diversified programme, ranging from Handel and Schubert to Brahms and Jensen, achieved, to quote the words of the leading musical paper of Berlin, a great and unmistakable success. The Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung, of the 22nd ult., contains a long and critical notice of the Concert, in which it declares that the singer's masterly delivery of such test songs as Schubert's "Wer sich der Einsamkeit ergibt," Schumann's "In der Fremde," and Brahms's "Feldeinsamkeit" was on a level with the finest performances that the writer ever heard in any concert-hall, whether for expression, enunciation, phrasing, or management of the breath. The same critic also singles out for especial praise Mr. Greene's rendering of Handel's "Già risuonar" and Dr. Stanford's setting of the old Irish air "My love's an Arbutus," and actually finds fault with him for not having accepted an encore for this song and Brahms's "Feldeinsamkeit." He summarizes his impressions by declaring his conviction that this young singer "has a remarkable gift for the interpretation of German songs; that his voice is faultlessly produced, his musicianship finished and accurate, and his pronunciation of German so good as to serve as a model even for German singers. In short, he has done the greatest credit in Berlin to himself and his master, Professor Blume, of the Royal College in London, and a brilliant future lies open to him as an oratorio or lieder singer." Herr Otto Lessmann, the editor of the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung, is known to have conceived a high opinion of the musical capacity of the English, but the eulogistic attitude assumed by the writer of the above notice is shared by nearly all the other Berlin critics. The Börsen Courier, the Post, and the Kreuz-Zeitung all contain detailed notices of Mr. Greene's Concert, in which unstinted praise is bestowed on his voice, his method, and his expression. The Börsen Courier critic prefaces his notice by frankly stating that he wishes to retract all that he said on the occasion of Mr. Greene's performance at the Wagner-Verein Concert. Then he was disappointed, and so came prepared to "slate," but remained to bless. The amusing feature about all the notices is this, that while the writers cannot find words to express their admiration of the singer, they all seem to take it for granted that he is booked for the next Bayreuth performance, and naïvely assert their belief that he will never succeed on the stage—before he has had a trial!

LETTERS have been received from two correspondents in Australia with reference to the letters which have appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES on the subject of "Ladies' Surpliced Choirs." The discussion on the matter being closed, it is regretted that many points referred to in these letters were not known before, inasmuch as they throw a new light upon the subject and confirm the judgment delivered, as it were, in the leading article which summed up the whole matter in our publication. The letters, which called attention to the existence of ladies in surplices, stated that the innovation occurred in the Cathedral at Melbourne. One of our correspondents from Australia says:—"As a matter of fact, there is not yet any Cathedral in Melbourne, and the only church which might legitimately be called the pro-Cathedral is St. James's, the oldest church in the city, which is built on a piece of land originally granted to the Church of England for Cathedral purposes; but though we have had a bishop, a dean, and also a chapter in existence for many years in this diocese, no service under the control or supervision of the Cathedral chapter has ever been held in Melbourne." The other correspondent writes from Adelaide, and says:—"I have heard and seen the 'millinery choir' in Melbourne, and on no ground whatever can I possibly approve of it; it is not musically a success." Further, it is understood that the choir broke up when the Rev. Dr. Bromby, who instituted it, married the youngest and prettiest of the members of his "Angelic Choir."

A BOND has existed from time immemorial between religion and art and has shown itself in multifarious ways. One of the latest developments is now to be seen at the Princes' Hall, outside which may be read the attractive announcement that free Orchestral Concerts are given every Saturday evening. A closer inspection shows that the gratuitous musical feasts are given in connection with the West London Mission, of which the fountain-head is the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, whose name has come rather prominently before the public of late. With the religious aspect of the movement we, of course, have nothing to do, but Mr. Hughes certainly deserves credit for his happy thought in bringing music to the aid of his missionary efforts. Though the Concerts are free, it seems that persons who desire to avoid the crowd can enter, at what in theatrical circles is known as an "early door," on payment of sixpence, and that large numbers are ready with the humble coin. On the 16th ult. a Concert was given at St. James's Hall, in aid of the music fund, and, although there were no free admissions, the room was well filled. The programme contained nothing of a higher class than a selection from "Faust," but the playing was exceedingly creditable, and the Conductor, Mr. Heath Mills, may perhaps soon venture upon Haydn's Symphonies, and eventually upon the works of Brahms and Wagner. Success to Mr. Hughes in his excellent scheme.

THERE is an epitaph in the porch of Wolverhampton Priory Church which is as follows:—Near this place lies Charles Claudius Phillips, whose absolute contempt of riches and inimitable performance on the violin made him the admiration of all that knew him. He was born in Wales, made the tour of Europe, and, after the experience of both kinds of fortune, died in 1732.

Exalted soul, thy various sounds could please
The love-sick virgin and the gouty ease,
Could yarring crowds, like old Amphion move
To beauteous order and harmonious love.
Here rest in peace, till angels bid thee rise
And join thy Saviour's consort in the skies.

The epitaph above, written by Dr. Wilkes, of St. John's College, Cambridge, was rendered by Dr. Samuel Johnson as follows:—

Phillips, whose touch harmonious could remove
The pangs of guilty power or hapless love,
Rest here distressed by poverty no more,
Here find that calm thou gav'st so oft before;
Sleep undisturbed within this peaceful shrine
Till angels wake thee with a note like thine.

The particulars of the history of Charles Claudius Phillips are wanting.

Who says there is no humour in a music hall song? At rehearsal somewhere, the other day, an amateur conductor was laying about him with his stick in so erratic a fashion as to completely puzzle the band, whereupon the leading violoncello, during a pause of dismay, softly played the first bars of the justly-popular refrain—

If you want to know the time, ask a p'lecceman!

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

DR. MACKENZIE'S "Rose of Sharon" has been performed in Melbourne, and very badly treated. The critic of the Age writes: "If the composer could have been present at the performance he would have been indignant at the treatment to which his beautiful score was subjected by a meagre orchestra, containing only here and there a musician competent to do justice to it. . . . The fact of wrong notes and false intonation being frequently heard, whole passages omitted, and the melody occasionally entirely lost, besides the occurrence of inaccuracies of time, will give some general idea of the shortcomings of the performance." Yet, after hearing the work under these mangling and maltreating conditions, the Melbourne critics took upon themselves to correct their English brethren who do, at least, know what the "Rose of Sharon" is like. Thus the Age declines to endorse the "extravagant encomiums bestowed on the Oratorio by a section of the English press," and another paper goes so far as to say that the "fulsome adulation which was loaded on the composer is proved to be more complimentary to the patriotism than the judgment of English contemporary criticism." What proved this? The wretchedly bad performance? This is Australian independence, we suppose.

SIR GEORGE GROVE's letter to the Times concerning the proper rendering of a certain point in the Choral Symphony seems to us anything but convincing. Because there is no "pause" at the end of the slow movement, as at the close of its predecessors, Sir George argues that the "hideous discord" beginning the Finale should at once follow the last chord of the Adagio. But the "pause" may have been accidentally omitted, and the matter can only be determined by studying Beethoven's practice in other scores. An examination of the earlier symphonies certainly does not bear out Sir George's contention. We cannot, therefore, join our indefatigable annotator when he says: "Henceforward let us hope that the Choral Symphony will never be performed without Beethoven's plain direction being carried out, as it was by Sir Arthur Sullivan, at Leeds, on October 11, 1889." At the same time, we are all most ready to welcome any procedure which will prevent the interruption caused by the entry of vocalists before the last movement. Why cannot the singers come in at the beginning and hear the whole Symphony? It might do them good. Anyhow, there is no reason why the consecutiveness of the parts of a great work should be sacrificed to their convenience.

"At the recent Musical Festival of Kiel, 'Israel in Egypt' was performed. From the report in the Musikalisches Wochenblatt we learn that three choruses were omitted ('They loathed to drink,' 'Egypt was glad,' and 'He is my God'), that the duet 'The Lord is my strength and my song,' was taken from its proper place and inserted in the first part after 'But as for His people,' and that two songs were interpolated between the choruses—the air 'It is the Lord that ruleth the sea,' from the 'Chandos Anthems,' before the chorus 'He rebuked the Red Sea,' and the florid song 'Hallelujah,' from 'Esther,' inserted by special desire of the soprano after the chorus 'Thy right hand, O Lord.'" We take this from an American paper. Can it possibly be true?

A Pall Mall Gazette reporter lately "interviewed" Madame Albani, and makes her say that her repertory includes twenty operas and as many oratorios. He does not give the list of oratorios. We should like to see it. The lady is further credited with stating: "I have sung in Sir Arthur Sullivan's works mostly." Leaving his comic operas out of count, Sir Arthur Sullivan has written "The Prodigal Son," the "Martyr of Antioch," and the "Golden Legend." Are these the works upon which, according to the P.M.G., Madame Albani has been "mostly" engaged? On the same authority we learn that Madame Albani claims to have "created" the part of Desdemona in Verdi's "Otello." Where? When? Some one will have to interview the interviewer.

"THERE was a time when letters and civilisation had but begun to dawn upon the world. In that day music was not unknown; on the contrary, it was so far from being a mere servant and handmaid of common and light amusement that the great and noble art of poetry was essentially wedded to that of music, so that there was no poet who was not a musician; there was no verse spoken in the early ages of the world but that music was adapted as its vehicle, showing thereby the universal consciousness that in that way the straightest and most effectual road would be found to the heart and affections of man." Thus writes Mr. Gladstone, who evidently does not believe that music is the "youngest of the arts."

THE Opera House now building at Chicago is, we hear, to be the largest in the world. "It will have," says the Globe, "double the seating capacity of the Paris Grand Opéra; but in order to avoid the bare appearance which might result when the house is not well filled, it will be possible, by merely turning a crank, to cause the ceiling gradually to drop, thus concealing the two upper tiers, and turning the house into a snug little theatre." The only difficulty that we see in such an arrangement is that, unless a definite time is fixed for this occasional transformation scene, the turning of the "crank," and the sudden dropping of the ceiling might seriously interfere with the "snugginess" of unfortunate late-comers.

For some time past the City Companies have been putting their houses in order, to avoid the necessity of having it done for them. In this movement the Worshipful Company of Musicians has just joined by resolving to give a silver medal annually to the most distinguished student of the Royal Academy, Royal College, and Guildhall School, in rotation. A gold medal will also be awarded from time to time "to some distinguished British-born subject who should add a valuable contribution to musical composition or musical literature, and in case of very distinguished merit the freedom of the Company might be conferred with the gold medal." These are steps in the right direction. May there be more of them.

THE Norwich Festival of 1887 was ridiculed as a "Festival of Foreigners." That of 1890 bids fair to escape such obloquy, inasmuch as the new works will be, not by a Mancinelli and a Bottesini, but by Dr. Parry and Mr. Hamish MacCunn. The nature and subject of Dr. Parry's work are, we believe, not yet determined; but Mr. MacCunn has found a theme in Hogg's "Queen Hynde of Caledon," the libretto by his father. Among the artists engaged for the Festival, which begins on October 14, are Mesdames Nordica, Macintyre, Lehmann, and Marian Mackenzie, with Messrs. Lloyd and Alec Marsh. Conductor, Mr. Randegger.

MRS. KENDAL, in her "Recollections," says that Mr. Buckstone, at the last rehearsal of a new piece, always asked the members of the orchestra what they thought of it. If they laughed, he predicted its success; and "if a cornet player raised himself from his seat to stand and look at a pathetic scene, Buckstone would turn round and say, 'Ah! that is all right, the pit will like that.'" As the orchestra is rarely summoned until a final rehearsal, the performers are of course in the position of a first-night audience; but why was the cornet player selected as the truest judge of pathos?

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN has declined to write a work for the Worcester Festival of 1890. No other composer has been applied to, but the Committee are tolerably certain to accept Dr. J. F. Bridge's "Repentance of Nineveh." Possibly, Mr. Cowen's "St. John's Eve" will also have a place in the programme; but, as the Committee have abolished one of the two secular Concerts, there is not much room for "profane" music. The Festival will be conducted by Mr. C. Lee Williams, of Gloucester, the advanced age of Mr. Done necessitating his retirement from a difficult and responsible post.

It looks as though the Carl Rosa Opera Company were bent upon making a "corner" in lyric dramas. They are buying up all they can lay their hands upon—at any rate, as regards performing rights. "Faust" is theirs; so are the Wagner operas, except "Parsifal"; so are "Carmen," "Les Pêcheurs de Perles," the "Talisman," and several others. This may be "good business," but the English people love monopolies as little as they admire coalitions. The directors know this, and are willing, so it is said, to issue licences for the performance of any of their works—of course, for a "consideration."

CURIOUS events at Leicester. First: the Roman Catholics announce a Sunday Concert for the benefit of their cause. Second: the Lord's Day Observance Society write to the manager of the hall, pointing out the illegality of receiving money for Sunday entertainment. Third: the Concert is given free, and a collection "taken up." Fourth: the Society's letter is read at the Concert and roundly hissed. When Home Rule no longer blocks the way it may be that Parliament will give attention to some of the irritating legal legacies of an intolerant and benighted past.

WHEN Mr. W. S. Gilbert complained of Messrs. Boosey for omitting one of his lyrics from the acting version of the Avenue operetta, he was a little indiscreet. It might have occurred to him that Messrs. Boosey would forthwith print the verses of the discarded lyric, to show what it was worth. This they did, and the world now knows that Mr. Gilbert once wrote, inter alia—

In kisses and accents of honey,
In bouquets and presents not a few,
I've dissipated all my money,
And all my country's money too.

THE trustees of the Mendelssohn Scholarship do well, under present circumstances, in changing its character somewhat. Scholarships of the ordinary kind are now becoming thick as Vallambrosan leaves, but we have not one that may be called a "travelling scholarship," the holder of which resides abroad, picking up knowledge and experience where they may best be found. This will be the Mendelssohn Scholarship of the future, and the trustees are husbanding their funds till they can make the elected candidate a sufficient allowance.

OTTO HEGNER had to "pass the doctor" in New York, owing to the action of a Children's Protection Society. Here is the certificate: "The grand result of a thorough examination of the boy pianist, Otto Hegner, is that he is now in perfect health. The playing of a difficult piece of music in my presence, the time occupied being twelve minutes, produced no fatigue and had no effect on the body temperature. The boy is abundantly able to do the work involved in his contract without impairing his health, either immediate or remote."

THE last of the German mastersinger corporations has come to an end. Its members had been reduced to a few, and the survivors, deeming themselves an anachronism, resolved to perform the "happy dispatch." Accordingly they dissolved, and conveyed all their insignia and properties to the Ulm Liederkrantz. The document of gift was signed by the Büchsenmeister, the Schlüsselmeister, the Merkmeister, and the Kronmeister. It is a pity that these interesting old fellows cannot themselves be put in a museum.

IN an article by Mr. Clement Scott on "The Modern Music Hall," in the Contemporary Review for November, the author not only gives a graphic account of the music halls of the past, but in speaking hopefully of those of the future, tells us that Mr. Orton Bradley, the musical director of the People's Palace, stated at a meeting of the Sol-fa Choirs that "the fullest audiences were attracted by oratorios and works of that character." Is not this a proof that we are persevering in the right direction?

WE have found an explanation of the Nikisch "boom" across the Atlantic. It is in the American Musician: "His refined appearance, genteel in a closely-buttoned frock, modest withal, won our susceptibilities thoroughly; and, what is vastly to the point in the case, gained the instant sympathy of his female auditors, who plainly showed it." Moral for male musicians visiting America—be genteel in a closely-buttoned frock.

THE following lines on the "great farewellist" appear in an American contemporary, the Song Friend:

The tuneful Patti comes again,
Without the least compunction;
Perhaps she thinks her last good-bye
Lacked in the proper union.
But when, alas! once more she has
Our dollars decimated,
Perhaps she'll tell the cunning spell
By which a positive farewell
Can be reduplicated.

RECEIPTS, £10,835; expenditure, £7,701; profit balance, £3,134—that is the financial result of the late Leeds Festival. We congratulate the managers upon so successful a stroke of business, but even more warmly do we welcome a suggestion of the Committee that the advisability of producing fewer new works and the question of excessive rehearsals should be taken into consideration. It is high time.

SIR JOHN STAINER, lecturing at Birmingham the other day, was somewhat too liberal in the matter of hymn-tunes. Anticipating the return to Church use of the lively ditties (dear to Mr. Spurgeon) favoured by the Dissenters of a past generation, Sir John said, "By all means let them." "Melody should be of no creed," we know; but there is melody and melody—the "Old Hundredth" and a Salvation Army jingle.

THE Musical Courier of New York might as well be consistent, even in small matters. It invariably prints Handel as Händel—a form which the composer dropped on becoming a naturalised Englishman; and it speaks of Eugen d'Albert, whereas, on the same principle, the Christian name should be Eugene. There must be some charm for the Courier in German names.

THE Stewards to pay £1 7s. each—that is the financial result of the Gloucester Festival, apart from the charity, which benefits to the extent of £1,500. They have paid more on former occasions, and now see their way to a condition of equilibrium in the balance-sheet. For one thing, the exorbitant terms of certain artists will have to come down, or—no engagement.

QUEEN MARGARET of Italy is doing the art of music some service. When last in Venice she visited the library at the Doge's Palace, and asked to see the unpublished works of Clari, Stradella, Monteverde, &c., there stowed away. After examining them with attention she went home with a resolve, and soon the best of the works will be published at the expense of the King.

THE latest instance of reckless writing on musical subjects by a literary man is to be found in Mr. Algernon Gissing's novel "Both of this Parish," where, in speaking of the Parish Clerk, the author says, "If his pockets were unusually bulky, it was doubtless because they contained his double-bass setting of the old and new version music."

THE Musical Guild, formed by the ex-students of the Royal College of Music, is well conceived, and should be very useful to its members during the critical time following the expiration of the College term. But why do they give Concerts in far away Kensington, where only a suburban public hears them?

WE shall soon have to put an embargo upon our English singers, because the attraction of Greater Britain is impoverishing us. Madame Albani is in America, Mr. Santley in Australia, and after a while Mr. Lloyd will spend three months or more on the other side of the Atlantic. How about a heavy export duty?

MR. NIKISCH, the new Conductor of the Boston Symphony Concerts, appears suddenly to have become a very remarkable man. An ordinary being in Germany, he goes to America and crowds the name of George Washington out of all the papers.

MR. NIKISCH has been answering questions ever since he passed the American custom-house, and sometimes truth compels him to offend his own modesty. Asked for an opinion of the Boston orchestra, he said that there were only two in Europe to match it, and one of those "I myself conducted until I came here."

WE read: "It has just been shown conclusively by a professor at the Berlin University that the English and Prussian national hymn was written (as to its music) by Lully, who composed it in honour of Louis XIV." Was it not a German professor who evolved the famous camel out of his own consciousness?

IN its account of a "treat" given by Mr. Abbey to certain journalistic and other friends, the New York World said: "The party was taken to Boston by a special bar." Upon this the Indicator comments: "The compositor who picked up a b instead of a c stumbled upon a great and beautiful truth."

AT Brisbane (Australia), we hear, Meyerbeer's Opera "Le Prophète" has been sung in Volapük, the new "universal language." As music is also a "universal language," we tremble lest the two should become indissolubly united.

A MAN who wants to be a musical millionaire should take to writing or publishing drawing-room and Ballad Concert songs. The copyright of four of these productions was knocked down at a recent sale for £1,582.

AMONG forthcoming musical marriages are said to be those of Miss Alice Gomes with Mr. Webb, of Torquay, formerly organist of Calcutta Cathedral; and Mr. Ernest Birch with a young lady of Bath. "Honour, riches, marriage blessing," &c.

GERMANS prefer to honour their illustrious compatriots in any way rather than by opening purse-strings. The subscription for a monument to Wagner in Leipzig stood, by latest report, at 11,000 marks (£550). Is this the measure of Saxon admiration?

A WOULD-BE vocal student loq.: "If you know of a teacher who sings divinely, who does not know that he has a larynx or a diaphragm, and who has never written a book on singing, let me know who he is, for he is just the man I wish to go to."

How curiously national distinctions sometimes show themselves. In France "La Damnation de Faust" is known, for brevity's sake, as the "Damnation"; in England we are content to speak of "Faust."

Freund's Music and Drama informs the world: "Bizet once wrote an opera founded on Scott's 'Fair Maid of Perth.' It was composed twelve years before 'Carmen,' and contains some pretty numbers." Rather late!

THE first act of Messrs. Bennett and Cowen's Scandinavian opera is now completed, and the second considerably advanced. All will be ready in the early spring.

ACCORDING to the Ménestrel, Gounod has been engaged to write a Mass for the inauguration of a monster organ in St. Peter's, Rome. We are told that 4,000 singers will take part in its performance.

A NEW Norwegian composer is announced—Christian Sinding by name. He has written a Piano-forte Concerto of which report speaks highly. Is the sceptre of musical art passing to the North?

THE Chicago Indicator, having looked at a photograph of Mr. Sarasate, is of opinion that "the distinguished violinist has always lived in a country where the price of shears is extremely altitudinous."

THE first stone of the Mendelssohn monument, on the site of the old Gewandhaus, Leipzig, was laid on November 4, forty-two years after the master's death. Justice, they say, has leaden feet.

AN American contemporary, referring to a certain vocalist, observes that the best place in which to hear her is "a two-acre lot with the bars down so as to allow of easy egress."

MR. HARRY PAULTON is reported as saying that in comic opera "the story is of no consequence, and the plot don't matter a 'red.'" Upon this principle a good many libretti are assuredly constructed.

THE Musical Association likes to be presided over by a Church musician. The late Sir F. A. G. Ouseley has been succeeded by Sir John Stainer.

ADELINA PATTI has been called, in America, the "great artist and farewellist." Farewelling is an art now-a-days, and the art is long.

MR. OTTO NIETZEL, of Cologne, has provided another libretto for Schubert's "Fierrabras," and substituted recitative for dialogue. How good of him!

MACKENZIE's "Dream of Jubal" is announced for performance by the Apollo Club, of Chicago. Mr. G. Riddle will be the reader.

WE have just read that the tendency of a certain Conductor is to "diagnose his programme in every part."

MAYOR GRANT has signed an ordinance banishing street music from New York. Happy city!

THE Ménestrel thinks that the "pibroch" (sic) means the "cornemuse," and acts accordingly.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

THE nineteenth season of the above Society started auspiciously on October 30 with a performance of Berlioz's "Faust." This work never fails to draw at the Albert Hall, and a further inducement for its admirers to journey to Kensington lay in the fact that Madame Albani now made her final appearance before a London audience previously to her departure for America. Hence a crowd and several hearty demonstrations of good-will towards the popular prima donna, whose impersonation of Margaret was marked by its customary emotional intensity and charm, with perhaps a shade more than the customary degree of self-restraint. The other solo parts were entrusted to Mr. Iver McKay (Faust), Mr. Ben Grove (Brander), and Mr. Henschel (Mephistopheles), the last-named artist again furnishing a wonderfully vigorous and dramatic embodiment of the sardonic fiend. A better rendering of the choruses it is scarcely possible to desire. The band, up to the average at all points, made the looked-for effect in the "Hungarian March" and "Dance of Sylphs," the latter having to be repeated. Mr. Barnby conducted, as he always does, with admirable firmness and decision, keeping his forces well together and imbuing them with the unity of spirit essential for the worthy interpretation of this masterpiece.

Two of the Leeds novelties—Stanford's "Voyage of Maeldune" and Parry's "St. Cecilia's Day"—were introduced to London amateurs at the second Concert of the Society, on the 13th ult. Considerable interest appeared to be taken in the event, contrary to the usual metropolitan practice, and a large audience assembled, by whom the new works were heard with manifest approval. Coming so soon after the Leeds performance, in connection with which there was ample discussion, we need not enter upon criticism of the music here. The main question is whether the good opinion formed of both works under the special conditions and stimulating influence of Festival procedure held its ground in the colder atmosphere of an ordinary performance. We are glad to say that, on this point, there can be no doubt at all. Both the Cantata and the Ode were acceptable in their every-day dress, and may pass into the repertory of available things for common use. The dramatic force and picturesque descriptiveness of the "Voyage of Maeldune," and the true musical beauty of Dr. Parry's work, obvious at first, have now received the fullest confirmation—a result upon which we congratulate the composers and our native art, which they so well represent.

The performance, while creditable to those who took part in it, would have been better with more extended preparation. The soloists were Miss Macintyre, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Brereton, all of whom were engaged upon the "Voyage of Maeldune," while only the first and last were required by "St. Cecilia's Day." The entire work was commendable, particularly that of Miss Macintyre and Mr. Lloyd, whose opportunities were great. The young Scottish soprano, with her beautiful voice and good method, only needs a little more of the traditional fervidness of her nation in order to do the greatest things. Warmth will come, perhaps, when she has acquired more experience and greater confidence in herself. Professor Stanford and Dr. Parry, who conducted their respective compositions, were most heartily applauded.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

UNDER the direction of its founder, Mr. Henschel, this enterprise entered upon a fourth season on the 14th ult., the number of Concerts to be given being six. The conditions are now somewhat changed. Reliance will be placed exclusively upon orchestral works, to the exclusion of both vocal and instrumental solos, the director having found by experience that these entail heavy outlay without a corresponding return. Upon the wisdom of the step thus taken we pronounce no opinion, but time will either justify or condemn it. The opening programme contained no novelty, nor, we believe, does Mr. Henschel intend to make a feature of such works this season. He prefers, because, in his opinion, the public prefer, what has already become more or less familiar, and that, we are bound to say, is ample for his purpose. At the Concert now under notice were presented Bach's Orchestral Suite in D, Haydn's Symphony in G (one of the immediate precursors of the Salomon set), the Overture to "Egmont," and Brahms's Symphony in C minor—a well-chosen programme beginning with works comparatively light, and passing to others of a graver kind. The Bach Suite was capitally given, the well-known and beautiful Air more especially; the strings in this playing their polyphonic music with admirable clearness and finish. Of course Haydn's gay and genial Symphony delighted the audience, who applauded it with heartiness, recognising not least the highly expressive and melodious Adagio—a gem amongst the master's slow movements. The "Egmont" Overture was as impressive as ever, while the performance of Brahms's work showed with how much patient and loving care it had been prepared. Here the orchestra was fairly on its mettle, and, under skilful guidance, worked out a triumphant result.

A second Concert took place on the 28th ult., too late for notice in our present issue.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

At the second Concert, on October 26, a new Symphony by Dr. Bernhard Scholz was performed for the first time in England. The work is dedicated to the Faculty of Philosophy of the University of Breslau, in gratitude for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy conferred upon him by that University honoris causa. The Symphony is written in four movements—Allegro, Lento, Scherzo, and Finale. Each of them shows musicianship of no mean order, but they are to a certain extent influenced by the teaching of Richard Wagner. The best movement is the second (Lento), and the Scherzo is equally pleasing. The Symphony was well received. Mr. Albeniz made his first appearance at the Crystal Palace at this Concert, and achieved considerable success in Schumann's Concerto in A for pianoforte and orchestra. He also contributed, in an acceptable manner, some solos for pianoforte composed by himself; and, although the compositions are of a light and somewhat commonplace nature, the audience seemed to be better pleased with the performer than with his works. Miss Elvira Gambogi was the vocalist, and sang "Voi che sapete" ("Nozze di Figaro"), and the meditation on Bach's first Prelude by Gounod. Beethoven's Overture, "Coriolan," was played at the commencement of the Concert, and Mendelssohn's Concert-Overture, "A calm sea and prosperous voyage," at the conclusion.

A new Overture, entitled "Robert Bruce," composed by Mr. F. J. Simpson, was performed for the first time at the third Concert, on the 2nd ult. The work is intended to portray the trials, troubles, and final triumph of the great chieftain whose name is given to the Overture, and it does so in a graphic and vivid manner. The tune "Hey taittie taittie," now associated with the ballads "The land o' the leal" and "Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled," is used as the subject; but it is not heard in complete form until the end is reached, when it is boldly given out as the pæan of triumph. The composition is well written, and shows considerable ability, and promise enough to command notice for the future works of the composer, who is a new and welcome recruit to the ranks of Scottish musicians. Mr. Simpson, who was born near Edinburgh, did not commence the study of music until after his twentieth year. He has special ability in scoring, which will doubtless be developed. He labours with judgment as well as taste. He makes free use of the brass, as befits the nature of his subject, but it is never offensive nor obtrusive. It is pleasing to notice that he appreciates the beauties of piano passages for the brass wind instruments, and by so doing brings about effects that are artistic and impressive.

At the same Concert, Mr. Hans Wessely appeared and gave a very good reading of Mendelssohn's Concerto in E minor, for violin and orchestra. His technique was displayed to the best advantage, while his artistic feeling had full scope for application in this excellent piece of writing. His command of the instrument was further shown by his performance of the Polonaise (No. 2), by Wieniawski, in which he achieved a like success. A very fine reading of Schumann's Symphony in B flat (No. 1) was given by the band, and a considerable amount of pleasure was afforded to many by the admirable reading of a selection from the "Meistersinger." Mrs. Hutchinson was the vocalist and sang the Romance "There's a bower of roses" ("The Veiled Prophet"), Stanford, and Ballade "Aragonaise," by Massenet, in her own refined style.

A Rhapsody for orchestra, by Edouard Lalo, was performed for the first time in England at the fourth Concert, on the 9th ult. The Rhapsody was originally written as a "Fantasie Norvégienne" for violin and orchestra, and was played by Mr. Sarasate in Paris, in 1879. The composer has added a fresh movement and has revised the whole work, so that now it forms an interesting work full of spirit and fire. Madame Anna Falk-Mehlig was the pianist at this Concert, and gave a delicate and refined performance of Beethoven's Concerto in E flat (No. 5) for pianoforte and orchestra. Her perfect execution was also shown to the greatest advantage in "La Campanella," by Liszt. Madame Nordica was the vocalist.

"St Paul" was given at the fifth Concert on the 16th ult. The soloists were Misses Anna Williams and Marian Mackenzie, Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Brereton, Robert Grice, and Henry Bailey, all of whom acquitted themselves to the satisfaction of the large, though somewhat undemonstrative, audience. The choruses were on the whole well sung by the Crystal Palace Choir. The tenors, however, were occasionally weak. Especial mention should be made of the vigour of attack and fervent expression with which the noble chorale, "Sleepers, wake," was sung. No less excellent in degree were the choruses "O great is the depth," "See what love," and "The nations now." The work seemed to be familiar to many of the singers, and they made the most earnest endeavours to do justice to a work which is esteemed by many as equal in musical value, if not in dramatic interest, with "Elijah." The orchestral accompaniments were beautifully played by the band. Mr. Eyre lent valuable aid at the organ, and Mr. Manns conducted in such a manner as to win the greatest success. The large audience which was present, and the fact that over 500 persons were unable to gain admission to the Concert-room, should be taken as an incentive to the more frequent performance of choral works of like attractive powers.

The Concertstück in A major, by Saint-Saëns, was played by Miss Nettie Carpenter at the Concert on the 23rd ult. The Concertstück has not been written with the amount of dignity and seriousness which should distinguish works of that form; nevertheless, Miss Carpenter played it very well, and showed a good technique, combined with artistic feeling, which has become augmented and matured since her last performance of an important work in London. Her execution of the cantabile passages was particularly good, for she produced an even quality of tone throughout, while the notes of the upper part of the scale at the highest shift on the instrument came out with remarkable clearness and roundness of tone. Later in the programme she played some lighter pieces—a Nocturne by Chopin and the "Jota Aragonesa" by Sarasate—showing herself particularly versatile in the matter of execution, although perhaps the "tricks" in the "Jota Aragonesa" might be considered somewhat inartistic. Miss Carpenter was encored for her last solo, and played Raff's "Cavatina" in response. A very excellent performance of Beethoven's Symphony (No. 7, in A major) was given by this justly styled "world-renowned" orchestra and Conductor, and also of Wagner's Overture to the "Flying Dutchman," with all its weird effects and boisterous scoring. The Symphonic Poem "Festklänge," by Liszt, was also performed for the first time at this Concert. Miss Fillunger was the vocalist, and sang "Infelice," by Mendelssohn, and songs by Brahms and Schubert.

SIR CHARLES HALLÉ'S CONCERTS.

ON the 22nd ult. Sir Charles Hallé gave the first of a series of four Concerts with the aid of his celebrated Manchester orchestra. The perfect ensemble of the hundred performers in Cherubini's "Anacreon" Overture, two of Dvorák's Légendes, in D minor and G minor (Op. 55), and Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique, seemed to surprise and delight the audience, and except at the Crystal Palace it is impossible to hear so good a balance of parts or to note such a perfect understanding between band and Conductor. If the tone of the strings is somewhat thin considering their numbers, the unity of style more than atones for this defect. It only remains to be said that Madame Néruda gave a magnificent rendering of Beethoven's Violin Concerto, in technical excellence and intellectuality almost rivalling that of Mr. Joachim himself.

WIND INSTRUMENT SOCIETY.

THE Wind Instrument Chamber Music Society gave the first of a series of social evenings, independent of their regular Concerts, at the Royal Academy of Music, on the evening of the 15th ult. There was a large gathering of the members and their friends, and a very delightful programme of music was provided. A Trio for oboe, horn, and pianoforte, by Reinecke, was beautifully played by Messrs. Malsch, Busby, and Septimus Webb. Although the programme intimated that these performances were to be regarded as rehearsals only, and should not be criticised as finished performances, yet the excellence of the reading and the endeavour on the part of each artist concerned to accommodate his playing, enhanced the enjoyment the work produced. A gracefully-written Sonata for flute and pianoforte by Mr. C. E. Stephens was performed by the composer and Mr. Vivian. It was greatly admired for the beauty of its form and its melodious character. There was another work in which the composer played the pianoforte part: this was a Quintet by Mr. G. A. Osborne, who, though he has now passed his eighty-third year, took his share in the work with a vigour and artistic finish which many a younger man might envy. The Quintet is not the work of years gone by, but a comparatively recent production, and is a proof that his mental powers are equally great with his manual dexterity. The several movements are written in a bright and scholarly tone, with a perfect knowledge of the several instruments—oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon, and pianoforte. The consequence was that the work pleased the very critical audience present by reason of its own merits, as well as by the splendid manner in which it was played. Mr. Osborne's coadjutors were members of the party formed by Mr. Clinton, who took the clarinet part; Mr. Malsch, the oboe; Mr. Busby, a first-rate artist, the horn; and Mr. Wotton, the bassoon. A further pleasure was added in the presentation of Spohr's Septet (Op. 147) for pianoforte, wind, and strings, which was most delightfully performed. It is proposed to continue these social meetings each month until April next. A number of very interesting works are set down for hearing, including some MS. compositions by English composers. At the first meeting Mr. Charles Wood, of Caius College, Cambridge, was named as the winner of the prize of twenty-five guineas for the best Wind Quintet.

Mr. Charles Wood is a young musician, whose career will be watched with considerable interest in the future. He was born on June 15, 1866, at Armagh, where his father is a lay vicar in the Cathedral. He was elected to one of the open scholarships of the Royal College of Music in 1883. He studied composition under Dr. Stanford, the pianoforte under Mr. F. Taylor, and the horn under Mr. Mann. He gained the first prize for a madrigal for five voices, given by the Madrigal Society.

THE POPULAR CONCERTS.

ON Monday evening, October 28, these entertainments entered upon their thirty-first season, in a manner even more quiet and unassuming than usual. The audience was not large, only one work of importance being set down for performance. This was Dvorák's latest Quartet in E (Op. 80), first introduced at Mr. Harvey Löhr's Concert in April last, and subsequently at Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts. The performance, by Madame Néruda and Messrs. Ries, Straus, and Piatti was of course all that could be desired. The pianist was Madame Haas, who created comparatively little effect in Brahms's Rhapsodie in B minor (Op. 9, No. 1) and Chopin's Nocturne in B (Op. 9, No. 3). Doubtless the audience would have preferred something of greater importance. Of Rüst's familiar Violin Sonata in D minor, as played by Madame Néruda, and Chopin's Introduction and Polonaise in C (Op. 3) for pianoforte and violoncello, nothing need be said. Miss Liza Lehmann introduced a pleasing song, "O listen to the voice of love," by James Hook, and sang it with much charm.

There was an enormous attendance at the first of the Saturday Concerts, and an excellent programme gave the liveliest satisfaction to those present. Cherubini's Quartet in F (No. 5) is the second of the three first performed in London at Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts last summer, and is certainly the best of the set. The only other concerted work was Beethoven's finest Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello—namely, that in A (Op. 69). Madame Haas was heard to greater advantage on this occasion, her neat style of playing being specially suited to a Capriccio in E, by Scarlatti. She also brought forward a well-written and brilliant Introduction and Fugue in E flat minor (Op. 39), by Alexis Holländer. The composer is a Silesian musician, and, we believe, brother to Madame Haas. The vocalist was Mrs. Henschel, who, as usual, delighted her hearers by her rendering of Purcell's "Nymphs and Shepherds," and two pleasing songs by her husband.

The programme of Monday, the 4th ult., was again unpretentious, and the attendance was limited. It would be superfluous to criticise Mozart's Quartet in A (No. 5 of the set dedicated to Haydn) or Schubert's Trio in B flat (Op. 99). With these were associated two of Schumann's smaller pieces for pianoforte, played in her usual conscientious manner by Miss Agnes Zimmermann; and a Largo and Allemande from "Ariosti's Lessons for the Viole d'Amore," adapted for the violoncello by Mr. Piatti.

The vocal element at this Concert consisted of duets, by Dvorák and Mr. Goring Thomas, sung by Miss Lena Little and Mr. Max Heinrich.

There was likewise a comparatively small attendance on the following Saturday. Dvorák's Quartet in E (Op. 80) was repeated, and the other concerted works were Schumann's Sonata in A minor for pianoforte and violin (Op. 105), and Beethoven's Variations on "Ich bin der Schneider Kakadu," for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello. Beethoven's Sonata in E minor (Op. 90), always a favourite with Sir Charles Hallé, was rendered by the veteran pianist in his best manner. Miss Liza Lehmann was again the vocalist.

Another important work of Dvorák was presented on Monday, the 11th ult. This was the Pianoforte Quintet in A (Op. 81), one of the ripest examples of the Bohemian composer's genius, as exemplified in chamber music. The themes are irresistibly engaging, and the development singularly spontaneous and free from labour. The rest of the instrumental programme consisted of Brahms's melodious Sonata in A, for pianoforte and violin (Op. 100), Beethoven's Variations in C minor, for pianoforte, played by Sir Charles Hallé; and three of Heller and Ernst's "Pensées Fugitives," for pianoforte and violin. Miss Marguerite Hall gave much satisfaction by her singing of some airs by Grieg and Goring Thomas.

St. James's Hall filled up again on the following Saturday. Possibly the most attractive piece was Schubert's beautiful Sonata in A minor (Op. 42), which was played to perfection by Sir Charles Hallé. The pianist, however, should be reminded that there is another work, at least equally fine, in the same key (Op. 143), which has not yet been heard at these Concerts. Brahms's Sonata in D minor for pianoforte and violin (Op. 108), introduced for the first time, is not equal to the earlier works in G and A as a whole, though the Adagio in D is a gem. Haydn's Quartet in D minor and Beethoven's Pianoforte Trio in D (Op. 70, No. 1) completed the list of concerted works. Miss Lena Little and Mr. Max Heinrich repeated the duets by Mr. Goring Thomas, mentioned above.

The audience on Monday, the 18th ult., was larger than on previous occasions, and this was gratifying, as the programme contained an important novelty in the shape of a Sonata in D minor, for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 39), by Professor Villiers Stanford, Beethoven's Quintet in C (Op. 39), and Brahms's Gipsy Songs (Op. 103). The new Sonata was composed during a visit of Dr. Stanford to Mr. Piatti in September last, and according to the dates on the three movements was finished in five days. The opening movement, which is based on an attractive though somewhat plaintive subject, is the most satisfactory, though the last is the most elaborate and contains some clever contrapuntal writing. The middle section is a kind of combined slow movement and Scherzo. The work, which was rendered with much refinement by the composer and Mr. Piatti, was very warmly received. It only remains to be said that the Gipsy Songs were interpreted with perfect charm by Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, Miss Lena Little, and Mr. Shakespear, with Madame Haas at the pianoforte.

Another attractive scheme was put forward on Saturday, 23rd ult. Brahms's Gipsy Songs were repeated with the same artists as before, and two favourite works, Mendelssohn's Quartet in E flat (Op. 12) and Beethoven's Trio in the same key (Op. 70, No. 2), commenced and concluded the programme. The interest of the Concert was enhanced by the first appearance this season of Miss Fanny Davies, who has recently been winning laurels in Germany. The young English pianist justified the warm welcome she received by giving a magnificent performance of Bach's Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue in D minor.

At the Concert of the following Monday, Miss Fanny Davies was again the pianist, and she gave an exceedingly thoughtful and intelligent performance of Beethoven's Sonata in D minor (Op. 31, No. 2), and the young pianist was recalled three times. Mr. Piatti brought forward a set of Thirteen Divisions to a ground bass by Christopher Symphon, from "The Division Violist, or an Introduction to the Playing upon a Ground," to which he has added an exceedingly well-written though modest pianoforte accompaniment. Madame Belle Cole was the vocalist.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

A CONCERT, consisting partly of choral, but chiefly of chamber music, was given by students of the Royal Academy of Music, at St. James's Hall, on Monday afternoon, the 4th ult., under the skilful direction of the Principal, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. We were glad to observe a decided step forward in a branch of the art hitherto treated somewhat with indifference at the public Concerts of this institution—namely, the performance of concerted chamber works. The example selected in the present instance was Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Trio in C minor (Op. 66), which was given in its entirety by Miss Edith L. Young, Mr. Gerald Walenn, and Mr. C. H. Allen Gill. Satisfactory from every point of view was the result. The young performers not only displayed proficiency—nay, brilliancy—in the technical mastery of their instruments, but handled their theme with a unity of artistic idea that spoke well for their musical intelligence and feeling. Furthermore, they manifested remarkable self-possession when, in course of the slow movement, their playing was disturbed by a knocking outside loud enough to have upset altogether artists of far greater experience. Favourable mention may be made of the talent displayed by Misses Edith Purvis and Christine Taylor in Saint-Saëns's "Variations on a Theme by Beethoven," for two pianofortes; by Miss Ethel Burns, in Jensen's Three Studies (Op. 32); by Mr. Cuthbert H. Crook, in the Liszt arrangement of Bach's Organ Prelude and Fugue in A minor; and by Mr. Parker, in a violoncello solo by Popper. A fair average of merit was forthcoming in the vocal department. Miss Greta Williams and Mr. Frank H. Morton (singing in place of Miss Emily Squire and Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys) acquitted themselves well in a duet by Donizetti, and Miss Helen Pettican, Miss Mary Langdon, Miss Olive Grey, and Mr. Robert Newman also did credit to themselves and their respective professors. On the previous Saturday, at the Students' Fortnightly Concert, Mr. Sarasate played Dr. Mackenzie's "Pibroch," and gave great delight by his wonderful performance of this most interesting work.

LONDON BALLAD CONCERTS.

THE twenty-fourth season of these Concerts commenced on the 20th ult., with an interesting programme, and St. James's Hall was fairly well filled, though by no means crowded. Mr. John Boosey caters liberally for his patrons, and everybody ought to have felt satisfied with the list of artists engaged and the variety of the fare supplied. A large number of pieces were included of a far superior sort to the ordinary shop ballad of the present day. This remark applies to Grieg's "Solveig's Song" and "I love thee," both rendered with perfect taste, the former by Mrs. Mary Davies and the latter by Miss Alice Gomes. The last-named vocalist also contributed Henschel's "Spinning Song" and Kjerulf's "Last Night," both lyrics of a superior class. In the same category may be placed Hook's "Oh, listen to the voice of love," which Miss Liza Lehmann sings so charmingly, and Battison Haynes's capital Irish song "Off to Philadelphia," which Mr. Plunket Greene, fresh from his triumphs in Germany, sang with much spirit. Four new ballads were introduced and one and all proved disappointing. Molloy's "Bantry Bay," sung by Madame Sterling, is a lugubrious effusion; "Stay, darling, stay," by Marzials, might have been more effective had Mr. Henry Piercy adopted a less feeble style of delivery; Madame Belle Cole failed to arouse much interest in Stephen Adams's "This work-a-day world"; and the only one of the new songs which excited anything like enthusiasm, was Hope Temple's "Love and Friendship," a pleasing though not very suitable setting of some mournful stanzas, sung to perfection by Mr. Lloyd. That a Ballad Concert audience can appreciate music of a high-class was evinced by the double recall accorded to Madame Néruda, after her rendering of Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus." No small amount of praise must be given to Mr. Eaton Fanning's small, but well-trained choir, for their refined singing of an excellent selection of madrigals and part-songs which made up the programme.

MUSICAL GUILD.

Two Concerts of a second series of four were given last month (on the 12th and 27th ult.), at the Kensington Town Hall, by the band of former Royal College students, now known as the Musical Guild. At the first, which is the only Concert we can at present deal with, a programme of considerable interest was put forward, headed by Spohr's Double Quartet in E minor (Op. 87). This work, in common with much more of Spohr's music, does not deserve the neglect into which it has fallen. It is the third, and is generally acknowledged to be the best of the four examples of its class that the composer has left behind, and we give the youthful members of the Musical Guild warm credit for reviving it. We may also speak with unreserved praise of their performance, which satisfied every requirement. The executants were (first quartet) Mr. Arthur Bent, Mr. Wallace Sutcliffe, Mr. Emil Kreuz, and Mr. W. H. Squire, and (second quartet) Mr. Edgar Hopkinson, Miss Zoe Pyne, Mr. H. Hobday, and Mr. J. T. Field. Two clever young artists, Miss Zoe Pyne and Miss Marian Osborn, gave an excellent interpretation of Dr. Hubert Parry's "Partita" for violin and pianoforte, in D minor; and Brahms's Pianoforte Quartet in A major (Op. 26) received full justice at the hands of Miss Annie Fry, Messrs. Bent, Kreuz, and Squire. This made up the sum of the instrumental pieces, all of which were followed with evident interest and applauded with discrimination by a numerous audience. The vocal element was furnished by Mr. Daniel Price, who sang with his accustomed intelligence and artistic feeling Handel's "Revenge, Timotheus," and a song by Miss Kate E. Boundy (a member of the Guild), entitled "My gauntlet's down."

BOROUGH OF HACKNEY CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

THE work done by this enterprising Institution, under its gifted Conductor, Mr. Ebenezer Prout, almost invariably calls for the commendation due to high artistic purpose and excellent achievement. Among such instances we must assuredly place the revival at the first Concert of the season, on the 18th ult., of Spohr's well-nigh forgotten Oratorio, "The Fall of Babylon." The successor of "Calvary," and, like that fine work, produced for the first time at a Norwich Festival (1842), "The Fall of Babylon" seems never to have taken the least hold upon popular favour. It was given under Spohr's direction by the Sacred Harmonic Society in 1847, and again in the following year; but the total number of performances in London, if not the country also, could be counted on the fingers of one hand. The libretto, by the late Professor Edward Taylor, has missed the dramatic opportunities of the subject; while the music, albeit replete with the melodic charm and grace and contrapuntal resource ever characteristic of Spohr, fails to reach at any time the height of sublimity attained in portions of "The Last Judgment." Nevertheless, "The Fall of Babylon" is, on the whole, a sufficiently interesting work to deserve occasional hearing, and certainly too good an example of its composer's genius to merit oblivion. We repeat, therefore, that the Hackney Choral Association accomplished a useful service in reviving the work, apart from affording an apparently delightful evening to its patrons and supporters at the Shoreditch Town Hall. The choruses were given with spirit, and no lack of delicacy or precision; the solos being competently sustained by Madame Isabel George, Miss Rose Dafforne, Miss E. J. Turner, Mr. Henry Piercy, Mr. Andrew Black, and Mr. Henry Pope. Mr. Prout conducted with his habitual watchfulness and zeal.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

At the first meeting of the present session, held on the 4th ult., at 27, Harley Street, W., a paper was read on "The Musical Scale," by the Rev. W. J. Habens. The lecturer first of all dealt with the importance of the prime numbers 2, 3, and 5, and showed that these numbers alone, together with the various powers and numbers arising from their inter-multiplication, were capable of expressing the ratios of notes belonging to the same scale.

Then, turning to the construction of the scale, the inaccuracies of equal temperament were displayed, and it was shown that for true intonation we required fifty-two notes to the octave—seventeen, however, could be dispensed with. Of the thirty-five notes remaining, two were required for B flat or A sharp, and three for every other existing note. Each existing note had three forms—grave, middle, and acute—and from these were derived the above large number of notes to the octave by fifths ascending and descending. Mr. Habens admitted the conveniences of equal temperament and the strong position that it occupied, but argued that there was a necessity for two forms of the supertonic at least, as one form could not represent both the note which lay a fifth above the dominant and that which lay a fifth below the submediant. The reading of the paper was as usual followed by a discussion.

DR. MACKENZIE'S VIOLIN CONCERTO AT BERLIN.

DR. MACKENZIE'S Violin Concerto (Op. 32), which had been introduced to Berlin connoisseurs by Señor Sarasate last winter, was again most successfully interpreted in the northern capital, on October 26, by Herr Waldemar Meyer, at the Berlin Sing-Akademie, with the assistance of the Philharmonic orchestra, and before a numerous audience. The following notice, which we extract from the Kreuz Zeitung, will be sufficient to show that the "long-continued applause," which rewarded the interpreter at its conclusion, was as much due to the work as to the player. "We can only welcome with pleasure," the journal quoted says inter alia, "the new epoch in matters musical in England, an epoch which is manifestly favouring the production of works of art of permanent worth. In proof thereof we need only mention the names of Parry, Stanford, Sullivan, and Mackenzie, whose compositions have, in part at least, already gained a firm footing in Germany. The Concerto in C sharp minor of the last-named composer is, without doubt, a most interesting work, extremely well elaborated and finely scored. It contains, moreover, passages of striking beauty, such, for instance, as the second theme of the opening movement; nearly the entire Largo, and the initiatory 'motive' of the final division. The latter, worked out as it is in a masterly manner, sheds a lustrous light over the whole movement, thus surpassing in immediate effectiveness its predecessors, although the latter are by no means inferior to it in artistic value. The solo instrument has, as a matter of course, been specially favoured by the composer, who has afforded the interpreter every opportunity for the display of a brilliant technique. There is no coquetting here, however, with empty phrases for the sake of mere display, and nearly all the florid passages grow naturally out of the thematic structure of the work. We certainly look upon Mackenzie's Violin Concerto as a distinct acquisition to the literature for the instrument, and have no doubt that it will soon be generally introduced into the Concert-room."

GIACOMO PUCCINI'S OPERA "LE VILLI."*

IN THE MUSICAL TIMES of June last I gave a brief outline of Signor Puccini's opera "Edgar," about that time produced at the Scala of Milan, and on that occasion I referred to another work of his, "Le Villi," which preceded "Edgar" by some years, and was, indeed, Signor Puccini's first effort in the field of lyric drama. "Le Villi," which has recently been revived at the "Teatro dal Verme," was brought out at the same theatre in 1884, under somewhat remarkable circumstances.

Signor Sonzogno, the enterprising music publisher of Milan, had instituted a committee for the selection of a competitive prize opera, and this committee rejected Signor Puccini's "Le Villi." The young composer, however, undaunted by this rebuff, succeeded in having the first fruit of his musical talents produced at the "Teatro dal Verme," where, lo and behold, in the very midst of the academic wisecracks, it achieved a genuine triumph which, to use a homely phrase, gave Signor Puccini an enormous lift, and became the cause of the opera being performed

* "Le Villi." Ricordi and Co. Milan.

all over Italy as a brilliant exemplification of the adage—"Vox populi, vox Dei."

Ever since then the "Teatro dal Verme" has looked upon "Le Villi" as its own child, which never fails to attract the public whenever it appears on the stage, and it is on account of its singular history, no less than by reason of its intrinsic merits, that this opera deserves more than a passing notice.

As in "Edgar," so in "Le Villi," Signor Puccini was fortunate in securing an effective libretto from the pen of Signor Ferdinando Fontana, an excellent writer, apart from his special aptitude for dramatic poetry.

The scene of "Le Villi" is laid in the Black Forest, and the story is founded on a local legend, according to which the unfaithful lover of a village maiden (who dies in despair) is, on his return to his native valley, enticed and killed by the spirits of the forest, called the "Villi." The lover in this case is a young villager, Robert, who, on the eve of his marriage with Anna, the daughter of a sturdy old peasant, is suddenly called away to Mayence to receive the legacy of a relative. Although Robert vows that he will return to make his bride both happy and rich, she is full of sinister forebodings; and these prove only too true, for at Mayence Robert falls a victim to the charms of a wicked siren, who not only despoils him of his money, but makes him forget his love in the Black Forest. In the meantime the poor village maiden dies in despair; and when Robert at last returns to the valley in the depth of winter, poor, and full of remorse, she appears to him as a spirit, not of love but of retribution, and allures him away to the spirits of the forest, who surround him, and in their mad dance whirl him to death, while Anna is carried aloft.

The opera consists, properly speaking, of two acts, and a "symphonic intermezzo." This latter, a highly characteristic part of Signor Puccini's work, is divided into two "tableaux," entitled respectively "l'Abbandono" and "la Tregenda": one the funeral procession of Anna, during which a chorus for female voices relates Robert's betrayal of his bride at Mayence, her sufferings, and her death; and the other, illustrative of the legend of the spirits of the forest dancing by moonlight in the snowclad valley.

This "intermezzo" is an extremely imaginative and original piece of programme-music, and it was probably the fact of the young composer having struck out an altogether novel course as compared with the orthodox conception of a well-regulated opera, that horrified the "academicians," and induced them to reject his work rather than to establish a heretical precedent by countenancing so daring an innovation. The other numbers of the opera calling for special notice are, in the first act, Anna's air "Se come voi piccina io fossi," as well as her beautiful prayer, "Angiol di Dio," and her duet with Robert, "Tu dell' infanzia mia"; and in the second act, Robert's air on his return, "Ecco la casa," and the duet and Finale, in which Anna, reminding him of his promises, repeats the air "Tu dell' infanzia mia" with great dramatic effect.

The opera is preceded by a Prelude, in which the principal musical themes are introduced, and here, too, Signor Puccini gives proof of skilful writing and careful workmanship. The work is throughout characterised by great wealth and a natural flow of melody, and it is this which, together with the attractive subject, the novel idea of the "symphonic intermezzo," and the effective musical and dramatic treatment, won for Signor Puccini's "Le Villi" the popularity it has enjoyed ever since its first production, a popularity enhanced by the fact that this interesting work came to be regarded by the public in the light of a standing protest against professional pedantry.

C. P. S.

OBITUARY.

MADAME MARIA BEVIGNANI, wife of the much esteemed Conductor, Signor Bevnigani, died on the 9th ult., at Sestri Ponente, Liguria, in her 42nd year. She had been unwell for some months past, but her death was somewhat unexpected. She was very popular in musical society, and her box at the opera, when her husband was Conductor at Covent Garden Theatre, was always a pleasant rendezvous. She, with her sister, Augusta Kruls, now Mrs. Dickinson, were the nieces of the late prima donna Teresa Titiens.

THE death of Frederic Davison, of the firm of Gray and Davison, on the 18th ult., is announced. He was in the 76th year of his age. He married Louisa Gray, the daughter of John Gray, organ builder, and became the partner of his father-in-law, who died in 1849. Under his direction many large organs were built throughout the country, the most famous of which are those in the Town Halls of Bolton, Glasgow, and Leeds; the Crystal Palace, Magdalen College, Oxford; St. Pancras Church, St. Paul's, Wilton Place, and others.

Few of the St. James's Hall habitués, being told that an old-fashioned, high-coloured listener who seemed to have grown to his seat there was GEORGE RUSSELL, recognised the name as familiar; yet forty years ago it bid fair to denote a distinguished pianist. MR. RUSSELL, however (who died on the 12th ult., of consumption, at his residence, Croydon), had the "damnosa hæreditas" of being a precocious child-performer, and at the age of eight figured in the same programme with Liszt in a Concert at Her Majesty's Theatre. At a later period he came before the public in the series of Concerts given by Alfred Mellon in the Floral Hall, where he was successful; but his rare natural gifts were drawn upon too early; he failed to keep up with the times, and passed into the cold shade of teaching.

We regret to have to announce the death of FREDERIC CLAY. He was born in Paris, August 3, 1840, and studied music chiefly under Molique. The greater part of his compositions were written for the stage, but he also composed two Cantatas, "The Knights of the Cross" and "Lalla Rookh," besides a number of songs, many of which have attained a wide popularity. For some time previous to his death he was afflicted with paralysis. He died at his residence, Oxford House, Great Marlow, on the 24th ult.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE season, so far, has not falsified the promise of its opening, and in interest and excellence the Concerts which have been given this month could not easily be surpassed, though their number is less than in some previous years. Instrumental chamber music is again coming to the front, and it is encouraging to note that there is no lack of support this season for high-class entertainments.

Perhaps the most important event of the month was the first Concert of Mr. Stockley's seventeenth orchestral series, which took place in the Town Hall on the 17th ult., when the new Symphony by Mr. Frederic Cliffe was the pièce de résistance. The composer, who conducted his work, is a native of Bradford, and a Professor of the Royal College of Music. This Symphony, which is his first work of any importance, was produced at one of the Crystal Palace Concerts on April 20 last, and proved such a success that the Philharmonic Society included it in their programme at St. James's Hall on June 6. To Mr. Stockley we are indebted for its third performance. It was capitally rendered throughout by Mr. Stockley's well-trained band, and the appearance of Mr. Cliffe as Conductor provoked enthusiastic applause. There can be no doubt that the Symphony has secured a high position in the musical world, quite apart from the fact of its being the first work of so young a composer. The other orchestral pieces were Meyerbeer's "Schiller" March, Mackenzie's "Benedictus," Weber's "Der Freischütz," and Beethoven's "Egmont" Overtures, Sullivan's "Graceful Dance," from his incidental music to "Henry VIII.," and Wagner's "Träume," of which the solo part was admirably played by Mr. F. Ward. A Ballata entitled "Cicalio," by Tito Mattei, also met with great favour. Madame Nordica and Mr. Ben Davies shared the vocal numbers, the lady's most successful performances having been Mr. Cliffe's song "Far away from thee" and Gounod's vocal waltz "Nella Calma." Mr. Davies was heard to greater advantage in "The sailor's grave," by Sullivan, than in the spirited air from Parry's "Judith," "God breaketh the battle."

In celebration of the opening of a new organ at St. Paul's Church, Lozells, on the 2nd ult., a series of daily Recitals, extending over a week, was given by different performers, including Mr. Astley Langston, Dr. Rowland Winn, Mr. Theodore Tearne, and others.

With the exception of a visit from Mr. Horace Guy's company in "Les Manteaux Noirs," on the 4th ult., the theatres have been very quiet, from a musical point of view.

The Midland Musical Society gave a performance of Handel's "Samson" on the evening of the 16th ult., in presence of a crowded and appreciative audience. Making allowance for the large preponderance of the amateur element in both band and chorus, the performance may be described as a very creditable one, more particularly as regards the choral part. Miss Constance Yorke impressed the audience very favourably by her rendering of the principal soprano part, and the chief contralto music found a competent exponent in Miss Florence Bourne. Mr. Percy Taunton's well-trained voice and musicianlike style found excellent scope in the music of Manoah, and valuable assistance was rendered in the other leading parts by Mr. Lloyd James and Mr. W. A. Crosbee. Mr. H. M. Stevenson conducted with judgment, and the harmonium accompaniments, in the absence of the organ, were capably played by Mr. A. J. Cotton.

The work of improving and extending the Town Hall organ is progressing steadily in the hands of Messrs. Hill, but in the meantime, the want of the instrument is sorely felt by Concert-givers, more particularly in connection with oratorio performances. It is hoped that by Christmas a considerable part of the organ will be available for the annual Boxing-day performance of "The Messiah."

The Institute Music School now boasts of over 3,000 students in the various classes. This expansion of cheap rate-aided music teaching, however, is seriously affecting the incomes of private music professors in Birmingham and the neighbourhood.

At Miss Elsie Baugh's Concert, on the 14th ult., Mr. L. F. O'Hare, the winner of the Maas Memorial prize, achieved a fair measure of success, though his singing is somewhat wanting in spirit and animation. Handel's "Lascia ch' io pianga" found a sympathetic exponent in Miss Winnie Truman, who possesses an artistic and well-trained mezzo-soprano voice. Miss Mancus achieved a marked success in Randegger's "Sleep, dearest, sleep," and Miss Baugh favourably impressed the audience in two songs by Goring Thomas and Blumenthal. A couple of violin solos were contributed by Mr. W. H. Henley.

An interesting and instructive lecture on Psalmody was given by Sir John Stainer, at the Midland Institute, on the evening of the 18th ult. In the course of his remarks, the lecturer paid a warm tribute to the influence of nonconformity in bringing about a reform in English Church music, showing how the early Dissenters rebelled against the dry metrical versions of the Psalms then in vogue, and insisted on themes of a freer and more melodious character, on the principle that the devil ought not to have all the good tunes. At the same time, Sir John Stainer deprecated the abandonment of so many old tunes derived from Non-conformist sources, in the revival of Church music which took place some years ago.

Of the Concert given by Messrs. Harrison on the 25th ult., when Madame Nordica, Miss Macintyre, Madame Hope Glenn, and Mr. Foli in the vocal department co-operated with Messrs. Tivadar Nachèz and Johannes Wolff (violinists) and Mr. Luigi Arditi (pianoforte), particulars must be reserved until next month, and the same remark will apply to the excellent instrumental Chamber Concert given by Madame Agnes Miller on the 28th ult.

MUSIC IN BLACKBURN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BLACKBURN has given another proof of its progress in musical matters. In January last the "Faust" of Berlioz was given with Mrs. Mary Davies, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley, and we have now to chronicle a most successful performance of Rossini's "Moses in Egypt" by the Philharmonic Society, in the Exchange Hall, on the 1st ult., with Madame Albani, Miss Fenna, Madame Hope Glenn, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Henry Piercy, Mr. Robert Grice, and Mr. Bridson as principals. Mr. Risegari led the band, and Mr. Tattersall conducted.

The St. Cecilia and Vocal Union will give Benedict's "St. Peter" on January 13. Miss Monteith, Mr. Harper

Kearton, and Mr. W. Riley are announced as principals, with Mr. Willy Hess as leader.

To the great regret of all lovers of music, Mr. W. H. Thorley has abandoned his Orchestral Concerts, which for several years past have been a source of great pleasure to many.

Mr. James Southworth has commenced a series of Sunday Evening Sacred Concerts in the Exchange Hall. The first was given on the 3rd ult. to a crowded audience. The programme included Meyerbeer's "Coronation" March, a selection from Mendelssohn's Songs without Words, Mozart's "Seraglio" Overture, Handel's "Hallelujah" Chorus, and songs by Miss Louisa Bowmont and Mr. F. Gordon.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE two intermediate Concerts given on the 1st and 2nd ult. by the Bristol Musical Festival Society were the chief events of the past month. The forces consisted of the Society's choir of about 350 voices, the band of Sir Charles Hallé, Mr. George Riseley presided at the organ, and some of the leading singers were engaged. On the first day Mendelssohn's music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was the most important work performed. The ladies of the choir sang the Fairies' music with beauty of tone and remarkable precision. Miss Marie Gane and Mrs. Probert-Goodwin delivered the solos with commendable skill; and the band, under the direction of Sir Charles Hallé, played the fine orchestral sections with spirit, precision, and effect. Leslie's delightful "Lullaby of Life," the singing of which was directed by Mr. D. W. Rootham, the chorus-master, afforded the choir the only opportunity during the evening of displaying the high degree of efficiency they have attained. Miss Macintyre made her début, and at once won the hearts of her audience. Miss Damian, Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, and Mr. Georg Henschel sang operatic selections chiefly; and the band played several Overtures, and Grieg's Melodies for stringed orchestra. On the 2nd ult. Gounod's "Mors et Vita" was performed for the first time in our city, the English version being used. The chief singers were Mesdames Nordica and Enriquez, Messrs. Iver McKay and Georg Henschel. The production of the work was worthy of the Society, and the intelligent and artistic singing of the choir evinced the great care that had evidently been devoted to the rehearsals, the feeling in the pathetic numbers, and the vigour displayed in the jubilant sections, being most marked. The soloists discharged their tasks well; Madame Nordica, although she sang her part for the first time in English, did so with correctness, and made a highly favourable impression on her audience. The truly artistic and dignified way in which Mr. Henschel accomplished his work was deserving of admiration. The band played well, but by no means faultlessly, and occasionally overweighted the soloists. On the whole, however, the performance was excellent, and the audience was enabled through its means to appreciate the beauties of this magnificent and devotional work, which is considered as scarcely inferior, as an exposition of religious sentiment in music, to "The Redemption," the "work of the life" of the great French composer. Mr. Riseley is deserving of a tribute of praise for his admirable organ playing.

There has been an extraordinary development of choral societies in the city. By the establishment, on the 11th ult., of the Bristol North Choral Society, the four parliamentary divisions are now provided with good choral associations. They are all meeting with much greater success than was expected. The newly-established bodies number in the aggregate about 700 members, while the singing members of the principal one, the Bristol Choral Society, are more than 500 in number.

The St. Michael's Choral Society, although it has been in existence several weeks, has not been publicly noticed. Fifty or more members belong to it, and they are studying Mendelssohn's "Come, let us sing." Such a development of musical associations in a single season in Bristol has never been known before.

At the Saturday Popular Concert, which took place at the Colston Hall, on the 23rd ult., Mozart's Mass in C was the chief work performed. The vocalists were Miss Kate Norman, Miss Clara Butt, Mr. Ager Grover, and Mr. Lawford Huxtable. Selections played by a quartet of trombones were the principal attractions.

On the occasion of the holding of the annual Festival of the Bristol Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society, at Colston Hall, on the 19th ult., a choir of 200 voices sang a selection of pieces, Mr. George Riseley being at the organ.

Miss Ellicott has set Moore's lines "Shine out, stars," to music, in the form of a part-song, and the composition is to be included in the forthcoming Concert of the Bristol Gleemen, to the president of which Society the little work is dedicated.

Mr. George Riseley has given several Organ Recitals at the Colston Hall during the month, selecting representative compositions of the various schools for performance. The Recitals are moderately attended. Considering the talent of the player, and the size and quality of the instrument, efforts should be made to secure larger audiences.

"Iduna," a new light opera, the joint work of the late Mr. F. Fergus (Hugh Conway) and Mr. A. H. Behrend, was produced in Bristol on the 18th ult., at the Theatre Royal.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

CONCERT-GIVERS have been busy in Dublin during the past month. Foremost amongst them is Mr. W. Houston Collisson, Conductor of the Saturday Popular Concerts, which were resumed on October 26, at the Leinster Hall. To the attractions of former seasons, Mr. Collisson has now added a choir of 100 voices and a band. This elevates his enterprise above the level of the ordinary ballad Concert; and the public has not been slow to recognise his efforts. At the Concert of the 16th ult. Madame Nordica appeared, supported by Madame Joyce-Maas, Mr. Charles Kelly, and Mr. Theodore Werner. The choir distinguished itself by rendering Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" (with Madame Nordica as soloist) and a madrigal and part-song in good style.

St. Patrick's Oratorio Society is the earliest of our musical associations in the field this season. The opening performance took place in St. Patrick's Cathedral, on the evening of the 18th ult., when Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" and selections from Haydn's "Creation" were performed. Madame Nordica was the soloist. The choir was thoroughly at home in the familiar works selected. Mr. North and Mr. Kelly sang efficiently in the solos allotted to them and in the trios of the "Creation." Mr. Marchant presided at the organ. "The Messiah" was given on the 20th ult.

A mystery play or oratorio, "Mary Magdalen," by Martin Roeder, late Professor at the Royal Irish Academy of Music, is in rehearsal, and its performance is looked forward to with some interest.

The Dublin University Choral Society has in rehearsal Palestrina's "Missa Papæ Marcelli" and "Stabat Mater," and the Dublin Musical Society will give at its last Concert for the season "Israel in Egypt" and "The Song of Miriam" (Schubert). Dr. Joseph Smith has been appointed joint-Conductor with Mr. Joseph Robinson for the coming season of the Dublin Musical Society, and some new works will be produced under the joint régime.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE supplementary prospectus issued by the Glasgow Choral Union is in several respects a bonne bouche. Old friends and new suitors for favour are again artistically brought together, and Mr. August Manns, to whose guiding hand Glasgow folks owe so much, need not fear criticism of his arrangements.

Last month's Concerts were unusually numerous—a surfeit, it is to be feared. Anyhow, the new venture on the Monday evenings at St. Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, failed to show that Promenade Concerts are desired in the West End, notwithstanding that some remarkably fine performances were given by Mr. W. H. Cole's orchestra of forty capable players. Neither did the party headed by Madame Alwina Valleria find a satisfactory response to their appeal on the 18th ult. On the other hand, Mr. Edward Lloyd's appearance at the Monday "Pops" was signalled by a densely packed house. The Glasgow baritone, Mr. Andrew Black, who makes singularly steady advance in his profession, sang at this Concert and also at the Queen's Rooms on the 5th ult., when Miss Ethel and Mr. Harold Bauer made a successful début before a Scotch audience. Both these youthful artists came north with an excellent reputation and sustained it to the full. Stainer's "The Crucifixion" was announced for performance on the 27th ult. by the choir of Woodside Established Church. Last year this interesting work was given by the choir just-named, and with such success that a desire was expressed to hear it again.

The West of Scotland Conservatoire of Music was formally inaugurated on the 1st ult., when the Lord Provost of Glasgow gave a brief address, and wished Mr. and Mrs. Seligmann every success in their new undertaking. On the 9th ult. the function at the bi-weekly meeting of the Society of Musicians took the shape of another lecture by Mr. Woolnoth, on "Der Ring des Nibelungen"; and, a few nights later on, the results of the prize competition, set on foot some time ago, were announced. The adjudicators—Dr. A. C. Mackenzie and Dr. W. A. Barrett—have awarded the first prize (£10) to Mr. Allan Macbeth, for his sacred cantata "The Land of Glory"; the second (£6) to Mr. W. T. Hoeck, for a piano-forte and violin duet; and the third (£4) to Mr. T. S. Drummond, for a song. The amounts are modest, but the prize fund must be regarded as encouraging for a first effort. Mr. Macbeth's cantata, which consists of sixteen numbers, is well spoken of, and is understood to have received the hall-mark of the examiners in respect of its musicianlike workmanship. In all probability it will be soon heard at a private performance; and at a special meeting of the Society the report of the examiners will be read. The Partick Musical Association, conducted by Mr. Joseph Bradley, is now rehearsing Weber's "Jubilee Cantata"; and the Girvan Choral Society, which is showing increased activity, have taken up Mr. Hamish MacCunn's "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." "The Cameronian's Dream," Mr. MacCunn's new ballad for baritone solo, chorus, and orchestra, has come to hand while we write. That vigorous old Psalm tune, "Coleshill," has been introduced very effectively, and the work, soon to be given by the Glasgow Choral Union, is altogether highly interesting.

MUSIC IN LEEDS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ON the 18th ult. the Calverly Choral Society gave a performance of Haydn's "Creation," under the able direction of Mr. Hall. The Society shows no falling off from the high standard of excellence attained last season, when "Elijah" and "The Mount of Olives" were given, and is to be congratulated upon another success. The solo parts were efficiently rendered by Miss Vinnie Beaumont, Mr. J. Simpson (Ripon Cathedral), and Mr. F. Lightowler (Southwell Cathedral). Messrs. A. F. Briggs and Jarvis Grimshaw played an arrangement of the accompaniments for piano-forte and harmonium.

Mr. Edgar Haddock gave the first of his six Musical Evenings on the 19th ult., and, in conjunction with Miss Jeanne Douste, gave a sympathetic rendering of Grieg's Piano-forte and Violin Sonata in F major, and the pianist was heard to advantage in some of Chopin's music. Miss Antoinette Trebelli contributed several songs, and added to the evident enjoyment of those present.

The Leeds Philharmonic Society gave its first Concert on the 20th ult. Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," which constituted the evening's programme, affords excellent opportunities for the advantageous display of high-class choral-singing; and of these opportunities Mr. A. Broughton's well-trained forces availed themselves to the full, and with such success as to render the chorus-work the chief feature of the evening. We must refer to the dramatic expression infused into "The nations are now," "Arise and shine," and "Stone him to death," as worthy of special praise. Madame Nordica was entrusted with the soprano solos, and acquitted herself of a not too heavy task with great charm of voice and style. Miss Beatrice Wrigley, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Watkin Mills completed the solo quartet, and were all successful in their respective recitatives and airs. Mr. Lawrence officiated at the organ, and Messrs. W. Higgins and J. Haigh rendered useful service in the subordinate solo parts. The orchestra was numerically strong, and, with the exception of a pardonable slip or two, excellent.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At the third Concert of the Philharmonic series, given on the 5th ult., the programme was made up of a somewhat incongruous assortment of pieces. Miss Ella Russell sang three songs by Mozart and Verdi, "Deh vieni" from "Figaro," "Caro nome" from "Rigoletto," "Ah fors' e lui" from "La Traviata," and Gounod's arrangement of Bach's prelude, "Ave Maria," the latter of which did not gain in effect owing to there being at least a shade of variance between the pitch of the organ and that of the pianoforte. The unaccompanied choristers were entrusted with Benedict's "Wreath" and Morley's "Now is the month of maying," both of which were rendered in far too ponderous a manner. They also gave, with the orchestra, Faning's "Vikings," and, despite the terrific pace at which it was taken, an encore resulted. Sir Charles Hallé played Raff's Minuet and Gavotte in E flat for pianoforte and orchestra (Mr. Willy Hess taking possession of the rostrum for the occasion), and he also gave, later on, three other pieces, of which the best was Chopin's Chant Polonaise in G flat. The "Fidelio" Overture opened the Concert and that to "Zampa" came last. The Symphony was Mendelssohn's "Italian," delightfully played; and Svendsen's "Norwegian" Rhapsody also found a place in the scheme. During the first part of the Concert the trombones had not been required, but they made amends for their absence by asserting themselves, like giants refreshed, in the latter part of the evening's music. There has been very considerable complaint about this matter on previous occasions, and it is really a pity that the balance of power is not more adequately preserved.

The revival of Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" at the fourth Concert of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, on the 19th ult., was of historical interest. For while admitting the many beauties of the Cantata, written for Birmingham in 1867, comparison between the earlier composition and its successors of festival origin was almost of necessity instituted. This music of twenty-two years ago, while essentially chaste and beautiful in its construction, seems to be of an order apart from that which is offered to the world at present, and many believe that the art of music has now reached its zenith; but the same has been said at almost any period of its history, and without asserting that the "Ancient Mariner" was ever placed upon a special pedestal by its composer or any one else, the Cantata was most popular in its own day, and its revival in the present proved instructive. The chief vocal quartet consisted of Mesdames Larkcom and Hipwell, and Messrs. Kearton and Bridson. Sir Charles Hallé conducted the performance.

At the Art Club the first Conversazione of the season was held on the 4th ult., when Mr. Willy Hess's Manchester quartet was present. It consists of Sir Charles Hallé's leader and Messrs. Speelman (father and son) and Vieuxtemps, a thoroughly competent party; though the chief is, perhaps, too strong for his followers. The delightful gallery of the Art Club was filled, and the comfort of all concerned was well looked after.

On the 6th there were more quartets at the first Birkenhead Subscription Concert, this time under the leadership of Mr. Schiever, the three under-parts being represented by Messrs. V. Akeroyd, Fuchs, and Courvoursier. The singing was contributed by Madame Nordica, and some pianoforte solos were played by Mr. Albeniz, the latter making a favourable impression with his clearly defined execution.

In another direction, music of the more refined order has been given at Dreaper's regular fortnightly Recitals by Mr. A. S. Dale, a remarkably facile pianist, who has lately come to reside in Birkenhead, and Mr. Faulkes, who has already and deservedly made a name here as a pianoforte player.

There was a good Concert at the same place on the 13th ult., when Messrs. Theodore Lawson and T. H. Kinsey joined hands as entrepreneurs and performers. Mr. Lawson, whose father is one of the veteran members of the profession in this locality, is a clever violinist, having studied under Joachim, at Berlin. Mr. Kinsey introduced a Trio for pianoforte and strings of his own, which gave evidence of ability, though it followed one of Gade's exquisite compositions of the same order. Mr. Cecil Fuchs completed the instrumental party and Miss J. Russell sang.

Honours for Liverpool. Miss Dora Charles, for some time a violin pupil of Mr. John Ross of this city, has just gained the violin scholarship at the Paris Conservatoire of Music.

Now that the mode of transacting its local business is changed, the authorities of the R.A.M. have wisely reverted to the earlier system and have appointed several new resident representatives (or preliminary examiners, as they used to be called) in the larger centres. At Liverpool Messrs. W. D. Hall and A. E. Isaac (whose late father first held the same office) have been invited to join Mr. W. I. Argent as the joint accredited agents of the premier institution, and the selection is a decidedly happy one.

On the 21st ult. the Musical Association, formed many years ago and recently galvanised into life, gave "Elijah" at St. George's, under Mr. J. F. Swift (Godfrey Marks). The oratorio proved too big for the choristers, and the performance was very unequal. The chief cause for congratulation hinged upon the first appearance of Miss Wrigley, a local contralto, of whose fine voice much more is likely to be heard.

The first Concert of the Bootle subscription series fell too late for notice in the present issue, but the forecast pointed to success. The scheme was only floated last year, and in the result the venture of Mr. A. E. Workman, the Conductor, and his friends proved to be fully justified. Too late, also, for more than passing allusion, came "Elijah" at Freshfield, under Mr. McCulloch; "Acis and Galatea" at Garston, under Mr. Taylor; and the Scotch Concert annually given on St. Andrew's day by Mr. Duncan.

At St. Helen's the local Philharmonic Society acknowledged the services of their retiring Conductor, Mr. Elliot, early in the month. At the benefit performance in question the chief selections were from the "Creation."

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WITH the attraction of Señor Sarasate, Sir Charles Hallé had an immense audience at the first of his Subscription Concerts, the hall being packed as it usually is for a great choral work. But, in spite of the brilliant execution of the just now phenomenally popular Spanish violinist, a feeling not entirely satisfactory arose. The solos selected were not worthy of the occasion; indeed, "La Muñeira" is a mere pot-pourri of the worn-out trickeries of a bygone school; and why could we not have the Mackenzie "Pibroch"—really a new standard work for first-class players—in place of "La Fée d'Amour," delicate as some of Raff's orchestration unquestionably is? Mdlle. Trebelli sang with taste, and the band revelled in the beauties of Beethoven's wonderful Seventh Symphony.

On the 7th ult. the choir showed the benefit of its more English training by increased volume, purer tone, and more decided attack. Under Mr. R. H. Wilson's care the sopranos have gained brilliance and firmness, while the tenors have decidedly improved; the basses and altos being as good as heretofore. The curiosity to hear "Theodora" has been gratified. Many of the choral numbers are very fine; but the solos (although showing a freedom of style truly extraordinary when the age of its composer is considered) are too many and too similar, and the part of Theodora herself is scarcely suited to the solid style of Miss Anna

Williams, among whose colleagues were Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Brereton. Mr. C. H. Fogg, at the organ, supported very judiciously the voices, and filled in the harmony in many of the songs. At the following Concert Berlioz's "Symphonie Fantastique" was given for the sixth time. A pleasing contrast to such exaggeration of sentiment was afforded by the polished vocalisation of Miss Ella Russell, who recalled reminiscences of the days when singers really did work hard throughout a sufficient training-time; and a further relief was afforded by Sir Charles Hallé's brilliant interpretation of Godard's somewhat diffuse and unequal Concerto in A minor.

On the 21st ult. a most welcome programme was provided, including Mendelssohn's ever-fresh Italian Symphony—of which the Saltarello, however, was taken at an unrehearsed speed and became a little uneven—and Beethoven's Violin Concerto, wherein Lady Hallé played with all her accustomed finish, giving, as she always does, the delicate embroideries, wherewith the soloist enriches the slow movement, with inimitable grace. Her selection of this truly great work contrasted most happily with that of the clever Spaniard, who might safely have trusted to the musical taste and discernment of his audience, and treated us to more solid works than he thought proper to introduce. Miss Fillunger was the vocalist. The "Golden Legend" is announced for the 28th.

Following the Adelina Patti party, Mr. de Jong brought the Alwina Valleria corps, with the violinists, Messrs. Wolff and Nachèz, who treated us to Bach's Dual-Concerto in D minor. The prima donna seemed to be still unfit for much exertion, but Miss Eleanor Rees thoroughly established herself in the public esteem by the firmness and calmness of her style of delivery, and Mr. Orlando Harley displayed a voice which ought to lead to favour in the present dearth of tenors.

At his fourth Concert, on the 16th ult., Mr. de Jong again brought forward a brilliant company, including Madame Hope Glenn, Mr. Henry Piercy, Mr. Charles Manners, Mr. Alfred Jordan, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint. But, acceptably as many of them sang, and agreeably as Mr. A. E. Bartle executed his pianoforte solos, the interest centred in the performances of Miss Macintyre, who has risen in the public favour so rapidly, and is so richly endowed with natural gifts as to deserve, and indeed demand, very careful criticism. With a voice of such extraordinary power and resonance in its higher register as without any effort to fill the largest hall with abundant sound, with such a quickness of sensibility as tempts to exaggerated contrasts and to violent antagonisms of effect, Miss Macintyre's future should be extremely successful, and her influence must be powerful for good or ill. But her well-wishers—who are as numerous as her hearers—look forward to the time when her youthful pride in the wealth of her endowments may tone down a little, and she may subordinate all to a truly artistic purpose. A very young organist—Mr. Sharples—gave Bach's Fugue in A minor with admirable steadiness and clearness, and the Philharmonic Choral Society (under Mr. G. W. Lane) supplied, with taste and greatly-increased volume of tone, several part-songs.

At the Gentlemen's Concerts Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" music has been given, with Mr. Brandram as reader; and at an interesting Drawing-Room Concert Lady Hallé—followed by Messrs. Hess, Speelman, and Carl Fuchs—led Rheinberger's Quartet in E flat and Beethoven's in D (Op. 18, No. 3). For every opportunity of hearing chamber music so well played we are devoutly thankful.

At the Town Hall the Organ Recitals of Mr. Kendrick Pyne retain their popularity, and the forthcoming visit of Mr. Guilmant will be warmly welcomed.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DERBY.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE season at Nottingham opened on October 31 with the first of three Subscription Concerts by the Philharmonic Choir. The choir restricts its work to the production of unaccompanied choral music, and its past success under the conductorship of Mr. F. Marshall-Ward has done much to spread the popularity of this branch of the art in the district. A well-filled room was the reward at the opening Concert. The choral work showed no falling off from the very high standard previously attained by the choir, and though on this occasion none of the great works of Bach, Mendelssohn, or Spohr were performed, the singing of Edwards's quaint Elizabethan madrigal, "In going to my lonely bed," Dr. Hiles's serious part-song, "Hushed in death," and Webbe's "When winds breathe soft," displayed the same care in preparation which has won for the choir the position it holds. The programme included songs by Madame Clara Samuëll, and a fine performance of Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata for violin and pianoforte by Mr. Carrodus and Miss Cantelo. Mr. Carrodus also played De Beriot's "Tremolo" and Paganini's Fantasia (for one string) on the "Prayer" from "Mosè in Egitto."

On the 2nd ult. a vocal solo contest was conducted under the auspices of the Tonic Sol-fa Choral Society. The prizes (of which the usually-neglected accompanists had a share) were awarded by Mr. Arthur Page, the talented Organist of St. Mary's. His decisions gave general satisfaction, and the contest is worthy of notice as having done something to promote and encourage musician-like work amongst solo singers, who are under great temptation to sacrifice honest work to clap-trap vulgarity.

On the 12th ult. the Derby Choral Union performed Bennett's "Woman of Samaria" and Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night," with full orchestral accompaniments. The principals were Madame Carlotta Elliot, Miss Grace Damian, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. Grice. The chorus, under the direction of Mr. Chas. Hancock (though weak in tenors), compares favourably with others in the provinces, developing fine tone with careful attention to the most delicate nuances of expression. The performance was, however, marred by the inefficiency of the orchestra. Still, until every provincial town contains a complete and trained orchestra, choral societies must be content with many shortcomings, or face financial disaster through the expense of importing players from a distance.

On the 14th ult. the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society gave its first Concert, the work selected being Dr. Mackenzie's "Rose of Sharon." No efforts were spared to produce the work in good style. Dr. Mackenzie conducted. The solo parts were entrusted to Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black; the band of fifty performers selected from Manchester, Birmingham, and the best local players, together with the Society's chorus of 200 voices, ensured a complete rendering of this fine work. The "Rose of Sharon" was previously unknown in Nottingham, but we confidently hope that it may soon be heard again. Under Dr. Mackenzie's able direction everything went well, the orchestral work was satisfactory, and the principals, without exception, successfully entered into the spirit of the music. The quartet of solo vocalists engaged could hardly have been improved upon. Mrs. Hutchinson in the pathetic passages created a wonderful effect; Miss Hilda Wilson sang the prologue solo and the music of the first Woman with excellent taste. Mr. Lloyd's beautiful voice and unequalled method of singing gave great delight to his hearers. Mr. Andrew Black, whose first appearance it was in Nottingham, is a fine baritone with a mellow voice and great power. His solos were exceptionally well sung. The chorus proved thoroughly familiar with the work; and where they succeeded so well it goes against the grain to have to remark on a tendency to sluggishness of attack in "piano" passages, which could not be excused by reason of their being under a strange conductor. Dr. Mackenzie's beat was admirable, and we fear the fault lies in an incorrigible tendency of many of the chorus to shirk the first note of a lead. There can be not a doubt, however, that the effect created upon the minds of the audience was that the "Rose of Sharon" is one of the most noble works of its kind produced by a modern writer, and that day by day its popularity will increase until it attains the high rank it deserves in the estimation of all lovers of sterling music.

In Leicester Mr. J. Herbert Marshall has commenced an interesting list of Subscription Concerts, the second of which Words by W. CHATTERTON DIX.

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.

Composed by J. BARNBY.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Tempo moderato.

ORGAN.
♩ = 88.

pp Sw. Org.

Sra

Sra

Sra

cres. rall. poco a poco.

dim.

CHORUS. SOPRANO.
a tempo.
mf

Like sil-ver lamps in a dis-tant shrine, The stars are spark-ling bright; The

a tempo.

Sra

bells of the ci-t-y of God ring out For the Son of Ma-ry was born to-night!

Sra

cres. f

The gloom is past, and the morn at last Is com-ing with o-rient

cres. f

8va

light.

8va

dim. p

Attacca.

TENOR SOLO.

p

Nev-er fell mel-o-dies half so sweet As those which are fill-ing the skies, And p pp

Poco più lento.

nev-er a pal-ace shone half so fair As the man-ger bed where our Sa-viour lies, the

Poco più lento.

sf

a tempo.

man-ger bed where our Sa-viour lies; No night in the year is half so dear As a tempo.

Reed. senza Reed.

p

this which has ended our sighs, which has end - ed our sighs, No night in the year is half so dear, As this which has end - ed our sighs.

Poco più lento.

Never fell me-lo-dies half so sweet As those which are filling the Poco più lento.

rit.

skies, No night in the year is half so dear As this which has end - ed our sighs.

pp

Ped.

(3)

Allegro con spirito. - CHORUS. BASS.

Now a new Power has come on the earth, A

Allegro con spirito. $\text{♩} = 112.$

Gt. Diaps.
Sw. Reed coup.

match for the ar-mies of hell; A Child is born who shall con-quer the foe, And all the spi-rits of wick-ed-ness quell, and all the spi-rits of wick-ed-ness quell. For Ma-ry's Son is the Migh-ty One Whom the pro-phets of God fore-tell, the pro-phets of God fore - tell.

Sw.

Atacca.

Tempo lmo. CHORUS. SOPRANO.

The stars of

pp heaven still shine as at first They gleamed on this won-derful night; The 8va.

add to Sw.

bells of the ci - ty of God peal out, And the an - gels' song still rings in the height.

8va

cres. cres. molto.

And love still turns while the god-head burns, Hid in flesh from fleshly sight.

8va

cres. cres. molto.

Ped. Gt. coup.

ff

Faith sees no long - er the sta - ble floor, The pave-ment of sapphire is

CHORUS. ALTO. ff

Faith sees no long - er the sta - ble floor, The pave-ment of sapphire is

TENOR. ff

Faith sees no long - er the sta - ble floor, The pave-ment of sapphire is

BASS. ff

Faith sees no long - er the sta - ble floor, The pave-ment of sapphire is

Sra...

Ped.

there, The light of heaven streams out to the west, And an - gels of there, The light of heaven streams out to the west, And an - gels of there, The light of heaven streams out to the west, And an - there, The light of heaven streams out, streams out to the west, And

ff

God are crowd-ing the air, And heaven and earth thro' the

ff

God are crowd-ing the air, And heaven and earth thro' the

ff

- gels are crowd-ing the air, And heaven, . . . and heaven and earth thro' the

ff

an - gels of God are crowd-ing the air, And heaven, and heaven and earth thro' the dim.

spot - less Birth Are at peace on this night so fair, . . . at spot - less Birth Are at peace on this night so fair, . . . at spot - less Birth Are at peace on this night so fair, . . . at spot - less Birth Are at peace on this night so fair, . . . at dim. Stw. p Ped.

peace on this night so fair, . . . at peace on this night so peace on this night so fair, . . . at peace on this night so peace on this night so fair, . . . at peace on this night so peace on this night so fair, . . . at peace on this night so

pp

fair, at peace on this night so fair. . .

fair, at peace on this night so fair. . .

fair, at peace on this night so fair. . .

fair, at peace on this night so fair. . .

cres. molto. ff Org.

REDUCED PRICES.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

NEW AND OLD

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE
REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY
JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.

THREE SERIES (MUSIC AND WORDS), ONE SHILLING EACH;

Cloth gilt, 2s. Three Series, complete, cloth gilt, 4s.

Words only, each Series, 1½d.; or, complete, 4d.; cloth, 6d.

First Series, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1s.; or, in separate numbers, 1d. each.

SEPARATE NUMBERS, ONE PENNY EACH:—

FIRST SERIES.

- | | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------------------------------|-----------------|
| 1. God rest you merry, gentlemen... | Traditional. | 11. When I view the Mother ... | J. Barnby. |
| 2. The Manger Throne ... | Dr. Steggall. | 12. The seven joys of Mary ... | Traditional. |
| 3. A Virgin unspotted ... | Traditional. | 13. On the Birthday of the Lord ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 4. Come, ye lofty ... | Sir G. Elvey. | 14. What Child is this? ... | Old English. |
| 5. Come, tune your heart ... | Sir F. Ouseley. | 15. Glorious, beauteous, golden ... | Maria Tiddeman. |
| 6. The First Nowell ... | Traditional. | 16. Waken! Christian Children ... | S. C. Hamerton. |
| 7. Jesu, hail ... | J. Stainer. | 17. A Child this day is born ... | Traditional. |
| 8. Good Christian men ... | German. | 18. Carol for Christmas Eve ... | Sir F. Ouseley. |
| 9. Sleep, holy Babe ... | Dr. Dykes. | 19. When Christ was born ... | A. H. Brown. |
| 10. Good King Wenceslas ... | Traditional. | 20. Christmas Morning Hymn ... | J. Barnby. |

SECOND SERIES.

- | | | | |
|--|-----------------|--|--------------|
| 21. Carol for Christmas Eve ... | Traditional. | 33. A Cradle Song of the Blessed }
Virgin ... | J. Barnby. |
| 22. Jesus in the Manger ... | H. Smart. | 34. Christmas Song ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 23. The Holly and the Ivy ... | Old French. | 35. Jacob's Ladder ... | Traditional. |
| 24. The Moon shone bright ... | Traditional. | 36. The Story of the Shepherd ... | J. Barnby. |
| 25. The Virgin and Child ... | Dr. Steggall. | 37. The Wassail Song ... | Traditional. |
| 26. The Incarnation ... | Traditional. | 38. In terrâ pax ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 27. Christmas Day ... | J. Stainer. | 39. Dives and Lazarus ... | Traditional. |
| 28. The Cherry Tree Carol ... | Traditional. | 40. From far away ... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 29. God's dear Son ... | Traditional. | 41. Carol for Christmas Day ... | A. Sullivan. |
| 30. Christmas Hymn ... | Sir J. Goss. | 42. The Child Jesus in the Garden ... | J. Stainer. |
| 31. The Babe of Bethlehem ... | Traditional. | | |
| 32. In Bethlehem, that noble place ... | Sir F. Ouseley. | | |

THIRD SERIES.

- | | | | |
|---|---------------|---|-----------------|
| 43. What soul-inspiring music ... | Har. by J. S. | 56. Christmas Night ... | A. H. Brown. |
| 44. In the country nigh to Beth- } lehem ... | G. Hine. | 57. The Christmas Celebration ... | E. Prout. |
| 45. We three Kings of Orient are ... | Har. by J. S. | 58. Arise and hail the Sacred Day ... | A. H. Brown. |
| 46. Emmanuel, God with us ... | H. Gadsby. | 59. The Holy Well ... | Har. by J. S. |
| 47. New Prince, new pomp ... | Dr. Steggall. | 60. The Angel and the Shepherds ... | E. H. Thorne. |
| 48. A babe is born ... | Har. by J. S. | 61. The Coventry Carol ... | Har. by J. S. |
| 49. Come let us all sweet Carols }
sing ... | F. Champneys. | 62. The Morning Star ... | Dr. Bridge. |
| 50. Let music break on this blest } morn ... | J. B. Calkin. | 63. The Shepherds went their hasty }
way ... | J. F. Barnett. |
| 51. Carol for New Year's Day ... | A. H. Brown. | 64. I saw three ships ... | Har. by J. S. |
| 52. The Angel Gabriel ... | Har. by J. S. | 65. Mountains, bow your heads ... | W. H. Cummings. |
| 53. The Shepherds amazed ... | A. H. Brown. | 66. Luther's Carol ... | J. Higgs. |
| 54. Noël! Noël! ... | Har. by J. S. | 67. The Boy's Dream ... | W. H. Monk. |
| 55. I sing the birth ... | G. C. Martin. | 68. Legends of the Infancy ... | Dr. Bridge. |
| | | 69. The Black Decree ... | Traditional. |
| | | 70. For Christmas Day ... | Traditional. |

A Selection from the above (24) for Men's Voices, 2s.

Illustrated Edition (First and Second Series), handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.
Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding, 7s. 6d.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

took place on the 21st ult., when Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Golden Legend" was performed. The principals were Miss Annie Marriott, Miss Frances Hipwell, Mr. Charles Banks, and Mr. Barrington Foote. The band numbered about fifty performers, including some of the best London players. The chorus of the Leicester Philharmonic Society, under the direction of Mr. Ellis, proved themselves a fine body of choralists, both in tone and attack, every member evidently throwing heart and soul into the work. Their singing left but little to be desired, and we do not remember hearing better unaccompanied work than their rendering of "O Gladsome Light." The orchestra, while equal to the mere execution of this really difficult music, lacked refinement, and were far too noisy throughout the work. Miss Annie Marriott gave a delightfully sympathetic rendering of Elsie's music. Miss Hipwell made good use of a rich contralto voice in Ursula's part. We have heard Mr. Banks to better advantage than in Prince Henry's music, which he failed to realize. Mr. Barrington Foote was thoroughly at home in Lucifer's difficult part. The Concert commenced with a performance of Beethoven's Overture to "Egmont," which, though played with precision, suffered from the same want of refinement which characterised the playing of the band throughout the evening. The series includes two choral Concerts by the Leicester Philharmonic Society, the works selected being Sullivan's "Golden Legend," given on the 21st ult., and "Elijah" for March 6, next year. Sir Charles Hallé's band is announced for an Orchestral Concert on the 11th inst.

MUSIC IN SOUTH WALES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE new organ, which has been subscribed for by Mr. J. A. Rolls and some others, has been placed in the Rolls Hall, Monmouth. It was built by Mr. Sweetland, of Bath, and was publicly opened on Tuesday, the 5th ult., by Mr. J. Kendrick Pyne, Organist of Manchester Cathedral and Town Hall. There were two Recitals, at 2.30 and 8 p.m., and the hall was well filled on each occasion.

The organ which has been presented to the Gwyn Hall, Neath, by the widow of the late Howel Gwyn, was opened on the 7th ult., when Handel's "Messiah" was performed. The principal vocalists were Miss Annie Marriott, Miss H. M. Jones, Mr. Percy Palmer, and Mr. David Hughes; there was a small orchestra, led by Mr. E. G. Woodward, of Gloucester; and Mr. J. L. Matthews conducted.

This same Neath organ has not been altogether productive of harmony. It will be remembered that some time since the Town Council gravely discussed the propriety of electing a person as organist who, on his own admission, could not play. Later on, shortly after the opening day, a Recital was announced by an efficient organist, but from some cause or other the powers that be ordered the hall to be closed, and admittance was refused to many who presented themselves, including the lady who had so generously placed the organ there.

The Cardiff Orchestral Society gave its first Concert of the season on the 13th ult. The orchestral pieces in the programme were the Overtures "Rosamunde" (Schubert) and "Egmont" (Beethoven), a selection from Verdi's "Rigoletto" March, "Faust" (Berlioz), and the "Jupiter" Symphony. These were capitally rendered by the orchestra, consisting of eighty-four performers. The vocalists were Madame Nordica and Mr. Philip Newbury. The Conductor, Dr. Joseph Parry, is to be congratulated on the success which attended this, the first Concert of the Society under his bâton.

The movement for establishing Sunday evening Concerts is extending. They have been commenced in the Drill Hall, Swansea, where the instrumental music was furnished by the band of the 3rd Glamorgan R.V., conducted by their excellent bandmaster, Mr. H. W. Davies. An effort is being made to start similar Concerts at Neath, but, as usual, there is some opposition; ultimately it will doubtless be overcome there, as in other places.

The Saturday Night Popular Concerts have been resumed at Cardiff, under the direction of Mr. Jacob Davies, whose now well-known choir has already given some admirable examples of part-singing. These Concerts are good and cheap, and therefore deserve to be liberally supported.

At Swansea, on October 31, Miss Florence Fricker gave her annual Concert, which had the honour and advantage of the patronage of Madame Patti. The bénéficiaire was assisted by Miss Alice Gomes, Eos Morlais, and Mr. Lucas Williams, vocalists; Miss Minnie Fricker, solo harpist; and Mr. W. F. Hulley, Conductor. Miss Fricker, who appeared as both solo pianist and vocalist, was very successful in her performance of Liszt's "Rhapsodie Hongroise," and other solos by Heller and Chopin, and sang with nice feeling Spohr's "Rose softly blooming" and Bishop's "Tell me, my heart." Miss Minnie Fricker, who is well-known in South Wales as an excellent harpist, was warmly encoered for her rendering of pieces by J. Thomas and Parish Alvars.

On Thursday, the 7th ult., a complimentary Concert was given at the Tabernacle Chapel, Morriston, for the benefit of Mr. David Francis, a veteran among Welsh Conductors, who, owing to increasing age, has retired from the position he has for many years held as Conductor of the Tabernacle Chapel Choir. This choir numbers about 150 members, and under Mr. Francis's bâton has been victorious at many Eisteddfodau, and its annual Concerts have been deservedly popular. The programme was well rendered throughout, the performers being all local. Mr. Hulley's band performed Suppé's "Pique Dame" Overture so well as to get an enthusiastic encore, not at all a common thing in Wales for an orchestral work. Eos Morlais was in good form, and special mention should be made of Mr. Evan Evans, a young Welsh baritone of much promise. Miss Lizzie Brown was a very efficient accompanist.

MUSIC IN THE WEST OF ENGLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Cheltenham Festival Society's first Concert of the season, which took place on the 12th ult., before a crowded audience, was a great success. Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal" (in the performance of which at the recent Gloucester Festival members of the Cheltenham Choir took part) occupied the chief position. Under the able and vigilant direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews, the work was excellently rendered, the chorus in many respects surpassing themselves; the band also rendered good service, although, as usual, the accompaniments to the declamation were far too prominent. Mr. Charles Fry again recited the accompanying poem with that clearness and dramatic power which characterise this admirable elocutionist, and the solos in the work were excellently sung by Mrs. Bertha Moore, Miss Fanny Stephens, and Messrs. Philip Newbury and Bantock Pierpoint, the singing of the tenor being especially good. The popularity of the Cantata increases at each successive hearing, and the manifold beauties of conception and artistic work never fail to create a good impression. This was particularly the case on the present occasion. The audience listened with great attention, and carried away with them the most pleasing memories of a highly poetical composition and an admirable performance. Miss Ellicott's graceful little work, "Elysium," was also well performed, Mrs. Moore singing the solo parts. The success it achieved at the Gloucester Festival was enhanced on the present occasion.

The winter series of popular musical services in Gloucester Cathedral commenced on the 14th ult., when over 2,000 persons were present. Mr. C. Lee Williams and Mr. Capener jointly gave Recitals on the organ, and pieces of music to sacred words were sung by Miss Thirkill, of Cheltenham; Miss B. Dallimore, of Gloucester; Messrs. Abraham Thomas, Wilson, and Greenwood, and the Cathedral choir.

The Plymouth Choral and Orchestral Societies, numbering, with assistants, 350, gave a Concert at the Guildhall, Plymouth, on the 13th ult. Dr. Bridge's "Callirhoë," written for and performed at last year's Festival at Birmingham, was the composition in which interest centred. The Cantata was well performed, under the direction of Mr. S. Weekes, the choruses being spiritedly sung. The excellent playing by the band of the fine orchestration with which the work abounds added much to the excellence of the interpretation as a whole. Madame Albani, Miss Alice Lamb, and Mr. Charles Kenningham (from Canterbury Cathedral) were the soloists, and their efforts won hearty recognition. In the second part of the programme the artists named sang ballads and selections from operas. Miss Theresa Meers (violinist) and Mr. W. L. Barrett (flautist) played solos.

As so many persons were unable to gain admission to St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, on the occasion of the recent Choir Benevolent Festival there, the whole of the music then rendered was repeated on the 12th ult. by the Choir of the Church.

An Organ Recital was given at St. Paul's Church, Honiton, by Mr. G. R. Sinclair, the newly-appointed Organist of Hereford Cathedral, on the 20th ult. The Rev. N. M. Morgan-Brown and Mrs. Morgan-Brown were the vocalists.

The Tavistock Choral Society, which has been established but one year, displayed remarkable efficiency on the 6th ult., when it gave its first Concert, under the Conductorship of the Rev. E. C. C. Wilson. Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" was the work performed, the chorus and band being reinforced by vocalists and players from Plymouth. The principal singers were Miss Lavinia Lampen, Miss Sidgwick (of Launceston), Mr. W. Hearder (of Plymouth), and Mr. Theodore France (of Exeter). Mr. Pardew was leader of the band, Miss V. Sims presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. H. Moreton at the harmonium. In the second part of the programme the vocalists named contributed songs.

The Choirs of Camborne and Penzance Wesleyan Churches gave a performance of Gaul's "Holy City," in St. John's Hall, Penzance, on the 1st ult.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, November 14.

THE first great choral performance of the season was the opening Concert of the Oratorio Society of New York, which took place on Saturday evening last at the Metropolitan Opera House, preceded, as usual, by a public rehearsal on Friday afternoon. Of course, the first deduction always drawn from a Concert performance at the Metropolitan is the unsuitability of the house for this kind of work. An orchestra situated on the stage always lacks sonority, the tone of the strings especially being deadened. When the great building at Madison Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street is completed, we shall have a hall adapted to Concert performances. The Oratorio Society, however, will have its home in the new hall being erected for it, and the Symphony Society at Seventh Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. The work chosen for the opening of the Oratorio season was Liszt's "Christus," which is not highly esteemed by American critics and music lovers. Nevertheless, Mr. Walter Damrosch shows good judgment in bringing forward such a production, because in it his excellent chorus does some of its best work. In the delivery of some of the more animated choral numbers the chorus displayed rare power and a fine quality of tone, coupled with much skill in dramatic accentuation. The chief trouble with the Oratorio chorus is that it is sadly in need of an infusion of young blood. But the chorus is the Society, and it is, therefore, a law unto itself. The soloists in the "Christus" were Miss Sophie Traubmann (of the German opera), Mrs. Carl Alves, William Rieger, and William Sparger.

Eugene d'Albert and Sarasate arrived yesterday morning, and will appear at the Metropolitan Opera House on Monday evening, supported by the full Symphony orchestra of 110 men, under Mr. Walter Damrosch.

Last Wednesday evening local orchestral players, to the number of 150, volunteered to play in a testimonial Concert to Mr. Theodore Thomas, who conducted. The programme was made up in accordance with popular request, and consisted of the Overture to "Rienzi," Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," Chopin's "Funeral March," scored by Mr. Thomas; Schumann's A minor Pianoforte Concerto, superbly played by Rafael Joseffy; Liszt's "Les Préludes," Bach's Fugue in A minor, Brahms's Variations for strings from a Quartet, and the Overture to "William Tell."

The thirty-second season of the Brooklyn Philharmonic Society began last Saturday evening. The programme was made up of music by Beethoven and Wagner. It is Mr. Thomas's intention to devote one of the Brooklyn Philharmonic Concerts this winter to the performance of works by American composers.

The programme of the fifth Concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under Arthur Nikisch, last Saturday evening, appears to have disturbed the equanimity of that respectable town. Mr. Nikisch gave them no soloist and made no concession whatever to the demands of public lack of taste, but insisted on presenting his audience with a lesson in the growth and development of the Symphony. His programme consisted simply of three Symphonies: Haydn, in G, No. 13; Mozart, in G minor, and Beethoven, No. 5.

The programme of the fourth Concert, on the previous Saturday evening, contained two episodes for orchestra (MS.), Arthur Bird, first time in Boston. Mr. Bird's Oriental scene is written for an unusually large orchestra and is full of skilful and imaginative writing.

The Apollo Club, of Chicago, has made its announcements for the season. Four Concerts will be given to associates, all in the new Auditorium building, each of which will be repeated the following evening to audiences "composed only of wage-earners and their families." The chorus will be enlarged to 400 voices. The scheme of Concerts as determined upon thus far is: December 25, "The Messiah," soloists Madame Lillian Norton (Nordica), Miss Gertrude Edmunds, Mr. C. A. Koore, Mr. M. W. Whitney. January 31, "St. Paul" (first part) and "Judas Maccabæus." March 21, miscellaneous Concert, with Mr. Ludwig as principal attraction. May 26, Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal" (with Mr. George Riddle, reader) and one other work. The doubt about the coming to this country of Mr. Edward Lloyd affects the present plan of the Apollo Club, as it does several other of the leading societies of the country. The "Requiem" of Berlioz is being considered for their final attraction in case Mr. Lloyd should not appear.

The Arion Club, of Milwaukee, has engaged the Boston Symphony Orchestra for its first Concert this season. The programme announced is the same as that given at the Orchestra's opening Concert in Boston. The local musicians of Milwaukee are enraged over the Arion's action. They have met and resolved never to play for the Club again for less than twenty-five dollars each per Concert. This is prohibitory, as it would make a single Concert cost over 1,200 dollars. As the Arion engages outside talent only once a year, and employs the local musicians at all its other Concerts, this looks like suicidal policy on the part of the players.

COMMUNICATIONS for the January number of THE MUSICAL TIMES should reach the Office not later than December 22, as in consequence of the Christmas Holidays it will be necessary to go to Press considerably earlier than usual.

THE prospectus of the forthcoming Concert season at the Hampstead Conservatoire, under the direction of Mr. G. F. Geaussen, principal of the Conservatoire, shows a considerable amount of enterprise which deserves to be well supported. Three series of Concerts are proposed. At the first, to take place on the 9th inst., on February 10, and March 10, 1890, "The Messiah," "Faust" (Berlioz), and "The Golden Legend" are to be given with some of the best singers in the profession, and a full professional orchestra and choir of 260 performers, Mr. Carrodus as leader, Mr. A. J. Greenish, Organist, and Mr. Geaussen, Conductor. The second series comprises two Symphony Concerts, when the Conservatoire Choir of 160 voices will sing a selection of madrigals and part-songs, and Messrs. Cowen, Hamish MacCunn, Hubert Parry, and Villiers Stanford will conduct their own compositions which are to be performed. The third series will be ten Organ Recitals by eminent foreign and English organists, including Dr. Bridge, Dr. Peace, Mr. George Riseley, Mr. Walter Parratt, Mr. H. L. Balfour, Mr. C. W. Perkins, and M. Guilmant. Besides this most attractive list, a number of Invitation Organ Recitals on Sunday afternoons are mentioned, and an extra Concert of Christmas Carols will be given by the choir on the evening of Monday, the 23rd inst. The performances will be given in the beautiful Concert-room attached to the Conservatoire, and they have the heartiest wishes for complete success from all lovers of good music.

THE first of a series of eight Philharmonic Concerts was given at Clapham Assembly Rooms, on the 21st ult. Handel's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day" was the chief work selected. Madame Worrell and Mr. H. Guy were the soloists; the Clapham Choral Society sang the choruses and some part-songs. The accompanists were Messrs. Sidney H. Hann and Alfred Izard, and the Conductor was Mr. Walter Mackway. An interesting scheme for the remaining series of Concerts has been devised, Dvorák's "Patriotic Hymn," Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal," Schumann's "Requiem," Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm, and some Concerts of Chamber Music are among the attractions offered.

MISS MATHILDE WURM gave an Evening Concert at Princes' Hall, on the 12th ult. Her solo pieces comprised Schumann's "Papillons," Beethoven's Thirty-two Variations, Grieg's "Poème érotique," and Mendelssohn's "Scherzo e Capriccio," in all of which the young pianist acquitted herself with distinction and won the warm approval of her audience. She also joined Mr. Holländer in Brahms's A major Sonata for pianoforte and violin, and had the assistance of her sister, Miss Alice Wurm, in Saint-Saëns's arrangement, for two pianofortes, of his lugubrious "Danse Macabre," both works being extremely well played. Miss Liza Lehmann sang.

MR. CARRODUS gave an admirable Chamber Concert at the Hampstead Conservatoire Hall, on Friday, the 22nd ult. The programme included a String Quartet by Beethoven, Spohr's Duet for two violins (very finely played by Mr. Carrodus and Mr. Bernhard Carrodus), solos for violin, Chopin's Polonaise in C, for pianoforte and violoncello, by Miss Louisa Pyne and Mr. J. Carrodus, jun.; and Schumann's Quintet, performed by Messrs. Carrodus, B. M. Carrodus, W. T. Wood, J. Carrodus, jun., and Geo. F. Geaussen (pianoforte). The Conservatoire Choir gave two part-songs, and the vocalist was Miss Mildred Harwood.

THE second season of the Wandsworth Philharmonic Society was successfully inaugurated on Thursday evening, the 14th ult., when a Concert was given at the Wandsworth Town Hall. The programme consisted of the principal portion of Mozart's Twelfth Mass, a few excerpts from Handel's "Samson," and a miscellaneous selection, both conducted by Mr. H. W. Weston. It would have been better had the Mass been sung to the Latin instead of the English words. The solos were sung by Miss Fusselle, Madame Helen d'Alton, Mr. Dyved Lewys, and Mr. Robert Hilton.

AT St. Stephen's, South Kensington, the Harvest Festival took place in connection with the Festival of All Saints. Beethoven's Mass in C was sung; Canticles, Stainer in A; and for the Anthem, Haydn's "Creation" (part one). Handel's "Occasional" Overture was played by the orchestra at the conclusion of the evening service. The soloists were Master Herbert Hobday and Master William Lewis, Mr. Edmund K. Alderson, and Mr. Albert Reakes. Organist, Mr. Warren Tear, of St. Mark's, Blenheim Crescent. Mr. Hamilton Robinson, Organist and Director of the music of the Church, conducted.

MENDELSSOHN'S "Elijah" was given at St. John's, Waterloo Road, S.E., on Sunday afternoon, the 17th ult., when the solos were contributed by Miss Izard, Miss Maslen, Miss A. Long, Miss Tunnicliffe, Mr. J. Gostick, Mr. Blair, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. F. Winter. The choruses were rendered by the choir of the church, under the direction of Mr. W. J. Reynolds, sub-organist, and with Mr. Henry J. B. Dart at the organ. Spohr's "Last Judgment" will be given on the third Sunday in December.

THE fifty-first anniversary of the dedication of Holy Trinity Parish Church, Rotherhithe, was celebrated on Sunday morning, the 10th ult., by a special service. The preacher was the Rev. G. F. Hamilton, of St. Mary's, Rotherhithe, the Anthem was Barnby's "The grace of God," and after the Service the organist and choirmaster played "Schiller" March (Meyerbeer—West), Adagio in B flat (Spohr), and Chorus in C, Jubilee Cantata (Weber).

THE present Organist of the Church of St. Andrew Undershaft, Mr. W. M. Wait, has gathered from the parish books an interesting account of the organ and the organists of the church, from the year 1695 to the present. Among the names of the holders of the office of organist were Dr. Worgan, Mr. Richard Limpus (the founder of the College of Organists), Dr. Rea, of Newcastle, and Mrs. Bridge (Miss Elizabeth Stirling). The organ was originally built by Renatus Harris.

MISS AGNES BARTLETT gave the first of a series of historical Pianoforte Recitals, on the 16th ult., at the Hampstead Conservatoire Hall, Eton Avenue, Swiss Cottage. The programme comprised works by Marcello, Rameau, Scarlatti, Handel, Bach, Balbastre, Haydn, and Mozart. Miss Bartlett is a pupil of Liszt, and her playing was worthy of so distinguished a master. Her scheme is deserving of the attention of all students of the pianoforte.

A SPECIAL Festival Service was held at All Saints', Clapham Park, on the 1st ult. The choir, which was augmented for the occasion, gave a good rendering of W. G. Wood's Evening Service and Mendelssohn's "Hear my prayer," Master Major taking the solo part. After the Service an Organ Recital was given by Mr. F. G. Shinn, comprising works by Guilman, Lemmens, W. G. Wood, &c.

MISS STELLA MARIS gave her second Evening Concert at the Wandsworth Town Hall, on Thursday, the 14th ult., when she was assisted by Miss Alice Kent, Miss L. Jenkins, Madame Raymond, Mr. H. Horscroft, Mr. T. Nye, and Mr. A. Rogers, with Miss Theresa Jennings as solo harpist and Miss Emily Hardy as solo violinist. Mr. G. Winney accompanied.

COWEN'S "Rose Maiden" was given by the Walworth Choral Society, in the Lecture Hall, Brunswick Terrace, Camberwell, on October 30. The principal artists were Mdlle. Vagnolini, Miss Tunnicliffe, Mr. Ager Grover, and Mr. Frank Swinford. Mr. Crome presided at the harmonium, Mr. F. W. Grant at the pianoforte, and Mr. W. E. Curtis conducted.

THE North London United Choral and Orchestral Society on Monday, the 18th ult., gave a performance of Haydn's Oratorio the "Creation," at Shoreditch Parish Church, under the conductorship of Mr. Thomas Hibberd. The soloists were Miss Willis Sharman, Mr. W. Hibberd, and Mr. Nesbit Hawes; Organist, Mr. W. Jacobs, and the leader of the orchestra was Mr. M. Wigginton.

THE celebrated French Organist, Mr. A. Guilman, has kindly volunteered to give two Organ Recitals in Oxford in aid of the Ouseley Memorial Fund. The first will take place in Balliol College Hall on the 3rd inst., and the second will be given on the following day in the Sheldonian Theatre.

MESSRS. CHAPPELL and Co. announce that the exclusive rights for stage representation of Gounod's "Faust" have been purchased by the Carl Rosa Opera Company for London and a number of the principal towns in the United Kingdom.

THE Kyrie Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of "Elijah" on the 6th ult., in St. Andrew's Church, Brixton. Soloists—Miss Ada Loaring, Mrs. Oram, Mr. Ager Grover, and Mr. James Blackney. Mr. E. H. Turpin accompanied on the organ.

MR. JUDD, Organist of Christ Church, Southgate, who had just completed his twenty-fifth year of service in that capacity, was presented, on the 13th ult., with a handsome time-piece by the past and present members of the choir and some friends as a mark of esteem.

THE prizes of £20 and £5 offered by the Catholic Archbishop of Dublin for the composition of the best Liturgical Mass, have been awarded to Dr. Joseph Smith and Mr. Joseph Seymour, Organists of Rathgar and St. Andrew's Parish Churches respectively.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES have been graciously pleased to confer warrants of special appointments upon Messrs. John Broadwood and Sons, of Great Pulteney Street, London, as pianoforte makers to their Royal Highnesses.

MISS RHODA SUTHERLAND gave a Concert at Brixton Hall, on the 14th ult. The programme was well arranged and performed. Miss Sutherland was assisted by Mrs. Dyke, Mdle. Hardy, Messrs. Kearton, Copland, Payne, Fox, Leask, and Turle Lee.

THE Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of "St. Paul" in St. Saviour's, Southwark, on the 20th ult. The soloists were Mrs. Stanesby, Mrs. Machin, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Jabez West. Mr. E. H. Turpin accompanied on the organ.

ORCHESTRAL societies and amateurs generally will be glad to know that the full score of Mr. Hamish MacCunn's successful Concert-Overture (Op. 3), "The Land of the Mountain and the Flood," has just been published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REVIEWS.

The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion. Set to music in the key of F, with the greater third. By C. Villiers Stanford. (Op. 36.) [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE industry as well as the versatility of the composer is expressed in the two latest works from his pen, which have been brought before public notice—namely, in his Service in F (Op. 36) and in the Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 39), performed at the Popular Concerts on the 18th ult. The style of each is as different as possible the one from the other, so much so that it would be difficult to believe that the two works emanated from the same brain. It is not necessary to speak further of the Sonata in this place, as its merits have been already described in these columns. Of the Service more particular mention is demanded. In it there are only occasional glimpses of modern treatment. The general character of the harmonies and of the progressions is of the style of the middle of the sixteenth century, and they might have been inspired by Birde, Tallis, or any of the old English fathers of harmony. What Dr. Stanford's music lacks in modern expression it gains in dignity and solemnity by this style of treatment, and while it will secure a hearty welcome as containing much that is worthy to be associated with the time-honoured words of the Canticles of the Church, it will also serve as a proof that Dr. Stanford can write as happily in the musical language of his predecessors among ecclesiastical composers, who employed all the means at their disposal to the best of their ability, as in the manner dictated by German musicians. Dr. Stanford has set his words effectively, reverently, and in all cases after the fashion that is necessary to secure approval and acceptance by Church musicians; for even amid his archaic harmonies there is enough to show that he has been able to impart to his work a character of individuality. The Service is complete and contains settings of the Te Deum, the Benedictus, the Jubilate Deo, a complete Communion Service, the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in all respects obedient to the received traditions of Church music.

Bold Turpin. Humorous Part-song. By J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. Doc. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE words of this admirably written part-song have been selected from the "Pickwick Papers," by Charles Dickens. Readers of that immortal romance will remember the scene in the Debtors' Prison, when Mr. Weller being asked to sing, "burst at once into the following wild and beautiful legend." Dr. Bridge has provided the legend with excellent music, full of as much character as the words themselves contain. The quaint humour which runs through the whole, the Gregorian phrase which accompanies the mention of the bishop, the galloping of the horses, and other effects cannot conceal the real musical skill in the construction, so that although the Part-song is well calculated to raise up a spirit of fun when it is well performed, it is worthy of being well done, for it is most ably written.

The Tuscan Strad; a short account of a Violin by Stradivari. [W. E. Hill and Sons.]

THIS is an interesting account of a beautiful violin, by Antonius Stradivarius, the famous Cremona maker. It is dated 1690, and the "matchless orange-red-brown varnish shows scarcely a sign of the wear of the two centuries since it was first laid on." It was bought in 1794 by Mr. David Ker, of Portavoe, in Ireland, for the sum of about £25. The subsequent history of the instrument is told in a genial and appreciative style, and the little book, which is an elegant specimen of printing, contains a fac-simile of the guarantee of 1794, and three portraits of the violin, in three positions—the front, the back, and the side—drawn by Mr. Alfred Slocombe, and admirably reproduced in chromolithography by Mr. William Gibb, the printer of Mr. Hipkins's glorious book of musical instruments.

A Noted Directory of Plain Song. By the Rev. J. W. Doran and Spenser Nottingham. Part. II. The Canticles. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

A FEW words of commendation of the first part of this very useful publication were given in the October number of THE MUSICAL TIMES. These must be sufficiently fresh to obviate the necessity of repeating them. All that is required now is to call attention to the second part, and to say that the principles which guided the production of the first are also conspicuously present in it. A third part is in preparation and will shortly be issued.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THE fiftieth anniversary of Verdi's début as operatic composer was celebrated on the 17th ult., at Genoa, with a festive procession and the inauguration of the "Giuseppe Verdi" Musical Institution. A commemorative gold medal, accompanied by a magnificently illuminated address, was forwarded to the Maestro on behalf of the musical societies of the town.

The Maestro Verdi, after being variously credited in Italian journals with being engaged upon the composition of a "King Lear" or a "Romeo and Juliet," is now stated in the Trovatore to be conferring with Arrigo Boito respecting the libretto of a comic opera, with Don Quixote for its hero. The foundation for this new rumour is probably as slender as that for the preceding ones, but if it should turn out correct, the veteran master would not stand alone amongst great operatic composers in turning to the comic Muse towards the close of his career.

Signor Emilio Pizzi's opera, "William Ratcliff," performed several times recently at Bologna, appears to meet with the enthusiastic appreciation of his countrymen. Signor Pizzi, who is in his twenty-eighth year, has been the successful competitor for several prizes, both in chamber music and opera, and the present work also obtained the first prize in a competition instituted by Signor Baruzzi, of Genoa, under whose auspices it has just been brought out. In proof of the young composer's earnestness of purpose, it may be mentioned that the score of his "William Ratcliff" was only taken in hand after a nine months' sojourn in Scotland, whither he had gone for the purpose of imparting to his work the proper local colouring.

An elaborate scenic representation of Liszt's Oratorio "St. Elizabeth" will be given on the 22nd inst. at the Vienna Hof-Theater, under the direction of Dr. Hans Richter.

Antonin Dvorák's Second Symphony (Op. 70) was performed at a Berlin Philharmonic Concert on October 28, under direction of Dr. Hans von Bülow, and was extremely well received; the composer, who was present, being summoned to the platform to bow his acknowledgments.

A Slavonic musician, Johann Buwa, the composer of a successful opera, "King Camille," has written a symphonic poem, to which he has given the title of "Saul's evil hour" (in allusion to Byron's poem). The work is written for orchestra, harp, and baritone; and, at a recent special rehearsal at Graz, met with enthusiastic appreciation.

Philipp Rüfer, the composer of an opera, "Merlin," first brought out some years since at the Berlin Opera, is engaged upon a new operatic work, the libretto of which is founded upon Hauff's well-known novel "Lichtenstein."

A series of Lortzing's operas is to be shortly given at the enterprising Hamburg Stadt-Theater, which will include the following works of the genial popular composer—viz., "Hans Sachs," "Casanova," "Czar und Zimmermann," "Undine," "Der Waffenschmied," "Die beiden Schützen," and "Der Wild-Schütz."

We hear from Darmstadt of a highly impressive performance recently given there in memory of the late excellent composer and musical director, Carl Amand Mangold, and consisting principally of one of his most important choral works, entitled "Frithjof," most ably conducted by the court-capellmeister, Herr de Haan.

Anton Rubinstein's oratorio "Paradise Lost" will be produced by the Berlin Cecilia Society on the 2nd inst., under direction of Herr Alexis Hollaender, in celebration of the composer's artistic jubilee, to which reference has already been made in these columns.

Auber's almost forgotten opera "Le cheval de bronze" was revived on the 10th ult., at the Court Theatre of Carlsruhe, the work having been recently revised and newly adapted for the German stage by Herr Humperdinck, of Mayence.

Anton Schott, the well-known German tenor, while recently fulfilling a short engagement with the Königsberg Opera, has, according to the Münchener Theater Anzeiger, diversified his sojourn at the Northern University town by delivering lectures upon the interesting, albeit strictly non-vocal, subject of the cultivation of the American black perch. The genial Wagner-singer, who has not long ago returned from a visit to the United States, it should be added, is also an enthusiastic farmer and piscatorial sportsman.

An interesting sale of autographs is to be held on the 3rd inst., by the firm of J. A. Stargardt, booksellers, of Berlin. The collection includes several musical sketches from the pen of Beethoven, and a number of letters by Ferdinand Hiller, Franz Liszt, Schumann, and Wagner, as well as Schubert's Overture to the opera "Fierabras," arranged for pianoforte duet, and, by the same composer, "Dix variations pour le forte-piano composées par François Schubert. Ecolier de Salieri, premier Maître de la chapelle impériale et royale de Vienne, 1815." Other valuable and curious musical numbers of the collection are Schumann's Op. 76, No. 1, for pianoforte, with the notification at the end (likewise in the composer's handwriting): "den 12 Juni auf dem Weg von Kreischa nach Dresden"; and an Overture entitled "Polonia," by Richard Wagner, on the last page of which the master has written the melody and pianoforte accompaniment to Béranger's lines: "Adieu, charmant pays de France, que je dois tant chérir!"

A model performance of Wagner's "Tannhäuser" is to take place in January or February next at the Dresden Hof-Theater, where the opera was first brought out (in 1845) under Wagner's direction. The noble work is to be newly mounted in every detail, and will be given in the so-called Paris version of the score, and without any curtailment.

Carmen Sylva, the nom-de-plume of the Queen of Roumania, has lately written a series of "Ocean Songs," which have been set to music by Herr August Bungert.

A commemorative tablet has, by order of the municipality, been placed against the house at Munich where Richard Wagner for some time resided.

Wagner's "Lohengrin" is to be produced ere long at Bordeaux, the right of performance having been conceded by the composer's widow to the director of the Grand Théâtre of that town.

The Guide Musical, in a recent number, calls attention to the somewhat extraordinary fact that since the beginning of 1888 no new operatic work has been brought out by the Paris Grand Opéra, the first lyrical stage of France.

At the Paris Châtelet Concerts, under direction of M. Colonne, the fifty-third performance here of Berlioz's "La Damnation de Faust" was given last month. Both at these Concerts and those of M. Lamoureux, fragments from Wagner's operas continue to be included in the weekly programmes, and to be greatly appreciated by the audience.

The late Madame Erard has bequeathed the sum of 20,000 francs to the "Association des artistes musiciens," of Paris.

Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "The Mikado" was performed for the first time at the Stuttgart Hof-Theater, in the German version, and was, as everywhere, exceedingly well received.

The San Carlos Theatre, of Lisbon, has opened its new season of opera with Boito's "Mefistofele"; the present artistic director of the institution is Senhor Augusto Machado, composer of the operas "Doria" and "Laurianne." Among the novelties to be brought out is the work of a Portuguese composer, Senhor Alfredo Gazul, entitled "Frei Luiz de Souza."

The late King Luis, of Portugal, besides being an able scholar, and as such author of an excellent Portuguese version of several of Shakespeare's plays, was also a musical amateur of sound judgment, his favourite instrument, which he played with efficiency, being the violoncello.

One of the last persons decorated by the now ex-Emperor of Brazil was the composer Carlos Gomes, who received the Imperial Order of the Rose in recognition of the great success, at Rio de Janeiro, of his opera "Lo Schiavo," referred to in our last number.

Madame Pauline Viardot, who has been for years in the possession of the original manuscript score of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," has, according to the République Française, notified to the Director of the Paris Conservatoire her intention of bequeathing this precious relic to that institution.

Glinka's "Life for the Czar" was performed for the first time at the Court Theatre of Coburg last month, and was well received.

We have received an interesting brochure from the pen of Professor Hermann Ritter, of Würzburg, entitled "Musik in den Alpen," and giving a sympathetic picture of the music cultivation amongst the unsophisticated inhabitants of the Alpine districts.

We have also received a pamphlet, "Della decadenza dell' arte del canto, delle sue cause e del modo di provvedervi" (G. Ricordi and Co.), which well repays a careful perusal. This is a reprint from the Gazzetta Musicale di Milano.

Julius Bellmann, for many years organist at the Berlin Dome-Stift, and meritorious composer of church music, died at Berlin on the 3rd ult.

Massimiliano Quilici, an Italian composer of good repute, died in his native town, Lucca, on October 18, aged ninety.

The death is announced, at Asnières, of Achille Denis, for many years chief editor of L'Entr'acte and of the Revue et Gazette des Théâtres, aged seventy-two.

Alexandre Jean Cotelte, music publisher, and a member of the late firm of Janet et Cotelte, of Paris, died at that capital last month, at the age of seventy-six.

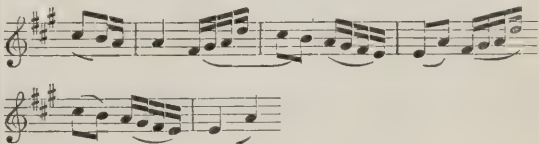

CORRESPONDENCE.

THEMATIC COINCIDENCES.

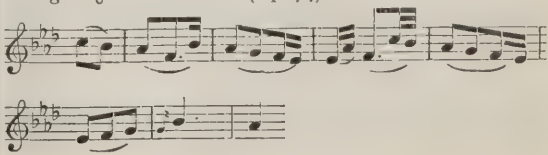

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—As Mr. Bennett, in his letter in "THE MUSICAL TIMES" for November, has invited examples of coincidences between composers, I beg to quote some which have occurred to me:—

1. In the Adagio of Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony the chief theme finishes by a little Coda of four bars—

The model of this will, I think, be found in Beethoven's Stringed Quartet in E flat (Op. 74)—

Or, indeed, still earlier, in the first movement of his Quartet in D (Op. 18, No. 3)—

The similarity is increased by the Coda figure being in each case given twice

2. In the air "In des Lebens Frühlingstagen," in "Fidelio," the melody closes thus—ist das Glück von mir . . . ge-flohn.

Schubert has copied this exactly in his song "Geheimes"— weiss recht wohl was das be-deu . . . te

3. It is odd to find Schumann adopting a phrase from Meyerbeer, to whom he was so antagonistic; but in the chorus in "Faust"—

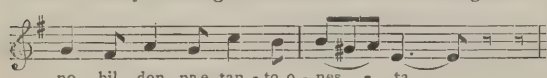

Glück-lich sind wir, Al-len, Al-len ist das

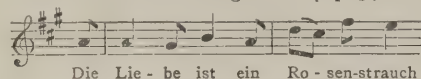

Da-sein so ge-lind . .

there is surely a strong reminiscence of "Nobil Signor"— no-bil don-nae tan-to o-nes-ta . .

as well as in the Duet "Liebesgarten" (Op. 34, No. 1)—

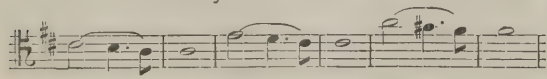

Die Lie-be ist ein Ro-sen-strauch

4. It is equally curious to find Wagner taking a hint from Mendelssohn; and yet it is difficult not to feel that, different as the two are—in the "Fliegende Holländer," must have begun its existence in the second subject of the "Glückliche Fahrt"—

5. It may not be out of place to give an instance of the repetition of a single melody by Beethoven:

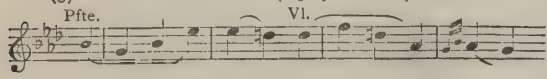

(1) In the Trio of the String Quartet in A (Op. 18, No. 5)—

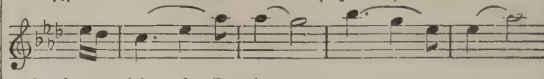

(2) In the Pianoforte and Violin Sonata in G (Op. 30, No. 3)—

(3) In the Trio in E flat (Op. 70, No. 2)—

(4) In the Pianoforte Sonata (Op. 110)—

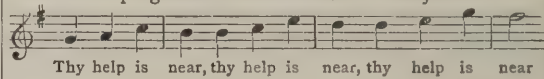

Such repetitions by Beethoven are very rare.

6. The second example in Mr. Bennett's letter can, perhaps, hardly be called a plagiarism, inasmuch as both passages are made up of the old phrase—which has been employed by so many composers, old and modern, as to have become common property.

A similar progression will be found in "Elijah"—

Thy help is near, thy help is near, thy help is near and in the "Pastoral" Symphony—

Lower Sydenham, S.E.,
November 18, 1889.

Yours faithfully,
G. GROVE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

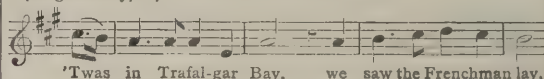

SIR,—The subject started by Mr. J. Bennett is an interesting one, but the examples he cites are very slight in comparison with others I could give. Perhaps one of the most striking likenesses extant is the "Death of Nelson," by J. Braham. Whether the following is a mere "coincidence" I leave your readers to judge.

"Chant du Départ," by Méhul (born 1763). Composed at the period of the first French Revolution.

"Death of Nelson" (Braham).

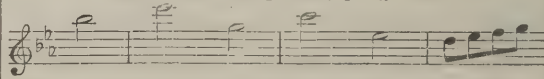

(Original Key, C.)

'Twas in Trafal-gar Bay, we saw the Frenchman lay,

No. 1.

Mendelssohn's String Octet (Op. 20), Finale.

Handel's "Hallelujah" Chorus ("Messiah").

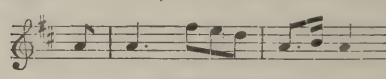

No. 2.

Schubert's song "Morgengruss."

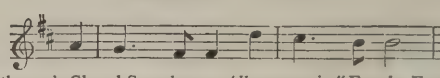

Donizetti's "Fra Poco," from "Lucia di Lammermoor."

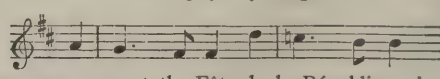

No. 3.

Mendelssohn's "Volkslied."

Beethoven's Choral Symphony—Allegro assai—"Freude, Freude," Theme played by strings.

Some years ago, at the Fête de la République, in Paris, the correspondent of the Globe (London) wrote in high glee that he thought it rather funny that the French should sing the "Death of Nelson" on such an occasion! I told the editor of the paper that his correspondent was not aware that the subjects of both songs are identical, and that the French chant was composed by Méhul during the first Revolution. It happens very often that the same series of notes are so changed by a different rhythm and harmony that what people call the "tune" is not recognised, while, on the other hand, the writer of a totally different tune is accused of plagiarism because the rhythm is the same as the one it is supposed to resemble; then, again, certain people find a likeness which exists only in their imagination. I could say much more on this subject, but it would exceed the space you could allow.—Yours truly,

November 2, 1889.

E. SILAS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Apropos of this subject, the subjoined may be of some interest:—

I.

Dvorák's "Stabat Mater."

E - ia Ma - ter,

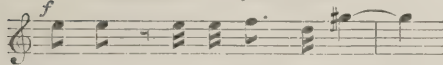

Sullivan's "Golden Legend."

Noc - te sur - gen - tes,

II.

Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise."

Watchman, will the night soon pass? . .

Mendelssohn's Third Organ Sonata in A.

Yours faithfully,

J. W. G. H.

Wincanton, November 20, 1889.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

A. D. C.—There are many books on bell ringing, Gatty and Ellacombe on "Change Ringing," among other works. There is a book published by Curwen and Sons on "Hand-bell Ringing," by C. W. Fletcher.

ANXIOUS.—1. There is no French journal of a similar character to THE MUSICAL TIMES. 2. You had better address a letter to the Conservatoire at Paris.

BOW.—There is no book on the subject. There is a page or two at the end of Brinsmead's "History of the Pianoforte." The songs you mention are all published, but are out of print. You may possibly get copies at White's music shop, Oxford Street, near Regent Circus.

C. C. C. (Baltimore).—Rimbault and Hopkins's "History of the Organ," article "Organ," in Grove's Dictionary.

D. D. L.—It will be best to be guided by your own master in the matter.

E. A. B.—Much obliged for your letter, and your note of the fact that the German Requiem of Brahms was performed for the first time in Leeds by the Philharmonic Society, under the direction of the late James Broughton, at the Town Hall, on December 11, 1878.

JOHN GRIEG.—The list was printed from a notification supplied by the Clerk of the schools. The omission has been supplied.

MUSIC.—1. Mr. Santley is a baritone vocalist. 2. There is not one.

ROUFF.—The pianoforte should be kept closed when not in use. The keys may occasionally be exposed to the light to prevent them turning yellow.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ADELAIDE.—On Tuesday, September 18, a Concert was given in the Town Hall by the members of St. Peter's Cathedral Choir, under Mr. A. Boulton. The object of the Concert was to assist in providing funds for the purchase of a new blowing apparatus for the Cathedral organ. Probably no musical organisation in the city has become more popular than this choir. Its fame has spread to the other colonies. Some time ago Mr. Boulton took his choristers to Melbourne, where at a series of services they gained the highest praise for their rendering of Church music.

ASHTON.—The annual Concert of the members of the Moss Rose Reed Band took place in the Town Hall on the 20th ult. The precision shown in the performance was very commendable. The services of Miss Marjorie Eaton and Miss Alice Bertenshaw had been secured as vocalists. Miss Eaton gave a pleasing rendering of "Love's golden dream," for which she was warmly recalled. Miss Bertenshaw gave a beautiful rendering of Cowen's "Better land," and the duet by Wallace, "Sainted mother," was given by Miss Eaton and Miss Bertenshaw with all requisite pathos. A violin solo, "La Fille du Régiment," was given by Master John E. Platt. The pianoforte accompaniments were skillfully played by Mr. S. A. Platt.

ASHTON-ON-LYNE.—On Wednesday, the 13th ult., an Organ Recital was given at the Parish Church by the Organist, Mr. Irvine Dearnaley. The organ has been rebuilt by Messrs. Wordsworth & Co., of Leeds. It now contains 62 stops and 3,136 pipes, and is blown by a hydraulic engine.

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—Mr. G. A. Paque, son of Mr. P. J. Paque, of Her Majesty's private orchestra, and nephew of the late Mr. G. Paque, the well-known violoncellist and composer, recently made his first appearance as the Conductor of an orchestra, in the performance of an Overture of his own in Auckland, New Zealand. The Antipodes, as the work is called, was exceedingly well received, and is very highly spoken of by the local papers.

BELVEDERE, KENT.—An Organ Recital was given at All Saints' on the 22nd ult., by Mr. Arthur W. Castell, the Organist of the Church. There were also two solos by Mr. Hubbard.

BUCKINGHAM.—The Musical Society has recently entered upon the fourth season of its existence. On the 6th ult. Haydn's Creation was produced. The soloists were Madame Carrie Blackwell, Mr. H. Valentine Jarvis, and Mr. Frank Ward. The chorus, though small, sang very effectively upon the whole, and was accompanied by a small orchestra. The Rev. W. Slater, one of the assistant clergy of the Parish Church, is the Conductor of the Society.

BURNLEY.—Haydn's Third Mass was performed in Brunswick Chapel on the 3rd ult. The solos were entrusted to Misses Horner and Robins and Messrs. Baldwin and Arnold, all of whom acquitted themselves well. The choir (augmented for the occasion) did their share of the work most satisfactorily, the tone and attack (especially of the trebles) being extremely good. Mr. T. Pollard (Organist of the Chapel) conducted and Mr. E. Dunkerley presided at the organ.—Mr. Spencer gave his second Popular Concert on the 16th ult. Master Urele appeared as vocalist and solo violinist, and met with a warm reception. Miss Yates and Messrs. Kendal Thompson and Clough contributed some well-known songs, and the band was heard in some equally familiar pieces. Mr. Broughton was the accompanist and Mr. Spencer the Conductor.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The second Organ Recital in Trinity Church was given, on the 4th ult., by Mr. F. Norman Adams. His programme was very finely rendered. The organ numbers were Grand March, Smart, and Pastorale in G, Salome, with the second Handel Concerto with orchestra. Mr. Marguardt, violinist, gave Sonate in G, Tartini; Air, by Bach; and Ritornello, by Vercini.

DENSTONE.—On the 6th ult. Stainer's Cantata The Crucifixion was given in Denstone College Chapel, in aid of the fund for the completion of the organ by Messrs. Hill & Son. The work was well performed throughout, the unaccompanied quartet, "God so loved the world," being especially good. Mr. R. E. Parker (the Organist of the College) accompanied on the organ.

EARLY, READING.—Mr. H. J. Hendy, Organist of St. Peter's Church, gave his annual Concert in the Early School Room, on the 19th ult. The vocalists were Madame Stringer, Messrs. Frankland, Kettley, Cheesman, A. Attwell and the Early Church Choir. Mr. Hendy was the pianist, and the members of his band gave a good rendering of an Overture by Bellini and a Symphony by Haydn. The programme included two compositions by local musicians (Messrs. J. Old and Hendy, sen.), which were well received.

ENFIELD.—Miss May Smith's Annual Concert took place at the Bycullath Athenaeum, on the 23rd ult., under distinguished patronage. The audience was large and appreciative, and the Concert was in every way a great success. The other performers were Miss Kate Fusselle, Miss Eva Smith, Miss Minnie Kirton, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Routledge Smith, all of whom acquitted themselves with their well-known ability. Master Harold Dickason was solo violinist, and Mr. Bernard Fison accompanied. A large choir, under Mr. F. G. Fitch's conductorship, gave some excellent part-singing during the evening.

GISBOROUGH.—A very successful Concert was given in the Temperance Hall, on the 1st ult., by the Organist, in aid of the fund for enlarging the organ of the Parish Church. The programme was good, and the singers—Miss Setley, Miss Stead, Mr. D. Neville, and Mr. E. P. Stead, of Scarborough, acquitted themselves creditably. The quartet, "Homeland," by Sir Arthur Sullivan, was extremely well rendered. Mr. C. H. Fordham, Organist of the Parish Church, accompanied.

GRAVESEND.—On the 21st ult., at Holy Trinity, an Organ Recital was given by Mr. Arthur W. Castell (Organist and Director of the Choir of All Saints', Belvedere). Two solos were sung by Miss Pinero.

HALIFAX.—Sullivan's Golden Legend was given in the Drill Hall on the 8th ult. The chief feature was the Halifax Choral Society's full chorus of 230 voices, and Sir Charles Hallé's band of fifty-six instrumentalists. The hall was crowded in every part, and many more tickets could have been sold had there been accommodation. The soloists were Miss Pauline Cramer, Miss Dews, Mr. Henry Piercy, Mr. Harry Shepley (of the Halifax Parish Church Choir); and Mr. Watkin Mills. Sir Charles Hallé conducted. Mr. W. H. Garland (the Society's Conductor) and Mr. Thomas Smith presided at the two organs.

HOVERINGHAM FERRY.—A grand evening Concert was given in Baines's Assembly Rooms, on the 7th ult., in aid of the Church Organ Fund. The vocalists were Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Miss Silverwood, Miss Aline Starey, the Rev. C. F. G. Turner, the Rev. H. W. Wynne Foulkes, Mr. Bromley, and Mr. Bingley Shaw. Solo harp, Miss Starey; solo violin, Miss A. Starey; accompanist and solo pianoforte, Mr. Bernard Wilcockson.

HULL.—Mr. Isitt, and the band of the Hull Artillery Volunteer Corps, in order to raise funds for the Hull Royal Infirmary, gave a Concert at Hengler's Circus, on the 15th ult. The building was filled in every part, the higher priced seats being specially crowded. The programme was a pleasing one and was well carried out. The performances of the band, under Mr. Isitt's able leadership, was highly appreciated. Miss Clara Jackson, Madame Gray, Mr. Charles Kenningham, who was heartily received, and Mr. Mark Moon were the vocalists. A novel feature of the Concert was the mandoline playing of Miss Boulton-Gray. Mr. F. J. Harper was the accompanist and pianoforte soloist.

ILFORD.—The fifth season of the Ilford Vocal Union was opened on the 31st ult., by a performance of Rossini's Stabat Mater and Schubert's Song of Miriam. The principals being—for the former work—Miss Kate Fusselle, Miss Minnie Kirton, Mr. Herbert Clinch, and Mr. James Blackney; and for the latter, Miss Kate Fusselle. The chorus singing was remarkably good, particularly in the last number of the Stabat Mater and the choral parts of the Song of Miriam. The band of the Vocal Union, with some professional assistance, accompanied the works. Mr. A. Storr was the Conductor.

JERSEY.—The twelfth of a series of Organ Recitals was given in St. Mark's Church, on the 11th ult., by Mr. C. E. R. Stevens, Organist and Director of the Choir. The vocalists were Masters H. Hart, J. Godrich, and Messrs. H. and C. Spencer.

LUTON.—On Monday, the 4th ult., the choir in connection with the Chapel Street Church gave a very fine rendering of Mendelssohn's Hear my Prayer and other pieces. The soloists were Miss Ethel Bevans, Mrs. J. Day, Miss Kate Parkins, Mr. H. Lockhart, Mr. Percy Elliott (violin); chorus, 150 strong; Mr. A. D. Farmer (Organist), Mr. Sidney Bennett (Conductor).

MAIDENHEAD.—The Philharmonic Society gave their first Concert of the season in the Town Hall, on the 5th ult. The principal works in the programme were Mendelssohn's Hear my Prayer and Loreley, Bennett's Barcarolle and Finale from the F minor Pianoforte Concerto, Mozart's G minor Symphony, Schubert's Ballet Music from Rosamunde, &c. The vocalist was Miss Kate Fusselle. Mr. S. D. Grimson led the orchestra, and Mr. J. G. Wrigley conducted.

MAIDSTONE.—An Organ Recital was given on the 1st ult., at the Parish Church, by Mr. S. Bath, the Organist. The programme consisted of pieces by Bach, Haydn, Deshayes, Guilman, S. Bath, and Handel.

MANSFIELD AND SUTTON.—The United Harmonic Societies gave a performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah, in the Wesleyan Chapel, on the 20th ult. The principal vocalists were Miss Honeybone, Miss Florence Bourne, Mr. Chas. W. Fredericks, and Mr. J. G. Hewson. The band and chorus numbered 150 performers. Mr. J. H. Parkes was the leader, Mr. Arthur W. Speed was the Organist, and Mr. Arthur Howard Bonser was the Conductor.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—The attendance at Saturday afternoon's Concert at the Exhibition on September 28 was one of the largest yet observed at these performances. Mendelssohn's Ruy Blas Overture, perhaps the finest of all, commenced, and was given by the Victorian Orchestra with precision and musical taste. The third set of Brahms's Hungarian dances, played for the first time in Melbourne, came next, and Mr. Hamilton Clarke got his players to give a most excellent and well-shaded reading; the various capricious modifications of time and rhythm were neatly and clearly marked. Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony was received with loud and general applause. Mr. Clarke's reading was careful and artistic. At the conclusion the Conductor was loudly applauded, and bowed his thanks. Sterndale Bennett's exquisite Wood Nymphs Overture was well played. The Mignon Gavotte was given with the crispest delicacy, and was encored. Wagner's Tannhäuser March concluded a fine Concert.

MIDDLETON.—The Dedication Services were held on the 10th ult., at St. Leonard's Parish Church, to celebrate the 477th anniversary of the present building. The musical part of the services was under the direction of the Choirmaster, Mr. James F. Slater.

NEWARK.—A Pianoforte Recital was given in the Town Hall on the 5th ult., by Mr. W. Drury, formerly a student at the Royal Academy of Music. Mr. Drury had secured the services of Mr. Bingley Shaw (formerly of Southwell Cathedral, and recently returned from Paris) as vocalist and Miss Norledge (of the Leipzig Conservatorium and Royal College of Music), solo violinist.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—A meeting for the promotion of the Durham College of Science Musical Society has just been held in the College Rooms, under the presidency of Mr. Albert Nagel, and it was resolved to form a Society, which should consist of two departments.—1. A choral department for the practice of part-songs, cantatas, &c. 2. A solo and instrumental department. All students of the College will be eligible as honorary or active members. Weekly meetings for practice will be held, and performances given both public and private. In connection with the Society, Mr. Josiah Booth delivered a most enjoyable lecture on "The Humorous in Music" to a crowded audience. The lecture was most enthusiastically received, and the illustrations delightfully given. Principal Garnet, who occupied the chair, said he hoped that out of the Society there would grow a faculty of music which would be in connection with our Northern University.—Madame Albani had a splendid reception on her appearance here at the Police Concert, the Town Hall being crowded to the doors.

NORWICH.—On Tuesday, the 12th ult., a special Musical Service was held at St. Michael-at-Plea Church, when Mr. Alfred Redhead, Organist of St. Augustine's, Kiburn, gave a Recital on the new organ recently erected by Messrs. Norman Bros. & Beard.

OLDHAM.—The St. Cecilia Musical Society gave a Concert on the 11th ult., when a miscellaneous selection of vocal pieces was successfully performed. Mr. S. Wainhouse was the accompanist, and Mr. James Slater was the Conductor.

OXFORD.—Mr. John Greig, Organist and Choirmaster of Free St. Cuthbert's Church, Edinburgh, has proceeded to the degree of Doctor of Music in the University of Oxford, for which he had qualified after examination. His exercise, an Oratorio, Zion, was performed in the Sheldonian Theatre before the members of the University, on October 24.

PORTMADOC.—The Choral Society, assisted by the local String Band, gave a very successful Concert on the 19th ult. The Assembly Room was filled in every part. The performance of Mozart's Twelfth Mass occupied the first part of the programme, the solos being sung by Miss Hannah Davies, Miss A. J. Willrain, Mr. J. J. Thomas, and Mr. B. Williams. The second part was a miscellaneous selection, including Romance and Rondo (Wieniawski), splendidly played by Mr. Theodore Lawson; Gounod's Serenade, well sung by Miss H. Davies; and the Overtures La Sièvre (Auber) and "Morning, morn, and night" (Suppé). Mr. Lawson led the band and Mr. J. Roberts conducted.

SHEPHERNESS.—A Choral Society has recently been formed here, and about 150 persons have already enrolled themselves as members. Mr. W. H. Shrubsole is Conductor, and Mr. H. E. Brightman, Hon. Secretary. The Utrecht Jubilate and other works are now being rehearsed.

SHEFFIELD.—Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise and Gade's Crusaders were the works selected for performance by the Upperthorpe Musical Society at its first Concert of the season on the 15th ult. The chorus of the Society is a fair specimen of an enthusiastic, well-trained Yorkshire choir, and both in Mendelssohn's and in Gade's works its reputation was worthily maintained. The symphonic portion of the Hymn of Praise was well given by the orchestra, and the soloists were Miss Sylvia Wardell, Miss Jessie Sawyer, and Mr. E. Kemp. Mr. S. Johnson undertook the bass solos in Gade's work. Mr. J. Peck led the band, the Rev. J. T. Parkin was Organist, and Mr. J. Beaumont conducted.

TENBURY.—The Musical Society gave the second Concert of its nineteenth season in the Corn Exchange Hall, on the 14th ult. As usual at these performances, the chorus was put to a severe test, but came through the ordeal bravely. Every point in the difficult works was taken up with the greatest precision, and the utmost attention was bestowed upon the lights and shades, so that the most captious critic must have gone away disarmed. Miss Murray, at a very short notice, sang the difficult music which falls to the lot of the soloist in the Song of Balder. In "La Serenata" she was ably seconded by Mr. Watkis in the obbligato violin part. The vocalists were the Revs. A. H. S. Patrick and E. Fleming, Mr. W. Anstie, who sang Pinski's well-known song "It is I"; and Mr. Kenneth Macaulay, a former pupil at the College, who gave with great vigour a song by Gumbert, "If'er the meads." A small band, led by Mr. Watkis, accompanied the Cantatas, and played two Overtures in capital style. The Rev. J. Hampton was Conductor.

WARRINGTON.—The Musical Society of this town, with a choir of 120 members and orchestra, gave its first Concert for the season on the 15th ult. Cowen's Song of Thanksgiving, Weber's The Three Seasons, and other works were introduced, interspersed with some excellent solo singing by members of the Society, especially by Miss W. Dampier Jeans, who sang Blumenthal's charming "Sleepest thou still" with exquisite taste and expression. Miss Riley gave the soprano solos in Weber's Cantata with great steadiness and power, and Mrs. Pearson, Miss Unsworth, Rev. Winder, Mr. W. H. Wallington, and Mr. Eccles amply pleased their friends. Mr. E. Townshend Driffield, the Hon. Organist to the Society, ably presided at an instrument which much needs repair or displacement; and Dr. Hiles conducted, as usual.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—The first Concert of the Festival Choral Society's twenty-second series was given in the Agricultural Hall, on the 5th ult., and consisted of a performance of Macfarren's beautiful Cantata The Lady of the Lake, with Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Hope Glenn, Mr. Iver McKay, Mr. Robert Grice, and Mr. D. Harrison as principals, a band and chorus of 250 performers, and Dr. Swinnerton Heap as Conductor.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. G. Franklin Ashley, Organist and Choirmaster to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle.—Mr. Arthur C. Brooks, Organist and Choirmaster to St. John's Parish Church, Sligo, Ireland.—Mr. C. T. Davis, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints', Torquay.—Mr. C. T. Danton, to the English Church at Algiers for the season 1889-90.—Mr. J. Matthews, to St. Stephen's, Guernsey.—Mr. Henry Glasspool, to Barry Road Wesleyan Church, East Dulwich.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Henry A. Hughes, Choirmaster to St. Mary's Church, Stamford Brook, W.—Mr. Alfred Pawsey (Solo Alto), to St. Barnabas Church, Addison Road, Kensington, W.—Mr. Herbert Dyer (Tenor), to St. James's, Paddington.—Mr. Albert F. Upstone (Tenor), to Streatham Hill Congregational Church.

DEATH.

On the 8th ult., SUSANNA ROYLANCE, the beloved wife of CHARLES ROYLANCE, aged 41 years.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

GOUNOD, CHARLES.—"The Redemption." A Sacred Trilogy. Full Score. 63s.

BACH, JOHN SEBASTIAN.—"Jesus, now will we praise Thee." A Sacred Cantata for New Year's Day. The English Version by the Rev. Dr. TROUTBECK. 1s.

RUTENBER, CHARLES B.—"Divine Love." A Church Oratorio. 2s. 6d.

RITTER, FRÉDÉRIC LOUIS.—"Musical Dictation." A practical guide for Musical Students. Part 2. (No. 30, Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers, edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.) 2s.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Pibroch" (Suite). For Violin Solo with orchestral accompaniment. Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte by the Composer. Op. 42. 6s.

READ, J. F. H.—"In the Forest." Cantata for Baritone Solo, Chorus of Male Voices, and Orchestra. Poetry by V. AMCOTTS. 1s.

PARSONS, B.—"The Crusader." A Dramatic Cantata with English and Welsh words. 3s. 6d.

STANFORD, CHARLES VILLIERS.—Trio in E flat major. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 35. 10s. 6d.

BROEKHOVEN, JOHN A.—A System of Harmony for Teacher and Pupil. Paper cover, 3s.; cloth, 4s. 6d.

WARREN, GEORGE WILLIAM.—Hymns and Tunes, as sung at St. Thomas's Church, New York. Cloth, 7s. 6d.

DOSSERT, FRANK G.—(in E minor). Mass. 5s. Vocal parts, 6s.

BRIDGER, JOHN H.—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. A short Festival Setting, suitable for Parish Choirs. 3d.

STANFORD, CHARLES VILLIERS.—(in F, with the greater third). The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion (Op. 36). 2s. Or, singly, No. 1. Te Deum laudamus, 4d.; 2. Benedictus, 4d.; 3. Jubilate Deo, 3d.; 4. Kyrie eleison; 5. Before the Gospel; 6. After the Gospel; 7. Credo; 8. Sursum Corda; 9. Sanctus; 10. Gloria in excelsis; 11. After the Benediction, 1s.; 12. Magnificat; 13. Nunc dimittis, 4d.

LANGLAND, REBECCA.—Benedicite, omnia Opera. Arranged to Chants. 2d.

SPAIN, HENRY.—Benedicite, omnia Opera. In Chant form. 2d.

VINCENT, CHARLES.—(in D). Te Deum laudamus. Chant form. (Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 51.) 3d.

DICKS, ERNEST A.—Two Christmas Carols. "Ring, Christmas Bells," and "See a light celestial flushing." Words by LETTICE DOWNING. 2d.

FISHER, ARTHUR C.—"God, that madest earth and heaven." Anthem for Soprano solo and chorus. (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 342.) 2d.

FRYE, FREDERICK R.—"'Tis the day, the blessed day." Christmas Carol. 2d.

GILBERT, WALTER B.—Church Music, consisting of Services and Anthems. Various prices.

HALL, E. V.—"Hark, the herald angels sing." Anthem for Christmas. (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 345.) 3d.

HULTON, F. EVERARD W.—The General Thanksgiving, as used at St. Luke's, Chelsea. 2d.

LAHEE, H.—"O Lord, rebuke me not." Anthem for Lent. (Novello's Short Anthems, No. 15.) 1½d.

HUSS, GEORGE J.—"Great are Thy tender mercies." Motet for S.A.T.B., a capella, adapted to Bach's Fugue in E major, No. 33. 4d.

MAXFIELD, W. HENRY.—"In the beginning was the Word." Full Anthem for Christmas or general use. 4d.

MEE, JOHN H.—"God, who at sundry times." Anthem for Christmas. (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 344.) 4d.

POPHAM, VYVYAN WALLIS.—"Shepherds in the field abiding." A Christmas Carol. 3d.

SCHOLEFIELD, C. C., & W. AUSTIN LEIGH.—A Wedding Hymn. (Two settings.) The words written by A. C. AINGER. 3d.

SPEER, W. H.—"Hail, happy day." A Christmas Carol. Words by Rev. Jesse Brett. 3d.

WOODWARD, H. H.—"Rejoice greatly." Anthem for Advent. (Novello's Short Anthems, No. 14.) 1½d.

BARRETT, W. ALEXANDER.—"Cynthia." Four-Part Song. (Novello's Part-Song Book, No. 576.) 3d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

GARTH, R. MACHILL.—"The Charge of the Light Brigade." A dramatic setting for Chorus and Orchestra. The words by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 1s. Tonic Sol-fa edition. 4d.

HAM, ALBERT.—"The Cuckoo." Two-part Song. The Words by LOGAN. 2d.

READ, J. F. H.—Monoux School Song. The Words by LOUIS B. TISDALE. 6d.

CROWE, EYRE A.—"Arethusa." Song. The Words written by SHELLEY. 2s.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—"The wondrous Cross." A Sacred Song for Baritone or Mezzo-Soprano. The words by Dr. WATTS. 2s.

TOLLEMACHE, W. J.—"On Parting." Song. The Words by LORD BYRON. 1s.

— "That Day." Song. The Words by ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING. 1s. 6d.

YOUNG, WILLIAM J.—"The Power of Song." Ballad. 2s.

BELCHER, W. T.—The Clarion March. For the Pianoforte. 2s.

BOYSE, ARTHUR.—Transcriptions for the Organ: No. 20. O rest in the Lord MENDELSSOHN 6d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-Fa NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT. No. 674. In these delightful pleasant groves. HENRY PURCELL 1d.

" 676. The Nightingale THOMAS BATESON 1d.

" 677. The Young May Moon M. W. BALFE 1d.

" 678. The Lass of Richmond Hill .. JAMES HOOK 1d.

PARRY, C. H. H.—"Ode on St. Cecilia's Day." 1s.

PEACE, A. L.—"John the Baptist." 1s.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Theatres v. Music Halls	713
The Great Composers—Handel	714
Music and Society	716
Forthcoming Novelties	717
Occasional Notes	718
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	720
Royal Choral Society	723
London Symphony Concerts	724
Crystal Palace	724
Sir Charles Halle's Concerts	725
Wind Instrument Society	725
Popular Concerts	725
Royal Academy of Music	726
London Ballad Concerts	726
Musical Guild	727
Borough of Hackney Choral Association	727
Musical Association	727
Dr. Mackenzie's Violin Concerto at Berlin	727
Giacomo Puccini's Opera "Le Villi"	727
Obituary	728
Music in Birmingham	728
Blackburn	729
Bristol	729
Dublin	730
Glasgow and the West of Scotland	730
Leeds	730
Liverpool and District	731
Manchester	731
Nottingham	732
South Wales	741
The West of England	741
America	742
General News (London)	742
Reviews	744
Foreign Notes	744
Correspondence	745
Answers to Correspondents	747
General News (Country)	747
List of Music published during the last Month	749

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Two Lines	£ s. d.
Three Lines	0 3 0
For every additional Line	0 0 10
Half a Column	2 0 0
A Column	4 0 0
A Page	7 10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Advertisements for the January Number should reach the Office not later than December 22, as, in consequence of the Christmas Holidays, it will be necessary to go to Press considerably earlier than usual.

Now ready.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, with various improvements and many additional Chants, of THE PSALTER, arranged for Chanting. With appropriate English Chants. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. Edition I., in Post 8vo, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 2s. Edition II., in Foolscap 4to, large type, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 4s.

Edition III., in Imperial 32mo. Words only. Cloth, 9d. With Proper Psalms, 1s. The Proper Psalms separately, 3d.

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE CANTICLES, &c. First Series.
I. Post 8vo, chants in short score. 6d.
II. Foolscap 4to, chants in short score. 1s.
III. In 32mo. Words only. 1½d.

When this new Edition is required, instead of the original Work (which is on sale in all its original forms), orders should be specific for "REVISED EDITION."

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of the ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. A Collection of Single Chants, Ancient and Modern, appropriated to the Daily Psalms, Canticles, and Hymns in the Book of Common Prayer. The Chants correspond with those of the "Psalter," and are similarly numbered. Edited by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 8vo, in paper cover, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d. Foolscap 4to, large type, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MISS EVA LIND (Soprano)

(Pupil of Signor Bonetti).

For Classical and Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 25A, Argyl Street, Oxford Circus; or, care of Binfield's, 159, Friar Street, Reading.

MISS VERKRÜZEN (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 392, Stretford Road, Manchester; or, Messrs. Forsyth Bros., 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. GEO. DENHAM (Baritone).

21, Canonbury Lane, N.; or, "The Downs," Dane Park, Ramsgate. "Splendid voice." "His rendering was absolutely grand," &c.

MR. CHARLES FRY recites THE DREAM OF JUBAL (MacKenzie), ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, ŒDIPUS (Mendelssohn), PRECIOUSA (Weber), THE DESERT (David). Belmont, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Park, N.W.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano), of Nottingham.—

Engagements booked: Mansfield, "Elijah"; Rugby, "Messiah"; Gainsboro, "Messiah"; Loughboro, Sacred Concert; Hugglescote, Sacred Concert; Nottingham, Ballads; Sacred Harmonic Society, Nottingham, "Faust" and "Elijah." For terms and vacant dates, address, W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, London; or, Miss Honeybone, Nottingham.

MISS MAUD LESLIE (Soprano) desires that all communications respecting Concert engagements, &c., be addressed to her residence, 41, Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS ELIZA THOMAS (Contralto). Low terms for Concerts in the North on December 13, 16, 18, or 19. Engaged: Newcastle, December 14; Stockton-on-Tees, December 17. Eastholme, Church Road, Willesden, N.W.

VIOLA for CHAMBER MUSIC.—MISS EDITH WERGE, 11A, Berners Street, W., accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Chamber Music, Concerts, Private Rehearsals, &c.

MR. G. BANKS begs that all Communications respecting Engagements be addressed, Kelvin Grove; or, The Cathedral, Hereford.

"MR. EVAN EVANS'S well-cultured Tenor was heard to great advantage in "Waiting," &c.—Surrey Comet, Nov. 23, 1889. Open for Oratorio, Ballad, and Smoking Concerts, &c. Address, Norman Hurst, Princes Road, Teddington.

MR. HOLBERRY HAGYARD will sing, Nov. 21, Liverpool ("Elijah"); Dec. 3, Darwen ("Creation"); 4, Birkenhead Subscription Concerts; 6, Hedingham ("Emmanuel"); 9, Cambridge; 10, Dunmow ("Rose Maiden"); 11, Brighouse ("Messiah"); 12, St. Ives ("Selection"); 17, Redhill ("Samson"); 19, Swansea (Ballads); 26, Chesterfield ("Messiah"); 27, Derby ("Messiah"). 1890: Sudbury, Wisbeach, Manchester, Accrington, &c. For terms, address, Principal Tenor, Trinity College, Cambridge; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor), Engaged: Dec. 2, Newbroughton (Ballads); 3, Harrogate ("Lay of the Bell," &c.); 7, Bradford (Ballads); 12, Southport ("Stabat Mater" and "Bonnie Kilmeny"); 14, Liverpool (Ballads); 16, Colne ("Messiah"); 17, Rawtenstall ("Messiah"); 19, Southport ("Messiah"); 21, Littleboro' ("Messiah"); 25, Blackburn ("Messiah"); 26, Liverpool ("Messiah"). For terms, &c., apply, Summerfield, Leicester Street, Southport.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM (Tenor, Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral) begs to announce that he has REMOVED to Orpheus Lodge, Coniger Road, Parson's Green, S.W., and that he is booking engagements for Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. "Last Judgment," "Messiah," "Prodigal Son," "Hymn of Praise," "Judas," &c., already booked. Address as above. Mr. ALFRED KENNINGHAM can provide SOLO CHOIR BOYS, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Banquets, &c. Address as above.

MR. T. WILFORD PRICE (Bass, St. Alban's, Holborn), for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Répertoire includes "Elijah," "Messiah," "Creation," "St. Paul," "Judas Maccabeus," "Last Judgment," "Stabat Mater," "Crucifixion," "Woman of Samaria," "Daughter of Jairus," "Holy City," "Christ and His Soldiers," "Golden Legend," "The Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," "Erl-King's Daughter," "May Queen," "Acis and Galatea," "Ruth." Engaged: November 3, 6, 7, 12, 13, 14, 18, 19, 20, 21, 25, 26, 27, December 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 14, 18. January 15, February 5, 26, March 19. Address for engagements, 75, Kent House Road, Sydenham.

MR. CHAS. F. WESTOBY (Accompanist) (Baritone vocalist). Concerts, Musical Evenings, At Homes, Banquets, private practice, &c. Address, 37, Gloucester Place, Portman Square.

MR. GODFREY HOLBECH.—TYMPANI, DRUMS, &c. 28, Leicester Square, W.C.

THE BROOKLYN GLEE UNION (Alto, Tenor, and Bass) may be Engaged for Concerts, Dinners, &c. For terms, apply to Mr. H. Tuddenham, 304, Regent Street, W.

PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIST (Vocal and Instrumental).—A Lady, perfect Sight Reader, offers her services for expenses only. Professionals, Amateurs, Societies, Concerts, At Homes, Practices, &c. H., care of R. A. Knight and Co., 12, Abchurch Lane, E.C.

UNION CHAPEL, Islington.—DR. PEACE, of Glasgow Cathedral and St. Andrew's Hall, will give an ORGAN RECITAL at this Church, on FRIDAY EVENING, Dec. 13, at 8 o'clock. Vocalist: Miss Alice Gones. Admission only by tickets. One Shilling, and a few at Sixpence each; to be obtained of the Chapel-keeper, Compton Avenue, or of Mr. King, Music Warehouse, Highbury Corner.

OPENING of NEW ORGAN (WILLIS), St. Jude's Church, Commercial Street, E. (Aldgate Station).—SPECIAL SERVICE, at 8 p.m., on THURSDAY, Dec. 5, Purcell's Anthem, "O give Thanks"; Villiers Stanford's Te Deum; Bach's Toccata and Fugue in Dorian Mode and Prelude on Choral, "Schmücke dich, O liebe Seele"; Saint-Saëns's Rhapsodie in E, &c.

A PREPARATORY SCHOOL will receive at reduced terms THREE or FOUR BOYS who are good Singers. They must be sons of gentlemen, and qualified to take a good position in the School. R. S. LEA, Higham, Nuneaton.

PRO-CATHEDRAL CHOIR BOYS.—Owing to the reduction of the Choir, Six first-class Boys will be open for RE-ENGAGEMENT at Christmas. Address, Mr. Charles Radburn, Auckland Hill, West Norwood, S.E.

BOYS.—WANTED, several first-class SOPRANOS for Special Services only. Fee, One Guinea each service. Master Bensley, please send your address. Apply, by letter, Organist, 78, Drayton Gardens, S.W.

CHOIRMEN.—WANTED, TENOR for Church in West London. £10. Plain service. Two services; Thursday practice. Bus passes Church. Call at once on Mr. Mapton, 51, Frithville Gardens, Shepherd's Bush; after 6.

ALTO WANTED, at once. Parish Church, Grove Park, Chiswick, W. Address (stating salary required, also sending testimonials), to Hon. Sec., 10, Wolsley Gardens, Gunnersbury, W.

ALTO, TENOR, and BASS WANTED, for St. James's Church, Piccadilly. Salary, £12. Apply by letter, to Mr. R. E. Miles, 10, Albion Road, Lewisham, S.E.

ST. PANCRAS CHURCH CHOIR.—There is a VACANCY for a TENOR VOICE in the above choir. Stipend, £12 per annum. Applications, with references, to be sent to Organist, 3, Gordon Place, Gordon Square, before December 14.

ST. PETER'S, Eaton Square.—ALTOS, TENORS, BASSES (Voluntary) REQUIRED, in this Choir. Only good Readers with good Voices need apply to Mr. Sergison, St. Peter's Vestry, Eaton Square, S.W.

SOLO ALTO.—MR. CHARLES RADBURN, Principal Alto, Pro-Cathedral (late of St. Andrew's, Westminster), is open for CHURCH APPOINTMENT at Christmas. Address, Auckland Hill, West Norwood, S.E.

ALTO, TENOR, and BASS WANTED, at St. Augustine and St. Faith, Old Change. Services, Cathedral. Sundays, 11 a.m. and 7 a.m.; Christmas Day, Good Friday. Weekly practice, Friday, 8 p.m. Salary, £10 per annum. Apply to Rev. W. H. Milman, Lion College, Victoria Embankment, E.C.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—Mr. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, receives YOUTHS to EDUCATE as ORGANISTS and CHOIRMASTERS. Mr. Sergison's Course offers special advantages that are not attainable at any London Academy for this particular branch, besides the general cultivation of the Arts. Further particulars will be supplied on personal application only. Address, 62, Warwick Square, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, at the Presbyterian Church, Wandsworth. Salary, £25. Address, J. Hart, 55, Montserrat Road, Putney.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT. N. London preferred. Moderate salary. Organist, Dantzie House, Finchley, N.

ORGANIST desires ENGAGEMENT after Christmas. Experienced; excellent testimonials. Nominal stipend only required. Address, A. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

ORGANIST and MUSIC MASTER (Resident) WANTED, for next term, commencing January 27, for the School House, Beaconsfield, Bucks. Must be a good performer and careful, painstaking master. Address, enclosing copies of testimonials and stating salary required, to the Headmaster, as above.

ASSISTANT and TUNER desires SITUATION. Steady and reliable. Good Pianist, and reads music at sight. Full particulars, Presto, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, for country outdoor work. Permanency. Must be a thoroughly efficient man. Apply, C. E. Godfrey and Co., Southsea.

WANTED, a good TUNER and REPAIRER of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums. Must be steady and reliable. Permanent situation. State age, experience, references, &c., photo, to H. M. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an IMPROVER to the TUNING and REPAIRING DEPARTMENT, and capable of trying over Pianos. References, age, salary, and photo, Bruton and Co., Pianoforte Warehouse, Weston-super-Mare.

PARTNER WANTED, in a well-established country business. Good tuner, with knowledge of American Organs, Harmoniums, &c. Good opening for Teaching, especially Violin. Small capital required. Y. Z. T., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO SERVE in SHOP.—Good Tuner. Do small Repairs. London, or near, preferred. Good references. K, 278, North End Road, Fulham, S.W.

A GENTLEMAN who has a long-established TEACHING (Piano) CONNECTION at a Sea-side town, would be glad to meet with some one to whom he could dispose of the same. An exceptionally good opening for one who could play the Piano well. M. N., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ASSISTANT WANTED, for small Branch. Must know the Catalogues and be a good Pianist. A good opening for an energetic young man. Apply, 16, High Street, Walthamstow.

WANTED, SITUATION as IMPROVER in MUSIC BUSINESS. Twelve months' experience. No salary required. Good reference. A. B., Mr. Phillips, Music Warehouse, Teddington.

OLD-ESTABLISHED MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE, in the N.W. district. Proprietor retiring. Stock, tunings, and goodwill, £300. Address, H. H., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSORS of MUSIC are informed that there is always at the Grand Piano Depot, 19 and 21, Newman Street, Oxford Street, a STOCK of genuine Second-hand GRAND and SEMI-GRAND PIANOS by BROADWOOD, ERARD, and COLLARD, in condition like new, at moderate cash prices. Unusually liberal commissions.

PIANOFORTE REPAIRER, who can also Tune and repair Harmoniums and American Organs, WANTED. Apply, with names of references, to Methven, Simpson and Co., Dundee.

TO MUSICSELLERS.—Gentleman, with twelve years' business experience in Music Trade, seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. First-class references. Kindly apply to C. E., 22, Redburn Street, Chelsea, S.W.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—Special opportunity. Now being taken down to make way for a larger instrument. Manuals, CC to G; Pedals, CCC to F.

Great Organ, 735 pipes }
Swell " 624 " } 1,450.
Pedal " 90 " }
Couplers and Composition Pedals. Builder, ROBSON; date, about 1855. A very low figure would be taken for this Organ. For further particulars, apply to Kentish, The Glebe, Lee, Kent.

A. MONK, Organ Builder. Works and Show-rooms, 550, Holloway Road, London. ORGANS guaranteed to be constructed of first-class materials and workmanship at the most reasonable prices. The most valuable selection of high-class stops, and the most complete and perfect in scales. A. MONK's Patent Improved Tubular Pneumatic Actions. Quicker in repetition and more expressive than all others, and will do a perfect shake at a long distance. Organists invited to call and try a sample put to a severe test, such as others fail at, to an Organ with an 11-stop Swell. A variety of new and second-hand Organs kept in stock for sale, or hire, or on easy terms. Tuners sent to all parts of the kingdom. Additions, alterations, re-building, and repairs. Estimates and price lists sent free. Inspection invited to view the Works, and Organs in course of construction, and the large stock of seasoned materials.

F. C.O.—The "COLLEGE" PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS are the only Instruments at which an Organist can find himself "at home." Built to any specification. One, two, and three manuals. High-class testimonials. Prices, &c., of the Makers, ED. SNELL and Co., 32, Ledbury Road, Bayswater, W.

ORGAN for SALE, by GERN. Nearly new. Two manuals. Compass, CC to G; 15 stops. Spotted metal. Separate pedal organ on the tubular pneumatic principle. Also a smaller Two-manual Organ, with 8 stops, for £60. Apply to E. Barnes, 227, Camden Road, N.W.

FOR SALE, a Two-manual ORGAN, CC to G. Nearly new. Suitable for small Church or Chapel. 14 stops, independent pedal organ, and two composition pedals. To be seen on application to R. Slater, 112, Odessa Road, Forest Gate, E.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD, LONDON,

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, W.C.

PATRONS:

The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of BEDFORD.
The Venerable Archdeacon HERSEY, D.D., D.C.L.
The Rev. Canon CARTER, M.A.
Sir GEORGE ELVEY, Mus. Doc.
FREDERICK H. COWEN, Esq.

PRESIDENT:

Sir HERBERT OAKELEY, M.A., Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

FOR ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, AND CHORISTERS.

LECTURES.

Nov. 14, 5 p.m.—"Is it desirable to observe the various stops (periods) in Chanting?" STOCKS HAMMOND, B.A., F.S.A.

Dec. 9, 7 p.m.—"The best treatment of the Canticles for Congregational use." FREDERICK J. KARN, Mus. Doc.

January 9, 1890, 5 p.m.—"Our Choristers." C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac.

Annual Conference.—January 16, 1890.—Sir George Elvey, Mus. Doc., in the Chair.

A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Examinations, January 15 and 16, 1890. For further particulars, address, The Warden, J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., 2, St. George's Villas, Queen's Road, Twickenham, London, S.W.

By order of the Council,

C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

GUILD OF ORGANISTS.

Patron: THE RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF LONDON.

President: SIR HERBERT OAKELEY, Mus. Doc., LL.D.

The Offices of the Guild are now at BURLINGTON HALL, SAVILE ROW, W.

COMPETITIONS.

A prize of 5 guineas will be given for the best Organ piece, either an Andante or Postlude (in the Sonata form preferred).

A prize of 5 guineas will be given for the best full short Anthem for general use, taking about five minutes in performance, words to be selected from Authorised Version.

The selected Anthem and Organ Piece will become the property of the Guild.

The Council reserve to themselves the right to withhold the prizes should neither Anthem nor Organ Piece be considered of sufficient merit.

The Competitions are open to Associates and Members of the Guild only, and will close January 31, 1890.

The next Examination for F.Gld. O. will take place on January 21 and 22, 1890. Last day for entering names, January 16, 1890.

For prospectus and form of application for Membership, address the Secretary.

J. T. FIELD, Sub-Warden.

MORETON HAND, Hon. Sec.

Just published. "A Gem, certain to be liked."

SLEEP, HOLY CHILD! a Christmas Carol. Words and Music by ARTHUR WHITLEY. Price One Penny. BEAL and Co., 231, Oxford Street, W.

SHEFFIELD SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION.—Whitsuntide, 1890. — Original TUNES, and Suggestions for Selected TUNES and HYMNS, are respectfully solicited. The Committee do not undertake to adopt any, and no payment will be made whether adopted or not. Address, before December 31, 1889, Mr. C. B. Hobbs, 53, Brunswick Street, Sheffield.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS, by F. W. DAWKINS. THE CHRISTMAS STARS ARE SHINING. (New.) THROUGH THE MIDNIGHT AIR. (5th Thousand.) Price 2d. each; Words only, 1s. per 100. "Bright and pretty airs, harmonies very agreeable."—Surrey Comet. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WEBSTER'S GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. 2nd Edition. "The examination questions are searching and well chosen."—See The Musical Standard, January 28, 1888. "A thoroughly useful work."—See Graphic, March 3, 1888.

WEBSTER'S MUSIC COPYBOOK. "An item of education which deserves to be supported."—See Musical Times, March, 1888. London: SIMPKIN and MARSHALL; or all Booksellers.

Just published.
CATECHISM OF THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC
By HENRY FARMER.
The best and most complete work of its kind ever published.
Price 1s. 6d. net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC COPYING and TRANSPOSING done at reasonable terms. Address, X. Y. Z., Rothesaye, St. Albans.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s.; in stiff paper, 3s. net.

A COMPLETE COURSE OF WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS FOR STUDENTS OF the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. LEFFLER ARNIM, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two-thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch.

The exercises may be performed at odd moments, independently of any instrument.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: "... I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: "... I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: "... Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Hinde Street, W.

HARMONY LESSONS (2nd Edition). By C. A. TREW. Adapted for Self-Instruction and Tuition by Correspondence. "All that is required as a preparation for the study of larger works."—Musical World. Price 1s. SCHOTT, 159, Regent Street, and AUTHOR, 57, Addison Mansions, West Kensington.

New Publication.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. By EBENEZER PROUT, B.A., Lond. Bound, net 5/- AUGENER & Co., 86, Newgate Street, and I, Foubert's Place, London.

MR. NIECK'S REVIEW OF EBENEZER PROUT'S "HARMONY: its Theory and Practice," with Mr. Prout's reply, will be published in The Monthly Musical Record for December. Post free, 2d.

AUGENER & Co., 86, Newgate Street, and I, Foubert's Place, London.

PERFORMED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL.

THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS

(Gloucester).

Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

ODE

ON

ST. CECILIA'S DAY

BY ALEXANDER POPE

SET TO MUSIC BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Paper cover, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

THE

VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE

BALLAD

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA, BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 34.)

Paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth gilt, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL.

ELYSIUM

FOR SOPRANO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE POEM WRITTEN BY

MRS. HEMANS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready.

DIVINE LOVE

A CHURCH ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES B. RUTENBER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ISSUE, NOW READY.

Novello, Ewer & Co.'s Catalogues,
COMPLETE.

No. 1. ORGAN MUSIC.

„ 1A. HARMONIUM MUSIC.

„ 2. SACRED MUSIC WITH ENGLISH WORDS.

„ 3. MUSIC WITH VOCAL AND ORCHESTRAL PARTS.

„ 4. PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

„ 4A. INSTRUCTION BOOKS, THEORETICAL WORKS, AND LITERATURE OF MUSIC.

„ 5. SECULAR PART-MUSIC.

„ 5A. SECULAR SONGS.

„ 6. SACRED MUSIC WITH LATIN WORDS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. W. B. HEALEY'S

SPECIAL LIST.

TELEGRAPHIC ADDRESS, "HEALEY'S AGENCY, LONDON."

MR. HEALEY begs to call attention to the following lists of engagements of two of his special artists, for whom he is sole Agent:—

Madame Lilian Nordica's Engagements

FOR NINE MONTHS IN 1889:—

January 8, Liverpool Philharmonic Society (Miscellaneous Concert); 10, Manchester ("Rose of Sharon"); 23, Novello's Concerts ("Elijah"); 25, Belfast (Concert); 26, Dublin (Concert). February 2, Royal Choral Society ("Elijah"); 4, Birmingham (Messrs. Harrison's Concert); 6, Birkenhead (Subscription Concert); 7, Edinburgh (Miscellaneous Concert); 13, St. Leonards-on-Sea ("The Golden Legend" and "Stabat Mater"); 14, St. Leonards-on-Sea (Morning Concert); 16, Crystal Palace ("The Lay of the Last Minstrel"); 20, Royal Choral Society (Mancinelli's "Isaias" and Barnby's "The Lord is King"); 28, Leicester ("The Spectre's Bride"). March 4, London ("Elijah"); 8, Bradford ("Elijah"); 19, Novello's Concerts ("Light of Asia"); 20, Leeds (Dvorák's "Stabat Mater" and Miscellaneous Concert); 28, Birmingham ("Elijah"). April 19, Royal Choral Society ("The Messiah"); 20, Crystal Palace (Mr. Manns's Concert); 24, Plymouth (Recital of Gounod's "Faust"); 30, Hull ("Creation"). May 2, Birmingham (Mr. Stockley's Concert); 8, Bournemouth ("The Golden Legend"); 11, St. James's Hall (Royal Amateur Orchestral Society); 17, Bruton Street (Madame Oppenheim's Concert); 30, Royal Italian Opera (début in Wagner's "Lohengrin," leading prima donna); 31, Buckingham Palace (State Concert). June 4, Royal Italian Opera (Verdi's "Aida"); 7, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"); 12, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"); 22, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"); 26, St. James's Hall (Signor Mattei's Concert); 29, Royal Italian Opera (Wagner's "Lohengrin"). July 2, Royal Italian Opera (State Visit of the Shah); 8, Royal Italian Opera ("Lohengrin"); 17, Bruton Street (Madame Oppenheim's Concert, for their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales); 19, Royal Italian Opera ("Huguenots"); 25, Royal Italian Opera (Gounod's "Faust"). August and September, On the Continent (Resting). October 3, Ashford (Concert); 8, Liverpool (Philharmonic Society's Concert); 17, Royal Victoria Hall (Concert); 19, Glasgow (Concert); 23, Plymouth (Miscellaneous Concert); 29, Blackheath (Concert). November 2, Bristol (Concert); 6, Birkenhead (Concert); 7, Birmingham (Mr. Stockley's Concert); 9, Crystal Palace (Saturday Concert); 13, Cardiff (Orchestral Society's Concert); 15, Belfast (Concert); 16, Dublin (Concert); 18, Dublin (St. Patrick's Oratorio Society); 20, Leeds Philharmonic ("St. Paul"); 23, St. James's Hall (Royal Amateur Orchestral Society); 25, Birmingham (Messrs. Harrison's Concert). United States of America to follow, with Madame Patti and Signor Tamagno. Week commencing October 13, Leading Soprano, Norwich Musical Festival—W. B. HEALEY, Sole Agent.

Madame Belle Cole's Engagements:—

January 1, 2, 5, Glasgow; 7, Edinburgh. January 14 to February 25 (six weeks' tour); 28, Bow. March 2, Crystal Palace; 4, Hampstead; 6, Ballads; 8, Bradford; 13, Ballads; 14, Royal Victoria Hall; 20, Ballads; 25, Dundee; 26, Edinburgh; 28, Dublin; 29, Belfast. April 6, Bow and Bromley; 8, Tunbridge Wells; 19, Royal Choral Society; 24, Plymouth; 25, Royal Victoria Hall. May 1, Grosvenor Gallery; 2, Crystal Palace; 6, Cannon Street Hotel; 9, Brixton Hall; 10, Birkenbeck Institute; 21, Miss Gomes's Concert; 23, Southsea; 29, Nikita's Concert; 30, Institute Painters. June 1, Alexandra Palace; 13, Bath; 19, Albert Hall; 20, Manchester; 26, Princes' Hall. July 6, Alexandra Palace; 8, Lord Brassey's; 9, Grosvenor Gallery; 30, Grosvenor Club. August 6, Weston-super-Mare; 12, 13, 14, Promenade Concerts; 16, Malvern; 17, Promenade Concerts; 19, Cheltenham; 20, 22, Promenade Concerts; 23, Eastbourne; 24, 27, 28, September 2, 4, 9, 14, 16, 20, 24, 26, Promenade Concerts; 28, Bow and Bromley. October 3, 4, Promenade Concerts; 5, Crystal Palace; 7, Promenade Concerts; 8, Woodford; 9, 11, Promenade Concerts; 14, Glasgow; 16, 17, 19, 22, 24, Promenade Concerts; 25, Bath; 26, Bristol; 28, Winchester; 29, Southsea; 30, Southampton; 31, Victoria Hall. November 4, Promenade Concerts; 10, Bow and Bromley; 11, Shoreditch; 12, Wanstead;

3, Royal Albert Hall; 20, Ballad Concert; 22, 23, Belfast, Dublin; 26, Colchester; 27, Ballads; 28, Bromley; 29, Grosvenor Club; 30, Royal Albert Hall. December 2, Clerkenwell; 3, Brixton; 4, Royal Albert Hall; 6, Mr. Sam Hayes's Concert; 9, Kettering; 10, Wellingboro'; 11, Ballads; 11, Kensington Town Hall (evening); 12, Royal Victoria Hall; 14, Manchester; 17, Glasgow; 18, Leeds; 20, Huddersfield; 25, Oldham; 26, Preston. January 4, Ballads; 6, Brixton Hall; 8, Ayr; 13 to end of February, Concert Tour. March 4, Darwen; 5, Ballads; 12, Ballads; 19, Nottingham; 27, Royal Victoria Hall. April 4, Royal Albert Hall; 10, Exeter; 17, Newport (Mon.); 24, Birmingham. May 22, Royal Victoria Hall. October 2, Royal Victoria Hall; 30, Royal Victoria Hall.—W. B. HEALEY, Sole Agent.

And to the following list of towns, where he has booked ahead—viz., from November, 1889, onward, in some cases three quartets for the same Society, for different dates, in others, trios, duets, and instrumentalists, in—

Liverpool	Wilmslow	Aberdeen
Glasgow	Cheltenham	Ryde
Belfast	Tamworth	Oldham
Bristol	Crystal Palace	Sheffield
Bath	Hull	Keighley
Hanley	Paisley	Leeds
Manchester	Dundee	Newport (Mon.)
Norwich	Kirkcaldy	Cambridge
Woodford	Dunfermline	Huddersfield
Southsea	Peterhead	Nottingham
Birkenhead	Greenock	Exeter
Southampton	Wanstead	Edinburgh
Birmingham	Colchester	Jersey
Ayr	Preston	Cleator Moor
Wolverhampton	Burnley	Darlington
Brighton	Cardiff	Bolton
Darwen	Hereford	Milton
Plymouth	Dublin	Red Hill
Winchester	Elland	Stirling
Blackheath	Uttoxeter

and the United States of America; including the following artists:—

	Mesdames
Nordica	Bertha Moore	Dyke
Marie Roze	Hope Glenn	Agnes Larkcom
Mary Davies	Clara Wright	Enriquez
Clara Samuel	Helen d'Alton	Louise Pyk
Belle Cole
	Misses
Anna Williams	Margaret Hoare	Alice Steel
Alice Gomes	Kate Fuselle	Eugene Kemble
Marie Titens	Emily Spada	Patti Winter
Marie de Lido	Agnes Janson	Fanny Moody
Meredyth Elliott	Margaret Hall
	Messrs.
H. Guy	William Nicholl	Henry Lloyd (brother of Edward Lloyd)
Orlando Harley	Richard Clarke	Wm. Foxon
Durward Lely	E. Houghton	Iver McKay
Llew. Cadwaladr	Percy Palmer
Philip Newbury	Joseph Heald
	Messrs.
Watkin Mills	Bantock Pierpoint	Arthur Strugnell
J. Bridson	Henry Pope	Wilfred Cunliffe
Herbert Thorndike	Donnell Balfe	Signor Foli
Andrew Black

INSTRUMENTALISTS:—

Mdles. Schumann, Kate, Nellie, and Mabel Chaplin, Anna Lang, and Signor Tito Mattei.

Messrs. Howard Reynolds, Isidor Cöhn, and Waldemar Meyer. The Heckman and Schiever Quartets.

Mr. Charles Dickens, Readings.

Mr. Healey has on his books, for selection, Sopranos, Mezzo-Sopranos, Contraltos, Tenors, Baritones, Basses, and over 100 Instrumental Soloists.

BEING AN OLD ARTIST AND MANAGER, OF 47 YEARS' STANDING Mr. Healey will be pleased to give any information appertaining to the Musical profession.

Address, 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W. The oldest Musical Agent in London; first established in Golden Square, 1856.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL MUSICAL AGENCY

(REGISTERED),

447, WEST STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station),

CONDUCTED BY

MR. W. SEXTON, VICAR CHORAL, WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

MR. SEXTON can supply every requirement in the Musical Profession. His personal acquaintance with the whole of the Musical Profession enables him to give advice to his Clients on all Musical matters and supply their wants.

CONCERT AGENT.

MR. SEXTON can supply ARTISTS of every description. All Artists guaranteed. Entertainments and Concert Parties anywhere in the United Kingdom. Very reasonable terms. Send for list of Artists, Prices, and Programmes.

SOLO CHOIR-BOYS.

MR. SEXTON sends highly-trained SOLO BOYS for any work anywhere in England. Shortest notice. Oratorios, Organ Recitals, Church Festivals, &c. Advent and Christmas Music, Carol Singing, Concerts, &c. Sole Manager for the celebrated Solo Soprano Boy, WARWICK MAJOR. Arrangements made for Masters B. STRACHAN and P. SHERWOOD.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY QUINTET OR QUARTET (GLEE PARTY).

MR. SEXTON arranges for the services of this celebrated QUINTET (or Quartet) of five Solo Voices from Westminster Abbey. Single Concerts, Tours, Seaside, &c. Great success in Scotland, &c. Quartet with Lady or Solo Boy if desired. Soprano with Quartet, Miss ROSE POOLE. Concerts now being arranged at most of the large towns in England.

ORCHESTRA.

MR. SEXTON'S experienced BAND, single or any number, for Oratorio, Church, &c. Primrose Cinderella Band.

SINGING, ORGAN, AND PIANOFORTE LESSONS.

MR. SEXTON, assisted by Mr. F. Smith, gives LESSONS as above, and introductions to high-class Concerts and paid Engagements to pupils when efficient. Three-manual Organ, 50 stops. Choir-boys' Classes on Saturdays. Telegrams and Letters as above.

MISS ROSE POOLE (Soprano), People's Palace and London Concerts, Engaged (Soprano) with the Westminster Abbey Quartet, four Solo voices from Westminster Abbey. For references and engagements, W. Sexton, Esq., 447, Strand.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies SOLO BOYS (personally trained and thoroughly reliable) for all kinds of Church work, Concerts, &c. Advent Season: "Last Judgment," "Holy City," "Messiah," "Stabat Mater," &c. Excellent testimonials from Clergy and Organists. Address as above, or 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

TEACHING CONNECTION for SALE. Piano, Violin and Singing. In rising suburb, N. Desirable for those seeking home with occupation. School could be added. Music, 532, Hornsey Road, N.

TO COMPOSERS.—SELECTIONS of WORDS for SONGS sent on approval, by Author of various Songs now before the public. Moderate terms. Address, Lyrics, Abercorn House, South Norwood.

TO COMPOSERS.—WORDS for SONGS in various styles. Lyrics written or adapted to Composers' MS. C. B., 14, Knowle Road, Brixton, S.W.

TO MUSICAL SOCIETIES AND THE PROFESSION.

SECOND-HAND STEINWAY FULL CONCERT GRANDS.—A limited number of these celebrated Instruments, which have been in Concert use, will shortly be offered on exceptional terms to the Profession. Full particulars may be obtained on application to Steinway and Sons, Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, London, W.; or of their various Provincial Agents.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

E. A. SYDENHAM'S PATENT TOUCH REGULATOR for PIANOS. Reduced price, 17/6. For full particulars and opinions, address, E. A. Sydenham, Scarborough.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MESSRS. BEARE AND SON,

34, RATHBONE PLACE, LONDON, W.,

Invite an inspection of their unrivalled Collection of

OVER THREE HUNDRED

OLD VIOLINS, TENORS, CELLOS,

AND DOUBLE BASSES.

Sole Wholesale Agents for JAMES TUBBS's celebrated BOWS. The only Makers of the

NEW QUEEN'S MODEL

PIANO AND AMERICAN ORGAN CHAIRS

From 25s.

TOY INSTRUMENTS AND MUSIC

for the performance of Toy Symphonies, from 18s. 6d. per set, including Music. Lists sent on application.

HARPS bought, sold, or taken in exchange.

REPAIRS of every kind of Musical Instrument executed promptly by experienced workmen.

NEWLY REVISED AND ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application. Parcels of music sent on "sale or return" on receipt of two London references or a deposit of £2.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, AND PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

VIOLINS, TENORS, and VIOLONCELLOS.—OLD ITALIAN, of the most eminent makers. The "UNRIVALLED" Italian, real Roman Strings for Violin, Tenor, Violoncello, and Double Bass. MANDOLINES by VINACCIA and other Neapolitan Makers. Plectrums and Strings. The trade supplied. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street, Soho Square, W.

ARNENTERON VIOLIN and VIOLONCELLO STRINGS. Best gut strings made. True, very durable, thoroughly reliable. Sample, violin length, sent free on application. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London.

VIOLINS, &c. COLLIN - MÉZIN À PARIS.

GEORGE WITHERS AND CO.,

VIOLIN AND BOW MAKERS AND REPAIRERS,

51, ST. MARTIN'S LANE, LONDON,

Sole Agents.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c., 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

WRIGHT and ROUND, 34, Erskine Street, Liverpool.

FOR MILITARY, BRASS, AND FIFE AND DRUM BAND MUSIC.

"BRASS BAND NEWS."

Great Success! Album of Dance Music for Pianoforte (with Stave for Clarinet or Cornet). 2nd Edition now ready. This music is played by all the celebrated Northern Prize Bands. 20 Pages full music size. Price 1s. 1d. Send for circulars and trade terms.

D'ALMAINE'S PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.

Established 102 years.

MUSIC ENGRAVING and PRINTING in the very latest style. C. J. Cooper, 22, Gt. Titchfield Street, W.

ORGANISTS!

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT FOR PIANOFORTES FOR THE HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

WRITE AT ONCE FOR NEW ILLUSTRATED
PRICE LIST,

Giving full particulars of this most unique mode of applying Organ Pedals to Pianos, and after careful perusal you will be convinced that every word lavished in its favour by

Sir JOHN STAINER,
Dr. JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE,
Dr. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST,
Dr. EDWARD J. HOPKINS,
Dr. GEORGE C. MARTIN,
Dr. CHARLES STEGALL,
E. H. TURPIN, Esq.,

Mus. Bac.'s, R.A.M.'s, and hundreds of other customers (including the nobility), is fully merited.

My Pedals and Attachment are superior to others for the following reasons:—

They are more easily applied to any Piano, &c., by any one.
Every gradation of tone can be obtained from pp to ff, but not louder, so Piano is not injured by heavy pedalling.

The touch is simply perfection—according to the testimonials from the above-mentioned.

The action is thoroughly mechanical, and will thus bear favourable comparison with other advertised "notions." It is guaranteed, with ordinary care, to last for many years.

They are the best London make, and every Set being French polished (to order) to match Piano, will not offend the most educated eye or cultured taste—in short, they will harmonise with the fittings and appointments of the most elegant drawing-room, and, when not in use, can be removed instantly, and replaced (when required) as quickly.

Kindly call and try them, or depute a London friend to do so.

The most liberal and easy terms of payment arranged to suit the most straitened means.

The Profession and Trade invited to apply for List.

HENRY J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

PEDAL PIANOS FOR SALE OR HIRE.
PEDAL PIANO PRACTICE, SIXPENCE PER HOUR.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., Post-free.
Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing-Class Tutor, 17th edition, 6d each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing.
Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 18, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

MUSIC Legibly TRANPOSED or COPIED at
6d. per Folio Manuscript Page. Copyist, 20, St. Michael's Road, Wallington, Surrey.

JAMES CONACHER AND SONS,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
BATH BUILDINGS, HUDDERSFIELD.

Gold Medal awarded, Bradford Technical School Exhibition, 1882.

Specifications and Estimates free of charge.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN
ORGANS, at Bargain Prices for Cash. A 150-guinea "Karn," 2 manuals and pedals, 9 sets, for 55 guineas; a 120-guinea "Karn," two manuals, for 50 guineas; an £80 two-manual and pedal Reed Organ, by Sprague, for 25 guineas; a one-manual and pedal ditto, for 18 guineas; a £70 "Karn" organ, with Subers's Patent Pedals, for £35; a fine £70 two-manual "Alexandre" organ, for 30 guineas; also several large Organs and Harmoniums, 2 manuals, &c., at about one-third the original price. Every instrument guaranteed perfect as new, with warranty. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg and Co., 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS,
Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGEWAY and CO., Music
Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, London, W., undertake the RE-VISING, PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' Works included in Catalogue and introduced without extra charge.

TO AMATEURS & PROFESSORS about to PUB-
LISH.—J. McDOWELL, Removed to 13, Little Marlborough St., Regent St., W., undertakes Revising and Publishing Musical Works in best manner, on lowest terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

MUSIC COPIED and Drawn from the Full Score, with proper Cues for Engraving; also Songs or other Pieces Transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

SURPLUS STOCK.—Extraordinary Bargains.
"Myosotis Waltz" or "Bitter Sweet," and 24s. worth of best Songs, Dances, and Pianoforte Pieces, for 1s., post-free. Terms for quantities on application. William Lea, Music Warehouse, 50 and 52, Church Street, Liverpool.

ORGAN MUSIC (Foreign and English), Second-hand, for SALE. List of pieces sent post-free. Address, Melma, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TWENTY

SACRED SONGS

COMPOSED BY

JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH.

SELECTED FROM THE SCHEMELL COLLECTION, AND
ARRANGED FOR VOICE AND PIANOFORTE
ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

ROBERT FRANZ.

The English Version by the Rev. Dr. TROUTBECK.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUVENILE ALBUM

EIGHT CHARACTERISTIC PIECES

(FOUR HANDS)

The Primo Part being generally within the Compass of Five Notes

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

(NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS, No. 26.)

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.

ANTHEMS.

*In the beginning	G. B. Allen	1½d.
Christians, be joyful Bach	3d.
*Like silver lamps	J. Barnby	1½d.
Drop down, ye heavens	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The grace of God, that bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Sing and rejoice	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Barnby	3d.
*While Shepherds watched	W. T. Best	1½d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	1½d.
Hail! Thou that art highly favoured	Arthur Carnall	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Giovanni Croce	1½d.
*Arise, shine, for thy light is come	Sir Geo. Elvey	1½d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	1½d.
Behold, a star appeareth	Niels W. Gade	4d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	Sir J. Goss	1½d.
O sing to God (Noël). (Female Voices)	Ch. Gounod	6d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.)	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
Brightest and best	Rev. E. V. Hall	4d.
Behold, I bring	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
Hark! the herald angels sing	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah")	Handel	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	Dr. E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Sing, O heavens Kent	4d.
For unto us was born	Sir G. A. Macfarren	3d.
While all things were in quiet silence	Sir G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
God, who at sundry times	J. H. Mee	4d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	The Earl of Mar	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye people	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Let our song of praise	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Hallelujah! for unto us a child is born	Dr. W. H. Monk	1½d.
*Sing unto the Lord	Vincent Novello	1½d.
Glory to God in the highest Pergolesi	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings	C. W. Smith	1½d.
The light hath shined E. Silas	1½d.
*The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	6d.
*O Zion, that bringest good tidings	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The hallowed day hath shined upon us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The angel Gabriel was sent from God	H. Smart	1½d.
In the beginning was the Word	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Sing, O heavens	B. Tours	1½d.
*This is the day which the Lord hath made	J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined	Dr. C. G. Verrinder	1½d.
There were Shepherds	Dr. Charles Vincent	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Vittoria	1½d.
*Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	Dr. S. S. Wesley	1½d.
*Glory be to God on high	Dr. S. S. Wesley	2d.
Blessed be the Lord	C. L. Williams	4d.

Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.

Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS AND CAROLS.

Adestes Fideles ("O come, all ye faithful")	Arr. by V. Novello	1½d.
Christians, awake! salute the happy morn	Dr. W. H. Monk	1½d.
Hark! the herald angels sing	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
"	Dr. Ions	1½d.
"	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Now join we all with holy mirth	J. Stainer	1d.
O come, all ye faithful	J. Barnby	1½d.
Of the Father's love begotten	Rev. J. B. Dykes	1½d.
See, the morning star	Dr. E. G. Monk	1½d.
Shades of silent night	Samuel Gee	1½d.
There were whisperings	J. T. Cooper	1½d.
O come, all ye faithful	Old Melody	1d.
Approach, all ye faithful	J. Barnby	1d.
Holy night	J. Barnby	2d.
Christians, awake!	Sir J. Goss	1d.
Hark! the hosts of heaven are singing	Henry Smart	1d.
O come, new anthems let us sing	Dr. H. J. Gauntlett	1d.
Hark! the heavens' sweet melody	Sir J. Goss	1d.
O come, loud anthems let us sing	Dr. S. S. Wesley	1d.
Christ is born, tell forth His fame	Ch. Gounod	1d.
Come, ye nations, faithful own	Sir G. Elvey	1d.
Hark! the herald angels sing	Mendelssohn	1d.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORGAN MUSIC.

SIX ORGAN PIECES (Book V. of "Collection of Organ Pieces")	W. T. Best	Net. s. d. 3 0
POSTLUDE	Dr. Garrett	1 6
OFFERTOIRE ("The Modern Organist," No. 9)	Léfebure-Wély	2 6
OFFERTORIUM (Four Organ Pieces, No. 2)	J. Lemmens	2 6
VOLUNTARY	Sir Fred. Ouseley	2 6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PART-SONGS.

*A Christmas Madrigal	T. Ions	1½d.
A New Year's Carol	James Shaw	1½d.
A Wreath for Christmas	Bartholomew	1½d.
Caput apri defero	R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
Christmas	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
Come, let us be merry	R. L. de Pearsall	1½d.
*Hollyberries	Dr. Westbrook	1½d.
*In dulci júbilo	R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
*New Year's song	B. Tours	1½d.
*Oh! the roast beef of Old England	1½d.
The Christmas fairies	C. Goodban	1½d.
*The last night of the year	A. Sullivan	1½d.
The Waits	Saville	1½d.
Up, brothers, up	J. B. Calkin	1½d.

* These published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1d. and 1½d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MENDELSSOHN'S SIX CHRISTMAS PIECES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS.

Words by F. R. HAVERGAL

MUSIC BY

A. RANDEGGER.

Illustrated, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Carols for Christmastide

SET TO MUSIC

FOR LITTLE SINGERS

BY

GEORGE FOX.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

J. MAUDE CRAMENT.

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

No. 1. SOFTLY THE NIGHT IS SLEEPING.

No. 2. IN EXCELSIS GLORIA.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE

SET TO ANCIENT MELODIES

BY THE

REV. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A.

Words, principally in imitation of the original, by the Rev. J. M. NEALE, D.D.

	s.	d.
18mo, Melody only	0	6
" " " in packets of 50	20	0
" Compressed Score	1	0
Folio, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	4	6
Words only	0	1½
" " in packets of 50	5	0

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

ROUND US SHINES A GLORIOUS LIGHT

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY DAVID DAY.

Third Edition. Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

1. The Carollers.
2. The stars are shining bright and clear.
3. Carol, sweetly carol.
4. Christmas Bells.
5. A Child this day is born.
6. Hark! what mean those holy voices.
7. The Angels' Carol.
8. While Shepherds watched.
9. Angels from the realms of glory.
10. A Christmas Chime.

SET TO MUSIC BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus. D., CANTAB.

Price, in paper wrapper, complete, 1s.; or in single numbers, 1d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM.

- All my heart. Solo and Chorus 6d.
 Christians, be thankful. Full 3d.
 While Shepherds. Full 2d.
 Shepherds in the field abiding. Full. Just published 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

HENRY T. TILTMAN.

No. 1.—HARK! WHAT HEAVENLY SOUNDS ARE FLOATING.

No. 2.—WHILE IN PEACEFUL SLUMBERS LYING.

Price Twopence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS. By BASIL HARWOOD. Price 3d. "Lowliest, Loftiest," and "O, hearken, all ye sad and lone."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS. "Ring, Christmas Bells," and "See, a light celestial flashing." Composed by ERNEST A. DICKS, F.C.O. Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

By HAMILTON ROBINSON.

THREE CHRISTMAS CAROLS 2d.
 BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT AND 3d.
 AGNUS DEI, in E flat 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES & SONGS

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound, cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"An able composition, well suited to the season for which it is written, and free from difficulties that may cause uncertainty in performance."—Church Times.

"A gain to music of this class."—Musical Times.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-halfpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GOD, WHO AT SUNDRY TIMES

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

COMPOSED BY

JOHN H. MEE.

Price Fourpence.

(NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS, No. 344.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

HARK! THE HERALD ANGELS SING

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

COMPOSED BY

REV. E. V. HALL.

Price Threepence.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 345.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS

By Dr. JACOB BRADFORD.

LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM.

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR.

Price Twopence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.—"Arise, shine," 2d. "Bright and joyful," 3d. "Christ is born," 2d. "God so loved the world," 4d. "The heavenly choir," 3d. Sent post-free, by the Author, C. WARD, Speen, Princes Risboro'. Also may be had, "The Prodigal Son," a new Oratorio, 83 pages of music, 1s. 2d.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMAS.

WHEN CHRIST WAS BORN } J. T. FIELD 2d.
 (In Excelsis Gloria)
 WHAT CHILD IS THIS? }
 SLEEP! HOLY BABE } J. T. FIELD 2d.
 CAROL FOR CHRISTMAS DAY.. .. . }

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRETTY CAROLS. FOUR NEW CHRISTMAS

CAROLS. Just Published. Price One Penny each.

CALEB SIMPER, 8, St. George's Square, Worcester.

THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG

A COLLECTION OF SACRED AND MORAL SONGS

With original Music by the most eminent Composers, with 46 Illustrations, cloth gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM CLOWES & SONS, Limited, beg to announce that they are the Sole Publishers of the well-known CAROLS by the REV. R. R. CHOPE, comprising CAROLS for all the CHRISTIAN SEASONS.

CAROLS FOR USE IN CHURCH DURING CHRISTMAS & EPIPHANY.

BY

THE REV. R. R. CHOPE, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

With an INTRODUCTION by S. BARING-GOULD, M.A., Rector of Lew-Trenchard, Author of "The Lives of the Saints," &c.

In this Work there are Carols for Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, St. Stephen, St. John, Holy Innocents, New Year's Eve, New Year's Day, Circumcision, Epiphany, Sundays after Epiphany, Conversion of St. Paul, Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The Traditional Carols are from different Counties and Countries—the Modern by well-known Authors.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
A. Cloth, gilt lettered, with expression marks, full Score ..	4	0	F. TREBLE PART. Cloth, gilt lettered..	..	1 6
B. Suitable for Presents. In handsome binding, designed by Mr. Butterfield ..	7	6	G. Words only	0 1
C. Words only. In paper cover ..	0	6	H. Words only. Cloth gilt, special design. Illustrated with copious Woodcuts	1 6
D. Words only. Cloth, gilt lettered ..	1	0	K. Full Score. Cloth, turned in. Cheap Edition.
E. TREBLE PART. In paper cover ..	1	0

Please quote the Letter of the Edition wanted in ordering any of the above.

Applications for Grants of Carols, Music, or Words should be sent to the REV. R. R. CHOPE, Vicarage, 117, Queen's Gate, South Kensington, S.W., and should contain a STAMPED and ADDRESSED envelope for reply. A liberal reduction is allowed to the Clergy, Organists, and Schoolmasters on introducing the book. Foreign orders should be sent early, with directions as to conveyance, agents, &c.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTIAN SEASONS

FOR CHOIR AND PEOPLE.

WORDS AND MUSIC—TRADITIONAL AND MODERN.

THE MODERN BY WELL-KNOWN AUTHORS AND COMPOSERS.

PART I. contains Forty-nine CAROLS for CHRISTMAS, &c.

PART II. contains Forty-three CAROLS for EASTER, &c.

PART III. contains CAROLS for HARVEST, &c.

The Book of Music, with Words of each Part, price 6d., post-free, 7½d. The Book of Words only of each Part, 1d. in large type, 2d. per copy.

PRINTED SEPARATELY OF PART I.

No.		By	No.		By
2.	"A SONG AND A CAROL FOR CHRISTMASTIDE."	G. P. GRANTHAM. Words and Music, ONE PENNY.	19.	"SING, SING, FOR CHRISTMAS."	By J. S. B. HODGES. Words by J. H. EGAR. ONE PENNY.
3.	"AWAY, DARK THOUGHTS, AWAKE, MY JOYS."	Carol by A. H. BROWN. Music and Words, ONE PENNY.	25.	"SING THE CAROL, RAISE YOUR VOICES."	New Year's Carol, by C. H. WOOD. Music by H. S. IRONS. ONE PENNY.
4.	"IN THE FIELDS WITH THEIR FLOCKS ABIDING."	Carol by Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR. Music by A. H. BROWN. ONE PENNY.	31.	"JOY AND GLADNESS."	Carol by G. B. LISSANT. ONE PENNY.
5.	"HAIL, EVER HAIL, THOU GLORIOUS MORN."	Carol by A. H. BROWN. ONE PENNY.	44.	"SING WITH GLADNESS, SING THE STORY."	Carol by W. H. JEWITT. Music by G. B. LISSANT. ONE PENNY.
7.	"SHINE CALM AND BRIGHT."	Carol by G. P. GRANTHAM. ONE PENNY.	46.	"HE COMETH, FATHER, AS HE CAME OF OLD."	Words by W. H. JEWITT. Music by G. B. LISSANT. ONE PENNY.
18.	"RING OUT THE BELLS FOR CHRISTMAS."	By J. S. B. HODGES. ONE PENNY.	47.	"O BLESSED, BLESSED BE THE LORD AND KING."	Words by W. H. JEWITT. Music by G. B. LISSANT. ONE PENNY.

Please quote the Number of Carol in ordering any of the above.

NEW TERMS:—25 PER CENT. DISCOUNT FOR CASH ALLOWED ON ALL ORDERS.

LONDON: WILLIAM CLOWES & SONS, LIMITED, 13, CHARING CROSS, S.W.

CHRISTMAS

ANTHEMS, SERVICES, &c.,

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST C. WINCHESTER,

Organist and Choirmaster, Christ Church, Southwark, London.

ANTHEM. "There were shepherds" (No. 21 of Series) ..	s. d.
ANTHEM. "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem" (No. 38) ..	0 3
TE DEUM. Service in F (No. 25) ..	0 3
TE DEUM. Chant Form (No. 6), 3d.; also Nos. 32, 36, & 46, each ..	0 2
BENEDICTUS (Nos. 9 & 10), 1st, and 2d. each. JUBILATE ..	0 1½
COMMUNION SERVICE, complete (No. 44) ..	0 4
KYRIE ELEISON (two settings), Doxologies and NICENE ..	0 3
CREED (No. 49) ..	0 2
AGNUS DEI (No. 27), 1st. BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT ..	0 1½
OFFERTORY SENTENCES (No. 16) ..	0 3
OFFERTORY ANTHEM. "Be merciful" (No. 51) ..	0 1½
TALLIS'S FESTIVAL RESPONSES ..	0 1½
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in F (No. 34) ..	0 3
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Chant form (Nos. 17 ..	0 3
and 48) ..	each 0
GRAND FESTIVAL MARCH for ORGAN ..	1 6

ALSO ADVENT MUSIC.

ANTHEM. "Blessed is He that cometh" (No. 28) ..	0 1½
ANTHEM. "The Lord is my Shepherd" (No. 50) ..	0 3
BENEDICTE (Nos. 8, 35, and 42) ..	each 0 2
PRECES and RESPONSES (special Settings for Advent) ..	0 1
GREGORIAN ARRANGEMENTS: Venite, 1st.; Te Deum, ..	0 1
1st.; Benedictus, 1st.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 2d.; ..	0 1
Deus Misereatur ..	0 1
THE LITANY (No. 39) ..	0 2
THREE SOFT VOLUNTARIES for ORGAN ..	1 0

WINCHESTER'S

CHURCH MUSIC SERIES consists of new and original ANTHEMS; MORNING, EVENING, AND COMMUNION SERVICES; HYMN TUNES, &c. (51 Nos. ready).

Bound Volumes of WINCHESTER'S CHURCH MUSIC SERIES, Nos. 1 to 50, bound in cloth, gilt, red edges .. 4 0

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Just published.

IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. An easy and effective Anthem for Christmas and for general use, by W. HENRY MAXFIELD, Mus. Bac., Tor.; F.C.O. Price Fourpence. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; or from the COMPOSER, The Downs, Bowdon.

FOR UNTO US. 18th Ed. "Glory to God," 5th Ed. (Christmas). "O worship the Lord," 23rd Ed. "My heart is fixed," 5th Ed. (for Choral Festivals). Anthems by THOS. SMITH, 3d. each. Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

CHILD DIVINE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD. Music by J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc. 2d.

JOY, YE PEOPLE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD. M.A. 2d.

IN SORROW AND IN WANT. Words by Archdeacon FARRAR. 3d.

CHRISTMAS BELLS. A Four-part Song. Words from "In Memoriam," by ALFRED TENNYSON. 4d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

ALL MY HEART THIS NIGHT REJOICES The Words from "Lyra Germanica" (by permission of Messrs. Longman and Co.)

THE MUSIC BY

ARTHUR ESMOND.

Price Twopence. The Words are also to be found in "Church Hymns."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

HAIL! HAPPY DAY

Words by the Rev. JESSE BRETT.

MUSIC BY

W. H. SPEER.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY.

DE NATIVITATE DOMINI (Heaven, be glad). By WILLIAM TAYLOR, Organist to St. Olave's, Southwark. Price Eightpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By EDWYN A. CLARE.

SING, O HEAVENS. Just published. 3rd 1,000 ..	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 6th Thousand ..	3d.
PRaise THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 4th Thousand ..	3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 2nd Thousand ..	4d.
"Melodious, flowing, and spirited."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"EASY, MELODIOUS, AND EFFECTIVE."

NEW AND POPULAR CHRISTMAS

ANTHEMS. By CALEB SIMPER, Organist of St. Mary's, Worcester.

The Heavens are telling (Carol-Anthem). 3rd 1,000 ..	New 3d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa ..	2d.
Blessed be the Lord God. 8th Edition ..	4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa ..	3d.
Behold, I bring. 25th Edition ..	3d.
There were shepherds. 9th Edition ..	3d.
Glory to God in the Highest. 10th Edition ..	3d.
And He shall reign. 8th Thousand ..	3d.
Sing, O Heavens. 9th Thousand ..	3d.
We have seen His star. 16th Edition ..	4d.
Let us now go even unto. 4th Thousand ..	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 21st Edition ..	4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. 7th Edition ..	4d.
Te Deum in F. 11th Edition ..	3d.
New, Easy Holy Communion Service in E flat. 2nd Thousand ..	4d.
"Devotional and Tuneful." Complete, with Agnus Dei ..	3d.
and Benedictus.
Te Deum in A flat. Festal Chant form. 2nd Thousand ..	2d.
When shades of eve. Part-song ..	2d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

COMPOSITIONS by ALFRED R. GAUL.

YULE TIDE. Christmas Carol. Specially written for use in places of Worship. With obligato Organ Accompaniment ..	3d.
BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. Anthem for the Season of Christmas ..	6d.
HOSANNA TO THE SON OF DAVID. Anthem for Palm Sunday ..	4d.
O PRAISE GOD IN HIS HOLINESS. Festival Anthem ..	6d.
NO SHADOWS YONDER ("Holy City") ..	2d.
FOR THEE, O DEAR, DEAR COUNTRY ("Holy City") ..	2d.
THINE IS THE KINGDOM ("Holy City") ..	3d.
BLESSED ARE THE DEPARTED AND WHY SHOULD'ST THOU FEAR THE BEAUTIFUL ANGEL DEATH, from the Passion Music, and specially adapted for use at Funeral Services ..	6d.
AVE MARIA. Choral Song ("Joan of Arc") ..	3d.
WEDDING CHORAL MARCH ("Ruth"). Specially adapted for use at Weddings ..	4d.
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. Anthem ..	4d.
TWENTY OFFERTORY SENTENCES ..	1s. 6d.
THE SHIPWRECK. Birmingham Prize Glee ..	4d.
The gratuitous loan of Orchestral Parts, as also the same arranged as Pianoforte Duet, may be had on application to the COMPOSER.
THE CHILDREN. Part-Song (S.A.T.B.) ..	3d.
SIX SCHOOL SONGS (4th Thousand) ..	6d.
THE CORNER STONE. Masonic Song ..	2s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR ADVENT.

SAVE ME, O GOD. Motet. Composed by M. W. BALFE (1846). Set to English words and arranged for the Organ by W. A. BARRETT. Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., CANTAB.

Advent Anthem, "O Lord, Thou art my God." Four Voices ..	3d.
Christmas Anthem, "In the beginning." Four Voices ..	3d.
Anthem, "I was glad." Four Voices ..	3d.
Anthem, "The Lord hath prepared." Four Voices ..	3d.
"Amen" Card ..	1d.
Communion Service in E. Octavo ..	9d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A ..	3d.
Cantate and Deus miseretur in E ..	3d.
Ave Maria. Solo Soprano. Folio ..	net 1s. 6d.

SECULAR VOCAL.

Part-Song, "Over hill, over dale." Four Voices. Octavo ..	3d.
" " "Autumn Song" ..	3d.
" " "Beware" ..	1d.
Song, "The Streamlet." Folio ..	net 1s. 6d.
" " "The Last Prayer." ..	1s. 6d.
Two Pianoforte Pieces, Romance and Mazurka. Folio ..	net 2s.
Six Original Organ Compositions. Complete ..	3s.
Or, in single numbers.
Largo in E flat ..	1s.
Twelve short and easy pieces for the Organ ..	2s.

Lists of all Compositions by the same to be had of the Publishers, London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BERLIOZ'S TE DEUM. Op. 22. Performed at the Crystal Palace, April 18, 1885. Vocal Score, 2s. net. STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER and Co., 84, New Bond Street, London, W.

CHRISTMAS CAROL

ONCE IN BETHLEHEM OF JUDAH

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

Extracts from Press notices:—

"Sure to be a favourite both with singers and listeners."

"Simple, easy, and most effective."

"Will make a success of any festival or service in which it is introduced."

PRICE, OCTAVO, TWOPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHRISTMAS HYMN.

APPROACH, ALL YE FAITHFUL. Set to

Music by BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 14d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SUITABLE FOR ALL SEASONS, BUT ESPECIALLY FOR ADVENT. Words only, One Shilling per Hundred.

SAY, WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE NIGHT?

Hymn, set to music by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK. Price Threepence net, or Two Shillings and Sixpence per doz.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Also, by the same Composer, NEW EDITION, revised by himself, of SEVEN HYMNS, in various Metres, set to music. Price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Also, by the same Composer,

BLESSED ARE THE DEAD. A short, full, and easy Anthem, with introductory Organ Symphony, suitable for All Saints' Day and Funeral Services. Price 3d. To be had also arranged, by W. MEYER LUTZ, for Voices, Organ, two Cornets, two Trombones, and Muffled Drums. Also, shortly, for full Orchestra.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Also, by the same Composer, SECOND EDITION of TWELVE SINGLE CHANTS, together with Double Chant (for Psalms xiii. and xxxviii.), a Setting of Benedicite, omnia Opera, and Responsive Amsens to the "Dresden" Amen. Price 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHILDREN OF THE HEAVENLY KING,

"On the Resurrection Morning," and other new Tunes. Just published. Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By ARTHUR R. WHITLEY. Price 3d. "Smoothly written."—Musical Times. "We recommend this service for the use of country choirs."—Church Bells.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

A MORNING and EVENING SERVICE in A flat (with BENEDICTUS), by BASIL HARWOOD, M.A., Mus. Bac., Organist of Ely Cathedral. Price 6d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SMALLWOOD'S (WM.) FESTAL and GENERAL ANTHEMS.

No. 1. THE LORD REIGNETH. Easter, Whitsuntide, or General.

"2. THUS SAITH THE LORD, THE KING OF ISRAEL. Easter, Trinity, or General.

"3. PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY. Harvest, Easter, or Whitsuntide.

"4. I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD, MY KING. Festival or General.

"5. IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. Christmas.

"6. I WILL GIVE THANKS. Easter, Ascension, or General.

"7. ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE, O LORD. Harvest or General.

Price 2d. each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Price Fourpence.

THE OFFICE FOR HOLY COMMUNION.

Set to simple Music in the key of G. By HENRY J. PEEL.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.; also

H. J. P. WESTGATE, Mansfield, Notts.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By

S. BATH. Price Threepence.

"A composition of much stately grace."—Scotsman."Will form an acquisition."—Graphic.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

2nd 1,000.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat,

by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. By

ALFRED J. DYE. Price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Reduced Price, Threepence.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.BY THE REV. H. H. WOODWARD, M.A., Mus. Bac.—The BENEDICTUS to Lengthened Chants (Six settings), a medium between the Ordinary Chant and "Cathedral Service." Complete, 2d. Also, MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on an Ancient Theme, arranged for the Festivals of the Worcester Church Choral Association. Price 3d."Very effective."—Church Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in Chant Form, by
C. CHERRY. Adapted to the varying rhythm and character of the words. Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

"Bright and vigorous, but at the same time distinguished by Church-like dignity throughout."—Musical Times.TE DEUM LAUDAMUS. Set to music in the key of G, by GEORGE LEES. Price 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JAMES' RESPONSES. 2nd Edition, Twopence.

Easy and melodious, in all Voice Parts. Highly approved by eminent Church writers. Specimen copy free from COMPOSER, Ramsgate House, Louth, Lincolnshire.

NEW SETTINGS OF THE

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

IN CHANT FORM, BY

HENRY T. TILTMAN, F.C.O.

Now ready.

No. 1, key F. Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE GENERAL THANKSGIVING, as sung at
St. Luke's, Chelsea. Composed by F. EVERARD W. HULTON,
Mus. B., Oxon. Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TWO ANTHEMS, by W. H. WILSON.—TEACH
ME THY WAY. "Is a little gem certain to please wherever it is introduced."—Musical Times. O HOW AMIABLE ARE THY DWELLINGS. Suitable for Dedication Services or General use.
Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS

SIX SETTINGS

BY

JAMES G. WRIGLEY.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS, in B flat.

By JOHN H. BRIDGER, L. Mus. Just published. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE COMMUNION OFFICE in F, with BENE-
DICTUS and AGNUS DEI, by FERRIS TOZER.—Price is.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

BAGGE, S.—Sonata in B minor. For Pianoforte. Op. 21 .. 7 0
BUSONI, F. B.—Quartet (No. 2) in D minor. For two Violins,
Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 26 20 0
DIMITRESCO, C.—Quartets for two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello:—No. 1. Op. 21. In G. Score 3 0
Parts 8 0No. 2. Op. 26. In D minor. Score 3 0
Parts 8 0No. 3. Op. 33. In B. Score 3 0
Parts 8 0No. 4. Op. 38. In G minor. Score 3 0
Parts 8 0

HANDEL, G. F.—Largo. For Harp and Orchestra:—

Full Score 3 0

Orchestral Parts 5 0

—Largo. For Voice, Violin, and Pianoforte. (Ombra Mai fu) 2 0

—Largo. For Voice, Violin, and Harp 3 0

—Largo. For Voice, Harmonium, and Organ 2 0

HERZOGENBERG, H. VON—Trio. For Oboe, Pianoforte, and Horn. Op. 61 18 0PERGER.—Serenade in G. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 17 15 0SELMER, J.—Six Skandinavische Volksmelodien. For three Female Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment ad lib.:—

Vocal Score 4 0

Vocal Parts, complete 2 0

The above sold at half-price.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

'Tis Morn 3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.).. 2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) .. 3d.	Welcome, young Spring! .. 2d.
The River 3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.).. 2d.
Over the mountain side .. 3d.	The Dream of Home .. 2d.
Soul of living music .. 3d.	Summer and Winter .. 2d.
The Jäger Chorus 3d.	Departed Joys 2d.
The Stormy Petrel 3d.	There's beauty in the deep 1½d.
The Coral Grove 3d.	Soldier, rest! 1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu .. 3d.	Woods in Winter 1d.
The Oyster Dredgers 2d.	Autumn 1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (34th thousand) 3d.
Three Children sliding. (6th thousand) 3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste 4d.
The Snow-white Doe 4d.
Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD) 3d.
The Carrion Crow 3d.

PART-SONGS.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse 4d.	The Ocean 3d.
Off to Sea 4d.	*The Ironfounders (24th thou.) 3d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas 26th thousand .. 2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all 7th " .. 3d.
A Happy New Year 5th " .. 3d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood 53rd " .. 2d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, and Forest Echoes 9th " each 3d.
Fairy Revels 12th " .. 3d.
England's Glory 7th " .. 3d.
Sunny Rays and The Streamlet 4th " each 3d.
Songs of Praise the Angels sang 7th " .. 3d.
Who is Sylvia? and Where are you roaming? 2nd " each 3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave 2nd " .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced price, 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

TO TAKE THE AIR A BONNY LASS WAS
WALKING. A Madrigal for S.A.T.B. Composed by W. WOLSTENHOLME, Mus. Bac, Oxon. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; Manchester: WATSON and Co. Post-free from the COMPOSER, 86, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by ALBERT HAM, F.C.O.

Part-Song—"The sun has gone down" (S.A.T.B.) .. 2d.
"—"Little Jack Horner" 4d.
(Sung with great success in London and provinces.)
Two-part Songs (S.C.)—"The Robin" 2d.
"—"The Skylark" 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED GILBERT'S SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOLS and CHOIR-BOYS is equally adapted for Ladies' and other Schools. Price 6d. Appendix of Practical Exercises. 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SINGING BOOK Series of Two-Part Songs, For Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Suitable for Classes. 8vo, 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net, by GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADESTE FIDELES, with Variations for the Organ. 2s. net.

THE CLARION MARCH, for the Organ. 2s. net.

I WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS. Song. 1s. 6d. net.

Ditto, as a Four-part Song. 3d. net.

THE HOLLY-TREE and MISTLETOE. Part-Song. Score and Parts, 6d. net.

To be had of Dr. BELCHER, 228, Stratford Road, Birmingham.

HOLIDAY SONGS

Written by C. F. ALEXANDER

MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

Reduced price 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR COMPOSITIONS by GABRIEL DAVIS.

SONGS.

	Net.
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? (New Patriotic Song) s. d.
The Words written by F. E. Weatherly 2 0
(Sung by Mr. THURLEY BEALE.)

KING CARNIVAL. The Words written by F. E. Weatherly 2 0
BY THE RIVER. The Words written by Herbert Gardner .. 2 0
ELSIE (The Flower Girl's Song) 2 0
(Sung by Miss ADA TOLKIEN.)

THE ZINGARA 2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON.)

THE COMING YEAR. The Words written by Dean Alford 2 0
THE OLD MEADOW GATE. The Words written by R. Richardson, Esq. 2 0
NELLIE OF THE LEA. The words written by R. Richardson, Esq. 2 0
THE LITTLE LASS 'O' BRAY. The Words written by Edward Oxenford 2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON and Miss JEANIE ROSSE.)

PIANOFORTE, &c.

ALBANY. Grande Marche Triomphale (Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold). 2nd Edition 2 0
Transcription for the Organ, by Dr. W. J. Westbrook .. 2 0
MY LADY BARBARA'S GAVOTTE 2 0

PART-SONGS, S.A.T.B.

THE THREE STARS. 2nd Edition 0 2
THE KNIGHT'S RETURN. 8th Edition 0 2
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. 19th Edition 0 2
THE DISTANT SEA. 6th Edition 0 2
TO THE WOODS. 13th Edition 0 2
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC. 8th Edition 0 2
THE HOUR OF REST. 5th Edition 0 2
DAME WIGGINS OF LEE. (Humorous.) 10th Edition .. 0 2
DAME TROT. (Humorous.) 7th Edition 0 2
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? 4th Edition. (Patriotic Part-Song. For T.T.B.B.) 0 3

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS by A. J. CALDI-COTT.

Poor Little Tom-ee (just published) 6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (just published) .. 6d.
Humpty Dumpty 6d.
Little Jack Horner (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) 6d.
Jack and Jill 4d.
The House that Jack built (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) 6d.
Sobbing Quartet 3d.
The Haymakers. Part-song 4d.
Out on the Waters. Part-song 4d.
Yule. Part-song 4d.
The Boy and the Bee 6d.

London: METZLER and Co., 42, Great Marlborough Street, W.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

TOM, TOM, THE PIPER'S SON. By ALFRED ALLEN, composer of "Dickory, Dickory, Dock." Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.	4. The Skylark.
2. The Nightingale.	5. The Owl.
3. The Dove.	6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming, the voice-parts being so disposed that they may be easily learnt, and the accompaniments are as characteristic as they are pretty. Each separate piece is so good that we cannot make references to special favourites. Young ladies who take pleasure in part-singing will find variety in the collection, and both in the home circle and in the school class Mr. Gaul's new work is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Complete, paper cover s. d.
" scarlet cloth 1 0
Or, in Six Numbers 2 6
each 0 2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

London: 24, Castle St., Berners St., W.

PATERSON & SONS

(MUSIC PUBLISHERS, EDINBURGH)

Beg respectfully to announce to the Trade, Profession, and Musical Public that owing to the increasing demand for their publications in London and the Provinces, they have formed a DEPÔT at the above address, where their music can now be had.

PUBLISHERS of the following IMPORTANT and SUCCESSFUL WORKS:—

EASTER EVE.

SONG BY CHARLES GOUNOD.

Keys C, B flat, A, and G. 2s. net.

One of the best written by this eminent Composer.

BONNIE KILMENY

CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA, BY
HAMISH MACCUNN.

Staff, 2s. net; Sol-fa, 1s. net; Harmonium Part, 3s. net. Full Score and Orchestral Parts on hire.

Conductors of Choral Societies should see this beautiful and interesting Work. Received with the greatest enthusiasm wherever performed.

NEW SONGS BY HAMISH MACCUNN.

A Heart in Armour	4s.	The Ash Tree. E flat, F ..	4s.
To Julia, weeping	3s.	At the mid hour of night ..	4s.
I'll tend thy bower. Keys,		I will think of thee, my love ..	4s.
B flat and C	4s.

The Strathearn Collection of Part-Songs.

Price 2d. Those marked *, 3d.; Sol-fa, 1d.

- | | | |
|--|------------------|----------------|
| 1. *The Auld House | Comp. or Arr. by | H. A. Lambeth. |
| 2. *The March of the Cameron Men | " | " |
| 3. *Will ye no come back again | " | " |
| 4. *Auld Edinburgh Cries | " | " |
| 5. Braw, Braw Lads | " | " |
| 6. Bonnie Prince Charlie ("Cam' ye by Athol") | " | " |
| 7. Roslin Castle | " | " |
| 8. The War Song of the Men of Glamorgan | " | " |
| 9. Savourneen Deelish | " | " |
| 10. The Jolly Miller | " | " |
| 11. Begone, dull care | " | " |
| 12. *How calm, how beautiful (Sol-fa, 1d.) | T. Richardson | " |
| 13. *The Twa Doos | J. Yorkston. | " |
| 14. *The Covenanters' Widow's Lament | " | " |
| 15. *It was a Lordling's Daughter | T. Richardson. | " |
| 16. *The March of the Cameron Men | J. Yorkston. | " |
| 17. *Will ye no come back again | " | " |
| 18. Flowers of the Forest | W. Hume. | " |
| 19. Caller Herrin' | " | " |
| 20. Lord Gregory | " | " |
| 21. Pibroch o' Donuil Dhu | " | " |
| 22. The Rowan Tree | H. A. Lambeth. | " |
| 23. Bonnie ran the burnie | " | " |
| 24. The Bonnie Brier Bush | " | " |
| 25. Joy of my earliest days | " | " |
| 26. The trump of war | " | " |
| 27. Bonnie Wee Thing | F. Peterson. | " |
| 28. Of a' the Airts | H. A. Lambeth. | " |
| 29. My Nannie's awa' | " | " |
| 30. Good night and joy be wi' ye a' | " | " |
| 31. *Gondellied (In the gondola), Op. 20 | Alfred Gallrein. | " |
| 32. A Sailor's Song (Seemann's Lied), Staff, 6d. | O. Schweizer. | " |
| 33. *Chorus of spirits ("Bonnie Kilmeny") | H. MacCunn. | " |
| 34. *Weep not for her (ditto) | " | " |

THE WAVERLEY COLLECTION OF VOCAL TRIOS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Price 3d.

- | | |
|--|---------------|
| 1. Mid the lilies | O. Schweizer. |
| 2. Bonnie Kilmeny went up the glen | H. MacCunn. |
| 3. Robin Adair | G. Fox. |
| 4. Flora MacDonald's Lament | " |
| 5. Jock o' Hazeldean | " |

PRACTICAL SIGHT-SINGING

A MANUAL FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES

By FRANKLIN S. PETERSON. 1s. net.

SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS

A COLLECTION OF SACRED AND SECULAR SONGS FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

By GEORGE FOX. 1s. net.

Complete Catalogue on application.

PATERSON AND SONS,

LONDON: 24, CASTLE STREET, BERNERS STREET, W.
(AGENT—E. DONAJOWSKI)

The London Music Publishing Co., Limited.

STANDARD SERVICES AND ANTHEMS

The Organ Accompaniments Arranged and the whole Revised

BY

W. J. WESTBROOK,

MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

In making a new Edition of these Popular Services and Anthems, it seemed well that the Accompaniments should be made playable upon the modern Organ, the old G manual having almost disappeared from churches and "places where they sing." In doing this, the Editor has been careful to make it easy to play—easier than it was before—and at the same time clear and effective. As these Services have been, and most likely will continue to be, more widely sung than any others, there can be no reason why they should remain in a fossil condition. This Edition claims to be, therefore, something more than a mere reproduction of existing copies.

Now Ready, Super-Royal 8vo.

JACKSON, in F, paper covers, 8d. | ARNOLD, in A, paper covers, 6d.
BOYCE, in A 8d. | EBDON (Evening), in C 3d.

Each Movement printed separately.

To be continued.

Just ready, handsomely Illustrated.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Edited and Revised, with an Historical Preface

BY

DR. W. J. WESTBROOK.

One Vol.; super-royal 8vo.

Price 1s.; handsomely bound in cloth, 2s. 6d.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ORGAN

By W. J. WESTBROOK, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

This work has been designed to meet the wants of those Organists who have to play organs more or less incomplete. The whole of the pieces may be played, therefore, upon organs with two keyboards; many of them, by a little management, upon organs with only one. The pedal is, of course, indispensable. It has been the aim to make all the pieces throughout playable, and as easy as was consistent with their due effect.

Nos. 1 to 16 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

Complete in 2 vols., handsomely bound, 6s. each net.

THE ORGAN JOURNAL

By W. J. WESTBROOK, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

The pieces here provided are of moderate difficulty, may be played upon organs with two keyboards and pedals, and appear for the first time in any publication for the organ, almost without exception.

Nos. 1 to 8 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

Complete in one vol., handsomely bound, 6s. net.

The only Edition as performed.

MESSIAH

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 1 of New Edition of Standard Oratorios and Cantatas.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by
SIR GEORGE MACFARREN.

The only Edition as performed.

THE CREATION

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 2 of New Edition of Standard Oratorios and Cantatas.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by
SIR GEORGE MACFARREN.

Prospectuses of Series gratis and post-free.

MY JUBILEE. By SIMS REEVES.

Price 6s. net.

"Exceedingly pleasantly written."—The Times.

"Will be read with instruction by musicians and with pleasure by everybody."—Daily Telegraph, July 20.

"May be sure of a large circle of interested readers."—Daily News.

"A most interesting account of his own career."—St. James's Gazette, July 20.

THE ROYAL PERSIAN MARCH, official copy as accepted by his Imperial Majesty the Shah, K.G., and dedicated by special permission to the Right Hon. Sir Henry Drummond-Wolff, G.C.B. Ready this day, 2s. net.

THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY (LIMITED),
54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, W.

ORSBORN & TUCKWOOD'S NEW AND POPULAR PUBLICATIONS.

NEW SONG BY M. PICCOLOMINI.

SALVA NOS, DOMINE.
 "He sleeps; perchance ne'er more to wake!
 O Father of mercy, for my Saviour's sake,
 Spare me my child!
 To Thee alone, O Lord, can I look up;
 Thy Hand alone can turn away the cup!
 O hear my prayer; extend that Mighty Hand:
 Death will forbear at Thy supreme command!"
 As thus the stricken mother wailed and prayed,
 The child awoke, looked up, and softly said:
 "O mother, let me see the setting sun;
 Open the casement wide; the day is done;
 And prithe sing to me that strain so dear,
 That, from thy lips, I love at eve to hear;
 The vigil prayer:

Salva nos, Domine Vigilantes!
 Custodi nos dormientes!"

But lo! the Lord had beckon'd from on high!
 The yielding soul, with one last lingering sigh,
 Obey'd the call, and, borne on angel wings,
 Heav'nward fled!
 She stood alone, amid the deep'ning gloom,
 And still she watched, unconscious of her doom;
 Till Heav'n's soft sleep had closed her tear-dimmed eyes.
 And in her dream she heard from Paradise
 The soft sweet voice of him she held so dear
 Bidding her sing, that God in Heaven might hear
 The pleading prayer.

Salva nos, Domine Vigilantes!
 Custodi nos dormientes!"

M. PICCOLOMINI.

In A, C (Compass, C to E), and D. Price 2s. net.

NEW SONG BY CECIL WINN.

GRANDMA'S STORY.

The children, whose feet had been roaming
 Afar through the fields all the day,
 Were sitting at rest in the gloaming,
 Aweary of dancing and play.
 They had tired of their chaplets of daisies,
 And the blue-bells so fragrant and bright;
 The sunset shone fair on their faces,
 And filled them with radiant light.
 'Twas simple the story I told them,
 Some tale they had oft heard before;
 Yet enthralled did the quaint legend hold them,
 With its giants and fairy-world lore;
 And the children were eagerly listening,
 Though the red gleam had died from the West,
 Though the stars in the heavens were glistening,
 And the moon lit the hill's wooded crest.

Then I told them the wonderful story
 Of the Babe who came down from above,
 Of the glad angel throng, and the jubilant song,
 With its tidings of infinite love.
 I spoke of the heavenly city,
 That knoweth no sorrow nor night,
 Till the children's rapt gaze seemed to mirror the rays
 That beam from the Region of Light.

WILFRID MILLS.

In G (Compass, D to E); B flat (F to G). Price 2s. net.

WORLD-RENOVED SONGS.

Ora pro nobis	M. Piccolomini.
Eternal rest	M. Piccolomini.
Dolorosa	M. Piccolomini.
Sleep on, my child	M. Piccolomini.
Salva nos, Domine	M. Piccolomini.
Yesterday, to-day, and for ever	Oscar Verne.
Come to my heart	Oscar Verne.
The tempest king	Oscar Verne.
When shall we meet	Oscar Verne.
The King's Courier	Oscar Verne.
Only to say good-bye	Oscar Verne.
Sissie	Vernon Rey.
Look back	Vernon Rey.
Rub-a-dub-dub	Vernon Rey.
The Pilgrim's shrine	Vernon Rey.
The Seraph's crown	Vernon Rey.
Within the minster	Vernon Rey.
Night and Morning (Vocal Duet)	Vernon Rey.
To-morrow will do (Humorous Song)	Henry Pontet.
The Kissing Bridge	Michael Watson.
Tripping through the meadows	Michael Watson.
Queenie	Michael Watson.
The Silent March	Michael Watson.
The King's Champion	Michael Watson.
Harp and Crown	Berthold Tours.
The Orphan's Prayer	Berthold Tours.
Sing me to sleep	Berthold Tours.
The Trooper's Vision	Ed. St. Quentin.
The City of the King	Odoardo Barri.
Just Beyond	Odoardo Barri.
The Castaway	Odoardo Barri.
The Veteran	Lady Arthur Hill.
Thoughts of thee	Jaques Blumenthal.
Heaven at last	Jaques Blumenthal.
When sorrow sleepeth	Edward Land.
Some remember, some forget	Gerald Lane.

In keys to suit all voices. 2s. net.

POPULAR SHILLING PUBLICATIONS.

TWO-PART SONGS. Arranged for Ladies' Voices for the use of Schools and Classes. Price 3d. each. Complete, in neatly bound book, 1s. each net. Also arranged for Tonic Sol-fa, price 1½d. each.

SONGS OF THE FAIRIES. BY J. E. NEWELL.

- | | |
|--|-----|
| No. 1. Merry Elves | 3d. |
| " 2. Child of Earth | 3d. |
| " 3. Forest Fairy | 3d. |
| " 4. Over hill, over dale | 3d. |
| " 5. Oh! where do fairies hide their heads | 3d. |
| " 6. The Fairies' Lullaby | 3d. |

THE COLLEGE SERIES.

Book I. By ARTHUR W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

- | | |
|--|-----|
| No. 1. Stars of the Summer Night | 3d. |
| " 2. Gentle Spring | 3d. |
| " 3. Twilight | 3d. |
| " 4. Curfew | 3d. |
| " 5. It is not always May | 3d. |
| " 6. The Rainy Day | 3d. |

Book II. By J. E. NEWELL.

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-----|
| No. 1. A River Song | 3d. |
| " 2. It is not always May | 3d. |
| " 3. The Bridge | 3d. |
| " 4. The Rainy Day | 3d. |
| " 5. The Old House | 3d. |
| " 6. The day is done | 3d. |

TRIOS. THE CANTERBURY SERIES. By

OSCAR VERNE. For use of Schools and Classes.

Price 3d. each; or, Six bound, 1s. net.

- | | | |
|--|-------------|---------|
| No. 1. Oh! by rivers | Oscar Verne | net 3d. |
| " 2. Little Celandine | " | 3d. |
| " 3. Stars of the Summer Night | " | 3d. |
| " 4. Merry Elves | " | 3d. |
| " 5. The Woodthrush | " | 3d. |
| " 6. It is not always May | " | 3d. |

ORGAN.—THE MINSTER ECHOES, Original

Voluntaries, with Pedal Obligato, arranged from the Compositions of Popular Composers, by ARTHUR GRAHAM.

Book 1.—SIX VOLUNTARIES. Book 7.—SEVEN VOLUNTARIES

- | | |
|-----------------|-------------------|
| 2.—SIX | 8.—THREE |
| 3.—FIVE | 9.—NINE |
| 4.—FIVE | 10.—EIGHT |
| 5.—SIX | 11.—EIGHT |
| 6.—FIVE | 12.—SEVEN |

Other Numbers in the Press.

Volumes 1 and 2, containing Six of the above Numbers, handsomely bound in Chocolate Cloth, 7s. 6d. net. By post, 8s.

THE ORGANIST'S COMPANION. Containing

Short Interludes, &c., for the Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ. Price 1s. net. By post, 14 stamps.

- | | |
|--|----------------|
| Book 1.—INTERLUDES, VOLUNTARIES, &c. | By N. HEINS. |
| " 2.—NINE VOLUNTARIES | ARTHUR GRAHAM. |
| " 3.—FIFTEEN VOLUNTARIES | J. E. NEWELL. |
| " 4.—ELEVEN VOLUNTARIES | B. WELCH. |
| " 5.—TWELVE VOLUNTARIES | ARTHUR GRAHAM. |

CATHEDRAL MARCH ALBUM.—For Organ,
1s. each net.

Book 1.—EIGHT ORIGINAL MARCHES.

- | | |
|--------------------|---|
| " 2.—SEVEN | " |
| " 3.—SEVEN | " |
| " 4.—FIVE | " |

ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES.—By EDWARD

REDHEAD. Price 1s. each Book. By post, 14 stamps.

Book 1. Contains 9 Voluntaries | Book 3. Contains 9 Voluntaries

THE VESPER VOLUNTARIES.—"Containing short Melodies for the Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ, which by their variety will be useful for Church purposes as Offertory Music, Interludes, or Voluntaries, and will certainly be welcome for their effective grace and simplicity, demanding no special executive skill in their performance."—Saturday Review.

Book 1.—SIXTEEN VOLUNTARIES By NICHOLAS HEINS

- | | |
|----------------------|---------------------------|
| 2.—FIFTEEN | J. E. NEWELL. |
| 3.—ELEVEN | W. HAYNES. |
| 4.—THIRTEEN | J. C. BEAZLEY. |
| 5.—THIRTEEN | A. J. GREENISH, Mus. Bac. |
| 6.—TWELVE | ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac. |
| 7.—THIRTEEN | ARTHUR GRAHAM. |
| 8.—TWELVE | E. BOGGETTI. |
| 9.—TWELVE | THEO. BONHEUR |
| 10.—FIFTEEN | A. W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac. |
| 11.—ELEVEN | F. F. ROGERS |
| 12.—FIFTEEN | J. HORSPOOL |
| 13.—TEN | ONARDO BARRI. |
| 14.—TWELVE | JULES THERESE. |
| 15.—TWELVE | SEYMOUR SMITH. |
| 16.—TWELVE | FRANK MANLEY. |
| 17.—FIFTEEN | J. E. NEWELL. |
| 18.—TWELVE | VERNON REY. |
| 19.—TEN | JULES THERESE. |
| 20.—TWELVE | KING HALL. |
| 21.—TEN | ALOIS VOLKMER. |
| 22.—ELEVEN | D'AUVERGNE BARNARD. |
| 23.—TEN | T. HUTCHINSON. |
| 24.—FOURTEEN | BRUCE STEANE. |

Volumes 1, 2, 3, and 4, containing Six of the above numbers in each Book, handsomely bound in cloth, 5s. net. Post-free, 5s. 6d.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT 1881, CONTAINING 37 TUNES, 6d.

TO MATCH EITHER EDITION.

The complete work, containing 751 Tunes and Chants. s. d.

No. 9.	Limp cloth	4	0
" 10.	Cloth boards	5	0
" 11.	Small edition	3	0
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa	3	0

First and Second Series can still be had separate.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS (BIBLE VERSION),
With Canticles and Anthems.

Pointed for Chanting for Congregational use 1 3
(Offered in quantity at reduced price per dozen.)

The pointing is of the simplest plan, easily understood, and without multiplication of marks and accents, which tend to confuse rather than help.

Communications and inquiries as to copyrights, and also as to supplies of these works at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

SECOND EDITION. REDUCED PRICES.

Words and Music, 4to, cloth, price 4s. 6d.; 18mo, 1s. 9d.; Treble, 16mo, 1s. Words only, 9d. and 6d.; paper, 4½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. ;
And SIMPKIN and MARSHALL.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

No.					s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1	0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0	6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0	4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper cover	0	3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	..	4	0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	..	5	0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	..	3	0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	..	4	0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo.	Cloth	1	6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	2	0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth	..	2	6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	..	3	0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	..	10	6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter, and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THEORY OF MUSIC.

By LOUISA GIBSON.

FIRST BOOK.—The Elements of Music. Price 1s. New edition, 26th Thousand.

SECOND BOOK.—Triads and Suspensions. 4th edition. Price 1s. Revised by the Author, assisted by E. Prout, Esq., R.A.M.

THIRD BOOK.—Dissonant Harmony, Counterpoint, &c. Revised by the Author, assisted by E. Prout, Esq., R.A.M.

"Real marvels of conciseness and practical utility."—Em. Aguilar.

"Very clear, very concise, and always to the point."—F. R. Coy.

"Admirable in design and execution."—Schoolmaster.

"The matter, arrangement, and style are excellent."—Governess.

"We earnestly recommend this work to Musical Teachers."—Graphic.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Fifth Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s., paper cover; 3s., cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the late Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite, exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page, and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authenticated by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 32mo, without Chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with Chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And PARKER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.
Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twentieth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small edition is in preparation.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI . ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

CROWN 8vo, 570 PP., CLOTH.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION

OF WORDS

OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

LONDON & NEW YORK
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now Ready. Small 4to, price 1s. Vocal Parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series, bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal Parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES AND HYMNS
OF THE CHURCH,

POINTED FOR CHANTING, AND SET TO APPROPRIATE ANGLICAN CHANTS, SINGLE AND DOUBLE

TOGETHER WITH

RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS

EDITED BY THE LATE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., M.A.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains a Selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by his Grace the Archbishop of York.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Staff Notation Edition. Sixteenth and Seventeenth Thousand.

RUTH

A PASTORAL CANTATA

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM,
ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. The gratuitous loan of Band Parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced price, Two Shillings. Vocal Parts, Sixpence each.

NAOMI

A SACRED IDYLL

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDMUND T. CHIPP,

Mus. Doc., Cantab.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Complete Edition. Fourth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(Composer of the "Holy City," "Ruth," &c.)

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II.	each	1 0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers	each	0 2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

THE CRUSADER

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

EISTEDDFOD PRIZE LIBRETTO

(English and Welsh words)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

B. PARSONS.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE NET.

Orchestral Parts, also Full Score, may be hired of the Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready, in Three Volumes, price 18s. net each.

NEW ORGAN WORK.

HYMN-TUNE VOLUNTARIES

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST,

Mus. Doc., Cantab., Fell. Coll. Org., Professor of the Organ at the Guildhall School of Music, &c.

Subscription copies obtainable direct from the Composer, 88, Tyrwhitt Road, St. John's, London, S.E., at 9s. for either volume, or 24s. 6d. for the set of three, Post-free.

For full particulars refer to former advertisements in The Musical Times for April, May, and June, 1889, pages 250, 251, 314, 315, 378, and 379, or send a stamp for circular and specimen sheet.

In order to enable intending subscribers to see the nature of the work, six of the numbers have been issued separately, at 1s. 6d. net each—viz., Nos. 9, 12, 20, 26 37, and 47.

QUOTATIONS FROM SUBSCRIBERS' LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT FOR THE HYMN TUNE VOLUNTARIES:—

Am exceedingly pleased.—Best of all, it is set for two manuals.—The work, I am sure, will be beneficial to all.—Am delighted.—I shall find it of the greatest service.—They will be very popular.—They must be a treasure to every organist.—I like the style of them very much, and think every organist ought to add this valuable work to his library.—I will do all I can to recommend them in Australia.—The harmonies are beautiful.—Never had voluntaries I liked better.—I hasten to express my entire satisfaction with the contents; they are more than I expected, for instead of being mere disconnected improvisations on given themes, they are cleverly worked out pieces, introducing well-known tunes, and thus cannot fail to be very useful.—Congregations are sure to like them.—They have taken immensely, and are a fine study for students.—They are an inestimable boon to church organists, and will serve to awaken that religious sympathy so necessary in a church congregation.—They will supply a long felt want.—All who have heard them are delighted with them.—They are most interesting to the organist, and will soon become favourites with the people.—Am perfectly satisfied.—Am delighted.—Splendid work.—Just the thing wanting for a long time, something people and player alike will enjoy.—Am so pleased with them that I should like to send a set to a young friend they would benefit.—The get up is perfection.—A work I have never seen equalled.—Better if all organ music was carefully fingered and pedal-marked for two manuals as is so efficiently detailed in your work.—Highly pleased with large clear type, so important to organists who study hard.—Musicianly without being tedious; melodious without being common.

THIRD LIST OF SUBSCRIBERS.

Abbreviations.—O., ORGANIST; C.M., CHOIRMASTER; P. CH., PARISH CHURCH; CHAP., CHAPEL; WES., WESLEYAN; BAF., BAPTIST; CONG., CONGREGATIONAL.

W. G. Acworth, Esq., O. Milton Cong. Church, Gravesend.
J. Asquith, Esq., Mus. Bac., Barnsley.
W. T. Bennett, Esq., Hanley, Staffs.
O. O. Brooksbank, Esq., F.C.O., O. and C.M. Leamington College.
J. R. Brown, Esq., O. and C.M. Wesleyan Chapel, Heeley.
Mrs. M. Berners, O. Christ Ch., Long Cross, Chertsey.
T. Backhouse, Esq., O. P. Ch., Bideford, Devon.
E. Barry, Esq., O. and C.M. St. Andrew's, Lachine, Montreal.
R. Barr, Esq., O. and C.M. P. Ch., Worth, Crawley.
J. Beswick, Esq., Knutsford.
J. Bryan, Esq., Histon, Cambridge.
G. A. Blackburn, Esq., O. Presb. Ch., Grosvenor Sq., Manchester.
J. Closs, Esq., O. and C.M. Winchmore Hill Cong. Ch., N.
L. F. Corsbie, Esq., Norwich.
A. Coats, Esq., Paisley.
Thos. Clarke, Esq., O. Union Ch., Holbeach.
F. P. Clements, Esq., O. Cong. Ch., Yeovil.
R. Crawford, Esq., O. and C.M. Parish Ch., Bargeddie, near Glasgow.
Miss Dallas, O. Central Presb. Ch., Toronto.
H. L. Dawson, Esq., O. St. Silas', Higher Ardwick, Manchester.
W. Dawson and Son, Cannon St., E.C.
Rev. G. Death, St. Augustine's, Dudley, Worcester.
W. F. Darling, Esq., O. St. Peter's, Worcester.
W. Edwards, Esq., A.C.O., O. St. Luke's P. Ch., Hanley.
W. J. Foden, Esq., O. Baptist Chap., Nelson, Lancashire.
J. Ferriday, Esq., St. George's, near Wellington, Salop.
T. T. Ford, Esq., Jun., O. and C.M. St. Cyprian's, Edge Hill, L'pool.
J. Greenwood, Esq., O. and C.M. St. Matthew's, Kingsdown, Bristol.
Miss M. E. Gibson, O. Wes. Chap., Peterboro'.
J. Gibson, Esq., O. P. Ch., Hornsea, Hull.
T. Greenhalgh, Esq., Bridge Street, Bolton.
W. A. Gunner, Esq., O. and C.M. St. James's, Ratcliffe.
Messrs. Gough and Day, Savile Street, Hull.
A. H. Hadfield, Esq., O. Broomspark Cong. Ch., Sheffield.
C. A. Harris, Esq., A.C.O., O. and C.M. St. Paul's, Middlesbro'.
A. Henderson, Esq., O. P. Ch., New Kilpatrick.
R. Howells, Esq., Aberdare, S. Wales.
S. Harper, Esq., O. H. Trinity Ch., Brighton.
L. Harrison, Esq., Woodhays, Muswell Hill, N.
W. H. Higgins, Esq., L.Mus., O. and C.M. P. Ch., Broadstairs.
F. W. Hendy, Esq., East Street, Southampton.
Rev. T. Hurst, Jun., F.C.O., St. Mark's Ch., Tollington Park, N.
C. A. Harrington, Esq., Dept. O. Wesley Chap., Worksop.
F. W. Islip, Esq., Mecklenburgh-Street, Leicester.
J. Inglis, Esq., Biggar, N.B.
Kinsell Joseph, Esq., O. St. George's Cathedral, Demerara, British Guiana.
A. E. Jones, Esq., A.C.O., O. Bridge Street Wes. Chapel, Bolton.
Monsieur J. Lomas, O. St. John's, Montreux, Switzerland.

J. J. Lythgoe, Esq., O. and C.M. St. Paul's, Warrington.
R. Lowne, Esq., Norwich.
F. C. Longfield, Esq., O. and C.M., St. Matthew's Ch., Leeds.
C. Lavington, Esq., Bridgwater.
B. R. Marten, Esq., Sudbury, Suffolk.
J. R. Moses, Esq., Haverfordwest.
J. Meller, Esq., Lytham.
E. E. Mitchell, Esq., O. and C.M. Wesley Ch., Woodville, S. Australia.
Messrs. D. and W. Murray, Barbican, London.
W. Morrell, Esq., Tiverton.
W. M. Newman, Esq., O. St. Cleopa's, Toxteth, Liverpool.
J. F. Proudman, Esq., O. and C.M. St. Michael and All Angels', Stoke Newington Common, N.
A. W. Russe, Esq., A.C.O., O. and C.M. P. Ch., Childe Okeford, Blandford.
H. Ryder, Esq., O. and C.M. Elgin Place Ch., Glasgow.
T. Ramsbottom, Esq., Bolton Street, Ramsbottom.
A. J. Robinson, Esq., Newcastle-on-Tyne.
H. Rogers, Esq., O. Christ Ch. and Ladies' College, Cheltenham.
C. R. Smart, Esq., O. P. Ch., Arbroath, N.B.
H. A. Southworth, Esq., O. and C.M. Cong. Ch., Stockport.
Messrs. Stevens and Haynes, Temple Bar, W.C.
C. Smith, Esq., O. and C.M. Glenmuick, P. Ch., Ballater.
F. W. Senior, Esq., O. All Souls', Leeds.
Miss Shadwell, Coln S. Aldwys's, Fairford, Gloucester.
C. E. Stephens, Esq., F.C.O., Maida Hill, W.
W. Tattersall, Esq., Professor of Music, Blackburn.
Miss F. H. Topham, O. P. Ch., Castleblaney, Co. Monaghan, Ireland.
E. A. Thompson, Esq., O. and C.M. Lozells Cong. Ch., Birmingham.
W. Taylor, Esq., O. St. John's, Cullingworth, Bradford.
Messrs. Virgoe, Son and Chapman, Leadenhall Street, London.
H. A. Wheelton, Esq., F.C.O., O. All Saints', Eastbourne.
T. Welch, Esq., O. and C.M. Park Street Methodist Ch., Chatham, Ontario.
H. S. Wilkinson, Esq., O. and C.M. Methodist Free Ch., York.
A. Willdig, Esq., Coventry.
G. D. Winter, Esq., O. Great Assembly Hall, Mile End Road, E.
W. Williams, Esq., O. St. Mary's, Ontario, Canada.
W. Whitefield, Esq., O. Presb. Ch. of England, Wolverhampton.
Messrs. Weekes and Co., Hanover Street, W.
Mrs. Williams, O. Hannah Street Cong. Ch., Cardiff.
R. S. Weir, Esq., O. and C.M., Erskine Ch., Montreal.
G. Ward, Esq., Coventry.
T. L. Winnett, Esq., O. Cong. Ch., Gravesend.
J. W. Waugh, Esq., F.C.O., O. Christ Ch., Everton, Liverpool.
H. Walter, Esq., Thanet College, Margate.

ORGAN MUSIC FOR ADVENT, CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY.

HARK! THE HERALD ANGELS SING.

Variations on Mendelssohn's tune. 3s. net.

HYMN-TUNE VOLUNTARIES.

No. 40. Lo! He comes with clouds descending. St. Thomas. Advent.
" 24. The advent of our King. Franconia. Advent.
" 31. On Jordan's banks the Baptist's cry. Crassellius. Advent.
" 33. Christians, awake! Yorkshire. Christmas.
" 49. While shepherds watched. Winchester Old. Christmas.
" 51. O Saviour Lord, to Thee we pray. Wareham Christmas.
" 53. Earth has many a noble city. Stutgard. Epiphany.
" 21. As with gladness men of old. Dix. Epiphany.
" 22. The people that in darkness sat. French. Epiphany.
" 4. O God, our help in ages past. St. Ann's. New Year's Eve.

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS—"HE SHALL BE GREAT." 3d.

NEW WORK FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES—"THE GIPSIES."

Four-part Chorus. Price 6d.
Sung at the Conference of the National Society of Professional Musicians, held in Cambridge, January, 1889.

ORGAN VOLUNTARIES FOR CHURCH USE.

Part 1. Twenty-two Marches. Price 21s. net.
" 2. Eleven Andantes. Price 10s. 6d. net.
" 3. Thirty-six Short and Easy Voluntaries. Price 15s. net.
This work is now issued in separate numbers, and may be obtained of Novello, Ewer and Co., at prices varying from 9d. to 2s. each.

TWELVE PIECES

FOR ORGAN

BY

THEO. DUBOIS,

ORGANIST OF THE MADELEINE, PARIS

PRICE EIGHT SHILLINGS.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE VESPER BELL SERIES of ORGAN PIECES

EDITED AND COMPOSED
By WALTER SPINNEY.

These pieces—seven numbers of which are now ready—have received the most gratifying reception from Organists in all countries. The following distinguished men have made known to the Author their intention of playing the pieces in public:—

Dr. Martin (St. Paul's Cathedral), W. Mulleux, Esq., F.C.O. (Town Hall, Bolton), A. J. Eyre, Esq. (Crystal Palace), D. R. Munro, Esq., Dr. Horton Allinson, J. Asquith, Esq., Mus. B., Dr. Bates (Norwich Cathedral), Dr. W. T. Belcher, M. Theodore Dubois (The Madeleine, Paris), H. J. B. Dart, Esq., J. Senior, Esq., Mus. B., C. E. R. Stevens, Esq., H. C. Tonking, Esq., The Rev. T. Herbert Spinney, M.A., F.C.O., H. Clark, Esq. (Principal London Organ School), Dr. C. E. Allum (Public Hall, Stirling), A. R. Gaul, Esq., Mus. B., G. H. Gregory, Esq., Mus. B. (Parish Church, Boston), Dr. J. W. Hinton, Esq., Dr. H. A. Harding, A. H. Brewer, Esq. (St. Michael's, Coventry), F. W. Cooke, Esq., Mus. B., M. Henri Daller (St. Eustache, Paris), F. W. Burstall, Esq., F.C.O. (Liverpool Cathedral), J. M. Barnett, Esq. (Hobart's Town Cathedral), M. Jules Grison (Rheims Cathedral), B. Jackson, Esq., F.C.O. (People's Palace, Battersea), Dr. Haydn Keeton (Peterborough Cathedral), Dr. J. Lewis, C. W. Lavington, Esq., A. Burns Nelson, Esq., Yates Mander, Esq., F.C.O., Ed. Minshall, Esq. (City Temple), A. B. Plant, Esq., Mus. B., George Porter, Esq., F.C.O., Dr. J. V. Roberts (Magdalene Coll., Oxford), A. M. Richardson, Esq., Mus. B. (Keeble Coll., Oxford), J. Russe, Esq., F.C.O., S. R. Pilling, Esq., F. Adlam, Esq., Joel Allott, Esq., Ed. Bartlett, Esq., F.C.O., P. H. Diemer, Esq., M. Dudman, Esq. (Westminster Aquarium), J. W. Elliott, Esq., J. J. Finlay, Esq., Dr. F. R. Greenish, M. E. Bernarde (Paris), F. K. Hattersley, Mus. B. (Prof. R.A.M.), M. Auguste Wiegand (The Kursaal, Ostend), Dr. Roland Rogers (Bangor Cathedral), Edmund Rogers, Esq., J. W. Lawson, Esq. (St. Mary's, Redcliff), Horace Petley, Esq., G. A. Holmes, Esq., A. W. Parsons, Esq., F.C.O., J. W. D. Pillow, Esq., Dr. J. C. Marks (Cork Cathedral), Dr. C. Warwick Jordan, George Kennett, Esq., Dr. E. M. Lott, G. E. Lyle, Esq. (Sherborne Abbey), Boyton Smith, Esq., C. F. South, Esq. (Salisbury Cathedral), Robt. Sharpe, Esq., Ferris Tozer, Esq., Dr. Taylor, D. J. Wood, Esq., Mus. B. (Exeter Cathedral), Dr. H. W. Wareing, W. M. Wait, Esq., T. Lee, Esq., Mus. B., A. G. Leigh, Esq. (ex-Mayor of Chorley), J. W. Marshall, Esq., C. D. Mortimer, Esq., D. J. Middleton, Esq., Fountain Meen, Esq., Alfred Oakes, Esq., Walter W. Robinson, Esq., H. Riding, Esq., F.C.O., H. W. Radford, Esq., Walter F. Newton, Esq. (Malvern College), W. Macpherson, Esq., W. Macfarlane, Esq., Martin Schneider, Esq., Ernest H. Smith, Esq., F.C.O., T. E. Spinney, Esq., W. H. Bellamy, Esq., Wm. Adkins, Esq., R. B. Bateman, Esq., Mus. B., W. Fairclough, Esq., Mus. B., Ed. Griffiths, Esq., F.C.O., — Hackett, Esq., F.C.O., Eugene de English, Esq., B.A., F.C.O.

The above are not in any way pieces requiring great skill in playing; taste and feeling are requisite rather than executive ability.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Or of the COMPOSER, Bemerton House, Leamington Spa.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC

By DR. JACOB BRADFORD.

TO BE PUBLISHED BY SUBSCRIPTION.

Prospectus with full particulars, post-free, upon application to Dr. Bradford, 32, Bensham Manor Road, Thornton Heath, Surrey.

ADVENT HYMN

Arranged as Offertoire for the Organ, by Dr. JACOB BRADFORD.
Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

INSCRIBED, BY PERMISSION, TO MADAME SCHUMANN.

THE CELEBRATED LARGHETTO

FROM SCHUMANN'S B FLAT SYMPHONY

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN BY

W. LYLE BIGGS,

Organist of St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, Oxford.

Price 1s. 6d. net. Post-free from the ARRANGER, 8, Queen St., Oxford.

Dedicated, by permission, to the College of Organists.

2ND THOUSAND.—ON TUNING THE ORGAN:
Illustrated. Faults with remedies. Post-free, 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Organist, Diss.

"Every page shows that Mr. Hemstock is master of his subject."—Musical Standard.

"Contains much useful information."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

POPULAR PIANO PIECES by HORTON ALLISON.

Fingering fully printed for right and left hands throughout.

LYRICS. Moderately difficult. Sets 1 and 2 .. each 4s.
VALSE—"Star of India," on white keys only. Easy .. each 3s.
MAZURKA in F—"Oakleigh." Rather easy .. each 3s.
TWO AIRS COMBINED (Solo). Not difficult .. each 3s.
SEA SONG (Piano or American Organ). Melody .. 2s.
MELODIOUS PIANO STUDIES, in Two Books. Book I.
Easy; Book 2, Moderately difficult .. each book 6s.
London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

IMMANUEL

BY

WM. SPARK, Mus.D., Organist, Town Hall, Leeds.

PART I.—CANTATA.—Deals with the theme of the Childhood of Christ, and, while aiming at an adequate musical treatment in harmony with the simple majesty of the subject, will not be found to offer serious difficulties to ordinary singers.

PART II.—ORATORIO.—Dealing with the theme of our Lord's Ministry down to the triumphal entry into Jerusalem. The Oratorio is complete in itself, or may be used in conjunction with the Cantata.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A work of great artistic charm and sound musical scholarship; moreover, it is simple, in so far as its execution lies within the power of those of modest vocal accomplishment."—Scotsman.

"Has won golden opinions from the critics and from music people generally."—Musical Standard.

"It is, musically speaking, very easy, but extraordinarily effective."—Musical Opinion.

Price, Part I.: Vocal Score, 2s.; Cloth, 3s.; Chorus, 6d.; Band, 5s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words, 2s. 6d. per 100.

Price, Part II.: Vocal Score, 4s.; Cloth, 6s. Words, 2s. 6d. per 100; Chorus, 1s.

SELECTED ANTHEMS.

THIS IS THE DAY WHICH THE LORD HATH MADE (Trio, Soli, and Chorus); THOU ART MY GOD (Recitative, &c.); O GIVE THANKS UNTO THE LORD (Full Chorus). 20 pp., Sixpence.

HOSANNA TO THE SON OF DAVID (March to Jerusalem and Chorus). 16 pp., Sixpence.

UNTO THEE, O LORD (Duet for Soprano and Tenor with Chorus). 12 pp., Threepence.

WHY ARE YE SO FEARFUL? (Tenor and Bass Solo). 8 pp., Threepence.

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR (a Christmas Carol). 4 pp., Three-halfpence.

I DELIGHT TO DO THY WILL (Quartet or Chorus). 4 pp., Three-halfpence.

JOHN HEYWOOD, Deansgate, Manchester, and 1, Paternoster Buildings, London, E.C.

Staff Edition. Ninth and Tenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
Paper cover ..	price	2	6	Tonic Sol-fa ..	price
"boards ..	"	3	0	Vocal parts ..	each
Scarlet cloth ..	"	4	0	Words only ..	per 100

ENT. STA. HALL.

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOW TO LEARN TO PLAY THE PIANO
WELL. 5th Ed. "The Art of Playing at Sight." 5th Ed. "Little Difficulties in Playing Explained." "Rules of Simple Harmony." 3rd Ed. "Harmonium, and How to Play it." "How to Form and Train a Choir." 2nd Ed. "How to Tune your own Piano." 1s. each net. THOS. SMITH, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

NEW SONG FOR SOPRANO

BY THE WAYSIDE

WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR ORGAN OR HARMONIUM
AND VIOLIN (ad lib.)

COMPOSED BY

E. BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VIOLONCELLO SCALES. Philosophical method.
By PERCIVAL COOKE. Price 3s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Standard Works for Choral Societies.

NEW EDITION OF

FAUST

A Dramatic Legend, by HECTOR BERLIOZ. A New Edition of this celebrated work at a greatly reduced price. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s. net.

LUCIFER

Oratorio, by PETER BENOIT. First performed in England by the Royal Choral Society, April 3, 1889. Paper, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net.

GRAY'S ELEGY

A Cantata, by ALFRED CELLIER. Paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH

Sacred Musical Drama. Words selected from Milman's Poems. The Music composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Price, in paper cover, 5s. net; cloth, 8s. net.

GOD IS LOVE

A New Edition of this popular Cantata. Words selected from the Sacred Poets. Music composed by MRS. JOSEPH ROBINSON. Price 3s. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net. Harmonium Part, 1s. 6d. net.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS.

Cantata, written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY.
Music composed by GEORGE FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net.
Harmonium Part, 1s. net.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE,

LECTURER ON VOCAL PHYSIOLOGY AND TEACHER OF VOICE PRODUCTION, AND

CHARLES W. PEARCE,

MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

TESTIMONIALS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.

"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.

"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

"I use the exercises, have recommended them to several singing masters here, and will do all in my power to spread them."—Dr. Frederick Iliffe.

Orchestral and Chorus Parts of all the above may be had on Hire of

CHAPPELL & CO.,

50, NEW BOND STREET, W., AND 15, POULTRY, E.C.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.—DECEMBER 1, 1889.

LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR

PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.

9 Volumes, half-bound Cloth, from £1 4s. to £2 2s. each Volume.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.

5 Volumes, half-bound Cloth. Price £1 4s. and £1 10s. each.

SCHUBERT'S FIFTEEN MELODIES.

Transcribed for the Pianoforte by STEPHEN HELLER. Paper covers, 3s. net; cloth, gilt edges, 5s. net.

HELLER ALBUMS, Nos. 1 and 2

A Collection of the latest Pianoforte Compositions of this celebrated Composer. Paper covers, 3s. net; cloth, gilt edges, 5s. net each.

REINECKE ALBUM.

A Selection of the best works for the Pianoforte, by CARL REINECKE. Paper covers, 3s. net; cloth, gilt edges, 5s. net.

THE BIRTHDAY BOOK OF MUSICIANS AND COMPOSERS.

By ERNEST PAUER.

Cloth, gilt edges, 3s. net; leather, gilt edges, 4s. net.

ALBUM FOR THE YOUNG.

Forty Short Pieces for the Pianoforte.

By ERNEST PAUER.

In two books. Price 1s. each net.

SKETCH BOOK.

By MAX MAYER.

Seven Pieces for the Pianoforte. Price 2s. net.

SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS.

ILLUSTRATED COVERS.

SONG FANCIES. By ETHEL HARRADEN. Price 1s. net.

SONGS OF THE SEASON. By ATHERLEY RUSH. 1s. net.

COUNTRY SONGS FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOUR. By FREDERICK LÖHR. 1s. 6d. net.

REST-DAY SONGS. By FREDERICK LÖHR. 1s. 6d. net.

TEN SONGS. By CARL REINECKE. 1s. net.

ORGANUM.

By Dr. SPARK.

A Series of Original Compositions and Arrangements for the Organ.

Eighteen Numbers. Price from 1s. to 2s. each; or, complete in 1 Volume, cloth, gilt edges, 15s. net.

TWELVE ORIGINAL PIECES FOR THE ORGAN OR HARMONIUM.

By ARTHUR PAGE, F.C.O.

Price 1s. net.

LÖHR'S CELEBRATED SERIES OF SCHOOL SONGS.

For equal Voices, in Unison, and Two and Three Parts.

NEW SERIES will be ready shortly.

CANTATAS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

ELFIN CHIMES. Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by F. F. ROGERS. Price 1s. 6d. net.

FAIRY MUSIC. Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by F. N. LÖHR. Price 1s. 6d. net.

FLOWERS. Words by E. OXENFORD. Music by J. L. HATTON. Price 1s. 6d. net.

THE BELLS OF ELSINORE. Words by E. OXENFORD. Music by EDMUND ROGERS. Price 1s. 6d.

THE FLOWER PILGRIMS. Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by ALFRED REDHEAD. Price 1s. 6d. net.

THE PAGEANT. By FRANK J. SAWYER, Mus. Doc. Price 1s. 6d. net.

THE WIDOW OF NAIN. By FRANK J. SAWYER, Mus. Doc. Price 1s. 6d. net.

WATCHFULNESS (The Parable of the Ten Virgins). Words compiled by W. A. BARRETT, Mus. Doc. Music by HENRY HILES, Mus. Doc. Price 2s. net.

Catalogues and all particulars may be had from all the principal Musicsellers in the United Kingdom and the Colonies, and

FORSYTH BROTHERS,

272a, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London, W., and 122 & 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

METZLER AND CO.'S LIST.

SACRED MUSIC.

SHORT ANTHEMS. By JOSEPH BARNBY.

As now the sun's declining rays 14d.
Christ, whose glory fills the skies 14d.
Spirit of mercy, truth, and love 14d.
Abide with me 14d.
My God, I thank Thee 14d.

NEW SERVICE in C. By JOSEPH BARNBY. Complete, 1s. net; or, Morning Service (Te Deum, 3d; Benedictus, 3d.) Communion Service, 6d. Evening Service, 3d.

BETHLEHEM.—The Shepherds' Nativity Hymn. By CH. GOUNOD. Price 3d. Folio Edition, with Pastoral Symphonies, 2s. net. Orchestral Parts, 5s. net.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS. By J. L. HATTON.

All the ends of the world 2d.
Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord 3d.
Hosanna to the Son of David 2d.
In the beginning was the word 3d.
In the days of Herod the King 2d.
Let us now go even unto Bethlehem 2d.
Now when Jesus was born 2d.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS. By HAMILTON CLARKE.

Behold my servant 4d.
How beautiful upon the mountains 4d.

GLORY TO GOD. Christmas Anthem. By C. J. FROST. 3d.

UNTO YOU THAT FEAR MY NAME. Christmas Anthem. By DR. BRIDGE. 3d.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS, &c.

ADAM, A.—Noël (a Christmas Song) 3d.
BEECROFT, G. A. B.—From Zion's golden city 1d.
BOWEN, Rev. C. T.—Sing me merry Christmas 1d.
BROWN, A. H.—Blessed be the maid, Mary 1d.
CLARKE, HAMILTON.—Sing we so joyfully 14d.
COOPER, A. S.—A child this day is born 1d.
REDHEAD, R.—While shepherds watched their flocks by night (Christmas Hymn) 3d.
RIMBAULT, E. F.—In excelsis gloria 1d.
" " Hark what news the angels bring 1d.
" " Behold, I bring you glad tidings 1d.
SEDDING, EDMUND.—The Cedar of Lebanon 1d.
SULLIVAN, ARTHUR.—Upon the snow-clad earth 3d.

NEW CANTATA. "THE SACRIFICE OF FREIA." By DR. CRESER. Produced at the Leeds Musical Festival this year with great success. Vocal Score, 2s. 6d. net. Chorus Parts, 6d, each net. Orchestral Parts may be hired or purchased.

CHRISTMAS MORN.—Ch. Gounod's celebrated Song (Noël). English words by H. B. FARNIE. Published in 3 keys, with Violin and Organ Obligato. 2s. net.

GOLDEN LIGHT (Agnus Dei).—By GEORGES BIZET. With Violin, Harp, and Organ accompaniment. 2s. net.

Metzler and Co.'s New Thematic Catalogues of Vocal and Instrumental Music, Gratis and Post-free.

METZLER AND CO.,

Manufacturers and Importers of every description of Musical Instruments.

WHOLESALE AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

Mason and Hamlin American Organs.

Supplied to H.M. Queen Victoria, the Empress Eugenie, the Abbé Liszt, Sir Arthur Sullivan, &c. Testimonials from CH. GOUNOD, J. BENEDICT, E. BATISTE, B. RICHARDS, R. REDHEAD, C. NILSSON, MARIE ROZE, V. GABRIEL, A. MEHLIG, C. KELLOGG, DR. STAINER, SAINT-SAËNS, E. J. HOPKINS, C. SANTLEY, & CARL ROSA.

Highest Awards and Gold Medals at the Great Exhibitions: 200 different Models manufactured.

PRICES £3 to £400.

NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES.

Also Now Ready, gratis and Post-free:

New Catalogue	... Mustel Organs.	New Catalogue	... Harmoniums.
New Catalogue	... Pianofortes.	New Catalogue	... Various Instruments.

SECULAR MUSIC.

THE RED HUSSAR. New Comedy Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and EDWARD SOLOMON. Now being performed at the Lyric Theatre. Vocal Score, 5s. net. Other arrangements in the press.

THE SILVER TROUT. New Operetta. By Sir RANDAL ROBERTS and HAMILTON CLARKE. Libretto and Music, 1s. 6d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. J. CALDICOTT.

Humpty Dumpty (Manchester Prize) 6d.
Little Jack Horner 6d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa Notation 2d.
Jack and Jill 4d.
The house that Jack built 6d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa Notation 2d.
The Haymakers 4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa Notation 2d.
Out on the waters 4d.
Yule 4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa Notation 2d.
The Sobbing Quartet 3d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa Notation 2d.
Poor Little Tom-ee (A Catastrophe) 6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (Humorous) 6d.
The boy and the bee. (Humorous) 6d.

A FISHY CASE; OR, THE SCALES OF JUSTICE. An Operetta for Young People or Children. Written by FRED. E. WEATHERLY. Music composed by ALFRED J. CALDICOTT. Price 2s. 6d. net.

TOY SYMPHONIES. By HAYDN, ROMBERG, and DESMOND RYAN. Piano and Toy parts, 2s. 6d. net. Toys, 2 Guineas per set. Scores and String Parts published.

METZLER & CO.'S CHRISTMAS ALBUM of DANCE MUSIC, containing Carmen Lancers (Ch. Godfrey), introducing the celebrated Toreador Song, and 8 other popular dances. Price One Shilling net.

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS. 2s. each net. "Douglas Gordon" (LAWRENCE KELLIE). Sung by Madame Belle Cole and the Composer with immense success. Published in four keys. "You ask me why I love," (by LAWRENCE KELLIE). "Three Questions" (LAWRENCE KELLIE). "The fountains mingle with the river" (LAWRENCE KELLIE).

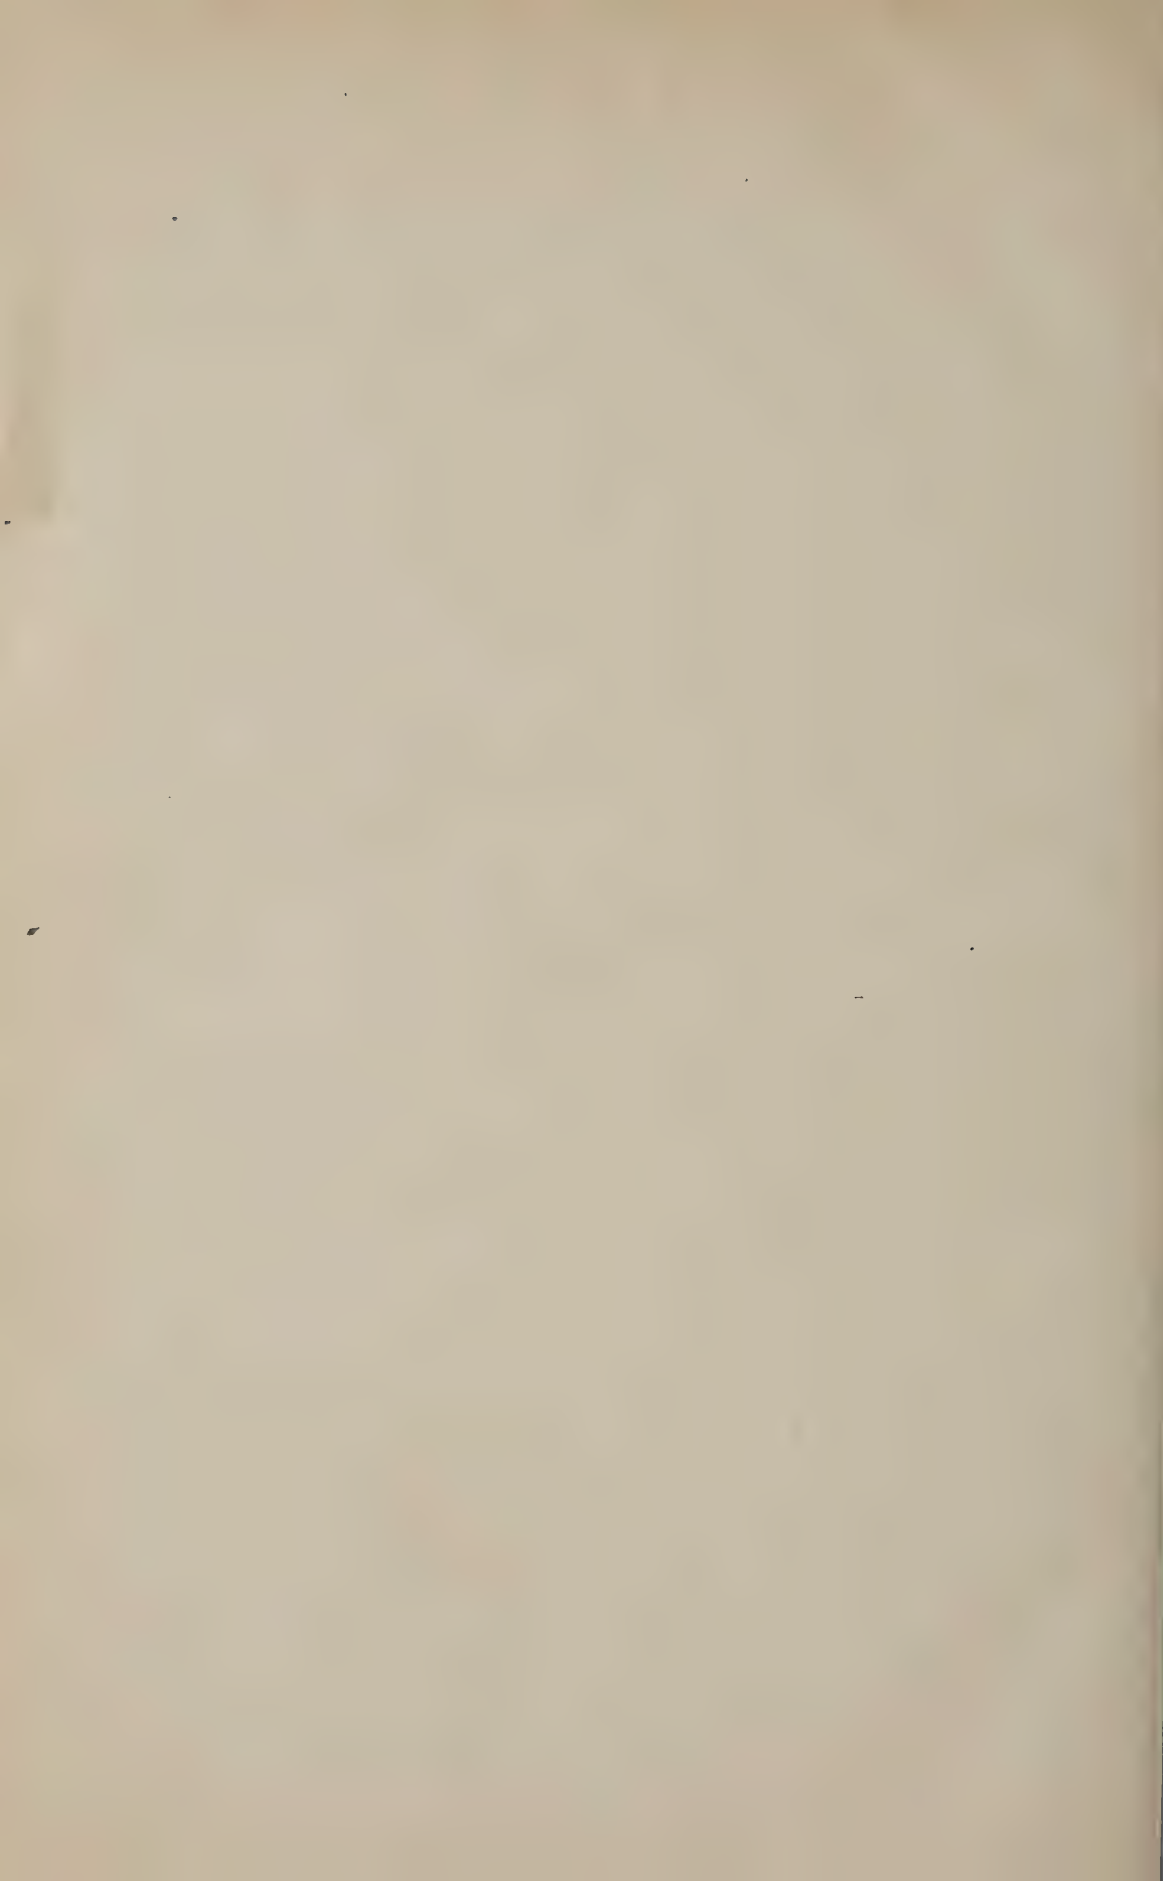

THE BONNY OAK TREE.—EDWARD SOLOMON. Written by CLEMENT SCOTT and sung by FRANKLIN CLIVE.

NEW PART-SONG. 2d. net. LIGHT IN DARKNESS. F. H. COWEN. Will be very popular.

WALTZ-IMPROMPTU.—BENJAMIN GODARD. For the Pianoforte. 2s. net.

METZLER AND CO.,

42, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 9999 08818 979 8

S.P.L. Bindery
DEC 23 1899

(Mar., 1890. 20,000)

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

One volume allowed at a time, and obtained only by card; to be kept 14 days (or seven days in the case of fiction and juvenile books published within one year) without fine; not to be renewed; to be reclaimed by messenger after 21 days, who will collect 20 cents besides fine of 2 cents a day, including Sundays and holidays; not to be lent out of the borrower's household, and not to be transferred; to be returned at this Hall.

Borrowers finding this book mutilated or unwarrantably defaced, are expected to report it; and also any undue delay in the delivery of books.

* * No claim can be established because of the failure of any notice, to or from the Library, through the mail.

The record below must not be made or altered by borrower.

K. OCT .27

